A CARD.—Two years ago to-day, the undersigned began the circulation of a subscription for a Baptist church. By the blessing of God, aided by Brethern and friends at home and abroad, we have nigh completed the house, having expended about $1,950 and being out of debt.

Most of the subscriptions have been promptly and kindly paid. To all who have thus cheerfully aided, we render cordial thanks. We greatly desire during the present month to complete the house, and to "owe no man anything, but to love one an other," Rom. 13, 8 New Version. To accomplish this we ask the few subscribers who are yet delinquent to promptly and manfully meet their obligations. We solicit further aid from all desirous of seeing this work thus speedily and honorably completed.

J. G. CRAVEN, Pastor.

ITEMS ON THE SURRATT TRIAL.

One Chas. Blum testified that he was night watch at the Depot of St. Alban's on the 17th of April, 1865; that two men came in and got his permission to sleep in the depot; that after they had left in the morning he found a handkerchief where one of them had lain. The handkerchief was produced and identified. It was marked "John H. Surratt." One Grille swore that he thought that the prisoner was the man with whom he heard Harold talking on the afternoon of the assassination. Harold said to him, "You will be there to-night?" A witness swore to certain disloyal utterances of Surratt. Cooper, who was with Dye on the night of the assassination, corroborated Dye's testimony.

W. A. Cleaver swore that he had heard Surratt say that he and Booth were going to "kill the d—d old scoundrel, Lincoln;" also, that he saw Surratt at Washington on the 14th of April 1865. John Lee swore that he had seen Surratt at Willard's Hotel on the day of the assassination. He further testified that he found, on the following day, in the Kirkwood House, where Vice-President Johnson boarded, a coat containing a spur, three handkerchiefs, a book, and a stick of black liquorice, and under the mattrass a large bowie knife.

WASHINGTON, June 27.—W. R. Conger, residing at St. Albans, testified that he thought that he saw the prisoner there Tuesday or Wednesday after the assassination. There was another man with him. He suspected then that he had been engaged in the assassination conspiracy. He crossed his path several times as he was going to the Depot.

Luvis J. Weichman was sworn. After detailing his intimacy with Surratt and his family with whom he boarded until after the assassination, he testified as follows: The first outside party he saw at the house connected with the conspiracy was Booth in 1864 or 1865. I was invited to take a walk by Surratt during which he recognized and introduced me to Booth. Booth invited us to his room at the National. There he ordered drinks and cigars. The number of the room was 84. Booth, Mudd and Surratt had a private conversation in the entry. They also conversed twenty minutes around a table, Booth making marks on an envelope, which the witness thought were straight lines from the motion of the pencil. The witness recognized the entry of his own and Surratt's name, on the registry of the Maltby House, Baltimore, Jan., 21, 1865. Surratt next morning took a carriage, said that he had $300, and that he was going to see some gentlemen on business, and did not want me along. Don't know where he went. I returned home that evening. Think I left Surratt in Baltimore. Was introduced to Atzerot by Surratt at the Surratt House. He and Surratt conversed, and Mrs. Surratt also. Frequently saw Atzerot at the house afterwards. Booth came also very frequently. In February, 1865, Surratt went to New York.

BE ON YOUR GUARD

against the imitations and counterfeits of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with which the pirates who make a dishonourable living, by preying upon the sick and suffering, are now endeavoring to flood the markets of this country. Whenever these poison-mongers are discovered they are immediately prosecuted by the proprietors, who expend thousands of dollars annually in tracing them out and bringing them to justice. Within a short time injunctions have been obtained in the Courts of the United States against a number of individuals and firms, and suits are now in progress against several others, all of whose names will be given to the public. But in spite of the utmost vigilance and activity of their detective agents, the undersigned are of course unable to protect the public entirely against piratical imitations of a Standard National Tonic, everywhere in request, and as readily convertible into cash as United States Bonds or Treasury Notes. They, therefore, as a measure of precaution, direct attention to the fact that a finely engraved label, representing St. George and the Dragon, and a beautiful proprietary stamp, bearing the official endorsement of the Government, appear on every bottle of the genuine Bitters. The article is further authenticated by a miniature note of hand, with the signature of "Hostetter & Smith," to counterfeit which is a state prison crime. The true Bitters are sold in bottles only, and never in bulk.

HOSTETTER & SMITH.

—Rev. Thornton A. Mills, D. D., Secretary of the Board of Education in the N. S. Presbyterian Church, died of apoplexy as he was crossing the ferry from New York to Hoboken, a few days ago. His relation to the Church was such that thousands of our young men in the ministry, all over the country will deeply mourn his sudden death.

FOR THE FRONT.—A barge of railroad iron, spikes, and chairs, came up yesterday for the Valley, and another for the Central Road.—Press July 2.

VALLEY ROAD.—This end of the Valley Road is again inundated and communication closed. Passengers travelling that route are taken from the levee in a steamboat to the river freight house, about a mile above the West St. Paul depot, from which point the trains come and go as usual.—Press July 2

It is thought that the impeachment question will not be brought up at the coming July session of Congress.

The Congressmen in Washington say that the July session will undoubtedly be a short one.

—Capt. D. H. Bingnam, of Alabama, a staunch Unionist through the war, has been dragged from his bed at night, gagged and taken to a house and beaten by a number of ex-rebels.

—Gen. Mower has just forwarded to Gen. Howard a very stringent order which he has issued in Louisiana for the immediate arrest of men who have committed outrages on the freedmen, and whom the civil officers of the State have neglected to arrest.

TOWN AN D COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - - JULY 5, 1867.

—Buck & Freeman have removed their law office to 2d door above the Union office.

—Dr. B. Durkee has lost his cream colored horse. See his advertisement elsewhere.

—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold their Social at the residence of Judge Brown, on Wednesday evening next.

—Green peas have appeared in the market and will soon be quite plenty. The strawberry season is also fairly upon us, and the vines are yielding abundantly.

—Attention is called to the advertisement "desirable house for sale." It is located on the brink of the first bench on the Van Brunt addition, in the edge of the woods, and is one of the best sites in the city. Terms of sale easy.

PLASTERING HAIR.—J. D. Jones, the harness dealer, has some plastering hair just received from Milwaukee, good quality, which will be sold at the lowest market rates.

GINSENG.—Prael & DuBuisson are buying ginseng and paying ten cents per pound. We believe these are the only parties in town who are buying. Those who are digging it should bring it to Prael & DuBuisson.

BASE BALL MATCH.—We learn that the North Star Club of St. Paul, have signified their intention to be here on next Wednesday the 10th inst., to play a match game with the Frontier Club of this city. Some changes have been made in the club here, so that the persons heretofore announced will not all play. They will be made known after the game takes place.

—A fire took place in Minneapolis on the morning of the 20th ult., at 2 o'clock, on the east side of Bridge street between Water and First street, consuming five wooden buildings, including the St. Paul House. The boarders were obliged to take their clothing in hand and jump out of the windows on to a shed. The goods from the stores were most of them removed, and the buildings partially insured. The loss above insurance will not exceed $6,000.

FOUNDRY.—About two weeks since, the firm of Barney & Co, of the Novelty works, received from New Haven, a new screw cutting engine lathe, and a planer. These pieces of machinery add much to their facilities for working in iron. It is their intention to keep in advance of the demands upon them for the different kinds of iron work, and they have already better facilities than some shops in much larger places.

LESUEUR FERRY.—Mr. W. Miller, proprietor of the Le Sueur ferry, near Red Jackett mills, informs us that his ferry is in constant and regular operation, notwithstanding reports to the contrary. The crossing and ferry both are in good condition, and the roads between Mankato and that point are quite passable, and growing better every day. Persons desiring to travel that route will always find him on hand at the ferry.

BOQUET.—As true as the earth to its orbet, or the needle to the pole, or the changing seasons follow in regular succession, so is the annual presentment of natures most delicate blossoms touched and finished by the great artist whose glory is displayed in the lily of the field, made by Mrs. D. H. Tyner to the Editor of the UNION. For three successive summers we have been the recipient of the handsomest boquets nature could create or art combine. Our wish is that Mrs. Tyner's diadem of eternal joys, will not be less brilliant than the beautiful boquet presented at our sanction on Tuesday last.

ROCKEY'S MILL.—The new engine, boiler and other fixtures to Rockey's mill, have been put in running trim, and were tried with good success on Monday last. His new power is a fine piece of machinery and is capable of driving five run of stone. On Tuesday they commenced grinding and are now manufacturing a first class grade of flour. The wheat on hand is of good quality, and the flour is such as he can recommend. Mr. Rockey has sustained a severe loss in the explosion of his boilers, and we trust, now that he is again a candidate for public favor, our citizens will lend him a liberal patronage by way of purchasing his flour. By so doing you will get a satisfactory bargain in flour, and assist one of our best citizens in retrieving a serious loss.

ALMOST SUNK.—The Chippewa Falls arrived at our levee on Saturday last with a heavy Government freight, and a small freight for our merchants. After laying about a half an hour a person on shore discovered that she was sinking, and strange as it may appear, neither officers or crew had discovered it, and the water was almost on deck. The boat was immediately run on to a shoal in the rear of the UNION Office, but even there she could not touch bottom.—Our citizens shoved out in great numbers in small boats with buckets in hand and through their efforts, the water was kept below the deck, until the leak could be discovered.—The leak was found and repaired and the water pumped out, and in two hours she was all right. A few barrels of flour were pitched overboard and recovered, also two pieces of machinery. We understand, however, that 600 pounds of sugar belonging to J. J Shaubut, and a barrel of apples belonging to Boyington & Cheney Garden City, were thrown over and lost. Under the exception of "perils of navigation ;" the boat claimed that it was not liable to pay for them. There was no necessity for throwing off any goods, but the crew were excited and every thing went as if the boat had been "kicked an end."

THE 4TH AT MANKATO.—The morning was ushered in by the firing of 13 guns. It dawned inauspiciously on account of a few clouds which draped the canopy of heaven and threatened rain. But they served the better purpose of mellowing the strong sun rays, and giving us deliverance from the intense heat of a mid-summer month. The day was all that heart could wish, and its observance was almost universal by great and small.

THE FIRE COMPANY.

The public demonstration in the morning consisted of a general parade of the fire department. The engine was beautifully decorated with evergreens, flags, wreaths, and six little girls, dressed in patriotic colors. The hose carriage underwent the same manipulation. The hook & ladder carriage was put in trim with equal good taste, and two ladders set up at an angle of 45 degrees, the upper ends meeting, were covered with green boughs and wreaths and mounted with a "loil" flag. Two boys, perched near the top rounds, exemplified the hazard of firemen, in the pursuit of their duties, in reaching and conquering the fiery element.

BANNER PRESENTATION.

Previous to the parade, while the company was still at the engine house, to their surprise, J. F. Wallace Esq., brought forward and presented to them a beautiful banner. It was painted in oil, and bore the American eagle, and all the emblems of the fire department, with the inscription in gilt letters "Mankato Fire Company No. 1." On the reverse side was a large star painted in "red, white and blue," and a wreath of stars surrounded it. The design, which we have but briefly sketched, was furnished by Mr Wallace and painted by T. Steidle, at a cost of near $40. Mr. Geo. Clark, on behalf of the company, accepted the banner in an appropriate speech.

THE PARADE.

There were 75 members of the company on parade, all dressed with a tasty uniform of black caps, red shirts, and black pants. We doubt if any town, west or east, could furnish a finer set of men, either physically or socially. In fact they are the "solid men" of Mankato. Headed by the brass band and joined by citizens on foot and in carriages, the three different divisions of the company, marched from the engine house on Front street to Cherry, up Cherry to Broad, down Broad to lower town and return. A procession was then formed and all marched to the grove near the pottery.

EXERCISES AT THE GROVE.

Prayer was offered by Rev. T. Marshall The declaration of independence was read by A. C. Woolfolk Esq. in a clear tone, and in a style of elocution and elegance unsurpassed by any reader we ever heard. The oration by the county Attorney, G. K. Cleveland was good, and many of the passages were rounded with fervent words of eloquence.

The exercises were interspersed with "music by the band," and several patriotic airs which were finely executed by a quartette consisting of Miss Carrie Pease, Miss Clapp, Dr. Stauffer and C. E. Griswold. Mr. Wilkinson presented "the flag" and suggested three cheers, which were given with a will. Benediction by Rev. D. Tice. The fire department returned to the engine house, and the assembly dispersed, many returning to their homes, and others remaining to partake of a pic nic dinner.

BASE BALL PLAY.

At three o'clock the Base Ball Club commenced their game. A large awning with seats was provided, and filled with spectators. There has been some changes in the players so that the second nines labored under peculiar disadvantages, the regular players being absent. The consequence was that the first nines won the day by a score of more than three to one. There was some excellent batting done by the first nines, and splendid field catching by the Second.

THE EVENING PARTY.

The fireman's ball was the feature of the evening. Shoemaker's Hall, and the new dining room of the Clifton House were engaged for the dance. A storm, which set in early in the evening, prevented some from going, but there were near 125 tickets sold, and the majority of purchasers were not to be cheated out of their sport. At the Clifton not less than forty couple were in attendance, and late in the evening Shoemaker's Hall was quite as largely attended. Ice cream was served in the old dining hall of the Clifton, and the participants all expresssd satisfaction with the evening's entertainment.

OTHER AMUSEMENTS.

The saloons, liveries, beer gardens, and every other source of amusement seemed to be drawn upon for their share of that which tends to "drive dull care away," and make up a full complement of holiday pleasures. Klien's Garden at the Blue Earth was the recipient of many guests, and forms a pleasant suburban retreat. During the day we recorded no accidents, street fights, or drunkenness worthy of mention, which could tend to mar its pleasures, and we believe that in the aggregate no day has culminated in a greater amount of pleasure at Mankato, than did the 4th of July 1867.

A GOOD ARTIST.—A good picture of one's self, which delineates the features and the expression perfectly, gives greater satisfaction than all else in the gallery of art. The popular art of photographing has been sadly abused by quacks, and adventurers, who neither had the talent to excel, nor the industry to live upon a pursuit more fitted to their capacities. In consequence the country is flooded by persons who call themselves artists, while their work belies their profession. A good artist is an indispensable attachee to any thriving town, and after wading through a series of years with indifferent success, Mankato has at last found one in the person of Mr. Bebee whose gallery is opposite Bradley's store. No artist doing business in this town has given as good satisfaction as Mr. Bebee. We do not hesitate to recommend the most critical to go to Bebee's Gallery for all the popular pictures now in use, and do not put the reputation of our own judgment in peril, in saying that his work is as good as we ever saw.

ARRESTS FOR LARCENY.—Mr. Henry Pratt keeps a boarding house in lower town in a large building on Front Street. Mrs. Mattocks a friend of their's, arrived by the Mollie on Thursday of last week to visit them before resuming her journey to Yellow Medicine where her husband had gone before her to make a settlement on Government lands. She was formerly of Maine but late of Faribault. She had $26 in money, and a check for $300, which until she arrived she had carried in the waist of her dress, but desiring to sell it here, she took it out and with a deed and several notes placed them in her pocket book, and put the pocket book in her reticule, fastened it and laid it on the bureau in the family or sitting room. The boarders and family went to dinner, but a short time after Mrs. Mattocks went to the sitting room and found her reticule open and the pocket book gone. Suspicion was at once directed to the boarders who were at dinner, and a search warrant was issued and the effects and persons of Fletcher Bailey, George Bailey, William Odel, and Mrs. Sarah Walker a young daughter of Asa Cheadle of Kasota, once married and since divorced, who is reported to be living in town for the purpose of taking music lessons. After a fruitless search, they were all arrested and brought before justice Coon, who upon motion of the prosecuting Attorney Cleveland, promptly discharged all the defendants except Mrs. Walker. Her trial took place on Friday and Saturday and in the evening of Saturday the justice discharged her, deeming the evidence insufficient to warrant the finding of an indictment. The evidence against her was in substance that she was in the room a few moments before dinner and after dinner, while the others were at the table. One witness, however, testified that a daughter of Mr. Pratt was in the room alone just after dinner. Some circumstances of unusual conduct, such as blushing when told of the theft, acting nervous and uneasy, and making a singular request of Mr. Pratts daughter, were introduced as evidence of her guilt. It was also known that she has not kept very good company since she resided here. Nothing further, however, was elicited. Saturday evening Mrs. Mattocks was taken violently sick in the court room and was bleeding at the lungs when Dr. Clark was called and the patient taken to the boarding house and properly cared for. Mrs. Walker, since the trial, had remained with the Deputy Sheriff, and Sunday evening went to Mr. Pratts to get her clothing, and remove from the house. It is said that she made an errand to the back yard for some purpose which perhaps needs a little explanation. On Monday morning the pocket book was found under a barrel in the back yard. About $12 had been taken out, but the check and other articles were still safe. We do not undertake to say that Mrs. Walker put it there on Sunday evening, or that she was guilty of the theft. Quite a number express the opinion that she is innocent, but such a presumption we judge would be greatly aided if her conduct and associations in other respects had been above suspicion. We are gratified to know that, whoever the guilty party is, Mrs. Mattocks can leave town with the full assurance that our officers have been industrious in their attempts to vindicate the laws, and bring offenders to justice, and that the attempt to strip her of all she possessed was thwarted.

MILK BUSINESS.—The Howe Brothers have at much expense established this business, and are meeting with fair success, considering the proportion of citizens who keep their own cows. The high water on the flat has hindered them some from being punctual, but they took the pains to ferry over the milk, and hire a team on this side to deliver it, and were but a few minutes behind their usual time. To insure a continuance of this desirable commerce, a uniformity in the orders of customers is very desirable. If a certain amount is agreed upon the milkman provides for it, and if not taken regularly it is quite a loss to the business. To sustain themselves in a town so small as Mankato there should be no losses, and we believe if their customers understand the matter in this light, they will do all in their power to sustain the enterprise.

HEARD FROM.—It seems that a member of the Good Templars has preferred charges against Prof. Stuart for drinking liquor, and the charge was forwarded to him at St. Paul. In writing to this member he admits the charge in the following rhetorical flourish, which tapers him off just where the majority of our citizens judged him to be, in point of principle and morals:

"SIR:—I see you have preferred charges against me for violation of Article 2d of the constitution. I admit the charge, but think it somewhat strange that you should have waited until I left. It can, however, make but little difference to me as my connexion with the Good Templars has ceased, never again to be renewed. * * * For the future I live just as suits my convenience without either let or hindrance from the G. T., or any system of so called religion."

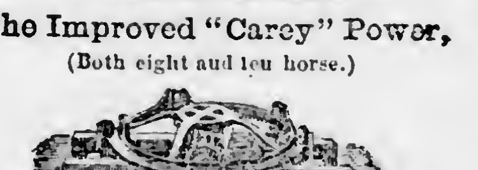
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.



The Improved "Carey" Power,

THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description of the machine, with numerous certificates, and the names and residences of those who have used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

BUSINESS ENTERPRISE.

When a gentleman asked a celebrated divine the other day how long he had been in preparing a certain sermon in which he had displayed even more than his great average ability, the reply was. "A life time, sir!" So if any one were to ask Helmbold, the celebrated New York druggist, how long he had been in building up and perfecting that admirable system of advertising which has made him, beyond question, the peer of the merchant princes, he might, with propriety, reply by pointing to the long years that have elapsed since, as a beginner in life, he first invested his gains in the columns of the newspaper press, with a confidence that, like bread cast upon the waters, the returns would be both ample and sure. And, while yet a young man, Helmbold finds himself a millionaire, with a business upon his hands which, despite all the contingencies of trade, is constantly increasing. How much of this success is due to the liberal and extended system of advertising, of which this gentleman is the most prominent representative, is not difficult to ascertain, and is the best argument in vindication of a system which, it is due to say, is every day gaining ground among the live and enterprising business men of the country.

Helmbold's drug store, No. 594 Broadway, New York city, is in all respects a model establishment, and is pronounced by all who have visited it the finest on the continent. Among the specialities which Helmbold has placed prominently before the public are his now famous Fluid Extracts—Buchu and Sarsaparilla. These dual extracts have been endorsed by the medical faculty, and are quite generally used by physicians in their private practice. They are, therefore, genuine preparations, and as such are entitled to public confidence. Buchu has long been pronounced by physicians one of the best diuretics known to science, and as compounded in Helmbold's Extract is doubtless the best specific for those affections for which it is recommended.

Suicide of a Murderer.

On Monday morning of last week the body of John Schmidt, who murdered Mrs. Gertrude Ruehl, in the town of Sigel, Brown county, last winter, was found suspended by a cord attached to the stove pipe in his cell, in the county jail at New Ulm. To all appearances life had been extinct for several hours before the body was discovered.—Schmidt showed prior determination to commit suicide, and on several occasions has attempted to take his own life by poison.

The body was buried at New Ulm on Monday last.—St. Peter Tribune June 26th.

—An important suit is now pending before the Circuit Court of Richmond, Judge Underwood, which involves the question whether the late Confederate Government was a de facto Government. The suit is brought by the administrators of a Philadelphia lady against the Petersburg Railroad Company, for some thirty thousand dollars dividend which accrued during the war upon the stocks of that company held by her. The dividends were confiscated by the Confederate Government. The railroad company pleaded that they are not liable for the dividends, and, that if they are, they should be paid in the currency used by them at that time, and paid out to their stockholders, namely: Confederate currency. The decision will be held as an important precedent to govern hundreds of other claims of a like character.

—Minister Campbell tenders his resignation of the Mexican mission solely on the grounds of ill health. He does not differ in opinion from the Government as to the question of interceding for the life of Maximilian. The mission was offered to Gen. Steadman, but he declined.

—Vallandigham has been invited to deliver the address at the Oxford (Mass.) College Commencement and has declined. This is the first time the ten cent martyr has come to the surface, even in a newspaper paragraph, since he was so unceremoniously kicked out of the Philadelphia Convention. How many ages ago is that?

—The President has issued a proclamation, announcing the ratification of the Russian American Treaty, the final exchange of ratifications having taken place between Secretary Seward and Baron Stoeckl.

—The Salt Lake Vedette refers to an existing rumor of great dissatisfaction among the Saints on account of the fact being promulgated that Brigham Young, Jr. was ordained President of the Mormon Church last fall, before his departure for Europe. Some who have grown gray in the service protest that the Presidency shan't run in the blood.

—Three gunboats, worth in the aggregate $100,000, are to be presented by the British government to the new Dominion of Canada on the 1st of July, as a birthday present.

—Jesse D. Bright, ex-United States Senator from Indiana, has been nominated for the Kentucky Senate by the Democrats of Carroll and Trimble counties.

—About the Paris Exhibition, the latest report is that it is a failure pecuniarily. A daily attendance of forty thousand is necessary to pay the running expenses, and it has thus far fallen short of that.

—Two citizens of Richmond, Va., were arraigned before the United States Commissioner, on a charge of perjury committed in taking the registration oath. Great interest was manifested in the cases by the people.

—The New York Herald says it is plain there can be no true reconstruction till Johnson is impeached and removed.

—It is reported that the Government is about to purchase a large tract of land near Fortress Monroe for purposes of an artillery school.

Registration in Augusta, Ga., is proceeding quietly; 436 persons were registered on June 25, of whom 206 were blacks and 140 whites.

—The Union Pacific Railroad is now open to Julesburg, 376 miles west of Omaha, and two daily trains have commenced running each way. There are five million pounds of freight which have been waiting this event which will now be forwarded at once.

Ex-Governor Wells, of Louisiana, has decided to issue a proclamation declaring himself Governor, and Flanders an usurper.

—Gen. Sheridan says that he will get his department in running order sooner than any of the other Generals, and that without any additional appropriations.

SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC.

This medicine, invented by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, is intended to dissolve the food and make it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By cleansing the stomach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be eaten before using it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of the SEAWEED TONIC and three or four boxes of the MANDRAKE PILLS will cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia.

Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits in New York, Boston, and at his principal Office in Philadelphia every week. See daily papers of each place, or his pamphlet on consumption for his days for visitation.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half-dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr. SCHENCK's Principal Office, No. 15 North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality to crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two or double springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

The Crops and Crop Croakers.---Navigation and Navigable Waters.

We, farmers, seem to be a hard set of fellows to please. With us the growing season is never exactly right. The weather is either too wet or too dry, too warm or too cold. Sometimes the same season will be both too wet and too dry—which may be the case with the present season. The crop croakers are already begining to cry out, "ruined crops," "great damage to growing grain." &c. Now it may be, no doubt is, true that the growing crops have been greatly damaged, not so much by the continued wet weather as from a want of attention at the proper time. Had farmers gone into their corn fields early in the season, when they could have done so, with horse and plow and disturbed the ground as often as the weather would permit, between showers, their crops would now present a much more favorable appearance. Fields that could not be entered with the team, might have been greatly benefited by a vigorous use of the hoe propelled by armstrong's patent projector. Wheat fields would have been much benefited by the simple process of drawing a few furrows across them through which the surface water might have escaped.

In all excesses of wet or dry, growing crops require extra attention. A wet is always a cold season, for the simple reason that the natural heat of the ground escapes with the ascending vapors in evaporation. The more the ground is disturbed, the more moisture it will absorb and the more rapidly the process of evaporation will take place and hence the result of extra culture in wet weather, is drier, warmer ground, and better crops.

In support of this theory I will give an instance confirmed by several witnesses, now living in this county. During the early part of the summer of 1845 it rained for forty days in succession in the Northwestern portion of the State of Indiana. The ground was saturated with water. Farmers generally abandoned their cornfields and left them under the sole control of the water and weeds. One practical agriculturist however, felt his need of producing a crop of corn, as he had sown no wheat, and addressed himself to the task according to the theory above stated. He was in his cornfield late and early, rain and shine, and his patient industry was awarded by a good crop of corn, while his neighbors were mortified by seeing their own fields producing only weeds. I will here state for the benefit of the disheartened, what all will be willing to admit—crops are not so likely to sustain injury, from excessive moisture while growing as when ripening, and although our crops may not be abundant, we may still expect them to be fair.

NAVIGATION.

It was stated in the UNION that the "Mollie Mohler" ascended the Blue Earth river to the mouth of the LeSueur, but she actually navigated the latter stream since which time it has been on its "high horse," having things pretty much "all its own way." And, as if exulting in its superiority over all lesser brooks, and elated by this little compliment of the Mollie, it has been rapidly deepening and widening its channel, till within the last two weeks, evidently preparing for a return of its flattering visitor. It takes, without permission, from the lands of one man and adds uncraved acres to the premises of another and it has ever gone so far as to assume a threatening aspect toward "The Red Jacket Mills" and every body thereabouts.

And, by the way, since "The Brooklyn" has demonstrated the feasibility of internavigating the State of Wisconsin from Green Bay to the Mississippi river. Why not continue her demonstrations westward through the State of Minnesota? up the Cannon and down the LeSueur, thence up the Minnesota and down the Red River of the North? proving the practicability of slack water navigation on the two former, and a canal connecting the two latter streams.

All the smaller crafts, including the C. Falls, which have been engaged in emptying the warehouses, in the towns on the banks of the upper Mississippi and its tributaries, and which are about to run on short freight, might now easily navigate the country generally picking up the produce of the poultry yards and dairies together with any grain which may still be held in reserve by prudent farmers along our creeks and sloughs.

This last is not intended in any way of sarcasm. Navigation is a good thing. At least we who live on the banks and at the mercy of these crazy little streams think so.

The Indian War.

NEW YORK, July 1, 1867.

A Herald North Platte, Neb., special says: Intelligence was brought to this town this morning, by a party of independent scouts just from the Prairie reservation, that a large band of Sioux suddenly appeared and surrounded the Pawnee reservation, 20 miles northwest of Columbus, Nebraska. There is great excitement of course, among the Indians and white settlers, and the worst results are reasonably entertained. These scouts have traveled fast for the purpose of procuring immediate relief. A band of Pawnee Indians, tribal relatives of the warriors on the war path, are encamped about twenty miles west of Omaha. These will be afforded every possible means of rasning to the rescue. These scouts will also aid them to the best of their ability.

A Tribune special says there are no signs of a speedy end to the Indian war. Five thousand Sioux forbid white men to enter their country. The Utes threaten new disturbances, and it is reported that General Custar has been overpowered and killed.

—Major General Carlin of Nashville, received a despatch from Memphis, stating that there had been seventy deaths from cholera in that city since the 13th instant. A private letter also states that there were seven deaths from cholera on the 26th.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 6---The Boat Ride, and what came of it.

V——, Aug. 19, 1861.

DEAR KATE:—I will now try and finish up those subjects that I left so incomplete in my last, not waiting for your answer to the same.

Yes, the wind did blow, as I expected, and the lake was in a perfect foam, although, when we started, there was something of a lull, though the waves broke sullenly against the beach.

As Florance cast her eye over the dark waters, the fine color died out of her cheek, but she evidently had made up her mind to go, and was not to be dissuaded from her purpose. And did I not shrink from trusting myself in a frail boat upon the angry waters? Not I! And as "The Swan" shot out, under the skillful hand of Mr. Monroe, my soul was fairly intoxicated with the grandeur of the scene around me.

"There is a hint of a storm, yonder," said Frank, casting his eye to the south west, where a bank of dull, leaden clouds, shut out the sun, "we must make this excursion a short one."

I do not think that ride was enjoyed by any of the party but myself. Florance sat pale and silent, with her eye continually searching the southern horizon, as if expecting to see the boat that undoubtedly had called her forth at this time. Frank was too much occupied in propelling his boat to pay Miss Merton those attentions, that she evidently expected, and judging by her look of disappointment, she wished herself on terra firma again.

Ah, how the waves began to roll and toss, as we neared the center of the lake, and ever and anon, sprinkle us with the spray.

Miss Merton gave a shriek of affright as a huge wave dashed its foam crest over the boat side completely saturating our clothing. Frank's voice showed that he was a little vexed, as he bade us, on the penalty of upsetting the skiff, to sit perfectly still, and not grasp the sides, as it was rocked by the waves.

"We may as well turn back," said Frank, "there is no pleasure in this, certainly."

But Florance had caught sight of an object, that seemed to ride the billows like a thing of life, and she still said "go on." And evidently the occupant of the approaching boat had also seen us for the paddles seemed like wings, sweeping down upon us.

"No pleasure, Mr. Monroe?" I exclaimed, "I think there is nothing in dull tame life, to compare with this grandeur, see, how we rock! How wild those foam capped breakers look, as they come dashing on, as if to overwhelm us, when, guided by your well skilled hand, we glide into the troughs, or over the wave, unscathed."

"I think this is no time for rhapsodies" sneered Miss Merton, "for my part, I had much rather be at home, dressed in comfortable clothing, than be enjoying the grandeur of the scene."

By this time, Mr. Ellis, for him it was, had come within hailing distance, and Frank asked him "if he supposed that he could take one of the ladies into his boat?" as he thought that "he could manage the skiff better if he was not so heavily loaded."

You should have seen Florance then, as he turned his boat toward us, she seemed almost frantic with fear, and in thrilling tones called on him to save here, or "she would be drowned, she would be drowned!" And grasping the side of the boat with one white hand, she held the other imploringly to him, regardless of her brothers injunction "to sit still," that "she was rocking the boat, she would——," but there was a scream, a blinding dash of water, and the wave had borne me over the side of the rocking boat.

Oh, Kate, I cannot describe my sensations as I found myself amid those boiling waters; they were those of a drowning person, for I knew too well that the water was very deep here, as two men had met their doom, two years ago, in almost this same spot. Almost every thing I had done since a child, deeds and words long forgotten, thoughts, too, of the eternity that stared me in the face, flashed like lightning through my mind. Then for a moment, conciousness forsook me; another, and strong arms clasped me to a beating heart, and lifted me over a boat's side, and then, as some one sprung in after me, I opened my eyes, and the pale face of Mr. Ellis bent over me.

"Thank God, Thank God, she is not dead, she is safe," he exclaimed, lifting his eyes to the now storm darkened sky. And then I thought of the occupants of the other boat, and looked eagerly around for them; they were safe, and only a short distance from us. And as I looked toward them, Florance turned her face, white as if death had set his signet there, full upon me; I can not describe all there was in that look, but hatred intense, hatred, predominated. Oh, Kate, I shrink, even now, from the remembrance of that face, with the strange light gleaming upon it.

Then a sense of what I owed this man, who had saved me from a watery grave, rose before me.

"Oh, Mr. Ellis, how can I ever repay you, how show my great gratitude to you for saving my life?"

He did not answer at first, but a strange smile hovered around his mouth, and a look I could not at all understand it, came into his eyes. At last he said, that look still in his eyes, "It is happiness enough for me at present, to know that I saved you."

And now the storm came on in all its fury, the boat rocked like a toy upon the wind tossed waters; the rain descended in sheets, and the forked lightning lit up the awful gloom. Still, the scene had not lost its wild enchantment for me, and having full faith in the skill of Mr. Ellis, as an oarsman, I was scarcely glad when we drew up to the beach amidst the anxious group who had been watching our arrival.

As I now cast my eye over the beautiful lake, its placid surface reflecting the rays of the setting sun, I can scarcely realize that so terrible a tempest raged upon its bosom so lately, and, that but for Mr. Ellis, I might be sleeping there now.

In the Chamber of Death, Midnight, I was interrupted in my writing, by a messenger requesting me to hasten to the bed side of my dying little Amy. When I called there this morning, she seemed better, and I cheated myself with the fond hope, that she would get well.

Never shall I forget that death bed scene, never forget the impassioned words of the dying girl, as she intreated her father, and those about her, to meet her in heaven. That fear of the dark valley, and deep waters, had all passed away, and her last words, faintly whispered in my ear, were, "I trust in Jesus."

I think God will sanctify the loss of this precious child to this household. The father, now that it is too late, seems to be keenly alive to his loss, while the step mother, looks like one rebuked and conscious of her gross neglect.

And now that the little form is robed for the grave, we, Mr. Monroe and Miss Merton, Mr. Ellis, Florance and myself, are spending the lonely night here.

Frank, and Miss Merton, are enjoying a tete a tete out there in the moonlight, while Florance has seated herself in a most becoming attitude, on a low stool, at the feet of Mr. Ellis. What an exquisite picture she makes, with the dull, dim light from the tallow candles playing over the golden hair, and the color coming and going in the expressive countenance, raised to the noble one above it. Can it be that she is only playing a part? But surely that sweet face is the same that I saw clouded with passion, when she found her bracelet broken by the mischievous fingers of her little brother, and the now well modulated tones of her voice, sounded less heavenly, when she fretted at her mother for not mending her black silk. But listen, they are talking about the war. Florance is speaking, "I should feel eternally disgraced, were either my father or brother to engage in this fratricidal war."

"What! Miss Monroe, is this rebellion not to be put down? Do you claim that the South had a right to secede?"

Ah, she sees that she has gone a step to far, and with a ready tact, tries to turn the conversation, but her companion sees through the subterfuge, and while there is a shade of irony in his tones he says "As soon as I can arrange my business, I intend to take my place in this war, where brother is arranged against brother, and then of course, I shall stand disgraced forever in your sight?" questioningly.

Now, the blue eyes, full of tears, are raised to his, and the lovely mouth is tremulous with emotion as she says, "Dale, no act that you could do would displease me, and oh do not judge one so harshly that would find the world so lonely were you to enlist, as you said, just now."

Was not that enough to melt the stonnyest heart? Very hard, indeed, must Dale Ellis be, for with his keen eyes, searching her face a moment, he says something about "being neglected," and is coming over to my lonely corner.

"Well, little school ma'm, and may I ask who is to receive the benefit of so long an epistle?" he asked as I laid by the fools cap, for you see his name occurs too often to be seen by him, and I answered him, and told him of my childhood's companion, and my girlhood's chosen friend, and I knew I grew rapturous in your praise, do not chide me, for it was a pleasant theme on which to dwell, and then the color came to my cheek, when he smiled, and called me "a little enthusiast."

But the gray light of the morning is creeping over the hill tops, and I must catch a few hours sleep in order to fulfill the duties of the day. I expect a letter from you soon.

Your affectionate,
MOLLIE.

ITEMS ON THE SURRATT TRIAL.

Witness detailed the appearance of Payne at Surratt's house in February, 1865, under the name of Wood. There was no sign of recognition between Surratt and Wood. He took supper by Mrs. Surratt's request in witness' room. On March 13th he again visited the house, giving in the name of Payne. Next day he came back and walked into my room. I was writing at a table, and Surratt was lying on the bed. Payne said he wanted to converse privately with Surratt, and I left the room. The next day when I came home, March 14th, I found a moustache lying on my table. I then went up to the attic room, and saw Surratt and Payne seated on a bed conversing, and surrounded by new spurs, two revolvers and two bowie knives. When I went to dinner I told Mrs. Surratt I had seen John and Payne fencing with these things, and said, "Mrs. Surratt, I don't like this" I told her I had seen them on the bed. She said I need not think anything of it, as I knew John was in the habit of riding in the country, and he had to have things for his protection.

On the evening of March 3d, Booth and Surratt were conversing in Mrs. Surratt's parlor; Booth was also there on the evening of the 4th of March. Harold was there one day in March, talking with Atzerot and Surratt. I think it was on the 20th of March I met Surratt at the post office, and he asked for a letter addressed to himself, under the name of James Sturday. I saw the letter; it came from New York, and was signed Wood. On reading this letter, Surratt said nothing in particular, he only showed me the letter. He said the letter was from Wood, who has been at Mrs. Surratt's house; did not tell me where Wood was.

On March 25th witness saw John Surratt, his mother, and Mrs. Slater in a carriage drawn by two white horses, which Mrs. Surratt subsequently said had been hired from Brooks, the livery stable keeper; Mrs. Surratt returned alone the next evening, and said John had gone to Richmond with Mrs. Slater to get a clerkship; I saw the horses again on the following Saturday, driven by Dr. Wivel, and I was asked to tell the stabler that they would be returned next day. I objected, and Mrs. Surratt said, "oh! Brooks thinks Atzerot, Harold and Surratt are a party of gamblers, and I want him to think so."

April 3d; I was in the parlor in the evening and John Surratt came in very neatly dressed and I asked him where he had been, he said to Richmond, I asked him if he had not heard the news that Richmond was evacuated. He said it was not true; that he had seen Benjamin and Davis,—and Davis said Richmond would not be evacuated. John went up stairs; I followed him, and he showed me $60,000 in gold, which he said he wanted exchanged for greenbacks; he showed me a quantity of gold. John left the house at seven o'clock, April 3d, in the evening, and asked me to go with him to get some oysters, and said he was going to Montreal. We get the oysters on Pennsylvania Avenue We then walked to Metropolitan Hotel, and he there bade me good-bye, and said he would write to me, and I have not seen him since until to-day. After this, I saw Booth on a sofa, with some ladies, and I was shown by Anna Surratt a letter from John. Booth came there frequently. Witness also testified that he was at Mrs. Surratt's house, on March 16th, and Payne, Booth and Surratt came in my room at 6 p. m. Surratt came in first, and had his pants tucked in his boots, and was much excited, and had a double-barreled pistol. Surratt raised his arms and said in an excited way: "My hopes are gone; my prospects are blighted. I want something to do, can't you get me a clerkship?" He was much excited; I told him not to be foolish. Payne came in next dressed in grey clothes and wearing pistols; Booth came in dressed in black and had a riding whip, and walked about not pretending to notice me; Payne, Booth and Surratt then went to Payne's room in the attic; in half an hour the three left; Surratt afterwards told me Payne and Booth went to New York; all three were much excited.

June 28th.—There was very little done in the Surratt trial to-day, because Judge Fisher was so unwell that the court held but an hour. Weichman was on the stand for further cross-examination. His direct examination occupied nearly five hours. He has been in the hands of the defense now about three hours, and they said after adjournment Saturday that they had only just begun the cross-examination. The evidence of this witness is admitted by everybody to be of the first importance. It does not materially differ, in so far as it directly concerns Surratt, from that given in the conspiracy trial, but with respect to his mother it is considerably stronger than it was. There is no contradiction, but new facts have been brought out that were not reached in that examination, though he embodied them in an affidavit made and sent to the Judge Advocate General in August, 1865.

The defense are making a strong effort to break down his testimony and character, but thus far they have not accomplished anything serious.

The entire day, Monday, will probably be occupied in his cross examination. The Government has nearly a dozen witnesses to examine, and is likely to occupy at least four or five more days.

July 1st.—The cross-examination of the witness Weichman was concluded. Dr. McMillian, Surgeon of the British steamship Peruvian, was called to the stand and gave an account of Surratt going to Londonderry on that vessel, in the fall of 1865. He was introduced to the witness at Montreal, by a Priest named Lapierre, under the name of McCarthy, under which name he passed during the voyage. Before leaving he was visited by General Ripley and Beverly Tucker. Witness gave an account of various conversations with the accused, in which the latter related many adventures, declaring among other things that he had been engaged in carrying messages to Richmond and replies thence to Montreal. He said that on one occasion he was going to Richmond in company with some other persons, and among them a woman; that after crossing the lines into the convederacy, they met some escaped Union prisoners in uniform very weak and starving; that the woman called on the party to shoot the Yankees, and that they did shoot them. Various other adventures were set tourth by Surratt, and, on the last day of the voyage, taking a pistol from his pocket, he declared he hoped the time would come when he could go back to the United States and serve Andrew Johnson as Abraham Lincoln had been served. The witness had a sharp passage-at arms with the lawyers on the side of the defense.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The Surratt trial to-day proved to be unusually interesting. The testimony was against the prisoner was very decided. Dr. McMillan testified to Surratt's confessing to him that he was in the plan with Booth to abduct the President, but that it was found necessary to abandon or change it. The witness, however, said that Surratt never told that he was in Washington on the day of the assassination, nor had he stated to him to what the abduction plan had been changed. Surratt said that Booth telegraphed to him at Montreal to come to Washington, as it had been found necessary to change the plan, and that he (Surratt) was at Elmira, N. Y., on the Thursday preceding the assassination. Surratt also related to the witness a statement of his dropping his handkerchief in St. Albans, Vt., thereby corroborating the previous evidence in that particular. Benj. St. Marie, whose evidence has been anticipated with so much interest, was next put on the stand. His presence caused a decided sensation in the court room. Surratt seemed very nervous on seeing him. He testified that Surratt confessed in the papal states that he (Surratt) was in Washington and escaped from the city, thoroughly disguised, on the night of or the morning after the assassination. After the witness made this statement he left the stand. The counsel for the prisoner, to the surprise of all, declined to cross-examine him.

AFFRAY IN THE CRIMINAL COURT ROOM.

Quite a scene occurred in the court house, after the adjournment of the court, between Judge Fisher and Mr. Bradley, senior, counsel for the prisoner. The latter approached the judge in an excited manner. He excepted to his remarks from the bench in an allusion to the way in which the prisoner's counsel had cross examined the witnesses. Judge Fisher said he was too unwell to enter into a controversy now. Mr. Bradley informed the judge that if he (Fisher) were not sick he would thrash him. Judge Fisher replied that he did not claim immunity from the threatened castigation on that account, and, it is said, squared himself for a fight. The bystanders interfered, when Mr. Bradley dared Judge Fisher to expel him from the bar. The judge replied that he should not prejudice his cause by doing that. At this stage young Bradley came rushing in, pushing the crowd aside and seemingly making towards the judge, in a violent way; but by this time the judge had been taken into an adjoining room, and Mr. Bradley, Jr., seeking an interview, fully disclaimed the inference that he was intending to assault him, but was merely making his way through the crowd to see what was the matter. The affair has caused considerable excitement.

—An exchange says: "Without any faith in it, we published the other day a statement that salt in a kerosene lamp was a great saving in oil. But the editor of the Cuba Patriot says he has fully tested it, and it is a greater saving than was stated in the article referred to. Fill the lamp half full of common salt, then fill up with oil. It burns with a clearer flame, and is a saving of more than twenty-five per cent. in oil.

POTATO BUGS.—It is becoming but too plainly apparent that the potato crop in this vicinity is to be materially damaged if not essentially destroyed by this new pest. Many fields of potatoes which, a few days ago, gave promise of early and abundant harvest, are literally covered with these voracious insects. We understand that some farmers are sprinkling their vines with coal tar, largely diluted with water, with apparent success. The loss of this crop would be a calamity, and we trust the farmers will be vigilant and active in their efforts to prevent it.—Janesville Gazette.

The Mankato Union.

FRIDAY, - - - JULY 12, 1867.

ANOTHER VOLUME.—Change. With this issue commences another volume of the UNION. It is with no little gratification that we are able to announce its increasing prosperity, not only in its advertising patronage, which as will be seen by the crowded state of its columns, is the largest of any paper in southwestern Minnesota, but in its subscription list, which, since March 1866 has augmented its previous number eight quires, or ONE HUNDRED AND NINETY-TWO subscribers,—and this without any special effort on our part. We know that our advertising columns have encroached sometimes largely upon our reading matter, but if our patrons fully understood the difficulty of making a county paper self-sustaining, no doubt we would be freely excused for the infringment. We sometimes contemplate an enlargement, to better accommodate our reading patrons, but the financial condition of the country cautions us to keep within the bounds of prudence, and the increased expense of enlargement would involve perhaps greater loss than the rejection of further advertising orders. We, however, fully appreciate the demand upon us for the greatest amount of reading matter possible, and have met it. No longer than two weeks since, we took out of our paper 1½ columns of advertising at a loss of more than $100, and substituted reading matter which costs $1,50 per week to set, while most county papers would leave it in as "dead matter" to save the weekly setting of news. We have, for a number of months past contemplated a change in the number of the volume of the UNION. It is well known that this office is that of the old Independent, and that a paper has been issued each week consecutively since its first establishment. It has always been the advocate of republican principles, and the acknowledged organ and the republican party, and through its former editor, C. B. Hensley, a very talented member of the profession, this portion of the State was redeemed from the corrupting influence of moccasin democracy. The paper and the party of this county have a history which was recklessly ignored by our immediate predecessor in changing the name and volume of the party organ. In part we can remedy this error. While the name will be retained we shall return to the volume number which records the actual existence of a republican organ in this county. We have precedents which warrant it, and many friends of the paper and party wish it put upon record that the first paper of Blue Earth county was established and continued to the present date in the advocacy of republican principles. Ten years ago this month this office was established, and the eleventh year has now begun, and in pursuence of our plan this Volume is designated the "eleventh" to correspond with the years of its existence. Thankful for a liberal patronage in the past, we trust it can be made mutually beneficial to continue the relation existing between us and the many readers to whom we pay our weekly visits.

A LAMENT.

Our citizens celebrated the 4th of July, and Maj. G. K. Cleveland delivered a short oration. In the course of the address, he mentioned the names of Lincoln as the Saviour of our country, and John Brown as the entering wedge in the abolition of slavery. Also Senator Wilson and Judge Kelly were mentioned, as having made a tour in the South and demonstrated that the liberty of speech, which is among the cardinal principals of American independence, was no longer sectional but national. A terrible howl is raised by the Record and echoed by the Pioneer, charging the Major with insulting the unwashed democracy, upon the ground that his speech was distasteful, political and impertinent to the occasion. The Record censures him for omitting to mention, Washington, Adams or Jefferson. It seems to have forgotten that men die, and politics are of a day, but that principle lives for ever, and in elucidating a principle, it is impossible to interest an audience by unearthing the fossils of antiquated history, when so many illustrations of progressive liberty are to be found within the cognizance of the present age.

Those old patriots of the revolution were as strenuous and bitter in politics, as politicians of the present age. Why not object to mentioning them in connection with the 4th of July? Jefferson was a republican, Adams a Federalist, why mention them more than partizans of the present day? It has been deemed in good taste in times past to ignore politics in the celebration of a national holiday. Politics in an early day pertained to the financial management, and internal improvement of the country, but while the loyal people of the country have been endeavoring to keep alive principles enunciated in the declaration of independence, the Democratic party has gradually brought itself in direct antagonism with them, and this fact accounts for the wail of the Record and its cortege of men who pronounced the war a failure, and the emancipation proclamation a highhanded usurpation of authority. "We hold these truths to be self evident, that all men are created EQUAL, and are endowed by the Creator with certain inalienable rights, among which are life liberty and the pursuit of hapiness." So says the declaration of independence. The democracy have infringed this proposition of right, they have declared that black men are like mules, that they have no rights which white men need respect, that manacles and chains and the lash were the normal condition of man, and that a thousand petty, but cruel and heartless despotisms on every league of land in the south was their choice, instead of the humane declaration of equal rights which is so plainly embodied in our bill of indictment against George the Third. They have identified themselves with southern slavery and the throttling of free speech, and here, even in free Minnesota, an orator is disturbed and threatened by one of these same sympathizers with rebellion and slavery, simply for referring to one whose love of liberty was so great that he trampled upon law to free his fellow men. The fault is not with Mr. Cleveland, but with the party who have undertaken to clog the wheels of equal rights, which in its irrepressible momentum, will scatter them as the locomotive does the obstructions on its track. Until the democracy cease to war against the plainest instincts of justice between man and man, they may always expect to be met and, as they term it, insulted by the enunciation, upon all patriotic occasions, of the great principles of equal rights for which our ancestral blood was shed for seven long years, and to the maintainance of which all true patriots are conscientiously pledged. The guilty heart needs no accuser. The declaration of independence is as much an indictment against them, as against the English Monarch, but they are powerless of harm. If they do not wish politics introduced on patriotic occasions let them abandon the issue of petit despotism which they have forced upon a liberty loving people and endeavored to maintain by giving sympathy to traitors, and place themselves no longer in conflict with those principles upon which a republican government is founded.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The Democratic State Convention was held in St. Paul on Wednesday last, but our mail facilities are such that it is impossible for us to give any account of its proceedings in this issue. The indications were that Judge Flandrean would be nominated for Governor, and that the bond question would be wholly ignored. It seems that the democracy are still clinging to the sentiments of such men as Pendleton and Vallandingham, the former, who was opposed to subduing the rebellion, being invited to address the people at Saint Paul yesterday. With such leaders as Pendleton at their head, the sympathies of democracy cannot be mistaken. The same determined opposition to freedom, equal rights, and a reconstructed Government on the basis of loyal suffrage, is yet the controlling element of the party.

SANTA ANNA SHOT.

Simultaneously with the news that the principal Courts of Europe have gone into mourning for Maximilian, comes the intelligence that Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, ex President and ex-Dictator of Mexico, was shot at Sisal on 25th ult. He went there from Staten Island, being misled unto the belief that he could return to Mexico and declare himself Dictator. He was arrested as a public enemy, and suffered the death penalty for his ambition to grasp a crown, at the expense of the peace of Mexico.

JULY SESSION OF CONGRESS.

At noon of July 3d, the roll call found 34 senators in their seats, and 126 representatives. In the Senate the western absentees were Messrs. Davis and Guthrie, of Kentucky; Doolittle, of Wisconsin; Hendricks and Morton, of Indiana; Norton, of Minnesota; Sherman, of Ohio; Conness and Cole of California, and Williams and Corbett, of Oregon. Morton of Indiana is prevented from attending by sickness. Windom and Donnelly of Minnesota were at their posts in the House.

Mr. Wilson offered a bill in addition to the several Reconstruction Acts. It consists of two sections. The first vacates all civil offices in the Southern States within three days, and authorizes the Commanding Generals to retain the present incumbents and make new appointments or order elections. The second section authorizes Boards of Registrations to refuse to register persons applying to be registered when they have just grounds to believe they are seeking to evade the requirements of the laws, and to strike from the roll, within twenty days, persons registered and afterwards proved disqualified.

Mr. Chandler offered a resolution asking the President for the correspondence between the State Department and our Minister to Mexico.

Mr. Sumner offered a resolution asking for all correspondence on file in the State Department relating to events in Mexico.

A committee was appointed to wait on the President and inform him that the Senate was in readiness for the transaction of business.

Without waiting the report of the comittee the Senate adjourned until Friday.

The House refused to swear in the members elect from Kentucky, except Mr. Adams of the 7th district. The other members have been too nearly allied to rebels to be admitted without an investigation, so their cases were referred to a committee for that purpose. A committee was also appointed to inquire what legislation is necessary on reconstruction. The House adjourned to Friday.

On Monday Senator Trumbull, and Thad. Stevens in the House, introduced supplemental acts defining and giving effect to the reconstruction bill. They both point to the same result and the principle features are as follows:

The military authority of the United States in the rebel States, as provided in the act of March 2d, was and is paramount to any civil government existing therein,—makes all such civil governments subordinate to such military authority, and prohibits from interfering in and way with the exercise of authority.

The commander of any district named in said act shall have power, subject to the approval of the General of the armies of the United States, to suspend or remove from office or from the performance of official duties, any officer or person holding or exercising, or professing to hold or exercise, any civil or military officer or duty in such district under any authority, derived from or granted by, or claimed under, any so called State or the government thereof, and to detail some competent officer to perform the same.

The general of the armies of the United States shall be invested with the powers of suspension, removal and detail.

The acts of the officers of the army already done in removing persons exercising the functions of civil officers and appointing others are confirmed.

The boards of registration shall have power and it shall be their duty, before allowing the registration of any persons to ascertain whether such person is entitled to be registered under said act; and the oaths required by said act shall not be conclusive on such question and no person shall be registered unless such board shall also have power to examine under oath, any one touching the qualifications of any person claiming registration.

The Board of registration shall have until Oct. 1st to revise their registration lists, and shall be allowed to purge the lists of such persons as have take a false oath and are not eligible as voters.

—The Washburn Homestead, at Livermore, Maine, was totally destroyed by fire the 29th ult.

FROM MADELIA.

By our own Reporter.

THE 4TH.—Independence day was observed by our citizens with all the honors and costoms of the time honored occassion. Although we have no cannon, we do have two anvils, with which the boys managed to apprize the villagers that the great day was at hand. Morning dawned rather ominious, great heavy fogg clouds rolled up from the northeast and seemed to pre-say a storm, but as the morning rolled away those heavy masses changed into light thin drapery clouds, which seemed to breath the heart of the advancing day.

At about 10 o'clock a large number of the citizens assembled at a beautiful little grove a few hundred rods east of the village. We never saw a more pleasant scene than greated our eyes here. Lovers of nature might well stop and drink the pleasures of this picturesque landscape. The dark green leaves of the stately oaks rustling in the light breeze, the sloping hills, undulating prairies streating away in the distance, covered with natures soft velvety carpet of brightest green.

The exercise of the day were a prayer by Rev. Mr. Bellknap, reading Declaration of Independence by Mr. E. M. Sprague, which was done in a clear emphatic tone, short addresses by R. W. Montgomery and Col. W. C. Rhoods. These exercises were interspersed with patriotic songs by the young ladies of the Good Templar's. A public table was set, which was bountifully supplied by the ladies of Madelia, with all the pie, cake, baked chicken, &c., which they know so well how to make, of which every one was cordially invited to partake. The day passed off pleasantly, and will be long remembered by our citizens as a day of joyous intercourse.

The young people had prepared to have a grand ball in the evening, at Yates' Hall, but the watery elements had decreed otherwise, and the ball was not a success in numbers, yet those who were there enjoyed themselves muchly.

THE WEATHER.—The weather is glorious, we never saw pleasanter weather than we have had the past few weeks. Light showers of rain are followed by bright clear days, hot enough to make vegetation take a forward step and star light midnight cool enough to make the vilest sinner sleep.

CROPS.—When people have good prospects they naturally feel good, and if they have anything better than their neighbors they like to tell of it, not in a spirit that smacks of a delight in the failures of others, but in a feeling of good will to all. Now the crops in our county are good, we think a little better than in our neighboring counties, and of this fact we think our farmers hahe a just pride in boasting. We throw out the challenge, Watonwan county against her neighbors, for the best wheat, corn, oats, sorghum and potatoes, what do you say gentlemen farmers of Blue earth, Faribault, Martin, and Jackson? We will compare notes after harvest. Do you like the proposition?

FROM VERNON CENTRE.

By our own Reporter.

"Your own Reporter" should have noticed some time ago, the change of landlords in our Hotel, A. D. Mason, having retired and Mr. E. F. Beebe assumed the duties of mine host. The traveling public will find Mr. Beebe attentive and obliging, and after sitting at his table will doubtless feel inclined to call ag in.

The "Fourth," we regret to say, was not honored to any great extent by our citizens. The boys had their fire crackers of course, and some of us larger boys amused ourselves with base ball and other sports, but there was nothing to

> "Kindle anew the patriot fires,
> That burned in the breasts of our > Brave old sires."

We notice that under the influence of the dry cool weather of the last two weeks the grain fields in this vicinity have improved wonderfully. Still they do not look as well as is usual at this date. Considerable loss in grain and fences has been sustained along the river by reason of the late freshet. Some of the most promising crops in this township were completely inundated and destroyed.

Contrary to our expectations the bridge here was not swept away, but it is left in a badly crippled condition. Our Town Supervisors, if they had the authority to do so would probably close it against travel until it can be repaired. It is unsafe and from being in constant use is liable to go down at any time.

RUNAWAY.—Mr. Bolan and family while descending the hill north of town, a few days since, narrowly escaped injury. His horses became frightened from some derangement in the harness and began to kick and run. Mr. B. managed to hold them back until Mrs. B. and her youngest child got out, when they broke away from him and ran furiously towards the bridge with a boy, some 8 or 10 years of age, in the wagon. Fortunately they became disengaged from the wagon before reaching the bridge, otherwise the boy must have been seriously hurt if not instantly killed.

From Montana—Drowning of General Thos. Francis Meagher.

VIRGINIA CITY, Montana, July 5.—General Thos. Francis, Meagher, Secretary and Acting Governor of this Territory, accidentally fell from the deck of the steamer Thomson, at Fort Benton, on the evening of the 1st instant and was drowned. He had been absent for the past fortnight on public business and had succeeded in procuring arms for the troops engaged in defence of the Territory and transacting other military business demanded by our present emergency. His death is greatly lamented and the public demonstrations in honor of his distinguished character and services are generally felt. At last accounts, his remains had not been found. The darkness of the night and the rapidity of the current prevented any rescue.

—Gen. Sickles, as commander of the second military district of the South, has tendered his resignation, on the ground that he finds his official conduct censured in Attorney General Stanberry's opinion, and virtually endorsed by the President. The acceptance of his resignation has not been announced.

—The Secretary of War has ordered the issue of 1,000 breech loading arms and 50,000 cartridges from Leavenworth arsenal to the Union Pacific Railway Company, Kansas Branch, to enable their engineers and working parties to protect themselves against Indian attacks. The Company have received 500 Spencer rifles for the same purpose.

Death of Judge Wayne.

Judge Wayne, one of the Associate Justices of the U. S. Supreme Court, died at Washington on Friday afternoon, July 5th of typhoid fever. His death was not unexpected. He was nearly 80 years of age and a citizen of Georgia, but has remained loyal during the war, and has since harmonized in his opinions with the Radical members of the Court. By an act of Congress of July last, for reducing the number of Judges, it is provided that "no vacancy in the office of Asso "ciate Justice of the Supreme Court shall be "filled by appointment until the number of "Associate Justices shall be reduced to six." The death of Justice Wayne, therefore, creates no vacancy, as the Court still has seven Associate Justices.

—A Woman named Mrs. Hines, of Winona, was found dead in her bed on the morning of the 3d inst., at 7 o'clock, with a little child, ten months old, crying to wake up its dead mother. A coroner's jury was called, and a post mortem examination was held, conducted by Dr. Staples. After the examination of several witnesses the jury were convinced that the deceased came to her death by an over dose of laudanum, taken as medicine. She was buried under direction of Coroner Ely—she having no friends to take charge of the funeral. Her husband had but recently deserted her.

The Yankton (Dakota) Union notes the arrival at that place of Mr. P. Hawes, the agent of Burbank & Co. for opening the new mail route between Blue Earth City and Yankton. Mr. Hawes was eight days in making the trip from Blue Earth City to Yankton. The Union says:

He represents the country through which he traveled as one of the garden spots of the Northwest, well watered, and a portion of the way, well timbered. Starting from Blue Earth City, Faribault county, Minn., the route leads directly west through the counties of Martin, Jackson, Noble and Rock to Sioux Falls City, Minne ha-ha county, Dakota, and thence in a southwest direction to Yankton. The total distance is 225 miles. Service will commence on the first of July, once a week—leaving Yankton and Blue Earth on Monday.

—The St. Paul Press announces the dissolution, by mutual consent, of the long established and wealthy firm of J. C. Burbank & Co., comprising the Minnesota Stage Company and formerly the Northwestern Express Company, by the retirement of Mr. Burbank and Col. Merriam and the transfer of the widely extended business of the Stage Company to a new firm, consisting of Capt. R. Blakely, one of the old partners, and Mr. Carpenter, who has for twelve years been the chief clerk and confidential business man of the Company, under the name and style of Blakely & Carpenter.

The high character and standing of this firm and the important part it has played in the business development of this city and State render this change an event of importance, and we regret that space does not permit us to give a more extended notice of its history.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - - JULY 12, 1867.

—Rev. Mr. Harlow of the Vermont conference, will preach at the Methodist Church of this city on next Sabbath.

STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Baptist Church would remind their friends of their Strawbery and Ice Cream Festival, to be held at their Church this (Friday) evening.

P. A. Wood, Sec'y

—The ladies of the Presbyterian Church will hold a Festival at the Baptist Church next Tuesday evening. Strawberries ice cream &c., will be furnished.

—Wool is bringing 30 to 35 cents per pound, one third off for unwashed. Flour is selling in barrels at $10 and in small sacks at $11 per barrel.

—Rev. T. Marshall exchanges pulpits with his brother Rev. Lyman Marshall of Traverse, next week. In the language of a cotemporary, we presume "the change will be very agreeable to both congregations."

—Messrs Buck & Freeman, Real Estate agents, sold this week for Wm. A. Ford, of Indiana, the se qr of section 13, in Butternut Valley to R. D. Williams for $900.

TEMPERENCE LECTURE.—Rev J. M. Pryse will deliver a lecture on temperence, at the Methodist Church on Monday evening next. The Good Templars will appear in their regalia at 7½ o'clock and the lecture commence at precisely a quarter before eight.

NOT SO.—Our Garden City correspondent wishes us to correct the statement, that Quayle & Friend's Yankee Mills were greatly damaged by the late flood. The damage proves to be slight, and the mill will soon be running again.

IMPROVEMENT.—The village Board invites bids for building side walks in front of certain lots in Blocks 3 and 4 on Front street. They are located below Stephen Lamm's store. Also for building a sewer across Front street, at Mulberry, which is near the large Davidson warehouse.

STEAMBOAT ARRIVALS.—

Sunday, " 7th, Mollie, St. Anthony Falls, from New Ulm, Monday " 8th, Chippewa Falls,

HANDSOME PRESENTS.—We are under obligation to C. P. Cook Esq. of Rapidan, for a fine dish of strawberries of the Wilson Albany variety. They were very large and finely flavored. Accompanying this present came also a beautiful boquet, which adds much to the graces of our parlor, and fills the vases anew.

SODA WATER.—That magnificent soda found at Wickersham & Co.'s, is in fine order and the syrups are fresh and pure. They have also introduced a syrup called cream syrup, which is pronounced unusually nice. When you want to cool off, it can be done very genteelly at Wickersham & Co.'s.

IMPROVEMENT IN SHELBYVILLE.—We learn that H. C. Howard of Garden City has formed a partnership with Messrs. Bishop & Thompson, late of Winthrop, Maine, and the new firm will erect a flouring mill in connection with Howard's saw mill, which is located on the farm of James Miller, on the Blue Earth, within about two miles of Shelbyville. The mill will be equipped for custom work and a lath and shingle mill will be connected with the establishment. Several houses will be built for the accomodation of tenants, and the entire improvements are estimated at $15,000.

NEW DRESS.—The Record appeared last week in a new dress, and is enlarged to a seven column sheet. It has really a fine appearance, and we congratulate our cotemporary, upon the flattering omens of success, as announced in his paper. Its size is now the same as the UNION and its similarity to it, in typographical arrangement, is the subject of remark. The head is sunk, with rates on one side, and name of proprietor on the other. Lower case bold face is used to head reprint, and caps for original matter. Local matter has "small caps" side heads, and "local notices" are placed in a separate column. This has been the style of the UNION for some months, and we are complimented in knowing that the Record has adopted the same arrangement, and that his patrons pronounce his paper "greatly improved." They are as near alike as two peas, and it requires more than a superficial glance to distinguish the one from the other.

BEAUTIFUL FALLS.—It has been stated by a few persons that there was a fall across the river, some six miles above Mankato, which surpassed even the far famed Minneinneopa. Mr. R. W. Bebee, the photographist, of this place, in company with Jesse Hawley, on last Saturday week, to satisfy himself of the truth of the rumor, took his apparatus with him and went in search. He had no trouble in finding the spot, and was surprised to find the statement more than verified. The sheet of water is heavy, and the fall is seventy or eighty feet. It falls from a stupendous rock, which projects forward of the bluff rock, forming a beautiful dry cavity behind the sheet of water. Mr. Bebee gave it the name of "Minnaenichanoona," which means, "lonely waters." Then taking the view with his instrument, he returned and completed a photograph of the falls, which may be seen in his gallery.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The Democrats of Blue Earth county met in delegate convention at the American House on Saturday last, to elect delegates to the State Convention, which was held at St. Paul on Wednesday last. Judge Brown was elected to the chair, and Evans Goodrich appointed Secretary. The following persons were elected delegates: J. C Wise, J. A. Wiswell, D. Buck, J. W. Hoerr, John Simpson and Geo. W. Neff. Harmony was very apparent, but the enthusiasm mentioned in the Record as characterizing the democratic heart, didn't come to time. The loud talk of the party and their hollow notes which they pretended to sing of a coming victory, are not in keeping with the action of the delegates. They all, except one, displayed a masterly activity by staying at home, and allowing the St. Paul convention to take care of itself. It is said that one of them has been urgently solicited to be a candidate for Lieut-Governor, but he declined on the ground that he would get too much pork for a shilling—that is, that the honor of being "scooped" would not pay for the power. If the democratic heart has been fired, the flames have failed to reach this part of their moral (?) vineyard—so we should judge from the lates observations.

LOCAL POLITICS.—As the time for our county republican convention approaches, we notice that candidates for the various officers begin to thicken. For the information of the public we give a summary of street reports of candidates which are tolerably reliable. For the Senate Hon. Lewis Porter is a candidate for reelection. E. P. Freeman is mentioned for that office in certain contingencies. For the House Hon. John A. Reed of Sterling is a candidate for reelection, and E. P. Freeman of this city is mentioned as his colleague. We have heard nothing from Watonwan upon this subject. For county Treasurer, Chas. S. Dunscomb appears quite prominent. We understand also that Major Smith, Henry Shaubut, Esq., of the bank of Lewis Shaubut & Co., James Thompson of Garden City L. L. Davis and Mr. Isaac Cheshier are also candidates. For Register of Deeds Col. B. F. Smith is said to be a candidate though we are not sure of it. Mr. Isaac Cheshier would not object to the nomination. He is a Welchman, late of Milwaukee, of good personal address and is employed in Mark's store. For Sheriff Ben. D. Pay is said to be in the field. Also W. J. Martin the present Deputy and Dan. Tyner. Of Probate Judge we have heard nothing. The office is not much in demand.

There is a rumor that L. G. M. Fletcher of Mankato and D. C. Evans of South Bend have an itching Senate ward, and that Tom. Pugh wants to be Sheriff. We are not fully advised of their aspirations however. They do not seem to be so closely allied to the party as the other gentlemen above mentioned, and we are therefore not so well posted concerning them.

SALES OF WINNEBAGO TRUST LANDS.—The awards of the Winnebago Trust Lands, which were advertised last winter to be sold by sealed bids, have at last been made. The lands of this county are located in the towns of Buford, Lyra, and Medo. In Waseca county also there are some of the same lands. About 30,000 acres were offered, 24,000 in Blue Earth, and 6,000 in Waseca. As usual Willard & Barney, are the largest successful bidders. Of those to whom awards have been made we mention the following: Willard & Barney 8,000 acres, Dr. W. F. Lewis 4,100, Stephen Lamm 500, J. R. Tinkcom 400, J. W. Hoerr 320, O. O. Pitcher 210, Mr. Cheshier 189, E. P. Freeman 80. It is also thought that Gilbert Webster, living on the Maple river, has received some awards, also a few individuals who are living near the lands. The bids ranged as high as $7 per acre, and as low as $1 25, and we presume much lower, though no awards have yet been made at a lower figure. Probably the average bid would be about $2 50 for fair lands, Willard & Barney are already in the market, offering their lands for sale, and we presume other purchasers will be willing to sell at a slight advance upon cost.

BASE BALL MATCH.—The North Star Club of St. Paul, to the number of fourteen members arrived per Mollie, on Wednesday morning last, and were taken in charge by the Frontier club who assigned rooms for them at the Clifton and Mankato Hotels. The morning was spent in visiting the Minneinneopa falls, which our guests declare far surpass in beauty and romance any falls in the State. At two o'clock, a crowd in carriages and under awnings to the number of seven or eight hundred persons had gathered to witness the match game. The band under the direction of B. Sibley entertained the people with some excellent music, while Wallace had a large run on soda, lemonade, &c. Capt. Howe of Owatonna was chosen Umpire and Messrs. John Wilson, and Ira S. Smith were the scorers. Frontier Club had the first innings and the result of the game we give in the subjoined table.

North Star	5	2	6	5	13	2	17	2	5	57
Frontier	0	3	1	4	1	2	0	1	2	14

In this table the column marked "O" gives the number of times the person whose name is opposite the figure was caught out or put out. The column "R" denotes the number of rounds on the bases each individual made. The club making the greatest number of rounds is the winner. Each side has 9 innings, and the lower table gives the number of rounds in each inning of each club. It will be seen that the North Star Club made 57 rounds to 14 for the Frontier. It was expected that our Club would be severely beaten but it was hoped that our boys would at least play with their usual skill. The batting of our boys was unusually poor, so that but few rounds were made at each inning. The fielding was better but not in the aggregate as good as we have seen on other occasions. It was like raw recruits meeting war worn veterans, and they were not altogether at ease with their antagonists. We must mention that Walter Fowler on the 2d base, played both as a fielder and batter, with great skill and coolness. A. S. White the pitcher is a vigorous and skillful player and in his position did admirably well He and Morton Wilkinson and C. Pratt made the greatest number of rounds, and Mr. Pratt made two very nice fly catches. DeGroodt caught the ball well but did not throw or bat well. Nothing worthy of special notice was observed of the other players; in fact they fell below their usual skill.

Among the Star Club were five brothers, one the scorer, and the other four in the game, named Wilson, the sons, we believe, of W. L. Wilson, Esq., late Assessor of the 2d Congressional District. The club are in splendid drill, and their experience has so far given them the position of the champions of the State. This game will be of benefit to our club, and we venture a year hence that they be nearly a match for them.

In the evening at Shoemaker's Hall a large party assembled in honor of our St. Paul friends, and with appropriate music the dance was extended far into the night. With the best of feeling the Clubs parted company yesterday morning and the North Star left on the Mollie for St. Paul.

BANK CONTRACT LET.—The bids for the erection of Lewis, Shaubut & Co.'s Banking house, were opened on Saturday last. There were five bidders, namely: Henry Hartman, Boardman & Wampler, L. J. Lewis, Haupt & Rausch, and Joshua Burgess. The highest bid was $6,225 and the lowest, which was the bid of Henry Hartman, was $5,575, to whom the contract was awarded as the lowest bidder. A stone vault base will be built in the cellar, with brick vault above with walls 22 inches thick. The vault will be finished in the strongest and latest approved style, and will be both fire and burglar proof. The building is 50 feet by 22, three stories high. The first story will be occupied by the bank firm. The second by a law office in front, and the Mankato UNION office immediately adjoining. The third story is rented by the Odd Fellows' organization of this city. The front of first story including pillars, is to be of cut stone, modeled after a tasty design. The building including lot and bank furniture will cost about $8,000.

—We asked Mr. Marshall about his missionary labors at the Lager Beer Garden on last Sabbath. After giving us a brief account of his visit he wished us to ask some of our Christian friends if they know where their children spend the Sabbath.

MITE SOCIETY.—The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their Mite Society at the church, on Wednesday evening of next week. Ice cream and peaches will be served.

BE ON YOUR GUARD

against the imitations and counterfeits of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with which the pirates who make a dishonorable living, by preying upon the sick and suffering, are now endeavoring to flood the markets of this country. Whenever these poison-mongers are discovered they are immediately prosecuted by the proprietors, who expend thousands of dollars annually in tracing them out and bringing them to justice. Within a short time injunctions have been obtained in the Courts of the United States against a number of individuals and firms, and suits are now in progress against several others, all of whose names will be given to the public. But in spite of the utmost vigilance and activity of their detective agents, the undersigned are of course unable to protect the public entirely against piratical imitations of a Standard National Tonic, everywhere in request, and as readily convertible into cash as United States Bonds or Treasury Notes. They, therefore, as a measure of precaution, direct attention to the fact that a finely engraved label, representing St. George and the Dragon, and a beautiful proprietary stamp, bearing the official endorsement of the Government, appear on every bottle of the genuine Bitters. The article is further authenticated by a miniature note of hand, with the signature of "Hostetter & Smith," to counterfeit which is state prison crime. The true Bitters are sold in bottles only, and never in bulk.

Santa Anna's Fates and mishaps.

Poor old SANTA ANNA has apparently come to grief. For some months he has been living upon Staten Island, changing his abode from time to time, and under some kind of surveillance. The inference from the various stories published is that he was the object of a conspiracy of sharpers, one party trying to secure him from the claws of another. What is tolerably evident is that he left New York toward the end of May, in the steamer Virginia, and, landing for a night at Vera Cruz, he conferred with friends, and the garrison was ready next morning to proclaim the republic, and Santa Anna General-in-Chief. Thereupon Captain Rowe, of the American navy, with an English naval captain, boarding the Virginia, in which Santa Anna was a passenger, ordered him to the United States steamer Tacony, and threatened force if he refused. Santa Anna, protesting, obeyed. Captain Rowe told Captain Deaken, of the Virginia, that he was merely removing Santa Anna to prevent bloodshed, and that he might have him again if he would call next day at Sacrificios, and take the old gentleman either to Havana or New York. This Captain Deaken punctually did. He received Santa Anna, and, sailing for Havana, stopped at Sisal, when, lo! a deputation from the Mexican republican gunboats came on board and urgently demanded the passenger. Captain Deaken replied that Santa Anna had been intrusted to him by Captain Rowe, of the United States steamer Tacony, to be carried to Havana, and that he should not surrender him except to force; upon which the gun-boat commander sent a file of men on board the Virginia, and despite the protests of Captain Deaken that they were insulting the flag of the United States, they seized Santa Anna and carried him away. The next day the Virginia left Sisal, and arrived at Havana on the 15th of June.

This is an extraordinary story. Yet it is apparently true; and there is no government in Mexico at present to which the United States can look for redress if it shall appear that they wish to demand it. First of all, however, Captain Rowe will have to explain his interference with a peaceful passenger sailing under the flag of the United States, thereby exposing him possibly to mortal peril. If he can show his authority perhaps the gun boats can show theirs. But whether they can or not it is very necessary for us that there be some kind of authority in Mexico to which we can appeal; for if the conduct of Mexicans shows that they are banditti who run out like Algerine pirates upon quiet foreign ships, they must be treated like pirates, and their lairs broken up. Of course, however, in the present situation of the country the utmost allowance will be made. Santa Anna was undoubtedly an unwelcome if not dangerous passenger. But that does not justify the conduct of Captain Rowe, or of the British Captain, or of the Republicans of Sisal. Every thing from Mexico, however, is so romantic and obscure that we must wait patiently to know the facts.—Harper's Weekly. July 6th.

MEXICO.

NEW YORK, July 3.—Vera Cruz dates to the 21st and Sisal to the 22d ultimo are received.

The capitulation of the former places was about being signed.

General Tabada had given up the command, and Merida capitulated on the 20th ultimo. This was the last stronghold possessed by the Empire.

General Espejo, military commander of the garrison, N. Govantes, Civil Governor, and N. Ponce, Governor of Carmen Island, were shot on the morning of the 20th.

General Santa Anna was kept a prisoner at Campeachy. Important documents had been found on his person and a vigilant look-out was kept over his movements.

The Heralds special says Baron Magnas, the Prussian Minister, arrived at Queretaro the day before the execution, and immediately transmitted by telegraph a formal protest to Juarez which was received at half past 9 o'clock in the evening of the same day, and in reply to which the following was transmitted:—

SAN LUIS POTOSI, June 18—10:10 p. m.
To Baron A V. Magnas, at Queretaro:

I am very sorry to say to you, in answer to your telegram which you have been pleased to send me this night, that as I had expressed to you the day before yesterday, the President of the Republic is not of the opinion that it is possible to grant the pardon of Maximilian, of Hapsburg, consistent with the great considerations of justice and the necessity of insuring the future peace of the Republic.

Very respectfully, &c.,
S. LERDO DE TEJADA.

No authentic news has yet arrived as to the disposition of Maximilian's body.

The trial of Page, the murderer of his wife and brother-in-law, terminated yesterday, at Laporte, Indiana. The jury was out about twenty-four hours, the contest being between the friends of the death penalty and those who were in favor of imprisonment instead. The latter carried the day, and a verdict was agreed upon condemning the murderer to imprisonment for life.—Chicago Tribune June 3d.

—At the meeting of the State Normal Board at Winona, on the 26th inst., the zealous and efficient President of the Board, Dr. John D. Ford, tendered his resignation of that position on account of failing health. It was accepted with great regret by the Board, as will be heard of with deep regret by the public at large. To Dr. Ford, probably more than to all others, the Normal School at Winona, which was organized by him, owes its present prosperous condition. His successor is Wm. S. Drew, of Winona.—Press June 30th.

—The patriotic citizens of the State of Michigan have subscribed a handsome fund for the erection of a suitable monument to its dead soldiers and sailors killed in the late war. The corner stone was laid at Detroit on the Fourth. The design of the monument, which will stand on the Campus Martius in the city of Detroit, was furnished by the distinguished American sculptor, Randolph Rogers. It will cost $50,000.

—A quantity of new flour was received in Chicago, July 1st, from the Union Mills, at Dongola, Union County, Illinois. This is the first arrival of the season.

—Information received at the Agricultural Bureau, fully confirm the previous reports of a superior wheat crop this year. It is believed the yield will be fully two hundred million bushels.

CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES.

TO CURE CONSUMPTION, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS cleanse the stomach of all bilious or mucous accumulations; and, by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP is nutricious as well as medicinal, and, by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good, wholesome blood made, which will repel all disease. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, Consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhoea they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well. [2nd w. ea. mo. 1 yr.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC (OR DOUBLE SPRING) SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring Skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

being adapted to any music, from the quickest and most lively, to the heavy tone of the Church Organ. And almost universally they are prefered to the Piano, by persons who have them, yet cost as less than half, and only taking a small amount of room.

PEEPING THROUGH THE BLINDS.

In place of books or work, or even play,
Some of our ladies spend the entire day,
Minutely scanning every passer by,
And various wonders they no doubt descry,
They find among the jostling motley crowd,
That some are very gay, and some are proud,
Some are short and some are tall,
They get their information, all
By peeping through the blinds.

You walk the street—a moderate pace,
You catch the outline of a lady's face,
The face seems strange, again you look,
Dear, sir, she knows you like a book,
She knows the exact color of your hair,
Your eyes, the style of clothes you wear,
She knows your occupation, I'll be bound,
As well as all your friends the country round,
By peeping through the blinds.

Fair ladies if you don't succeed,
In gaining all the knowledge that you need,
Why don't you at the window take your seat,
And gaze into the ever busy street.
Full soon, your neighbors you can read right well,
And all their private tastes, and habits tell,
In point of fact, you'll know them to a T,
Full better than you do yourself, you see,
By peeping through the blinds.

LETTERS FROM MINNESOTA.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 7--'Gone, Gone to the War'.

V——, Sept. 15, 1861.

DEAR KATE.—I received your welcome letter some time ago, and should have answered it sooner, had not my head been in such a confusion, and then, it being the last week of school my time has been mostly occupied in preparing the scholars for examination.

I have something so strange to tell you, Kate, you will hardly believe it, I know; it does not seem possible, even to me, until—, but I am anticipating.

A week ago last Friday night, as usual, I went home, that is, to Mr. Howard's. With shaker in hand, I tiptoed into the back door, with the intent to surprise my good friend Mrs. Howard; for here, I do indeed feel at home, and when Friday night came round, it has been such a relief to cast "dull care" to the winds, and be Mollie, gay Mollie again.

I was just ready to utter some exclamation, that I knew would startle her, when she turned round with such a look of pain on her face, that I was instantly sobered.

"What is it, dear, Mrs. Howard, what is the matter?" and then, coming forward to give a kiss of welcome, she told me that her brother had enlisted "for three years or during the war," and on the morrow was to start for the fort.

"Oh," she said, the tears springing to her eyes, "if he should be killed, or die of disease, away from all who love him, his sisters' heart would break."

But I smiled at her fears, told her that I thought the war could not last more than a year, and that when her brother came home covered with glory, she would be so proud of him.

And as I went to put up my reticule, I was secretly glad that this man showed his nobility in thus going to put down this rebellion.

He was standing at one of the vine covered windows as I entered the parlor, "And so you are going to the war," I said going toward him; and I know there was no pain, but rather exultation in my voice.

He turned as I spoke, but I shrank back, startled by his look and manner; but stepping forward, he detained me, and taking my hands gazed down into my face, with a look that seemed to read my soul, and then he spoke, quick and passionately, while waves of emotion swept over his face.

"Yes, Mollie, 'tis ignoble for me to stay at home, when my country calls so loudly on her sons to help her in this awful hour of danger. And, too, you would think me a coward, were I to remain here, enjoying the rights that others are fighting to maintain; nay, do not shake your curly head, your voice said, if your words did not, that you was glad that I had manhood enough to take up arms for my country, and that you were pleased that I was going."

"Oh, Mr. Ellis," I said, for somehow, those last words sounded harsh to my ear.

"Was I wrong, oh, tell me Mollie, will you feel any regret when you say 'Good bye,' perhaps forever?"

I was startled, more by his manner than his words, for I had never seen this man so moved.

He did not wait for my answer but went on hurridly, "Mollie, I fear it is selfish, perhaps wrong, but I must tell you how I love you, almost with an idolatrous love, how I have fought against it, you were so young to choose, or to be bound to one grown grave with years and care. But I must know what my fate is to be, should I ever return, whether you could learn to love me; oh, Mollie, darling will you not answer me?"

I had stood white and trembling, until he asked me "whether I could learn to love him," and then the truth for the first time flashed through my mind, that my heart had been going out to this man until I had almost grown to worship him, I shrank back, abashed at the discovery and tried to disengage my hands, that I might hide my flushed face from those searching eyes; but oh, they had divined my secret, and—— but dear me Kate, what have I been writing, there I'll not tell you another thing, only, by and by, I thought of that white face, lit up by the storm gleam, that I had seen that fearful day on the lake, and as I remembered the look of hate that for the moment disfigured it, I spoke up, "And Florence?"

"I have never loved. Once I admired her, her marvelous beauty had such a witching spell; but in time was the veil torn from my eyes, and I saw her as she was, a heartless coquette." And then again he said "you are so young yet, Mollie, your heart may deceive you; three years is a long, long time, and before my term of enlistment is out, you may find that your love for me, was only a girlish fancy, and that you care more for some one else," a shudder ran over his face. "if that should be the case, I would not hold you to any promise now made, for I love you too well to sacrifice your happiness to mine."

He is a noble man, Kate, and honor itself. How Dale Ellis, rich in wisdom, and versed in the ways of the world, should ever have fancied poor little me, is beyond my ken. Do you wonder that I had something strange to tell you?

He came back on a few days furlough last Friday noon, so that he was present at the afternoon exercises of the school; and to-morrow, he will take me home from these scenes, where I have enjoyed so much. My heart is almost sick with the longing to see the dear ones at home again, to hear father's cherry voice, and mother's, so full of tenderness, and their Mollie, will go home to them, wiser, happier, and I hope better, than the hoidenish little girl who came to V——, "to teach the young ideas to shoot."

I think I was justly proud of the proficiency manifested by my pupils during the examination. Several of the girls' essays, were far above mediocrity. There was a large attendance of visitors, and parents and friends seemed to take the liveliest interest in the progress manifested by the scholars. It was a smile of commendation, that Mr. Ellis, (he says I must call him Dale, now,) gave me as he said, "Well, little Mollie, I was right when I said, that I saw the elements of a good teacher in you; you have succeeded admirably."

Oh, this is such a dreamy afternoon, not a sound to break the stillness except the "hum hum" of the flies; I feel more like taking a nap than finishing up this letter, but I must hurry, as Mrs. Howard says that "it is allmost time for evening meeting."

I can hardly realize that this is my last evening in V—, and, though I shall be glad to be at home again, and, though I know not in what direction my path may diverge, this summer, with its clustering memories, will be as a bright spot in my lifes' pathway. I wonder if there will ever be any dark ones. Life, thus far, has seemed like one long summer day, with scarce a cloud to dim its brightness. Some croaker might say, "if the day has been long, the night surely draws near." Perhaps, but time enough to be miserable, when sorrow comes.

Write again, soon, Katie, just such another as your last, full of good words, and news from the old home.

My compliments to those, brave boys, our old school mates, who have just enlisted in their country's service. Pray God, they may soon return, unscathed, with the rebellion crushed, to their homes.

Much love from
MOLLIE.

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

Evidence Introduced by the Defence.

WASHINGTON, July 9.

The attendance at the Criminal Court room grows larger and larger every day, and a large number of those who have special permits were unable even to get a standing place inside the bar this morning. A good deal of evidence was introduced tending to show that John Lee is not a man of truth and veracity. He was one of the Government witnesses, formerly a detective under the Provost Marshal of this city, who swore to seeing Surratt here between four and five o'clock on the afternoon of the day of the assassination. Impartial observers were not favorably impressed by Lee when he appeared on the stand.

Two or three witnesses were also called to show that Rhodes, who swears to seeing and talking with Surratt in the theatre box a little before noon on that Friday, tells a falsehood. They testified that a rehearsal was going on then, and any stranger in the theatre would have been seen; but there is a wide difference among the witnesses as to when the rehearsal began and ended. Some say it began about noon, which was after the time Rhodes says he saw Surratt; others that it began about ten, when it might have been over when Rhodes was in the theatre.

Some further evidence was also offered to break the force of what was said by Sergeant Bye, and Cooper, about talking with Mrs. Surratt at her parlor window while on the way out to camp after the assassination. Dye didn't remember about the moon, but swears that the night was light enough for him to see that it was a large woman who spoke to them. The defence called a witness to prove that it was quite dark at this time; but one said on cross-examination that it was light enough to see persons forty or fifty feet away, while the distance between a person on the sidewalk and a person in the window of that house is not over sixteen or eighteen feet. An attempt was also made to show that no conversation could have taken place. But cross-examination brought out the fact that the witness was just around a corner, and over eighty feet distant, which rather took a point from his testimony and opinions.

MEXICO.

THE FATE OF SANTA ANNA.

NEW YORK, July 8.—A special to the Express from Washington, June 8th, says it is understood that the Government will demand satisfaction for the arrest of Santa Anna. The Captain and officers make oath that the Virginia was anchored three and a half miles or one-half mile over the prescribed marine league, from the landing at Sisal.

It is not believed here that Santa Anna has been shot, as he was at Campeachy, the capitol of Yucatan, the day before the alleged shooting, and Sisal, where he is reported killed, is 128 miles from Campeachy. Government has sent a vessel to Sisal and Vera Cruz for reliable facts.

WASHINGTON, July 8.—Senor Romero does not credit the rumor that General Santa Anna was shot at Sisal on the 25th ult. M. Romero has received an official letter from the Governor of Yucatan, dated at Morida June 21, stating that General Santa Anna was arrested at Sisal on the 11th and sent the next day to Campeachy to be kept in prison there until President Juarez should dispose of him. The Governor of Campeachy, in an official letter dated June 15, states that General Santa Anna had arrived there, and that he would be kept in prison. Accordingly, there is therefore no probability that he had been tried from the 15th to the 25th ult., and much less that he would have been shot.

NEW ORLEANS, July 10.—An official report transmitted to the Mexican Consul here states that President Juarez and his cabinet would leave San Luis Potosi on the 1st inst., for the capitol, where he would be received with great pomp, as the deliverer of his country, and the defender of Republican principles in Mexico.

The officers and men of the Imperial army recently landed at Mobile, have arrived here, and will be furnished transportation to New York, if desired.

—Information has been received at the Department of the Interior showing that the massacre at Fort Phil. Kearney was caused by a military order establishing military posts without the consent of the Indians on the Montana road, by powder River and Big Horn, and the Cheyenne war grew out of the approach of our troops. The Indians, it is stated, deserted the village which was afterwards destroyed, fearing they would again be treated as they were by Captain Irvington in December, 1866.

Railroad Gopher Bonds.

On the 17th of March, 1858, The Minnesotian was laboring to protect the people against the lailroad swindle"(as it was familiarly called in those days) and charged the legislature, then just adjourned, with a design to foster a debt on the Stae for which her people were to be taxed This charge drew forth a document, signed by the memoers of the legislature, in which the following sentences occur:

"We voted for the loan measure, with the "belief and the determination that there "should be no tax either for interest or principal. * * * We would one and all, "have voted against the measure, if we had "not deemed it certain, in the language of "the bill, that the State treasury was exoner-"ated from any advances of money, either "for interest or pricipal on the State bonds. " * * * * * We found, also, that "other American States had loaned their "credit for railroads to an aggregate amount "of not less than one hundred millions, often "with less, and never with more, security "than we required; and there is not a single "instance on record where a dollar of taxa-"tion has been levied or paid therefor."

This document has the following names appended to it, viz: Samuel Hull, W. K. Tattersall, R. G. Murphy, Albert Tuttle, E. N. Bates, J. C. Frost, O. W. Streeter, Thomas Cowan, Geo. L. Otis, W. MAXIMILIAN.

The New York papers are widely at variance in relation to the rightfulness of the execution of poor Max. The Times is fiercely ferocious towards the Mexican authorities for shooting. The Herald takes a sensational view of the question, and insists that Gen. Sheridan shall be ordered forthwith to invade Mexico at the head of 100,000 troops and conquer and annex the country. The Tribune denounces the Juarez Government as "blood thirsty," and utters maledictions against it. On the other hand the Independent, looking at the question from a benevolent and Christian point of view, comes to the following grave conclusions:

"The death penalty is the prevailing law in the United States and Mexico. This being the case, on what criminals shall this law be executed? Shall obscure culprits taste the bitterness of a bitter fate, and illustrious offenders go free. Shall a great nation, in meting out the punishment of death, say to the world; 'The murderer of a man shall be hung; but the assassin of a nation shall be pardoned?'

"The two greatest criminals of the 19th century have been Jefferson Davis and Maximilian. The one was guilty of treason against his own country; the other, of usurpation over an alien people. If it is ever justifible to punish any criminal with death, the American Government ought to have executed Jefferson Davis, as the Mexicau Government has executed Maximilian.

A Singular and Important Law Suit in Missouri.

From the St. Joseph (Mo.) Union.

A heavy and important law suit has been filed in the Court of Common Pleas, wherein Elias Stokes is plaintiff and a prominent and wealthy citizen of St. Joseph, defendant. The plaintiff, alleges that he was born a slave of Brice Stokes in Andrew County, Missouri; that Brice Stokes died leaving a will, by which plaintiff was made free, and by which provisions were made for his education, and considerable property bequeathed to him; that defendant kidnapped him and sold him as a slave at the South, where he was doomed to servitude for nearly fourteen years. He alleges that he is damaged in the sum of one hundred thousand dollars, and asks judgment accordingly. We know nothing of the merits of the case, and therefore we withhold the name of the defendant. The plaintiff alleges that he was taken first to Louisiana and thence to Texas, where he suffered the ills that usually fall to the lot of a "down river" plantation hand. If the action is based on substantial ground, this case will create more excitement in the community than any which has came before the court in years.

—The long-looked-for-location of the W. & St. P. R. R. Depot in this county became a reality last week. The depot grounds are to be laid out the present and coming week, near the point where the R. R. crosses the Freeborn, Wilton and Faribault road, on the premises of Mr. I. C. Trowbridge, commonly known as the Myer's farm. The village plat is to be surveyed at the same time, on the north side of the R. R. track. The depot grounds will be about three-fourths of a mile southeast of Clear-Lake, a beautiful sheet of water, peculiarly calculated to furnish pleasure and recreation to those who may dwell upon its borders, or stop for a time in its neighborhood.

We are assured that the cars will run as far as to this point by the first of September, and that the company will have the elevator completed in time for the fall wheat trade. The road will probably be extended no further west this season.—Wilton News July 4th.

—The President has sent the first telegram forwarded to Gen. Sheridan since the removal of Gov. Wells, in which he directs him to extend the time of registration in his district to the first of August. General Sheridan had previously fixed on the 10th of July. The President declared that he based his action on the ground that the registration would last in other States until after that time.

—In the presence of the students of Yale College on Thursday, Mr. Johnson avowed that he thought he "had mistaken his vocation. Indian War Estimate.

The estimate made at General Grant's headquarters show the present expenditures in prosecuting the Indian war are fully one million dollars per week. In case it is determined to inaugurate a vigorous campaign, expenditures will soon be needed to meet the wants of the increased force of about five millions per week. Thus far, since the trouble began, every Indian killed has cost the Government over a million dollars and the lives of about ten white men. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs is very anxious that Congress shall give him authority to send a Cammissioner to treat with the tribes, as his information leads him to believe that the difficulties can be settled by such Commission within three months. As Congress at the last session passed an act forbidding sending out any Commission until money had been expressly appropriated, Colonel Taylor cannot move in the matter. The argument involved in the immense expense of the war having weight with Senators, it is probable that a resolution restricting the work of the session may be suspended, to consider the several points connected with Indian affairs; among others that of raising two or three regiments of mounted men west of the river.

—The walls of the Nromal School building upon the foundations of which sarcasm and sportive humor sufficient to supply the students of that establishment for two generations to come has been gratuitously expended are at length assumeing an upright contition. There is now at work an efficient force of mechanics laying that portion of the basement above the first water-table, the material used for which is hewed stone, very handsomely dressed, and presenting in the walls an appearance at once solid and attractive. The Prudential Committee of the institution have advertised to recieve proposals for the materials and labor necssrry to enclose the building, which will probably be done before the close of the present season. The scarcity of brick has rendered any earlier beginning impracticable.

—From Houston, Texas, comes an account of the last hours and execution of Maximilian, Mejia and Miramon. It is stated that they were neither blindfolded nor bound, and no indignities were offered them. Before being shot, Maximilian recaptulated the causes that brought him to Mexico, denied the jurisdiction of the court that tried him, and expressed the hope that his death would stop the effusion of blood. He requested the sergeant of the guard to see that the soldiers shot him in the heart. Five balls entered his breast, but did not cause immediate death, and two other soldiers were ordered to shoot him in the side; and thus he was dispatched. His last words were: "Poor Carlotta!"

—Messrs. Vanderbrock Brothers, American bankers at Paris, have suspended payment. They ask from their creditors a year to enable them to pay to each one half of the money due to them. The depositors having money in the concern, suffered very much. The Messrs. V. were favorite bankers with American rebels of the Southern States, and the leading men of the Jeff. DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.

The State convention of the copperheads of Minnesota took place last week Wednesday, at St. Paul. There was but little balloting and less contest in selecting their ticket. As we predicted last week Flandreau was nominated for Governor, and the bond issue was smothered. The cause of ignoring this issue was the fact that the leading Democrats of the State including the Pioneer are quite willing to saddle the State with a debt of four million dollars, all for the sake of a percentage of the spoils which they expect to get into their own pockets. Another reason is that the people, in some cases, who sent them there instructed them to act against the bond proposition if they acted at all. They chose not to act at all because they were personally in favor of the swindle. They were afraid to declare against the will of the people, and still more afraid to incur the displeasure of those who hold the bonds, and seek their assistance to carry out the swindle.

Their resolutions were a series of high sounding words, well calculated in part to deceive, while in other respects they are plain and pointed. The republican party is indicted for treason, corruption, usurpation, despotism and almost every other crime, a catalogue of which is readily furnished by holding their own leaders up to the mirror.

They attempt to steal republican thunder by denying the right of a State to secede: asserting that the constitution is the supreme law of the land: that the southern States should be represented in Congress: that the tariff should not discriminate against the agricultural States and in favor of manufacturing States, and that national bonds should be taxed. They emphatically declare that this Government was made alone for the white man, though this resolution was finally stricken out on the grounds of policy. They are opposed to the reconstruction measures of Congress, and are in favor of "Brick Pomeroy" and especially Geo. H. Pendleton who is proud to say that he never voted a dollar to save his country. They declare against the constitutional amendment which goes before the people to strike from the constitution the word "white" which will give all men an equal right of suffrage. And this they call democracy. Websters' definition of a democrat is, "one who favors the extension of the right of suffrage to all classes of men." Retaining the name, with the professed principles of the party, is a barefaced lie too patent to deceive those who are not the dupes of party prejudice or the serfs of party discipline. Another feature in the platform is an opposition to a prohibitory liquor law. We give below the names of the candidates, the most of whom have already a war record which is a disgrace to themselves, and a stain of disloyalty which should defeat them at the polls by an overwhelming verdict of the republican sentiment of the State.

Gov.—Chas. E. Flandreau, of Hennepin.
Lt. Gov.—Arba E. Maynard, of LeSueur.
Sec. of State.—Amos Coggswell, of Steele.
Att'y General.—A. G. Chatfield, of Scott.
State Treas.—Jno. Fredericks, of Goodhue.

THE WAY ITS DONE.

The Southern Minnesota Railroad Company, says the Homestead, have secured a deed of 64,000 acres of deficiency lands, to make good the alternate sections which the company could not get on the line of road between Houston and Rushford, on account of prior settlement by private individuals. Their grant gives them, first, each alternate section for ten miles on either side of the surveyed line of the road, except where such sections have been previously settled upon, and in such cases the deficiency may be made up by chosing alternate sections outside the ten mile limit. It will be remembered that the last Legislature compelled the company to build the road to certain points, such as Albert Lea and Blue Earth City which would bring the road only about ten miles from the State line and parellel with it so that no deficiency lands could be had south of the road. It seems that to get these lands the company have established a survey further north and pointing toward Winnebago City and the Homestead therefore concludes that the road will be built to Winnebago City. The South West, however, of Blue Earth city takes the wind out of its sails by publishing a letter from Gov. Marshall explanatory of the movement. The Governor says that the rules and precedents of the Land Department at Washington allow of a change of location of line of road any where within the ten mile limits—formerly six mile limits. This variation of constructed road from located line is allowed without disturbing the selection and classification of land. The changes of survey of S. M. Road in order to meet with requirements of the act of last winter, it is claimed, will not exceed the limits allowed. In other words the company can survey and locate their line a few miles further north than they intend it shall be built, and from this line select the deficiency lands, then change the location back on a line with the points which they are compelled to reach by the act of the Legislature. Upon the ruling of the Land Department at Washington it is quite as easy for the Winona & St. Peter Railroad Company to vary their line 3½ miles, and run into Mankato, and still save their land grant. We believe this ruling is a key to the action which will be taken by that company in reference to building their road to this city.

BOND QUESTION WORKING.

At the Democratic caucus in Eagle Creek which forms a part of the village of Shakopee, and in which Senator Baxter resides, the bond question came in direct issue in electing Baxter to the County Convention. It was well known that he has boldly advocated their payment, and has held it as only a question of time, even if the proposition before the people is defeated. The Eagle Creek caucus was a unit in opposition to the bonds, and Major Murphy, who was one of the signers of the document published on our first page, was disposed to know what colors Baxter was sailing under. In short the Senator was "called," and he was compelled to show his hand. The make-shift too frequently resorted to by politicians, was invoked. He made a clean denial of the charge, and professed a renewed affection for the "dear people." That was a remarkable instance of death bed repentence and conversion. Like many others who survive the threatening hand of Providence we fear that he will desire to qualify his professions of faith by the addition of a single word. He now professes an affection for the dear people. When the conventions and elections are over he will have an affection for the dear people's purses. He was, upon declaring against the bond scheme, elected on an anti-bond platform, as a delegate to both county and State conventions. The following are the resolutions passed upon that subject, in the county convention:

Resolved, That while we are opposed to the repudiation of any just debts, we are unqualifiedly opposed to the adoption or ratification of the legislative propositiou for the payment of the Railroad Bonds.

Resolved, That the delegates elected to the State convention, by this convention are instructed to vote in accordance with the foregoing resolution, in case the subject of the railroad bonds is brought up in the State convention.

With the above "flee in his ear" the Senator attended the Democratic convention. His only escape from placing himself upon the highest record of his party organization, was by forestalling any action upon the subject before the State convention. Our object in referring to this case, is simply, however, to show how the people, led by their own judgment upon the merits of the bond question, have overthrown their leaders, and taken the reins into their own hands, and are determined that a man's position shall not stand in the way of justice, or awe the people into silence.

"SLIGHTLY MIXED."

The Minneapolis Tribune under the above caption, in speaking of our article on the high price of lumber, assumes that because we said that lumber was held beyond the reach of builders of "moderate means," we also take the position that sales have been prevented entirely, which is inconsistant with making money, which is done by selling not keeping lumber.

The Tribune ought to know that the assumption is unfair, and that there has been a large class of men during the war that were unusually flush with money, out of which lumber dealers have directly made their money, but men of "moderate means" have been driven to rent of these same men, at high rates, which was necessary to be charged in order to bring a decent return for the investment in high priced building material. The rich grow rich and the poor poorer, and a large class of citizens are under the iron heel of monopolists, from the simple fact that high rents, caused by the high price of material, strips them of the last dollar, as the monthly stipend is paid to the landlords. We cherish no enmity against our neighbors in charging them with asking too high prices, but we cannot forbear, when opportunity offers, to lend assistance, if assistance it can be called, to leveling, as far as possible, that distinction between capital and labor which debars the poorer classes of one of the necessities of life, a home. All lumber dealers, except the manufacturers, would gladly hail the day when pine lumber can be reached by men of "moderate means," although a loss may at first be sustained. The increased demand and the pleasant faces of their patrons, who feel themselves disinthralled from the oppression of a monopoly, will fully compensate for any temporay loss.

DEMOCRATIC IMPERSONATION.

At the State Convention of the democracy held at St. Paul last week, the editor of the La Crosse Democrat who circulates under the vulgar name of "Brick" Pomeroy was introduced to the assembly and made a speech. He was escorted to the front amid thunders of applause and listened to as the impersonation of the democratic principles of the present day. His remarks were cheered to the echo and endorsed by his hearers. This Brick Pomeroy is well known as the most notorious rebel and villain in the North. His paper teemed with daily vituperations of the most vulgar character against our soldiers, and our Generals, and counselled the assassination of President Lincoln, and was persistently bent on the ruin of the Government by means as foul as that recorded against the brutal keepers of the Andersonville prisons. During and since the war he has made a personal canvass of the border and southern States for subscriptions to his paper, first taking care to fill it with the vilest slang of disloyalty so suitable to the tastes of a large class of those persons engaged in the late rebellion. At home he is scorned and shuned by all decent people and is forced to go abroad for patronage. In the columns of the Houston County Journal we have noticed a description of his paper and the man, written by an exchange who had just received a copy of the Democrat. It advertises the gentleman in colors that are true to life, and such is the man and principles endorsed by the democracy of Minnesota. This is the picture:

"Came into this office by mistake one La Crosse Democrat, edited by Brick Pomeroy. Description—The most contemptible specimen of journalism on this Continent; obscene, profane, libelous, and filthy; insidious as a serpent, venomous as a tarantular. Contents—Beast Butler, BRICK POMEROY, Treason.—"Only this and nothing more." Character of "Brick," compiled from his paper—A conceited rebel dog, too cowardly to fight for the South, and two big a fool to keep his mouth shut when they are whipped; an accomplished idiot and manipulator of brothel slang, coupling to his nouns a string of adjectives, like filthy cattle cars after a locomotive. Having exhausted his supply of vituperative epithets and Five Points billingsgate, he has gone to New Orleans to hang around the back yards of rebellion, to glean and sop up the slang of every greasy scullery and slop house, to give tone to his filthy paper. The paper claims an immense circulation. So had the frogs and lice of Egypt, and the small-pox and cholera, and the Venus Miscellany. As long as men will stone a Sunday-school procession, seduce women, commit murder, roll in the gutter, talk treason, engage in rebellion, etc., it will probably be well patronized. Any person who is short of such a thing as described above, can have the same without charge by calling very early this morning."

CONGRESS.

A Bill has passed the House embodying the provisions mentioned in our last issue. In the Senate a similar bill was introduced which gave rise to a committee of conference. Pending the passage of these bills general legislation has been taken up and some appointments of the President have been considered and either confirmed or rejected. A movement is being made to settle Indian difficulties by treaty.

SANTA ANNA NOT SHOT.

Information is received that Santa Anna on the 22d of June, was a prisoner on parole at Campellahos. He writes as if he had no fear that his life was in danger. It transpire's also that he was not on the Virginia when seized, but went on shore voluntarily, and was there arrested. This fact absolves our government from any interference in the arrest, and in fact it feels little interest in his fate.

FROM MADELIA.

By our own Reporter.

RELIGIOUS.—Rev. Mr. Perkins, paid our village a visit last Sabbath and delivered an interesting sermon upon the "Apostacy of Peter and the duty of the church to look after the erring and reclaim the fallen." Some of his illustrations were forcable and well put. Long may he live to unfold the beauties of a true christian life.

"LOCAL POLITICS."—Under this caption in the last number of the UNION, you give what purports to be street talk, concerning the several county and Legislative officers and the aspirants thereto, and add that you "have heard nothing from Watonwan upon this subject."

We do not think that Watonwan has much to say—having but one vote in the District convention, but that little may be of interest to office seekers, if to no one else. Hon. Bowne Yates probably has no great desire to be re-elected to the House, though he would not grieve if the Senator's seat was given to him. Mr. Joseph Flanders doubtless has an eye to the House, but being partly deaf, has not heard that his chances that way are none of the best. Mr. E. M. Sprague and B. O. Kempfer have a "mighty hankering" after the "loaves and fishes" and will make a strike for the Representativeship. These two gentlemen had a hefty time of it in our county convention, last year. Mr. Kempfer attempted to carry water on both shoulders and got badly strangled, and will not at this time, without great effort be able to raise his head above water. Mr. Sprague, under the persistant efforts of R. W. Montgomery, came within two votes of receiving the charming number instructing the delegate to present his name as the choice of our people, and to-day he bids fair to carry off the spoils of the victor. There are some fifteen or twenty others who would not take offence if the office was complimented by their nomination, but we have not space at the present writing to speak of their claims.

Here appears a paragraph which might have a tendency to influence nominations, and we therefore omit it. Our correspondent intimates that whatever be the result of the nominating convention their people will abide by it.—(ED UNION.)

As to our county officers, we have not heard much. Mr. Joseph Flanders is the present county Auditor, and we think his chances for re-election are good. He is a good business man and fills the office of Auditor to perfection. Mr. George Yates has a "fellow feeling" for the Treasurers office. For Register of Deeds, we understand Mr. John Travis or C. G. Mullen would not object to the nomination. Mr. O. F. Winterstrand would accept the nomination for Sheriff.—Mr. Sprague the present incumbent would take it, provided he fails in going to St. Paul as Representative. The office of Probate Judge, goes a begging, though to make out the ticket, C. M. Pomeroy would not decline the nomination. We presume as the time of nomination draws near we shall hear more, and be able to report accordingly.

TRIAL OF SURRATT.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Jno. O. Hill testified to the intimacy of Atzerott and Weichman; had seen them and Booth together; witness was an inmate of Mrs. Surratt's house and testified to the handkerchief with J. H. Surratt's name on was taken by him at Mrs. Surratt's and dropped by him accidentally at Burlington depot.

July 12.—Joseph Carroll, residing in Elmira, and Cutter, in Stewart & Offert's store testified that the prisoner was in the store on both the 13th and 14th of April, talking about clothing. We don't have the kind inquired for.

Detective Carvoe testified to the fact of the arrest of Mrs. Surratt and of a conversation with her, in which she said she saw Booth at 1 o'clock that day; had not seen John H. Surratt for two weeks; he was in Canada and she got a letter from him that day.

A colored woman in the house also said she had not seen Surratt for two weeks; also testified to seeing Lloyd at Surrattville, the next day, who denied that any men had passed there; was up all night, and called God to witness that he did not know the men.

J. McDevitt also testified to the arrest of Mrs. Surratt. She said she had not seen her son since the fall of Richmond.

E. Stewart, merchant tailor of Elmira, testified that on the morning of the 13th of April 1865 a man came in with a singularly cut coat (skeleton) without lining and plated at the belt. He remained ten or twenty minutes. Witness' attention was particularly drawn to him, has seen that man to-day at the jail, and believes the prisoner at the bar to be the man.

John Case, living at Elmyra, and assessor of the city, testifies he kept a clothing store in 1865. On the 15th of April the prisoner came to witness' store and asked for a peculiar kind of shirt.

Witness did not have the kind wanted; witness remarked we had received very sad news this morning; this man replied, as witness first thought, disrespectfully; witness has seen the man since at the jail here, the prisoner at the bar.

Frank H. Atkins, book-keeper for Stewart testified that on the 13th or 14th of April, 1865, a man came in the store with a dark grey coat on, plaited at the waist and fastened around with a belt; has no doubt the prisoner is the man; He remained ten minutes and was talking with our cutter.

At a meeting of the Board of Health of Chicago July 13th eighty-two cases of small pox were reported, and the disease was apparently on the increase.

Green Bay & Lake Pepin Railroad.

Col. C. D. Robinson, of Green Bay, the President of this road, and Hon E. Decker, of Kewaunee, one of the Executive Committee, have recently arrived at Wabasha, as we learn by the Herald, after a trip along the entire line of this road, taken to consult with the people along the line, and get into definite shape, propositions from the counties and towns interested, for aid to the road. In this, they have been eminently successful. The best feeling and great enthusiasm exists in every locality affected by the road, and it is already demonstrated that local aid will be obtained sufficient to furnish the right of way and grade the road for the whole distance.

The material means for building the road are being gathered together as rapidly as possible, and the prospect is flattering for an early commencement of the work.—Rochester Post.

PACIFIC RAILROAD.—The track-layers have finished the laying of the track for six miles from Minneapolis, and the construction train makes several trips daily that distance. By the 25th of this month they propose to run the train as far as Wayzata, and then an opportunity will be offered to fishing parties, picnics, etc., to spend a pleasant day on Lake Minnetonka returning in the evening.—Minneapolis Tribune.

—Willard & Barney sold 120 acres in n. w. ¼ of sec. 36 town 106 range 26, to Warren Foster, for $700.

—G. K. Cleveland, Real Estate dealer, Mankato. sold the eh sw qr of sec. 2, town of Shelby, in this county, to Hayen Olsen, Red Wing, for $180.

To Strangers.—We have a few copies left of our pamphlet on Mankato, Blue Earth county, &c., which can be had at the Book store, or at this office.

Another Candidate.—We are requested to say that J. S. Little of Mankato is a candidate for Sheriff, subject to the decision of the republican county convention.

Candidate.—We learn that James Caunon of this place is a candidate for Sheriff. We had previously heard so but some how it escaped us in mentioning candidates last week.

Not a Candidate.—Mr. L. L. Davis says that he is not a candidate for the office of Count Treasurer. reports to the contrary notwithstanding. We presume other aspirants will read the announcement with no little interest.

River.—The river is fast receding to the old stage of water and the Mollie begins to drag on the sand. The stage agent is making arrangements to run coaches again, it is thought probable that they will run as far as St. Peter after Monday next.

—The ladies of the Church Aid Society of the Episcopal Church will be happy to see their friends and the citizens generally at their Sociable at Shoemaker's Hall on Tuesday evening next, the 23d inst.

Ice cream and other refreshments will be provided.

Central Committee Meeting.—Col. B. F. Smith, who is a member of the Republican State Central Committee, left on Tuesday last for St. Paul, to attend a meeting of the committee, which was called to meet on Wednesday last. The object of the meeting doubtless is to fix upon a day for the republican State convention, and transact other business connected with the management of the coming campaign. The result of their meeting not being received in time for this issue must be deferred to next week.

Thanks—Ed. Union.—I wish, through your paper, to tender the thanks of the "Red Jacket" Union Sabbath School to the Presbyterian and Methodist Sabbath Schools of your city, for valuable donations of library and hymn books. We reciprocate the sentiments which prompted these presents, and express the hope that the feelings of friendship thus early begun may be cherished in the future.

G. DARR, Supt.
Red Jacket Sabbath School.

Weaver's Feed Store.—The one story brick building near Milnor's grocery is taking on a shape and convenience, as a grain, flour and feed store, which does credit to the proprietor, Mr. Weaver. He is building four or five grain bins which will hold from 600 to 1,000 bushels of grain each. To each bin are two spouts, by which the grain is conveniently delivered to customers, in sacks. In front will be a space neatly finished for office purposes. His business we understand includes the purchase and sale of wheat, oats, corn, barley, bran, shorts and flour, and it will add much to the convenience of our citizens.

A Heavy Club.—The Frontier Club, we are informed, has been reinforced by 12 new member, all of whom weigh 200 pounds and over. The following are the names of the gentlemen with their respective weights:

Daniel Buck,	218	Maj. E. H. Smith,	216
J. C. Wise,	209	Judge F. Waite,	205
E. D. B. Porter,	202	T. D. Warren,	202
Frank Tompkins,	202	J. F. Meagher,	200
T. Z. Smith,	200	Aaron Bird,	210
Henry Shaubut,	208	O. D. French,	230

These gentlemen will comprise the 5th nines of the Frontier Club. They will soon be enrolled, and due notice will be given of the first play. They will doubtless create as much of a sensation as the match game with the St. Paul club.

A Pleasant Affair.—A very pleasant affair came off last Wednesday evening at the house of Mr. Jas. S. Little. It is generally known that Miss. Ada P. Belden, who has resided of late at Mr. L.'s, is about to be married to Mr. Charles Wingate, a merchant of Chicago, and that she was to leave on the following morning for that purpose, consequently a very large number of her friends met to bid her good-bye. In the course of the evening they presented to her a very beautiful tea set valued at $50. purchased of Mr. P. K. Wiser of this city, and bearing the inscription, "Presented to Ada P. Belden, by her friends in Mankato, Minn., 1867." The presentation was made in a few words by Rev. Thomas Marshall who said that he was happy to be able to say a word in regard to the valuable services the recipient had rendered, not only to her friends, but also to the church of which she is an honored member. After expressing through their speaker many kind wishes for the happiness of the affianced pair, the whole party partook of an excellent collation of Ice cream and cake served up by several lady friends.

Miss B. has been a resident of our town for several years and by her industry and uniform lady like deportment has won for herself a very large circle of friends. She left yesterday morning in company with Mr. Wingate to visit his brother-in-law, Rev. Lyman Marshall, at St. Peter, where they will be united on next Tuesday to start life's journey together. May blessings attend them.

Tourists' Guide.—A very pretty little book of fifty pages, with enameled back and gilt title page, called the Tourists' and Invalids' Guide, has been handed us for examination and perusal. It is compiled by Charles H. Sweetser of New York, and gives a brief and very lively geographical sketch of Wisconsin, and especially of Minnesota. That portion of it pertaining to the latter State we have read with much interest, and the style of description is so animated that the reader is carried along with it, as if he were perusing some bewitching tale. The book points out with great fairness and accuracy the many pleasant spots of the State which would be attractive to tourists or invalids, though the Minnesota Valley does not come in for quite as much detail as some other portions of the State. We have seen nothing so suitable and readable for the tourist or emigrant who has in view a trip to the romantic Northwest. Smith & Humphrey has a few for sale.

Separation.—Fire Company No. 1 held a meeting last Friday and divided into two companies. The old organization remains with the engine, and about 20 members withdrew and formed the Hook & Ladder company as an independent organization. Since then nearly 20 others have handed in their names and the company will soon number 40. Last Monday a meeting of the Hook & Ladder was held and the following persons chosen as officers for the ensuing year. J. Shoemaker President, J. R. Brink Vice President, E. P. Freeman Secretary, A. T. Lindholm Assist. Sec, Isaac Marks Treasurer.

The engine company elected J. C. Haupt secretary, in place of E. P. Freeman, resigned, and appointed a committee to revise the constitution. Quite a number of good names have been proposed for membership this week and the company will soon regain its former strength.

Frontier Matters.—We learn from the frontier aid committee of this place, that Jackson county has thrown her people, who were in want during the last winter and spring, upon their own resources, and that they will be able to live without further public aid. In Martin county the town authorities have taken the obligations of citizens who have applied for aid, and in turn the county takes the town obligation, and the State, which furnished the money, the county obligation. In this manner all imposition has been avoided, and the surplus of money thus furnished has had a tendency to lower the prices of provisions and bring it within reach. The amount loaned by the State is about $6,000 for the two counties and $10,000 in the State. Besides this the above counties have received of donations about $1,500. The end of hard times with our frontier settlers it seems is at hand.

Crops—Roads—Trade—Markets—Emigration.—From every quarter of the county we hear the most encouraging accounts of the growing crops. The late cool and dry weather has been of great benefit to wheat, holding the straw back and giving the kernal a chance to head well. Corn looks well, but grows rather slowly. There is every reason to hope it will yet ripen and yield well. The roads are getting dusty, and in most places quite passable. For the first time since the first snow in January, we are able to announce that Front street is dry its entire length. Several loads of old wheat came in this week which sold for $1,25 per bushel. Emigration has taken a new impetus and we daily see quite a number of teams with respectable stocks of horses, cattle, sheep, and babies passing westward to the frontier settlements.

Returned.—Hon. Bowne G. Yates arrived at Mankato last Friday after an absence of two months, during which time he has been visiting his friends in New York State. It will be remembered that two weeks since his marriage was announced in the Union which served as a forerunner of his coming. He brings his lady, who will, of course, add to the graces of the accomplished society of Madelia. We received a bountiful share of wedding cake, too full of sweet meats for the health of dyspeptics. If the happy couple continue as rich in marital joys as the cake they left us, their cup of happiness will be full, heaped up, pressed down and running over. May this be their record of a long and a prosperous life.

The Clifton.—The new part of the Clifton House is now equipped and ready for business. On Wednesday last the dining room was used for the first time, and the bed rooms have received their last pieces of furniture. The office has been enlarged, new floored, the wood work grained, and the walls covered with a splendid pannel oak paper. A new chandelier with four burners, is suspended from the ceiling. Next back of the office is a convenient baggage room on the right, and wash room on the left which leads to the dining room. The main entrance to the dining room is from the main hall, which is to be newly papered and grained to correspond with the other work. The dining room is 40 feet by 29 in the clear and is furnished with ten tables which are capable of seating ten persons each. The walls are papered with oak imitation and the furniture corresponds nicely in color. Two beautiful chandeliers are suspended from the ceiling, having four burners each, and globes of the latest and neatest style. The tables are furnished anew with napkins, table cloths, dishes and silver ware. In fact nearly every thing pertaining to the house is new and elegant. There are 12 new bedrooms above, and 5 more will be cut out of the old dining room. The hall leading to them is papered with fine block marble, imitation. The new rooms are nicely fitted with new bedsteads, mattrases, carpets, wash sinks, looking glasses and chairs, and are inferior in size, convenience and comfort to no hotel accommodations in the State. There are in all 45 bed rooms in the building, which gives a sleeping capacity of 90 persons. The parlor is yet to be enlarged and furnished and the work will progress without cessation until completed. The Clifton will then be one of the most inviting places in the State for the tourist or invalid, to sojourn at while visiting the Northwest. When the improvements are completed we shall give further notice and include those who furnished the material and did the work.

Candidate for Treasurer.—I by this notice would respectfully announce to the citizens of Blue Earth county, that I am a candidate for the office of county Treasurer at the coming election, subject to the nomination of the Republican county Convention. If nominated and elected I will attend to the duties of the office personally.

C. A. STINE.

I have consented to allow my friends to offer my name for the following reasons: I am an old resident of the county, and I am poor in consequence of losses and injuries received in this country. In 1862 I lost all I had and was wounded in the battle of New Ulm by an Indian, and lost one whole years' ability to labor, for which I never have received a penny, and now am a pensioner on Uncle Sam, and am obliged to seek such employment as I can do. Yours respt.

C. A. S.

Accident.—While the North Star Ball Club was on its way from Mankato, on Thursday of last week, Harrison Wilson fell over a bank while running down to the Steamboat landing at LeSueur, and broke his left shoulder blade. He came all the way home in this condition—some seven hours, and had the fracture dressed by Drs. Murphy & Wharton. Pioneer.

Arthur.—Arthur's Home Magazine for August has arrived, with several unusually attractive features. The steel plate engraving entitled "Yankee Doodle" is an appropriate illustration of home enjoyments, as also is "Eventide" the picture which follows it. The fashions are also tastefully illustrated, and select reading completes the Magazine.

Mr. Pollard sold to Rev. Salmon Gleason two lots on the first bench at the head of Jackson street, for $575.

BE ON YOUR GUARD

against the imitations and counterfeits of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with which the pirates who make a dishonorable living, by preying upon the sick and suffering, are now endeavoring to flood the markets of this country. Whenever these poison-mongers are discovered they are immediately prosecuted by the proprietors, who expend thousands of dollars annually in tracing them out and bringing them to justice. Within a short time injunctions have been obtained in the Courts of the United States against a number of individuals and firms, and suits are now in progress against several others, all of whose names will be given to the public. But in spite of the utmost vigilance and activity of their detective agents, the undersigned are of course unable to protect the public entirely against piratical imitations of a Standard National Tonic, everywhere in request, and as readily convertible into cash as United States Bonds or Treasury Notes. They, therefore, as a measure of precaution, direct attention to the fact that a finely engraved label, representing St. George and the Dragon, and a beautiful proprietary stamp, bearing the official endorsement of the Government, appear on every bottle of the genuine Bitters. The article is further authenticated by a miniature note of hand, with the signature of "Hostetter & Smith," to counterfeit which is a state prison crime. The true Bitters are sold in bottles only, and never in bulk.

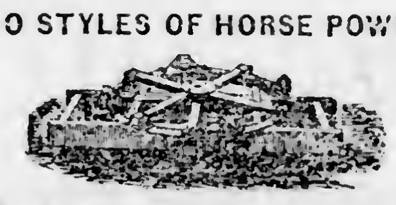
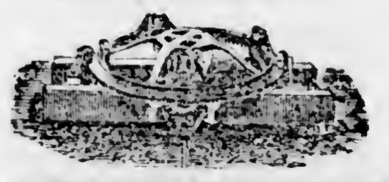
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.



The Improved "Carey" Power,
(Both eight and ten horse.)



THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "Sweepstakes," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., Manufacturers, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the Sweepstakes.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the Sweepstakes in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

Drovers vs. Fops.

Dinner was spread in the cabin of that peerless steamer, the "New World," and a splendid company were assembled about the table. Among the passengers thus prepared for gastronomic duty was a little creature of the genus fop, decked daintily as an early butterfly with kids of irreproachable whiteness, "miraculous" necktie and spider like quizzing glass on his nose. The delicate animal turned his head affectedly aside with—

"Waitah ?'

"Sah ?"

"Bwing me a pwopellah of a fwemale woostah."

"Yis, sah !"

"And, waitah, tell the steward to wub my plate with a wegetable called onion, which will give a delicious flavaw to my dinnah."

While the refined exquisite was giving his order, a jolly Western drover had listened with open mouth and protruding eyes. When the diminutive creature paused, he brought his fist down upon the table with a force that made every dish bounce, and then thundered out—

"Here! you gaul darned ace of spades!"

"Yis, sah."

"Bring me a thundering big plate of skunk's gizzards!"

"Sah !"

"And, you old ink pot, tuck a horse blanket under my chin, and rub me down with brickbats while I feed."

The poor daudy showed a pair of straight tails instanter, and the whole table joined in a "tremendous roar."

HUMOROUS.

Theodore Parker aptly compared some who grew suddenly rich to cabbages growing in a bed. They smother the violets, but are after all nothing but cabbage heads.

Slight-of-hand performance—the girl who rejects an offer of marriage.

Those who always love have not the leisure to complain and to be unhappy.

A Philosophical old lady gives it as her opinion that whoever dies on washing day, does it out of pure spite.

Emerson finely says: "The poor are only they who feel poor, and poverty consists in feeling poor."

LONDON, July 10.—An important diplomatic note from the Russian Cabinet, in regard to Ireland, has just been published. It is addressed to the Ambassadors of Russia and France. They are requested to call the attention of the Governments to which they are respectively accredited, to the existing state of affairs in Ireland, and are instructed to represent that in the opinion of the Russian Cabinet the condition of that island invites a joint inquiry on the part of the Governments of Russia and France and the United States, in conjunction with that of Great Britain.

—General Grant has gone to West Point, accompanied by two or three officers and his staff. He is a member of the Board of Officers to be convened at the Military Academy to examine into the merits of Upton's tactics, with a view of the adoption of the same as the standard drill in the army.

—The Fremont County (Ia.) Times says that the train of Mr. Lamerie, Io., that left that town to cross the Plains some six weeks ago, is reported to have been captured out on the North Platte. All were killed with the exception of one squaw that accompanied the train. Dr John Riggen was among the number reported slain.

—A Washington special to a New York print, dated yesterday, says that it is understood that the United States will demand satisfaction from the Mexicans for the arrest of Santa Anna. The captain and the officers make oath that the Virginia was anchored three and a half miles, or one-half mile over the prescribed marine league, from the landing at Sisal.

—The Japanese Commissioners have already paid $300,000 on account of the ram Stonewall, and will, on their return to Japan, make arrangements for paying the balance of the purchase money, $100,000. The vessel will leave the Washington Navy Yard for that country in August.

An important decision was rendered in the U. S District Court at Wheeling, Virginia, on the 10th inst. Judge Jackson refused to grant an injunction against the dentists of that city, in favor of the Dental Vulcanite Rubber Company.

WASHINGTON, July 9.—Chief Justice Chase has repeatedly expressed the opinion very positively that the impeachment movement was one of great folly. He expresses no opinion as to the facts developed, but simply as to the policy of the Government.

—A New Orleans dispatch says that President Juarez has left San Luis Potosi for the capital of Mexico, where he will be received with "great pomp and eclat as the deliverer of the country and the defender of republican principles in Mexico."

—A New Orleans special says it is a noticeable fact that the old soldiers and the old politicians, south, range themselves on opposite sides on the question of reconstruction.

—Two thousand six hundred and eighty government rations were issued in Richmond for the week ending the 6th.

—A Delegation of colored men from North Carolina are petitioning Congress for the pardon of Ex-Gov. Holden.

—Mr. Ould, late commissioner of the "C. S. A." for the exchange of prisoners, has been before Gen. Butler's assassination committee.

—The army worm has made its appearance below Natchez, Miss., and threatens destruction to everything above ground.

The Judiciary Committee have given notice that it will be impossible to report on impeachment before October.

The Tribune's special says our Government has been negotiating for the purchase of the Sandwich Island.

DR. SCHENCK'S
PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

(OR DOUBLE SPRING)
SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been throw aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Eliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

LETTERS FROM MINNESOTA.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 8---"Be it ever so Humble, there is no place like Home."

H——, Oct. 14, 1861.

DEAR KATE.—Home again! How much of happiness, content and comfort, are there in those words. Yes, "be it ever so humble there is no place like home."

I am sitting in our little sitting room, by the south window, where I can take in the lovely landscape before me; the brown wheat fields, from which the farmers have gathered a rich harvest,

> Inhabited, now, by those gleanes, the cranes,
> Who search for each kernel, 'till nothing remains.

And the lake, too, is dotted with myriad ducks and geese, taking their farewell swim, preparatory to their going south; while the woods, the beautiful woods are a perpetual feast to the eye. The brilliant green, the red, yellow, and ah, yes, the brown, blend their many hues together in lovely harmony. There is a haze, a subdued splendor in this October scenery. 'Tis not

> "The brightness of a day in June,
> That passed away, too soon, too soon"

but a glory all its own, peculiar to itself. The sighing wind seems to breathe a requiem over the flowers, nipped by the early frost; sighing that the lovely summer has departed, and that winter has commenced his journey from the north.

But I could sit here by this south window, and dream until my thoughts were as misty and hazy as the weather. October, dear October, lovelier far, than all thy sister months, you must not take up too much of pen and paper.

Rose says, that "she can just as well be combing my hair, while I am writing as not, that it is awful frouzy, and she can curl it so nice," so I submitted to the martyrdom of having my hair almost pulled out by the roots, and being made to look like a fright in the end.

Willie is sitting on a stool at my feet, dividing his attention between his history lesson and the cat, a tantalizing little creature, who seems as full of mischief as its master, and who does not seem to understand at all his injunction to "be still, Tab, you know I must get this lesson, so that Mollie can help me husk corn," with a sly glance at me, to see if I take the hint, the rogue.

If between Rose's barbering, and Will's questions, my letter is not a very well connected one, you need not wonder.

Let me see; where was it that I last wrote to you? Oh, it was my last evening at V. Well, the next day Dale—how odd that sounds,—brought me home. I could not leave V, without some regret and a few tears, for I was much attached to my pupils, and had many friends to leave. Dale and I went to take a farewell look at little Amy's grave and to place at her head a little board inscribed with the name and age of the departed girl, and one simple verse, written in a plain round hand by Mr. Ellis:

> In the far off future, the Savior saw,
> The thorns that sin had sown;
> He knew they would wound her tender feet,
> Is it strange that he should wish for his own.

There were other spots to visit, the lake and the swing, and the sun was far up in the sky when Mrs. Howard whispered her tearful "good bye."

I enjoyed this ride with as keen a zest as I did the one in the bright spring time. Our conversation drifted about, first of this, and then of that, of the stirring scenes upon which he was so soon to enter, and the quiet happy home life, I was going to; and then we grew silent as we thought of the uncertain future. But presently he startled me with a merry laugh, and to my inquiring look he said, "Mollie, I saw the Miss Tibbits, that I have heard you speak of when I stopped at your fathers, on my way to the fort."

"Did you, well?"

"I think she must have seen me as I stopped, for I hardly had time to answer your mother's inquiries about you, when she entered, and being introduced, she forthwith proceeded to entertain me. She told me, her greatest desire, was to go to take care of the poor, dear wounded soldiers; she was strong for the Union; she would never marry any one but a soldier, squinting at me as she said it. 'There was Tilda Allen, had married a real stay at home; she could not be so unprincipled as that; for her part she had rather die an old maid, than marry a man that would not go to war;' and then she questioned me about my personal affairs, and whether I would have many correspondents, while I was gone; and hinted, that as she could not go to the hospitals, to minister to the dear soldiers, her highest joy would be in cheering them with her correspondence. Dinner was nearly ready, and I knew that by 1 o'clock we must be on our way again; and you know," with an arch look, "I had business of vast importance; and I began to study how to get a chance to see your parents alone, for I saw that the spinster meant to stay as long as I did. Finally, calling Willie out on some pretext, I told him I would give him a gold dollar, if he would get Miss Tibbits home; he seemed to enter into the spirit of the thing, for his blue eyes sparkled with fun, as he said, 'I'll do it, sir, see if I don't;' and coming in presently he asked Miss Tibbits if she expected Mr. Haden at her house, for he had seen some one that looked very much like him, going that way, 'Oh, she had forgotten,' and then blushing and simpering, she hurried on her bonnet, 'Oh you naughty boy,' she said 'but la, sir, children will talk when you do not want them to.' She stayed so long, bidding me good bye, and expressing her good wishes for my welfare, and her desire to hear from me, that I watched the clock anxiously, fearing it would be too late. But Will got her off at last, much to my relief."

"And, Will," I said, when we were laughing about it afterwards, "was it Mr. Haden?"

"No, it was Dan Preston, that half witted fellow; now do not look so, sis, I said, 'it was some one that looked like Mr. Haden.' and I can hardly tell them apart, they look so near alike; and do not go to giving me a lecture on deceit, for that old red whiskered fellow put me up to it, and you know she had to be got out of the way, some how, for I heard Mr. Ellis tell father that—,"

But I waited to hear no more, and Will has not received his lecture yet. I really believe that Miss Tibbits was "smitten," for there is no end to her questions about that "splendid soldier." "Was he wealthy?" and "did I suppose that he was engaged;" and finally, "did I know what his address was," for, she said, confidentially, "she had a great notion to send him her composition, entitled, "My lover has gone to fight the rebels," I told her that I supposed he was at Fort Snelling yet, and the next mail took the precious lines to Dale. I should like to hear his laugh when he reads them.

I believe you never saw a wild Indian, did you Kate? I never did until I came to Minnesota, but I assure you they are no novelty here, for almost every day, bands of these filthy, ill-looking savages, pass through, or camp near the town.

There is a tepee, about a quarter of a mile from our house, and Will and I went over last evening to see them; and as I looked at them in their squalor, I thought of "Lo, the poor Indian," with disgust, though I do believe these Minnesota Indians are filthier and less intelligent, than those that our forefathers battled with, in the eastern States. Their eyes have a snakey look, and they are almost smoked out of their heads, for they build their fire in the center of the tepee, with only a small aparture for the escape of the smoke. The poor little pappooses, how I pity them, when I see them strapped to a hard board, and carried thus on the backs of their mothers; but I suppose they soon get used to it, and feel as comfortable as white babies do in a cradle.

I almost dread to have our soldiers go South, for the Sioux and Winnebagoes are powerful, and I sometimes fear they may take advantage of our weakened condition, and if they should, I tremble for the result.

I begin to like the people here much better than I thought I should, with the exception of Miss Tibbits. Mrs. Osborne, is a perfect treasure, such nice times as we have pluming and graping. And then there is an old lady here, in whose conversation I can not help being interested, although she is uneducated, and her manner uncouth; but when I see her wonderful memory, and her command of words, I think if Mrs. Morris had been educated, what a mark she might have made in the world, but I will have to tell you of her some other time, for Will has his lesson, and after I hear it I must help him husk corn, as he says "he can work so much faster when some one is with him."

All send love. Please write soon to

MOLLIE.

P. S.—When I came in, I found a letter from Dale, saying he was well and had received a Lieut.'s commission, besides it contained other good things. And there was another from V—, from the trustees, saying that they wished me to take the winter school there. I will let you know the result of our deliberations on the subject in my next.

MOLL.

SHALL WE HAVE A CHRISTIAN SABBATH?

BY REV. THOMAS MARSHALL.

There is nothing that tells more forcibly on a man's character than the manner in which he spends the Sabbath day. It tells just what a person is really worth to the community. It is a criterion that seldom if ever fails. Whatever the sabbath may be in other countries; whether priest or people on that day sanctify the lord, or defy His holy law, is not what we are to consider. No man in this country, whether he be of American, or foreign birth, can be a sabbath breaker and preserve his good name, or retain a respectable position in Christian society. The Sabbath breaker by his own choice brands himself as a corrupter of the public morals, a seducer of the youth, and an enemy to the best interests of the community in which he dwells.

Any one who will take the pains to read carefully the twenty-eighth chapter of Deuteronomy cannot fail to tremble for those who despise and trample under foot the commandments of the Lord, when they remember that God is just. However defiant the Sabbath breaker may be, he fights the battle at a fearful odds. Not only the laws of man but the laws of God thunder against him, and sooner or later ruin overtakes him. God has set a mark upon him and written over his dwelling that sentence which declares that "the day of his triumph is short," and those that bear him to his grave see written all over his coffin lid "the name of the wicked shall rot."

We have many Sabbath-loving, God-fearing people in our town—would that there were more. Many excellent families of strangers have come into our place who are neither afraid nor ashamed to show their colors and let us know that they love to "Remember the Sabbath day and keep it holy." We welcome them to our town—to our homes—to our various places of worship. We would be glad to see many of our older citizens imitate their example in not only going themselves, but also taking their little ones with them to the House of God—such a course is honorable not only in the sight of man, but in the sight of God:

Our town is in its infancy and it remains for its present population to decide whether we shall have a Sabbath of rest—a day for the honor and worship of God—a day that will give us a good name as a Christian people, or whether our Sabbath shall be a day of riding, walking, visiting, feasting, hunting, fishing, rioting, drunkenness and crime.

Every citizen must decide the question either for God's honor, or for his own shame, Which way are you deciding the question? Is it for Christianity or atheism? Can there be but one answer to the question?

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED—REPAIRS.

"Our own reporter" at Madelia challenges the counties of Southwestern Minnesota, including Blue Earth, to compare crop notes this fall. Although this challenge seems to be premature, by some weeks, none of our crops being yet finished, and corn particularly not to be counted until after the effects of the first frost are known, I venture to accept it as hereinafter stated. Should "our own reporter" have to go abroad for seed corn, potatoes or syrup,—perhaps he has no taste for sorghum, first sweet then sour, oh!— he will find no more genial and accommodating fellows any where than the farmers about the "Red Jacket" mills. We think our corn crop will compare favorably with that of any other portion of the State, which is taking in a little more territory than is included in the challenged district. As for wheat, we will say to our Watonwan county friends, should you fail to make the connection between your old and new crops, you will find the connecting link hereabouts. We don't profess to be an extensive agricultural community, but we think our warm sandy soil will win this time.

Our Watonwan friends will no doubt have a favorable opportunity to exhibit their grain extraordinary at the annual exhibition of the Blue Earth county agricultural society to be held at Garden City next fall. Will "our own reporter" come down and compare notes?

REPAIRS.

The enterprising proprietors of the "Red Jacket" mills, are actively at work repairing the damages occasioned by the late freshets. They have about thirty men working on the dam and bulkhead.

Having learned something of the nature of the soil, and the impetuosity of the LeSueur river, they will doubtless guard well against the repetition of last spring's experiences. Only a brief delay has been occasioned by these repairs. Their mill is now in operation. RUSTICUS.

ITEMS ON THE SURRATT TRIAL.

WASHINGTON, July 16.—A striking feature of Surratt's trial to-day was their placing S. T. Cameron, a pardoned rebel of the worst stripe, on the stand. He was pardoned on the 4th of July by the President at the request of Surratt's counsel, in order that he might be made a creditable witness. It was he who smuggled through the bogus commissions to the St. Albans raiders, and was arrested for stealing in the rebel lines, and now appears in connection with Surratt's trial to show that J. H. Surratt had no connection with the conspiracy while in Richmond.

After the trial was over to-day a fight took place between three witnesses, Weichman and McMillan on one side, and Cameron, the man who testified to day, on the other side.

The witness Carlin in endeavoring to impeach Weichman, impeached himself before he got through by saying the conversation with Weichman took place after the conspiracy trial, and that he was prevented by that reason from laying them before the defense; while Weichman left the city two weeks before the close of that case and did not return for several months.

The witness Matthews is fast getting himself into a corner, if allowed to proceed. On his examination two years ago at the conspiracy trial he testified that the letter of Booth's which he burned was merely a bombastic and rhetorical letter. Now he wants to prove that it was a contract to murder the President and signed by all but Surratt.

After considerable argument on both sides Judge Fisher ruled it out saying it might have been the very object of some of the parties to the conspiracy by getting up this argument.

Matthews was recalled and cross examined. Witness explained his testimony of yesterday.

Gen. Thomas C. Eckert identified the Booth diary and the loose leaf containing the letter to Dr. Stewart, alluded to as in Booth's handwriting.

John F. Ford testified that Weichman told him in Carroll prison that he had told the Secretary of War where John H. Surratt was at the time of the assassination. He said he had told him he was in Montreal.—[At the instance of Mr. Pierrepont the Court ordered the question and answer about Montreal to be stricken out.] Witnessed resumed. Weichman told him Surratt was in Canada on the day of the assassination, because he had seen a dispatch from Surratt dated the 12th.

Jos. L. Maddox recalled.—Witness was in Carroll prison with Weichman; witness went with Weichman to Windors building where an examination was had. Question—Did you hear an officer tell Weichman that if he didn't testify to more than he had he would hang him?

Mr. Carrington—I object. Your honor has already ruled it out.

Court—You must put the question so as to apply to this trial.

Mr. Merrick stated that he had no further witnesses to examine to-day. He had sent for a witness, who had telegraphed he would be here to-night. He could now state to the counsel on the other side that the defense expected to close their testimony to-morrow. The court knew how the defense had been embarrassed in obtaining the presence of their witness here; it was a difficult matter to get witnesses from the British dominions.

The Chicago Post says: The Surratt defence have thus far only succeeded in proving that their client was a rebel spy during the war, that he was guilty of murdering escaping Union prisoners and deep in the secrets of the St. Albans incendiaries and wholesale yellow fever importers. What other atrocities they may bring to light in their attempts to prove an alibi, remains to be seen. Their "best holt" now seems to be to endeavor to show how valuable have been the services of the conspirator to the "lost cause," with a view of prejudicing the President in his favor, so that he may not fail to obtain a pardon if convicted.

WASHINGTON, July 12th.—In the evidence on the Surratt trial to-day the detectives flatly contradicted the evidence of Weichman as regards the conversation at Mrs. Surratt's on the night of the assassination. The evidence of three of the Elmira men who testified to Surratt's purchasing a suit of clothes on the 14th of April, if fully corroborated by any other evidence, will be an important discovery. Surratt informed his counsel that he was in Elmira on that day on his way to Washington, and it was in this way that the witnesses were obtained.

FROM MEXICO.

NEW ORLEANS, July 17.

The steamship "Herdine," two and a half days from Tampico, arrived here yesterday. She was seized by the United States authorities, and awaits orders from the Treasury Department. Her officers report that Gomez issued a proclamation declaring Tamaulipas a sovereign State. Gomez and Canales were raising troops to capture Tampico. They utterly ignore Juarez and will proclaim either themselves or Ortega at the head of the Government.

They state that Santa Anna had been taken out of the steamer Virginia, but the Mexican officer who made the arrest placed his sword under the American flag and walked under instead of over it.

Horace Greeley is writing a life of himself for the New York Ledger. Mr. Bonner will commence its publication in two or three weeks. The first installment of the autobiography is already in manuscript, and the next will follow immediately.

The Impeachment Evidence.

The question of printing the impeachment evidence has been finally settled by the House directing the Committee to print the usual number of copies and lay them on the desks of the members during the first week of next session, whenever that is. Chairman Wilson said this course met the views of the Committee, and he intimated that they would have asked the privilege of so doing before the close of this session.

—Mr. Conway, sent South by the Union League at Washington, and the Congressional Committee, reports that there are two thousand Union Leagues in the eleven Southern States.

— The Fenians are creating quite a sensation on the border, and the Canadian authorities have requested that another regiment of regulars be sent to Fort Erie. They also announce that startling news will soon be made public.

--Surratt's friends are quaking with mortal fear at the prospect that Congress is about to sweep away the restrictions that keep colored men from offices and the jury box in the District. Their secret dread is that in case the present jury disagree, which is probable, the next one will be of a colored complexion, and will be a unit for hanging the prisoner—which is more than probable.

—A day or two since a negro in Cleveland made a double attempt at suicide without success. He first cut his throat from ear to ear, and then jumped out of a three story window to the pavement beneath. He is recovering. We should like to insure that chap's life.

—The principal panic just now in Wisconsin seems to be for hops. An increase of nine thousand acres for the present year is reported, and the culture of hops has paid the farmer better for the past five years than any crop known to Wisconsin husbandry.

—Elias Howe, Jr., the inventor of the lockstitch sewing machine, has made an application to Congress for an extension of his patent for seven years from the date of expiration. It cannot, however, be considered until next session.

--A few days ago a gentleman residing in Savannah celebrated his golden wedding, his eldest daughter's silver wedding, and at the same time the wedding of his youngest daughter.

—Some of the petty leaders in some parts of Mexico exhibit symptoms of resisting the authority of President Juarez, and the prospect is that the old order of things--daily revolutions and continual anarchy—will be resumed in that unfortunate republic.

—Mississippi papers say that a terrible disease, similar to the cholera, has broken out among the freedmen on the plantations along the Yazoo River. This disease has every appearance of cholera, though it has confined itself to the freedman. On one plantation eleven died during a few days; in another four, and on a third place five died during one week, and numbers are sick.— The disease, it is thought, was brought on by the negroes eating such quantities of cat fish, half cooked and seasoned.

STATE CONVENTION.

Elsewhere will be found the call for the Union State Convention, to nominate State officers, which will meet at St. Paul on Wednesday, the 11th day of September next. The State Central committee are anxious that local organizations be at once effected and that all good republicans marshal themselves for the campaign, which the Democracy say, will be fought in earnest for all the issues are worth. It is too much the case that when victory is thought to be within easy grasp, little effort is put forth to make it complete and overwhelming. We have noticed that less interest is felt in State than in Congressional elections, and the fact is familiar to all that Gov. Marshall was elected by only 3,000 majority, while in voting for Congressmen last year, the republican majority was 10,000. The Democracy are making for this weak point in the politics of our party, knowing that a victory on a State ticket is much the easiest, and if won, will serve as an entering wedge in splitting the national party to atoms. They are organizing in all parts of the State and are encouraged by the simple fact that the indifference to party success among republicans is most apparent at the elections for State officers. In order to bring out a full vote, it is only necessary to know that the enemy are out in full force, and we are sorry that some of our exchanges, instead of calling to arms, are lying quietly in their trenches and mocking at the idea of a Democratic victory in Minnesota. Let us not slumber over our former successes. Vigilance now as heretofore is the only price of liberty. The work of the Union party is not accomplished until the Southern States are in full loyal communion with the government, and all invidious or partial restrictions upon man's natural rights are removed. The bases of all political structures are the town and county organizations, and we trust that the Union men o Blue Earth county, will at once awake to the importance of an active election campaign. To this end harmony is said to be a pre-requisite, and in selecting candidates for county officers care must be taken to harmonize all discordant elements, so that we may have a long pull and a strong pull, and a pull all-together. But this alone will not secure a full vote. On the contrary it happens that a misunderstanding, or fraud in local politics will often bring out the greatest vote, while a harmonious selection of candidates begets an indolence which can only be overcome by appealing to that class of voters who ballot for principle and not for men. Upon all classes of loyal citizens then we urge an active canvass, not only for local purposes, but in vindication of the acts of Congress, and in denunciation of those disloyal sentiments which have, for the last five years, been the distinguishing feature of Democratic principles.

MINNESOTA NORTHWESTERN R. R.

We published last week a notice of a meeting of the stockholders and incorporators of the Minnesota Northwestern Railroad Company whose charter was revived last winter by an act of the Legislature. Space forbade us giving editorial mention of it, and we therefore do so now, referring our readers to the notice elsewhere. It will be remembered that Dr. W. R. McMahan, of this city, was at an early day, and at the time the old charter was forfeited, the President of this company, and Francis Baasen of New Ulm Secretary. The importance of this enterprise has induced the President and members of the company to call a meeting to devise some means for its speedy construction. This route runs from McGregor in Iowa, to the State line, at which point the above road commences, and runs through Austin, Geneva, Wilton, Winnebago Agency, Mankato, New Ulm, Redwood, to Big Stone Lake, connecting there with the great Northern Pacific railway which passes through the gold mining region, to the Pacific coast. The country over which it will pass is comparatively level and of easy grade, and is also among the most fertile lands in the State. The success of this enterprise will be assured if the people along the line will make an effort, in conjunction with the incorporators, to obtain a land grant from Congress. Not a mile of rail will be wasted by circuitous routes, as the points designated are on an air line its entire length. This road will in fact be from Chicago the commercial heart, the ascending aorta leading to the great cereal regions of the Northwest. We trust that the meeting on the 6th prox., will accomplish results looking to an early provision for building it.

CONGRESS—ADJOURNMENT.

We publish elsewhere the amendments to the reconstruction act, passed by congress at its late session. It imbodies only such provisions as are necessary to explain the previous act, and carry out the plan of congress which the President and his Attorney General have attempted to obstruct by rendering opinions and promulgating orders, contrary to the intent of the law. The amendments, after their passage by both Houses, were retained by the President the full ten days in which he is required to sign them or return his objections. His vetoes upon this bill and upon the appropriation bill to carry it into effect, were received by congress last Saturday, and promptly dispatched by more than a two-thirds vote in favor of the law, the vetoes to the contrary notwithstanding. A concurrent resolution was also passed preventing the President from removing the present military commanders of the Southern Districts except by consent of the Senate. A law was also passed looking to the peaceful settlement of Indian difficulties by treaty, which the Government have at last concluded was the cheapest method of carrying on Indian wars. The dignity of our Government is not compromised by buying peace with these tribes which have neither a national existence nor a method of warfare with which we can compete while adhering to the modern rules of civilized warfare. We expressed this plan of settling Indian difficulties nearly two years ago, and our opinion of its expediency is now confirmed by Congress. The special work of the session being completed congress adjourned on the 20th inst. to meet again on Thursday the 21st of Nov. next.

DREADFULLY HURT.

The Record of last week with its usual recklessness of words, charging the Union with sacreligion and infamy, is certainly considerably chafed under our charge in our issue of the 12th inst., declaring him and his party the authors of a violent and persistent opposition to equal rights. Unable to meet or deny successfully the indictment of rebel sympathy, opposition to the pure intent of the declaration of independence, and the denial of equal rights, and free speech, he attempts an avoidance by referring to a rhetorical flourish in the Union and placing his "hefty" weight of brains and stomach upon it, as if the whole issue raised by our article was involved in that paragraph. He has a wonderful veneration for our forefathers through whose efforts the Government was established. If such a thing were consistant with the course of the Record during the rebellion, he might not be liable to the change of hypocricy. During four long years of peril, wherein the same government, of which these patriots whom he so hypocritically reveres, were the founders and preservers until the wheels of time brought their successors to the helm, the Record was arrayed on the side of treason, and its columns were the open advocates of the principles of the Chicago platform which declared the war unjustifyable and a failure. It has always advocated the ascendency of that party which, with its sympathy and active treason, both before and during the war was plotting the ruin of the government established by these same patriots, and labored to obliterate from the human code those principles of liberty which were the moving causes of our independence. Pendleton, who, as a member of Congress, declared he would never vote a dollar to preserve this government, was its candidate for Vice President, and is now its champion and leader of democratic sentiment. A plank in the democratic platform denies the right of impartial suffrage and declares in effect that all men are not created equal, which is in diametric opposition to the doctrines of those revered patriots. How much respect, under these circumstances, can the Record boast for the patriots of the revolution. Arrayed against the preservation of the government which they founded, and against every principle which they left as an inheritance to a free people, the Record contemplates with holy horror any assault upon passing shadows but in the same moment cripples the substance of all that our forefathers held dear to them and to posterity, using a virus which if not understood and shunned by an intelligent public, would soon bring the country to its knees in chains and slavery.

GREAT UPPER MISSISSIPPI FLOOD.

Last week Wednesday it rained, as our readers will recollect. It also poured down pretty much all night, the only material effect in this vicinity being a rise in the Minnesota river of about two feet, and a fall in some of the grain fields caused by the high winds. Crushed to earth the grain will mostly rise again, therefore we can record no calamity originating out of that heavy shower. But on the Upper Mississippi river, beginning as far up as Sauk Center on the Sauk river, the flood and destruction of property has been greater than at any time since 1850. The following is a condensed report from our exchanges :—

At Sauk Center the rain fell in torrents for full 40 hours. The Sauk river raised over 20 feet, sweeping out Moore & McClares dam, the old grist mill and the miller's residence; also all the bridges below have been washed away. The damage done to the crops is as yet, truthfully, unknown, though it is probably that throughout the valley it is very considerable.

At Sauk Rapids, on the Mississippi, the water was two feet higher than ever before known. The bridge directly opposite this place, at the mouth of Sauk river is gone. The bridges and ferries above this point on the Mississippi have been swept away. Had the flood delayed a few days, the ferry at this place would have been launched and also swept away, but will in a short time be ready for operations.

At St. Cloud the sudden rise occasioned great excitement. The storm continued unabated at this point all day Thursday, raising the river four feet from Thursday evening until Friday morning. Tobey & Co.'s, and Bridgman's booms and Wilson's ferry were swept away. Wright's ferry is broken. There are over 190 teams waiting for Government freight here. It is also stated that the river is two feet higher than ever previously known. Damage to crops it is impossibly to estimate though the hay crop will suffer most. Devastation and destruction of property was, of course, not arrested at St. Cloud, but down rushed the furious water, every minorstream contributing its might to swell the grand water tirade sweeping everything before it.

The Platt river dam which contained 4,000,000 feet was washed away and the logs went floating down with a terribly rush. The Coon Creek boom containing 31,500,000 was also subjected to the same fate. The logs were owned by sixteen different parties, consequently tho loss may not be felt as heavily. This boom is about twelve miles above Minneapolis.

At St. Anthony, and Minneapolis, high furious water, broken booms, floating logs, wild rumors, broken bridges, caused a fever of excitement. The abuttment of the St. Paul & Pacific R. R. bridge on the Nicolet Island shore gave way, and the end of one span fell in the water, the other end hanging to the first pier. The repairing of this bridge will probably cost 10,000, and will be done as soon as possible.

On Monday morning the water was within thirty inches of the Suspension Bridge. One span (170 feet in length) of the old North Minneapolis bridge fell, and was, by ropes previously attached, safely landed on shore. The pier on which it rested was swept down against the suspension bridge without serious results. The damage to the St. Anthony and Suspension bridge is estimated at $5,000. The net loss in logs, after deducting the expense of catching is estimated at $200,000, which will have a tendency to raise the price of pine lumber. There is, however, some 50,000,000 feet of logs in the Rum river boom, which it is thought will be saved. This amount will probably more than supply the demand. There , were several hundred cords of wood swept away at St. Paul from the Upper Levee.

COUNTY POLITICS.

Mr. Editor:—Another political campaign is just ahead, and it bids fair to be as closely contested and excited as any Blue Earth county has seen. Already the host of candidates are in the field counting their friends and laying the wires. It is a little remarkable to see how many have been persuaded to allow their names to be used as candidates for the office of county Treasurer, though when we come to the office of Probate Judge no one feels qualified to discharge its duties. Just in proportion as an office pays, we see men willing to neglect their own business (if they have any outside of politics), to serve the dear people.

We have in our county men who have for years made the getting of these offices—for themselves or their friends—their business. To this end they devote their energy and most of their time, and as a natural result they have become skillful in their calling and to a greater extent than we like to admit, these men control the elections. One of the results of this state of things is that the county offices are filled by men who are notoriously not the choice of the people. Another consequence is that the real solid men of the county, the best citizens seem to consider it almost disreputable to be seen taking an active interest in county politics. Now there is an obvious cause and a very simple remedy for this state of affairs.

Let every voter in the county resolve to attend the town caucus this year and see that the wishes of the town are truly represented in the persons of its delegates to the county nominating convention, and instantly these trafficking-wire-working-bar-room-politicians will find their occupation gone.

How often we see voters come to the polls on election day, they look at the ticket presented, and they say of this or that name, "Why he is not the right man, could'nt they do better than to nominate him," and in nine cases out of ten the objector paid no attention to the primary meetings, where a vote was in reality worth two on election day.

What say you fellow citizens, shall we commence right this year and put the right men in the right place, or let matters go again in the same old disgusting style.

THE SUPPLEMENTAL RECONSTRUCTION BILL.

The following is the supplemental bill as finally agreed upon in Conference, passed by both Houses and sent to the President for his approval:

Section 1. That it is hereby declared to have been the true intent and meaning of the act of the second day of March, 1867, entitled "an act to provide for a more efficient government of the rebel States," and the act supplementary thereto, passed the twenty-third of March, 1867, that the governments then existing in the rebel States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas, were not legal State governments, and that thereafter said governments, if continued, were to be continued subject in all respects to the military commanders of the respective districts, and to the paramount authority of Congress.

Sec. 2. That the commander of any district named in said act shall have power, subject to the disapproval of the General of the army of the United States, and to have effect till disapproved, whenever, in the opinion of such commander, the proper administration of said act shall require it, to suspend or remove from office, or from the performance of official duties, and the exercise of official powers, any officer or person holding or exercising, or professing to hold or exercise, any civil or military office or duty in such district, under any power, election, appointment, or authority derived from or granted by, or claimed under, any so-called State, or the government thereof, or any municipal or other division thereof; and upon such suspension or removal, such commander, subject to the disapproval of the General as aforesaid, shall have power to provide from time to time for the performance of the said duties of such officer or person so suspended or removed, by the detail of some officer or soldier of the army, or by the appointment of some other person to perform the same, and to fill vacancies occasioned by death, resignation or otherwise.

Sec. 3. That the General of the army of the United States shall be invested with all the powers of suspension, removal, appointment, and detail granted in the preceding section to district commanders.

Sec. 4. That the acts of the officers of the army already done, in removing in said districts persons exercising the functions of civil officers, and appointing others in their stead, are hereby confirmed: provided that any person heretofore or hereafter appointed by any district commander to exercise the functions of any civil office, may be removed either by the military officer in command of the district, or by the General of the army; and it shall be the duty of such commander to remove from office as aforesaid all persons who are disloyal to the Government of the United States, or who use their official influence in any manner to hinder, delay, prevent, or obstruct the due and proper administration of this act and the acts to which it is supplementary.

Sec. 5. That the boards of registration provided for in the act entitled "An act supplementary to an act entitled an act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," passed March 2, 1867; "and to facilitate restoration," passed March 23, 1867, shall have power, and it shall be their duty, before allowing the registration of any person, to ascertain, upon such fact or information as they can obtain, whether such person is entitled to be registered under said act, and the oath required by said act shall not be conclusive on such question; and no person shall be registered unless such board shall decide that he is entitled thereto; and such board shall also have power to examine under oath, to be administered by any member of such board, any one touching the qualification of any person claiming registration; but in every case of refusal by the board to register an applicant, and, in every case of striking his name from the list as hereinafter provided the board shall make a note or memorandum, which shall be returned with the registration list to the commanding general of the district, setting forth the ground of such refusal or such striking from the list: Provided that no person shall be disqualified as a member of any board of registration by reason of race or color.

Sec. 6. That the true intent and meaning of the oath presented in said supplementary act is (among other things) that no person who has been a member of the Legislature of any State, or who has held any executive or judicial office in any State, whether he has taken the oath to support the Constitution of the United States or not, and whether he was holding such office at the commencement of the rebellion, or had held it before, and who has afterwards engaged in insurrection or rebellion against the United States, or given aid and comfort to the enemies thereof, is entitled to be registered or to vote; and the words "executive or judicial" office in any State, in said oath mentioned, shall be construed to include all civil offices created by law for the administration of any general law of a State, or for the administration of justice.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the time for completing the original registration provided for in any act may, in the discretion of the commander of any district, be extended to the first day of October, 1867; and the board of registration shall have power, and it shall be their duty, commencing fourteen days prior to any election under said act, and upon reasonable public notice of the time and place thereof, to revise for a period of five days the registration lists, and upon being satisfied that any person not entitled thereto has been registered, to strike the name of such person from the list, and such person shall not be allowed to vote. And such board shall also, during the same period, add to such registry the names of all persons who at that time possess the qualifications required by said act, who have not been already registered, and no person shall at any time be entitled to be registered or to vote by reason of any executive pardon or amnesty, for any act or thing which, without such pardon or amnesty, would disqualify him from registration or voting.

Sec. 8. That all members of said boards of registration, and all persons hereafter elected or appointed to office in said military districts under any so called State or municipal authority, or by detail or appointment of the district commander, shall be required to take and subscribe to the oath of office prescribed by law for the officers of the United States.

Sec. 9. That no district commander, or member of the board of registration, or any officer or appointee acting under them, shall be bound in his action by any opinion of any civil officer of the United States.

Sec. 10. That section 4 of said lastnamed act shall be construed to authorize the commanding general named therein, whenever he shall deem it needful, to remove any member of a board of registration, and to appoint another in his stead, and to fill any vacancy in such board.

Sec. 11. That all the provisions of this act, and of the acts to which this is supplementary, shall be construed liberally, to the end that all the intents thereof may be fully and perfectly carried out.

—See the advertisement of Aaron Birdwood for sale— under the head of new advertisements. Superior inducements are offered.

—See the advertisement of Wm. W. Payne—Every School Teacher—which announces an educational journal published at Mantorville in this State. Special inducements given to subscribers.

—See the advertisement of F. P. Freeman or James S. Little—Rare chance to invest—under its appropriate head. Some valuable property is offered for sale.

TO SCHOOL CLERKS.—The Superintendent of schools wishes us to say to the District School Clerks that blanks for their fall reports can be had at the County Auditors office. 2w

MITE SOCIETY.—The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their Mite Society at the church, on Wednesday evening of next week. Ice cream and peaches will be served.

—We understand that Mrs. Potts is selling out her millinery store, preparatory to leaving with her husband for California.

MATCH GAME.—A challenge of the Frontier Club, of Mankato, has been accepted by the St. Peter Club. The game will be played at St. Peter on the 13th day of August.

HURT.—The "heavy nines," played a game last Saturday in which Maj. E. H. Smith was injured in the knee by a mis-step on the first base. A collision occurred also between Messrs. Buck & Shaubut. No bones broken.

NEW POTATOES.—The first new potatoes of the season appeared this week at Howe & Everett's grocery. They were quite large and ripe. Only $1 25 a peck, or ten cents apiece, retail.

BRICK.—J. W. Gregg & Co., have commenced burning their second kiln of brick, which contains 150,000. They will be ready for delivery about the middle of next week.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—We are requested to say that the cupola and all outside work of the Baptist church including the painting, is finished, the church out of debt, and five dollars in the treasury. Well done.

SODA.—Now is the time to be refreshed at Wickersham & Co.'s, new soda fount. Their apparatus gives the purest gases, their syrups are nice and the soda water is consequently sweet, pure, invigorating, healthy and cooling. Don't forget to drop in and drink at the silver fount.

Messrs Buck & Freeman sold this week for parties in N. Y. State, the sw¼ of sec. 13 town 105 range 29, in Butternut Valley, to Henry H. Hughes and John Pritchard for $925.

—Rev. Christian Wisner of Bloomfield, N. J. will preach in German, at the Lutheran Church on Broad Street on next Sabbath P. M. at 2 o'clock.

APOLOGY.—We must apologize to some of our readers for asking them to return to our carrier copies of the UNION carried the week previous. The demand for extra copies has been so great that notwithstanding a number of papers over our regular issue are published weekly we have been unable to supply the demand lately, except by soliciting a return of them from our subscribers after they have read them.

RIVER—STEAMBOATING.—The rain of last week Wednesday caused a rise in the river of about two feet. It had begun to recede slowly when on Tuesday last a heavy rain in the afternoon, caused a further rise of two or three feet. There is no prospect that the Mollie will haul off as long as a fair stage of water continues. She arrives at our levee every morning as regular as the sun.

LIGHTNING.—During the heavy shower of Tuesday afternoon Davidson's warehouse was struck by lightning but not materially injured. It first struck the windlass in the gable end, and passed to a door under it, and from there to the weather boards, tearing a few from the building and passing off into the air. No trace of the lightning can be found lower than about 12 feet from the ground. Mr. Boyington was in the building but was uninjured.

PERSONAL.—Rev. Christian Wisner a German Presbyterian minister, from Bloomfield N. J. has arrived here to commence ministerial labors among the Germens of this portion of the State under the auspices of the Presbyterian Missionary Association. His headquarters will be at Mankato for the present.

—Mr. Sander, of the "State Zeitung," a republican German paper of St. Paul, was in town this week looking after subscribers. He commences soon the publication of a tri-weekly, and our German republican friends should give it a hearty support.

HUTCHINSONS.—John Hutchinson and his son sang at Higgin's Hall on Monday last. They more than sustained their usual reputation as singers, and we risk our reputation on the averment that John Hutchinson is the finest vocalist that appears before our American public.

UNFORTUNATE ACCIDENT.—Wesley Maxfield, late county Auditor, who is in charge of the Davidson warehouse and lumber yard, went aboard the Mankato on Monday night last to pay a freight bill. The gang plank reached from a high bank to the cabin deck and as he passed off the plank, it being dark, he stepped into the stairway and fell on his left arm breaking it about 4 inches from the shoulder. Dr. McMahan was called, and it was found that under the arm the fracture was abrupt, while on the upper side a large piece, two inches in length, had broken off. The arm was set and so far is doing well, though it is considered quite a serious fracture, and must confine him for several weeks to the house.

MINNEINNEOPA CLUB.—This base ball club consisting of lads under 20 years of age has been winning laurels over the Frontier Club, and are thereby encouraged to better organization and efficiency. Last week they played a game with a promiscuous nine of the Frontier, and won a victory of 43 rounds against 32. The boys have ordered a uniform consisting of dark pants, white shirts with [illegible] eld in front marked with the letter [illegible] blue caps with white forepiece [illegible] button on top: To aid them in [illegible] this regalia they will have an Ice cr[illegible]ival at Shoemaker's Hall on Friday evening the 2d of August. Every pains will be taken to insure a pleasant entertainment as well as a success for the object mentioned.

CANDIDATE FOR TREASURER.—I by this notice would respectfully announce to the citizens of Blue Earth county, that I am a candidate for the office of county Treasurer at the coming election, subject to the nomination of the Republican county Convention. If nominated and elected I will attend to the duties of the office personally.

C. A. STINE.

I have consented to allow my friends to offer my name for the following reasons: I am an old resident of the county, and I am poor in consequence of losses and injuries received in this country. In 1862 I lost all I had and was wounded in the battle of New Ulm by an Indian, and lost one whole years' ability to labor, for which I never have received a penny, and now am a pensioner on Uncle Sam, and am obliged to seek such employment as I can do. Yours respt.

C. A. S.

RED JACKET MILLS.—The bulkhead and dam of the Red Jacket mills has undergone a permanent repair and the mill is running on full time with a capacity of 440 bushels of wheat per day. Farmers leaving their grists can rely upon having them again as soon as the next day, and they can find no better quality of flour in the county than that turned out at the Red Jacket mills.

In this connection we announce that the interest of Mr. Worden, in the mills, has been purchased by Scott & Elliott who now become sole proprietors, and assume all debts and credits of the old partnership.

THANKS.—We are under obligations to Hon. Alexander Ramsey, for the bound volumes of the Congressional Globe for the 2d session of the 39th Congress.

—The Winona Republican is informed that that the Directors of the Winona and St. Peter Railroad Company have decided to begin work at once upon their eastern connection," between Winona and the La Crosse road.

DEATH BY A RATTLESNAKE.—We are informed that a son of Rev. Mr. Stowe, a Baptist minister living in Mapleton, in this county, was bitten by a rattlesnake while in the field with his father, last week Thursday. He was a promising child of 6 years of age, and when bitten was near his father who was at the time breaking land, on his farm. A physician was called and anodyne and alcohol applied externally but without relief. It was late when the remedies were applied, but the great mistake was in not giving whiskey inwardly until the child was thoroughly drunk. Upon applying alcohol the leg near the wound turned green, and the child grew worse and died the next day and was buried on Sunday last. Great interest was manifested by the neighbors in this bereavement and a very large concourse of people attended the funeral and followed the little corpse to the grave.

LADY'S FRIEND FOR AUGUST.—The August number of this charming magazine opens with a piquant Steel Engraving of a rustic maiden holding eggs up to the light to see if they are fresh. The Steel Fashion Plate for this month is a group of six young misses beautifully designed and colored. It has also numerous Engravings devoted to the Fashions, Coiffures, Bead Collar, Hats and Bonnets, Peplums, Dresses, Children's Costumes, Paletots, &c. The literary matter is good. Price (with engraving) $2.50. Clubbing rates less. For sale by Smith & Humphrey.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Hon. L. C. HARRINGTON has commenced the erection of the main building of his residence, the ell part to which was built last season. It will be 24 by 27 feet, two stories. J. H. Hartman has the contract for its erection.

Mr. Phelps is erecting a frame house on Second street below Boegan's mill 1½ stories high, at a cost of about $800.

Mr. C. F. McGuire is putting up a frame store on Front street beyond Mrs. VanBrunt's residence. He intends to catch the butter and egg trade, but such intentions will hardly be realized. Farmers seldom take up with the first offer.

GODEY FOR AUGUST.—The August number of this lady's magazine has reached us in good season, as it always does, as well as with great regularity. A glance at its pages shows us that in point of merit, it is not surpassed by preceding numbers or by any other magazine. Smith & Humphrey sells them.

MULTIPLYING BY TEN.—Some gentleman from the country came to our office this week while we were at dinner, and purchased blanks to the amount of 30 cents, and left with one of our printer boys what purported to be a 50 cent piece, and received in change 20 cents. When the money was turned over to us we noticed the figures on one end indicated 50 cents and on the other only 5 cents, which fact led to an investigation. We found that a cipher had been neatly pasted to the figure 5, and if the same manipulation had been performed on the other 5 we should have taken it for a genuine half dollar. The piece was badly worn and it was easy for any one to be deceived when a superficial glance is all the care that is generally taken in receiving change. The gentleman was the next morning met on the street, and the matter was adjusted by sending us a genuine piece of money.

FROM MARTIN COUNTY.

A Beastly Crime--The Criminal Escaped.

FAIRMOUNT, Martin Co., July 17th.
Correspondence St. Paul Press.

One Thos. Way, of this place, an Englishman, was up this afternoon before Esq. Goff, on complaint of his daughter, Harriet G. Way, aged 16 years, charged with having committed rape on the person of said daughter on the first and third days of July last.

The old villain plead not guilty to the charge, but admitted that he had been in the habit of cohabiting with his daughter whenever he chose, without objections on her part, for the last three years; said that about three years ago, when in Wisconsin, he committed what might be called rape on the person of this girl.

The complainant testified that three years ago, when she was but thirteen years of age, the defendant, when drunk, attempted the crime with which he is now charged, but as assistance was near her, he failed in accomplishing his purpose; that he has never made a similar attempt until the first of July last. She states that her and her father were hoeing beans a short distance from the house, but not in sight of it, when he accomplished his purpose by force, struck her and threw her down. Again on the third of July, her mother was at one of the neighbors, the old man sent the children off and again accomplished his purpose by force. The first of July he threatened to take her life if she exposed him, swore she should not live three days if she complained of him, and on the third of July he threatened her with a flogging if she exposed him. She testified that she lived in fear of her life and dared not do contrary to his will.

The defendant was bound over in the sum of $1,000, and will undoubtedly go to jail to await his trial at the December term of court.

It has long been known that this man was very abusive to his family. Has kicked and cuffed his children around as if they were without feeling. Last spring this girl ran away because of ill treatment. The old man pursued and brought her back, a few days after it was reported that he had knocked her down with a club.

He is now likely to receive his just deserts. This fiend in human form though destitute of human feelings is about 50 years old and has a wife and eight children. Has a good claim well situated and about 50 acres fenced, yet is shiftless and lazy and has been fed by the relief committees since the 1st of April.

July 19.—The prisoner Way escaped from the deputy sheriff last night, and was pursued to the Iowa line, but could not be caught.

It seems that the deputy sheriff took him out of doors about 9 o'clock last evening. Way pushed over the officer and skedaddled. The deputy jumped up and fired at him, and these pursuers soon gave out and returned for assistance. Two other gentlemen started in pursuit on horseback and tracked the fellow to the Iowa line, but could not overtake him. I am sir, very respectfully, &c., A—.

Teachers' Association.

The regular annual meeting of the State Teachers' Association will be held at Ingersoll's Hall in this city, commencing Tuesday, August 27th, and continuing until Thursday evening, August 29, inclusive.

At the time of organization addresses will be made by His Honor, Mayor Otis, D. W. Ingersoll, Esq., and the President of the Association.

During the session lectures will be delivered by the following gentlemen: Prof. W. O. Hiskey, Minneapolis; Hon. M. H. Dunnell, Supt. of Public Instruction; Hon. Ignatius Donnelly and Hon. Newton Bateman, Supt. of Public Instruction, State of Illinois. Interesting papers on various topics connected with the cause of education will be read, and each lecture or paper will be fowllowed by a discussion of the subject of which it treats.

Arrangements have been made by which all delegates will be carried at half fare by the railroad and steamboat line scentering at St Paul, and ample provisions will be made for freely entertaining all ladies and gentlemen attending the meeting.—St Paul Press July 19.

—Some of the petty leaders in some parts of Mexico exhibit symptoms of resisting the authority of President Juarez, and the prosbect is that the old order of things—daily revolutions and continual anarchy—will be resumed in that unfortunate republic.

SUNDAY LAW.

There is a good deal of talk among our citizens about our Sunday laws. Many of our readers are perhaps not aware that we have Statute laws regulating the observance of the Lord's Day. For the benefit of all, we publish that part that directly concerns all who mean to be good law abiding people. The law reads as follows:—

"No person shall keep open his shop, warehouse or workhouse, or shall do any manner of labor, business or work except only works of necessity and charity, or be present at any dancing or any public diversion, show or entertainment or take part in any public diversion, sport, game or play, on the Lord's Day commonly called Sunday: and every person so offending shall be punished by a fine not exceeding two dollars for each offence."—[Revised Code, 1866, Page 622, Chap. C., Sec. 19.]

We are pleased to make the foregoing announcement of the marriage of Dr. Stauffer, because, as with others, it will have a tendency to tie him, as well to Mankato, as to his betrothed. We may congratulate the town on having a superior dentist, who is now more permanently located by this new relation in life. On behalf of our citizens we also welcome the bride to her new home, hoping a new circle of friends will soon fill the vacuum caused by those left behind.

BE ON YOUR GUARD

against the imitations and counterfeits of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, with which the pirates who make a dishonorable living, by preying upon the sick and suffering, are now endeavoring to flood the markets of this country. Whenever these poison mongers are discovered they are immediately prosecuted by the proprietors, who expend thousands of dollars annually in tracing them out and bringing them to justice. Within a short time injunctions have been obtained in the Courts of the United States against a number of individuals and firms, and suits are now in progress against several others, all of whose names will be given to the public. But in spite of the utmost vigilance and activity of their detective agents, the undersigned are of course unable to protect the public entirely against piratical imitations of a Standard National Tonic, everywhere in request, and as readily convertible into cash as United States Bonds or Treasury Notes. They, therefore, as a measure of precaution, direct attention to the fact that a finely engraved label, representing St. George and the Dragon, and a beautiful proprietary stamp, bearing the official endorsement of the Government, appear on every bottle of the genuine Bitters. The article is further authenticated by a miniature note of hand, with the signature of "Hostetter & Smith," to counterfeit which is a state prison crime. The true Bitters are sold in bottles only, and never in bulk.

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

Bad Policy to Pay Rent

From the New York Sun.

We do not mean if you agree to; but bad policy to agree to do it.

Any man who is able to pay rent can build a house. This will strike you as a bold proposition and hard to believe, but let us reason together. It is hardly our interest to discourage renting houses, but we will waive interest and go for principle. First, you say you have no lot. Lease one then, or buy on long time. You have no lumber or material. You are paying one hundred or two hundred dollars for rent. When you pay it, it's gone, and at the end of two or three years you have paid out enough to build a house, but are still a renter. All you need is to anticipate these payments—say for a year—borrow out of bank or otherwise, and give your rising building as security for enough to buy the lumber; put up a frame for three or four rooms; plaster one in the fall, and instead of paying monthly rents, finish the rooms one by one, as you are able, and in two or three years you can have a home paid for, and you can begin to pay for your leased lot and own it yourself.

You are afraid of mortgages, you say. Why, they are the poor man's friend. They are the life boats in the wreck for the man in debt. They build all our railroads and great internal improvements. They are harmless if you only understand them and are a good financier. They are foreclosed sometimes, but then you have a year to redeem. They will not generally be foreclosed if you pay the interest promptly, which you can do easier than to pay the rent. If you are sharp, you can play with them like Driesbach with the lions, and they won't bite. Moreover, robbing Peter to pay Paul is not robbery, if Peter is willing, and will lend you the money on a new mortgage to pay the old one; and there are always Peters who live by doing this kind of business.

The process of knocking an old mortgage on the head whenever it grows ugly and threatens violence, is a familiar one to all good financiers.

Use your wits. Work more with your head, and you need not work so much with your hands.

The richest men in the world are those who commenced on nothing, and have lifted themselves up by the straps of their boots. They financiered like our Radical men—without money. Issue your bonds and give the road bed and superstructure of your new house as security.

But here a nice young man answers that his richer associates and friends will snub him if he lives in such style. Here is the great error of young men. They wish to commence life in as elegant style as their fathers lived in, after a quarter of a century's hard work—It is the great error of the age—the prolific source of celibacy and bachelorhood, and operates as a fraud upon good-looking girls, who are cheated out of husbands by such foolishness.

Respect yourself—act independently—take a longer look at things—snub the snubbers, and make them sick of it—and in five years or less you will be bowed to and courted by the same men. The goodwill of such men is purchased at too dear a price. It is not worth having.

You are a coward. You are a toady. You are willing to sell your home and independence for such weak and unmanly sentimentalism. Dare to follow your own line of policy if it is honest and for your interest to do so—and not allow weak and snobbish false pride to consign you to hard labor for life as the tenant and vassal of your landlord.

By following this advice the thousands of dollars you will give away for rent in ten years and have nothing to show for, will give you a home of comfort and elegance, with a wife and family, and all the influence of "our most respected citizens." "This is the way—walk ye in it." It leads to independence, respectability and honor.

Rebel Treatment Of Soldiers.

WASHINGTON, July 17.—The committee on the treatment of prisoners of war and Union citizens have issued a circular requesting all persons in possession of important information to forward the same to John H. Hunicutt and ——Shanks, M. C., Washington; William A. Pile, St. Louis; Abner C. Harding, M. C., Monmouth, Ill.; Aaron F. Stevens, M. C., Nassau street, N. Y.; or William Mungen, M. C., Findly, Hacock county, Ohio.

—It is said that negotiations are pending between our Government and England for the settlement of the Alabama claims upon a basis of the purchase of the British possessions in the Pacific Ocean, between our boundary and Walrussia.

—The Princess Salm Salm had matured a plan for the escape of Maximilian, but was betrayed by a Liberal officer in whom she had confided, and to whom she had paid $25,000 in diamonds as a bribe. She and all other Americans have been ordered to leave Queratoro.

—Maximilian left by his will to the wives of Miramon and Mejia, one hundred thousand dollars each, which they will receive in Europe. A dispatch from San Luis Potosi says that the body of Maximilian has been delivered to the Hamburg cousul of that place, and will be embalmed by him and sent to his friends.

—Napoleon is telegraphically reported as charging that the Church party of Mexico is responsible for the death of Maximilian.

Thus far European authorities are far more lenient toward Juarez than certain maudlin sentimentalists on this side the water. They disagree as to who is responsible.—one holding the United States so, another the Church party,—but none blaming Juarez. We do not think it a responsibility from which anybody need shrink, and we should be glad for the honor—to say nothing of the security—of free government on this continent, if the United States had borne a more unequivocal part in the events which culminated in the execution of a royal land pirate and usurper.—Chicago Post.

STRANGE FREAK OF NATURE.—We saw yesterday one of Nature's strange freaks in the person of a boy about twelve years old, who lives in Watertown, Carver county, and who was in the city with his parents yesterday. His legs are only ten inches long, and are totally without bones. The body, head and arms are perfectly formed, and the boy is very intelligent for one of his age.—He has to be carried around, having no power of locomotion except by dragging himself along by his arms.—Minneapolis Tribune July, 18.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle. or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

IN ALL KINDS of GRAIN

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the folowing

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

LETTERS FROM MINNESOTA.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 9---From Home Again.

V——, Dec. 21, 1861.

DEAREST KATE.—There, there, don't scold me. I know I have been naughty not to have answered your kind letter before; but I will do better in the future, and surely you can pardon the first offence. Heart, head, and hand, have been so fully occupied since my school commenced, that I have not had much time for writing.

I wrote to you last, on that beautiful October day, the day that I received the letter asking me to take the school here. Though October days were so charming, I soon found their contrast in the bleak November weather, with its searching cold and frosty air; and yet it was exhilerating, ever as it is this December morning, nerving one to action, and driving before its roaring winds, the blues, those disquieters of peace and contentment.

Well, here I am again, at V—, and in my cosy little room at Mrs. Howard's, which, with its plain, but neatly arranged furniture, the little mirror, and pictures decked with evergreen, the wall basket filled with grasses, that Mrs. Howard and I took so much pleasure in crystalizing last summer, and above all the cheerful fire, gives an air of comfort to all about me; and if Kate was only here, how happily we might pass off this Saturday, this holiday of the week.

I said that I had much to occupy my attention, and that is so, for my school is a large one, and mostly composed of large scholars, some pretty well advanced, others deplorably ignorant.

My head was almost dizzy that first morning when I came into the well filled school room, and saw young men and women, from fifteen to twenty towering up above me, but you remember that old distich of Herman's and I soon found that the most were well bred, and all inclined to obey. I overheard Bert Crosby say to one of his chums, that, "If Miss L was a little bit of a school ma'am, when she laid rules down, she meant that they should be obeyed," so she does too. So interested are they in their studies, and so anxious to make up for lost time, that they are giving a great deal of their time and attention to them out of school hours, and I am often called upon to assist in some mathematical problem, or obscure passage.

An accomplished French lady, who boards in Mr. Howard's family, is giving me lessons in her native tongue, and in music; and when I have recited and translated in that bewildering language, and punished the piano, until I have almost crazed the whole house, it is hard to compose my mind for writing. I wonder if I will ever be a good musician; but Madam says that "if I would succeed a fond, I must be patient," a quality that your correspondent is not overburdened with. All this, and not a word of Dale; I receive letters from him regularly, every two weeks, generally, and when I do not, I am tortured with fears that he is ill, or worse, in prison, or perhaps, that he has grown indifferent; but the truant letter dispells all fears, and shows that postal arrangement is to blame, not him. They are good letters too, Kate, full of brave words, and strong hopes for the future, yet he hardly thinks he will have a chance to come home until his time is out. Sometime in November he wrote,

"This is a hard conflict, Mollie; who shall say how it will end? Not this year, so nearly closed, nor next, I fear, will tell the sequel. I am content to leave the issue with God."

I need not tell you that he is missed here; the empty study chair, the locked writing desk, the unfilled place at the table and family alter, speak eloquently of the absent one. Alas, how many empty places, how many lonely firesides, are there in this wide Union: and will they ever be filled again? God only knows.

Florance Monroe is very cold toward me since I came back, she acts as though I had done her a great wrong, though she really knows nothing of our engagement. I cannot help pitying her, for, with what little heart she had, I believe she loved Dale Ellis; and then to think that all the summer's coquetting was lost upon him!

Miss Merton went east in the fall, and Frank Monroe is going soon. Rumor says that he will bring her back in the spring, his bride. But I have some Saturday's work to do yet, so I will finish this some other time.

December 22d.

I have an hour yet, before church time, and though I do not much approve of writing on the Sabbath, I will finish this letter. It is a bitter cold morning, still and intensely cold; the sky is covered with a steely gray pall, that seems ready to part, and discharge one of those terrible blockading storms that we so much dread. And I feel, somehow, as dismal as the weather. I hope Elder Todd will give us one of his most enlivening sermons to-day.

I received a letter from Alice Dugan, last eve. She has "finished" her education, she says, and is now entering upon a gay round of pleasure in New York city. Pleasure! But here is an extract from her letter:

"I have just returned from Madam Demorest's and when I tell you that aunt has spared neither pains nor money, in preparing me for my debut in society, you may be sure that I have some splendid articles of dress. I am so thankful now that those tiresome school days are over. Such grand parties as I have already attended, you poor little Minnesotian, would hardly dream of. I am very gay, and, but I know your question would be, 'am I happy?' and I hardly know how to answer that question; I am realizing that ultima thule of my ambition, that of being a leader in society. Yet there is one thing that troubles me; Guy is not so ambitious, and never will shine in society, as I should wish my husband to. And, too, he is poor, there do not despise me, for having made you my father confessor, I will go on to the end, and aunt says, all depends on marrying well.

I have received much attention, already, and though I can not help a sting of remorse when I think of him in his lonely study, it is pleasing to my vanity. There, you see, I have made a clear breast of it: give me credit for frankness if nothing more, I know not what that intolerable vanity may lead me to do, but one thing, I am determined to shine in fashionable society.

Poor, misguided Alice! already I see breakers ahead that shall dash your frail bark of imagined happiness to atoms.

Let us be thankful Kate, that we had wise, good mothers to lead us in the right path.

But I'll close this long epistle,
Now I'll leave you in God's care,
May he bless, and guide, protect you,
Is the earnest, heartfelt prayer

A Man Arrested in Chicago for a Crime Committed in New Ulm, Minn., Two Years Ago.

From the Chicago Times, July 25th.

The old adage "Murder will out," was well illustrated at the police court yesterday afternoon, by the examination of a prisoner named Carston Barton, who was in the morning arrested for a very grave offence committed in the State of Minnesota nearly two years ago.

The complainant a German named John E. Reinmuller, stated that in September, 1865, he was living in Brown county, Minnesota. The prisoner came to his house, being in that vicinity for the ostensible purpose of making a claim. Barton was allowed to remain in his house for about three weeks. One evening, while sitting at a table, Barton came up behind him and struck him a murderous blow in the back of the head with a hatchet, and at the same time, not having stunned him, demanded his money. Barton then produced a revolver, and fired at him three times. The captain, who is a powerful built man, then grappled with the would be assassin, and threw him down, but he drew a knife and cut him severely in the hand. But from the wounds he had received he was fast growing weak, and as soon as he could do so made his escape from the house, and barefooted and bleeding made his way as fast as possible to his nearest neighbor's, some three miles distant.

The captain was completely exhausted, but as soon as possible told his tale, and the neighborhood was soon aroused, a cavalry force organized, and the country scoured for the miscreant, but in vain. He had escaped and had taken with him from the house of his benefactor $600 in money, 16 revolvers, clothing and other property to the value, all told of about $1,500. Had he been caught at that time, the excited populace would have hanged him to a limb of the nearest tree.

In the meantime Capt. Reinmuller had left that region, and has been living in Washington. Having business in the region where he formerly resided, he was yesterday in this city, on his way to his home, and walking down Wells street, who should he meet, but the man who nearly two years before had savagely attempted his life. He at once caused his arrest, and Barton was conducted to the armory to answer to a charge which he undoubtedly imagined had passed from the minds of all.

The prisoner was allowed to make a statement, in which he admitted the assault, but said he was insane. He appeared very nervous from the revulsion which affairs had taken with him.

He was held in bonds of $800, subject to a requisition from the Governor of Minnesota, and in default of bail was committed.

—In furtherance of his peaceful aspirations, Napoleon is buying large numbers of horses for the French army, and the military shops are crowded with work.

The Payment of Bounties.

SECOND AUDITOR'S OFFICE, July 17, 1867.

SIR: In reply to your request for information whether any means can be adopted to expedite the payment of the bounties provided by the act approved July 28, 1866, I have the honor to report that every possible effort has been made by this office to hasten the settlement of this class of claims, and that there are as many clerks engaged on the examination of rolls and final settlements as can be safely and profitably employed. After further remark the Auditor says there are upon an average 30,000 rolls at the Controller's, with accounts which have been settled in this office and sent there for revision and confirmation during the year ending June 30, 1867; there were issued in that office 86,689 claims of soldiers or their heirs, 125,640 certificates furnished after examination of the rolls of the Paymaster General, and 8,560 to the Commissioner of Pensions, equivalent to the settlement of 220,881 claims, involving the use of the rolls. There are now forty-five clerks constantly employed in searching rolls and preparing certificates for the Paymaster General and the Commissioner of Pensions. During the months of last April, May and June, the number of certificates furnished to the Paymaster General was 38,180 being an average of 12,693 per month. The number of claims of heirs and discharge soldiers received in this office for settlement during the year ending June 30, 1867, was 235,431, a very large proportion of which were based upon the resolution of July 26, 1866, granting bounty to colored soldiers, and the act of July 28, 1866, giving additional bounty to heirs. It becomes necessary to reduce the ordinary settling force of this office to take charge of the registering, briefing, filing, and examination of this large accession of claims; and, as more than half of them were imperfectly prepared, the labor has been largely increased, and it was not until June last that it was possible to commence their settlement. In the course of a couple of months they will probably be settled at the rate of 15,000 per month, and, if possible, the number of settlements will be increased.

A Burglar Trapped.

"I was informed of a case in which a burglar was handsomely trapped a few nights since. The house of a resident of Brooklyn was entered about midnight, and the occupant, Mr.——, awakened. As he arose in bed he saw standing in the room a rough looking man with a bludgeon in his hand. "What do you want here?" inquired Mr. ——. "I want your money or your life," suddenly replied the thief. "You do, ah?" exclaimed Mr.——, and he slipped his hand under his pillow and drew forth a splendid revolver. "You do, eh?" he repeated, and sprang from the bed, presenting the revolver at the head of the thief "Now, sir, I want your money or your life," he continued, still presenting his revolver. The thief "comprehended the situation at a glance," and fairly shook in his boots," as he stammered, I will go out, sir?" "No you won't, until you give me your money—then you may go. The thief drew from his pocket $10 and handed the sum over. "Now I want your coat." This was delivered. "Now I will take your shirt boots and pants." The thief hesitated. "If you don't take them off instantly I will shoot you dead where you stand, and throw your body out of the window." The thief complied, and stood naked, "Now you may leave," said——, "by the same way you came—through the window, down the shed and over the fence. And if I ever see you within fifty yards of this house again, day or night, I'll shoot you dead—so help me God!" The thief took his departure, and when—— related his adventure next morning to the family, who were entirely undisturbed by it, he was obliged to exhibit his captured clothing and money to induce belief. He said that his first thought was to shoot the thief dead, but when he saw he was only armed with a club, he could not take any advantage of him, though he does not know what would have happened if the shirt, pants and boots had not been forthcoming."

How to Tell a Good Teacher.

A gentleman from Swampville was telling how many different occupations he had attempted. Among others he had tried school teaching.

"How long did you teach?" asked a bystander.

"Wal, I didn't teach long; that is I only went to teach."

"Did you hire out?"

"Wal, I didn't hire out; I only went to hire out."

"Why did you give up?"

"Wal, I guv it up for some reason or nuther. You see, I traveled into a deestrick and inquired for the trustees. Somebody said Mr. Snickles was the man I wanted to see. So I found Mr. Snickles—named my object, interdrucing myself—and asked him what he thought about lettin me try my luck with the big boys and unruly gals in the deestrick. He wanted to know if I realy considered myself capable, and I told him I wouldn't mind his asking me a few easy questions in arithmetic jograph, or showing my hand writing. He said no, never mind; he could tell a good teacher by his gait."

"Let me see you walk of a little ways," says he, and I can tell you jis's as well as I'd heard you examined," says he.

"He sot in the door as he spoke, and I thought he looked a skittish; but I was considerable frustrated, and walked on as smart as I knowed how. He said he'd tell me when to stop, so I kep on till I thought I'd gone far enough—then s'pected s'thing was to pay, and looked round. Wal, the door was shet, and Snickles was gone?"

"Didn't you go back?"

"Wal, no—I didn't go back.

"Did you apply for another school?"

"Wal, no—I didn't apply for another school," said the gentleman from Swampville. "I rather judge my appearance was again me."—N. Y. Teacher.

—Maximilian's relatives appear to have suffered grievous blows of fortune. The Princess Charlotte, wife of Leopold, died in child birth. His daughter married the Duke of Orleans, who was killed by a fall from a cab. Their children were expelled from the throne of France. The Princess Carlotta is crazed. Marie Antoinette was executed. Maria Louisa was expelled from France. An archduchess was lately burned to death.

—In the New York Convention on Monday the amendment striking out the word "male" prevailed, by a vote of 29 to 26, amid laughter. The matter is considered a jest, however, and there is no probability of the concurrence of the convention in this amendment by the committee of the whole.

—The speculation mania has again broken out, and is raging with great violence. Moses Johnson evinced his boasted paternal love for the colored race and his desire for the extension of equal rights, by pocketing, at the last moment, the bill, which had passed the Senate with only five negative votes, and the House by a six-sevenths majority, giving the colored citizens of the District of Columbia the right to hold office—in other words, simply making them citizens in fact as well as in name. Congress adjourning before the expiration of the ten days in which the President has to return bills, it necessarily fails to become a law; but Congress will reassemble in November, and reenact the bill by a majority that will make the apostate's head swim. This exercise of petty malice on Johnson's part will be of short duration.—Chicago Tribune.

CRAZY JOKE.—Some time ago there was a crazy man confined in the Preston jail, in this county, with whom the people of the village took pleasure in conversing from time to time. "Look here, Mrs.—you think you have religion, don't you?

"Well, yes sir, I profess to have."

"Well now, Mrs.—you are the worst fooled woman I ever saw. You have got worms—that's what's the matter with you."

SUSPENDED PUBLICATION.—Mr. Belfoy, Editor of the Carver Independent, announces in his last issue that the Independent had ceased to be a "living thing," and would in future only be known as a monument of the past. Mr. Belfoy published the Independent fully four months, when every issue was attendant with expenses, far beyond the income of the office.

Mr. Belfoy goes to Minneapolis, where he intends commencing the publication of a sterling Democratic sheet, with Col. J. H. Stevens.—Chaska Herald.

ST. LOUIS, July 25.—Immense deposits of tin ore have been discovered in Madison county, Mo. The lode is between 500 and 600 feet wide. Several smaller ones have been discovered. Surface ore yields 3 to 15 per cent. These are the largest deposits known in the world.

CONDITIONS OF THE ACT.

Elsewhere we present to our readers the law passed last winter, providing for a sinking fund for the payment of the Minnesota State Railroad Bonds, and which submits to the people at the coming election the question whether the lands and railroad earnings, mentioned therein, shall be used for that purpose. We have already considered the question whether the people are in equity bound to pay the bonds at their face, and public sentiment is too well settled upon this point to admit of a doubt as to our right to interpose objections to being victimized by the foolhardiness of the Democracy who originated the bond swindle, or by the railroad men who are in default in holding the State harmless against their payment as they promised. It is left us yet to consider the effect of the law already mentioned making provisions for their payment. Section three presupposes that bond holders will take less than the face of the bonds, else no invitation would be given them to surrender them on terms less favorable than the full sum nominated in the bonds. There is no doubt that many republican members of the Legislature voted for this law presuming that many and even most of the holders would be glad to surrender their bonds for what they cost, which was from 17 to 30 cents on the dollar. There was no cry of repudiation when the law passed, though in fact if the State of right should pay the bonds in full, the law itself, if carried out in a manner most favorable to the people, would be repudiation, just as much as if the entire debt was ignored. But starting out upon the theory (which is the true one) that to refuse to pay an unjust debt is not repudiation, we may at once approach this law and inquire whether it reflects the wishes of the people. If it will produce a settlement on the basis of paying what the bonds cost, or paying for the cost of grading the road beds, which the State, after the failure of the railroad companies, appropriated and gave to the present railroad organizations, the people are content: otherwise they will overthrow the law because there is no justice in demanding the payment in full of these bonds. What is the effect of the law? If its advocates when it passed thought it would result in giving bond holders less than a moiety of their illgotten bonds they would have screamed repudiation with the vim and venality of a bribery. But no. They knew and now know that the practical effect of the bill will be the payment of all the bonds at nearly their face, and are therefore content, yes anxious, to see it endorsed by the people. It is only necessary first to establish this system of payment, and direct the proceeds of land sales and railroad earnings into the sinking fund, and allow the reservoir of public plunder to fill up for the benefit of these holders of bogus bonds, to commit the State fully to their final payment at par. Most of the holders are speculators. They can buy out all the small fish, who hold but few bonds, and are so poor that they fell compelled to realize at almost any price, and commence their work by offering a few bonds at low figures until they have led the Governor, Auditor, and Treasurer and the people so far into the scheme that it will be impossible by fair means to overthrow it, and then they will propose to receive nothing less than the par value for their bonds. If the people clamor for a repeal of the law, the whole bond interest will throw a bribe between them and the legislature, and effectually prevent it. The law leaves it optional with the above mentioned officers to accept or reject any proposition, which is virtually delegating them to say whether we shall pay a part or the face of the bonds. The people should at least place some restrictions upon the amount to be recognized as due upon the bonds, but this law takes the matter wholly out of their hands and places it in the hands of three men, who would be open to the temptation of the grossest frauds in awarding money to bond holders. The law was framed with a cunning and a motive which proves its originator to be a covert enemy to public interest, and a friend to the bond swindle. The Press mentioned that the Normal School Bill was not passed upon its merits, but by an unrighteous combination, or selling of votes, amounting to bribery. It is doubtless the case, if the assertion of the Press is true, that the friends of education were forced to [illegible] in order to obtain aid for the worthy purpose of advancing the school interest of the State. The friends of the bond swindle secured its passage by promising to vote for the Normal School bill, and after it was passed, our worthy(?) Governor approved it, while but a few days later he vetoed the Normal School bill, because the State was too poor to appropriate $150,000 for education. Too poor to educate, yet abundantly able to pay millions to enrich men whose plighted faith to redeem these bonds has been broken, and others who through the misfortune of the State in her railroad projects, had bought the bonds for a song. As between the two interests, the action of Gov. Marshall by his message and approval of the law for the payment of these bonds indicates that he is a stronger friend to speculaters, than he is to the people, and how, in case he is a candidate for re-election, the people are going to vote against his bond policy and yet support him, is a question only to be reconciled by creating the new theory in politics, of riding two horses in opposite directions at the same moment.

AN ACT to provide a sinking fund, for the adjustment of the Minnesota State Railroad Bonds.

Be it enacted by the Legislature of the State of Minnesota:

SECTION 1. All lands which have enured or shall enure to this State under the provisions of an act of the Congress of the United States, approved September 4, 1841, entitled, "An act to appropriate the proceeds of sales of public lands and to grant pre-emption rights," and the proceeds thereof, together with all moneys which shall be paid into the treasury, after the passage of this act by the several railroad companies, as or in lieu of taxes, shall be held and set apart as a separate fund, which shall be denominated the "State railroad bond sinking fund."

SEC. 2. The said lands shall be selected, appraised, sold, leased, conveyed and held, and in every respect managed and controlled in the same manner, by the same officers, (except that the minimum price shall be three dollars per acre,) as the lands belonging to the common school fund of this State are, or may be by law, directed to be selected, appraised, sold, leased, conveyed, held, managed and controlled.

SEC. 3. Whenever said Minnesota State railroad bond sinking fund shall have accumulated the sum of twenty thousand dollars, but not oftener than once in each year, the State treasurer shall insert a notice in some newspaper published at the capital of the State, and in a newspaper in the city of New York, inviting the holders of Minnesota State railroad bonds to submit, at an appointed time, to the said treasurer, proposals for the surrender of an amount or amounts of said bonds in exchange for the money then in said sinking fund. A copy of said notice shall be mailed to the address of each person having an interest in such bonds, so far as the names and address of such persons can be ascertained. Upon receiving such proposals, they shall be opened and examined by the Governor, Auditor and Treasurer, who shall decide which of said proposals are most advantageous, and shall thereupon direct the Auditor to draw his warrant upon the Treasurer, for the payment of the money, or any part of it, belonging to said Minnesota State railroad bond sinking fund, to the person or persons whose proposals shall have been decided to be the most advantageous, upon compliance, by such person or persons, with his or their said proposals, said bonds, so received, with the interest coupons thereon, shall be forthwith cancelled. Such officers may reject such proposals, and may direct the Treasurer to advertise for new proposals.

SEC. 4. This act shall be submitted, for approval or rejection, to the electors of the State, at the next general election, in the manner following: Each elector may vote a printed or written ballot, or part written and part printed, inscribed—Application of State railroad bond sinking fund, for the extinguishment of the Minnesota State railroad Bonds, "Yes," or the same "No." The ballots cast shall be canvassed and returned in the same manner as the votes cast for State officers at such election. If a majority of the votes cast at such election, on the subject, shall be "Yes," then this act shall take effect and be in force from and after January 1st, 1868. If a majority of said votes shall be "No," this act shall be null and void, except in respect to the provisions for the submission thereof, which shall be in force from and after the passage of this act.

Approved, March 5, 1867.

POLITICAL PROGRESSION.

Under the above caption the Record quotes a paragraph from the Chaska Herald a paper which was edited by us in the winter of '64 and '65, which gave our opinions in reference to allowing the negro to vote. If he had recollected the whole article and had a disposition for fair argument he would have told his readers that we not only urged an intelligence qualification for negroes, but for all persons white and black, and we believe our record so far is consistant upon that point. The Record strains to represent us as professing a more radical sentiment than formerly, and that our desire for equal rights has progressed wonderfully since we edited the Herald. We wish we could say as much for his proximation toward the law of human equality, but such an exhibit of progress cannot be made by its editor, and so slow is he to accept of a proposition of enlarged and progressive ideas, that he would still have been using Ben. Franklin's old wooden press, (perhaps we should have said Hon. Mr. Benjamin Franklin Esq., for fear of insulting the Record by calling him Ben.) were it not for the progressive impulses of more recent inventors, or possibly he would have still been using the little druggist excuse for a job press, had not its "dyspeptic neighbor" of the UNION set the example of progress by first introducing into this city a fine Gordon Jobber. If we have progressed in the manner accorded to us by the Record we are thankful for the compliment.

Our cotemporary, however, misconceives our position both then and now. He has so little political acumen that he has not discovered that our position in 1864 is not inconsistent with our advocacy of equal rights, and that there is quite a distinction between impartial and universal suffrage. If a condition is prescribed to all alike, all stand equal in respect to that restriction, so that we may consistently advocate both an intelligence qualification and equal rights. Thus easily does the glaring inconsistency which the Record would lodge upon us, come to the ground stillborn. But were we to choose as we must before long, between the equal right of suffrage without qualification, or a partial exercise of this right, as is the case in this State, though prefering a condition for all, we shall accept the next best proposition which gives to all an equal privilege regardless of condition or color.

RURAL MINNESOTIAN.

The above caption is the title of a new paper just issued in St. Paul by Dr. Thomas Foster, the well known editor of the old Minnesotian. We have received a copy too late to give it any extended notice. It is a wide six column paper equivalent to about eight columns, ordinary width. The first page is devoted entirely to agriculture, which makes the paper especially valuable to farmers. The inside pages are devoted to literature, news, politics and the bond swindle. If the public are desirous of seeing the bond swindle fully ventilated they should subscribe for the Rural Minnesotian. It will be a spicy and valuable sheet, and is edited in Foster's terse and lively style.

THE BOND QUESTION.—Your "Reporter" does not intend to enter upon a discussion of this question, as it is not within his jurisdiction. He can only "report" that this way the Legislative proposition to saddle a heavy debt upon the State is doomed to die in the house of its fathers. Too bad for those who wish to live at the expense of the people.

He asked her 'would she marry him?'
Widow Wilkins answered 'no!'
'Then,' said he 'I'll to the ocean rock—
I'm ready for the slaughter—
O, I'll shoot at my sad image,
As it lies sighing in the water!'
Only think of Widow Wilkins saying,
'Go, darling, go!'

THE SURRATT TRIAL.

Further Rebutting Evidence Presented by the Prosecution

In the Surratt trial yesterday the letter to Dr. Stewart, inclosing money, was admitted in evidence by consent of the Court, which ordered an attachment to issue for two conductors on the Northern Central railroad, who refused to obey the subpœna.

EZRA B. WESTFALL,

trainmaster on the Philadelphia & Erie railroad, testified that he was at Williamsport on April 13, 1865. Two trains arrived that day from Elmira. The train leaving Elmira at 8 o'clock, arrived between 12 and 2 o'clock and the extra train arrived later. A man came on the extra train and was anxious to get through. I took him to be a rebel spy or Government detective, and gave him little satisfaction about the moving of the trains, as I thought it none of his business how the trains ran. I know the ferryman at Williamsport. It was between 12 and 2 o'clock when the man came in on the extra train. I had a conversation with the ferryman at 6 o'clock that evening. It is my impression that the prisoner is the man who questioned me about the train, but I cannot say positively.

The Indian Commission.

The President has appointed Lieutenant General Sherman, Brigadier General W. S. Harvey and Alfred H. Terry members of the Indian Commission. This completes the list.

The act to establish peace with certain hostile Indians, having specifically mentioned the other members of the Indian Bureau, will immediately place itself in communication with every member of the Commission, with a view to entering upon their duties at the earliest practicable moment at St. Louis the 2d of August.

Excitement in Tennessee.

MEMPHIS, July 29.—A feverish excitement incident to the apprehended riots at the coming election, has been very much augmented by the proclamations from different authorities. On Saturday Sheriff Winter, at the request of a number of citizens, issued a call for 1,500 men to keep the peace on that day. Mayor Latland issues a proclamation asking Winters to revoke his order, and stating that he has assurances from Gen. Thomas that he will be here with a regiment of regulars, and also that Gen. Forrest has agreed to take command of 200 volunteers to act in concert with Superintendent of Police Beaumont. The latter also proclaims this morning a warning to the Sheriff against calling out a posse, and threatening him with the boys in blue.

From Winona.

WINONA, July 27, 1867.

The bids were opened yesterday for enclosing the State Normal School building in this city. The contract was awarded to Conrad Bohn, a builder of this city. Price for enclosing the building from the water table to the top, fifty-two thousand dollars. Mr. Bohn was the builder of the city High School at a cost of more than forty thousand dollars, besides the heating apparatus, which cost about ten thousand more. This latter building is no doubt one of the finest pieces of architecture in the State or anywhere west of Chicago, if it is equalled in that city.

The State Normal building will be superior to anything in the West in the line of architecture. The contractor has two seasons to do his work, which includes the windows, doors, joists, and all the outside painting. There were several competitors for the work; one firm in St. Paul bid for the whole work. The lowest bid was M. Bohn of this city.

The contract for the railroad from this city to the LaCrosse road will be completed to within less than five miles of this city, instead of ten.

Mr. Marsh, a farmer of this county, died last night. He is known here as by far the largest man in this part of the country. He weighed, when well, 480 pounds. He was an old resident here.

TRIAL OF SURRATT.

Testimony all In—Arguments.

WASHINGTON, July 27.—The Surratt trial is considered closed so far as the evidence is concerned. Judge Fisher struck out the evidence about Jacob Thompson, evidence relative to telegraphic communication between Washington and New York, and Duell's letter, and admitted evidence relative to an attack upon the Vice President, Secretary Seward, and shooting of Union prisoners escaping from rebel prisons. The defence noted the exception to the admission of this evidence.

District Attorney Carrington consumed the balance of the day for the prosecution on on questions of law and will take all Monday on questions of fact. The counsel for the defence will follow and Mr. Pierpont close the argument.

A few days ago the identical "specs" were found in the abdomen of a laugh pickerel, caught at that place. The fish must have presented quite a spectacle.

TO SCHOOL CLERKS.—The Superintendent of schools wishes us to say to the District School Clerks that blanks for their fall reports can be had at the County Auditors office. 2w

FESTIVAL.—The ladies Aid Society of the Baptist church cordially invite their friends to meet them at their church on Friday evening of next week. Ice cream, peaches, and cake will be served.

DISTRICT COURT.—A Special term of the District court is appointed by Judge Austin to be held at Mankato at the office of the District Clerk on Saturday August 31st at 11 o'clock A. M.

—The man who took our ax and saw buck from under the stairs of the UNION office will do well to bring it back, and do still better to quit stealing.

Willard & Barney sold to Alexander Murphy lot 4 in block 69, Mankato, for $240.

Henrietta Foster sold to Carrie M. Griswold, lot 9 in block 2 in Van Brunts Addition, near the base ball grounds, for $450.

STATE SUPERINTENDENT'S VISIT.—Mr. Dunnell, State Superintendent of public instruction, is expected to visit this city and deliver an address some time next week. As the day and hour has not yet been fixed, further notice will be given.

APPOINTMENT.—We learn that our fellow townsman, and late Deputy Collector of this Division, J. J. Thornton, Esq., has received the appointment of Register in Bankruptcy under the bankrupt act of Congress, for the 3d Congressional District of Texas. If the office is worth anything our citizens will be glad to learn of his appointment, but will regret that we shall, at least for the present, lose him and his family as citizens of Mankato. Mr. Thornton preceded his family last winter, and has made arrangements for them to follow this fall.

DISSOLUTION.—We are informed that the firm of Drew & Payne, furniture dealers, brick building, Front St., has been dissolved by mutual consent. Mr. Drew continues the business at the old stand, and requests his friends to give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.

TALL CORN.—R. Sibley Esq., left at our office, after we went to press last week, a specimen of corn raised in the garden of Mr. McKenney, of this place which puts to flight all other aspirants on "tall corn." The seed had been planted seven weeks and six days and the stalk measured ten feet four inches and a half. We doubt if even corn growing Illinois can muster creative qualities enough to beat this specimen of Minnesota corn.

WASHINGTON HOUSE.—We desire to call attention to the Washington House on Main street, owned and kept by Mr. John Quane. He has been painting and papering and putting in new furniture and bedding and can offer to the public as good accommodation as can be found in the city. His stables are enlarged and well ventilated and a well of water is handy by. The tables are supplied with the best the market affords, and altogether the hotel is inviting both to strangers, boarders, and farmers who have teams with them.

MINNEINNEOPA FALLS.—These falls are now to be seen in their full beauty and romance. Photographist Beebe, has just returned with a perfect impression of this justly celebrated fall, and has finished up a number of them in album size and larger ones for frames. The first fall is about 15 feet, then in advance of that about 20 feet comes the main fall which precipitates the water over the rocks a distance of nearly 50 feet. Beebe's pictures are very desirable for the tourist and strangers as well as for our own people whose taste leads them to admire the beautiful works of nature.

VALLEY ROAD.—To-day is the day set for changing the time table of the Valley Railroad and running the cars to the next station above Belle Plaine. The station is four miles above nearly opposite Faxon and is called Beaver station. The Mollie will connect at that point thus saving her a river run of twelve miles. The company intend to complete the grading to Le Sueur by the 1st of October, and it is reported that they will make an effort to complete the road to Ottowa, five miles below St. Peter before the snow flies. If so, the gap left for staging next winter will be only 17 miles between Mankato and St. Paul.

ACCIDENT AT VERNON.—On Tuesday last, Mr. A. M. Hannay, while hauling a load of lumber, stopped and left his team for a moment, when they started to run and he succeeded in catching one line only which drew the team suddenly around toward him, and the hind wheel passed over his bowels and chest, causing severe internal injury. Dr. Thurston was called and examined the hurt, but as it was internal it is not yet known how severe it is. Mr. Hannay is confined to his bed and probably will be for a number of weeks, even if nothing more serious is not in the mean time developed.

ARREST.—Last Sunday evening Albert Weimer was caught in the act of entering the back window of the house of Conrad Trost, in Lower town, and was arrested by the Sheriff, and on Monday morning arraigned before Justice Coon on the charge of burglary. Upon hearing the evidence the court bound him over in the sum of $100 to appear at the next term of the District court. Wm. Bierbauer gave the requisite bonds and the prisoner was discharged.

ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—The Ladies of the Episcopal Church will hold an Ice Cream Festival on Tuesday evening next, Aug. 6th. Their friends and citizens generally are respectfully invited to attend.

—Rev. E. C. Sanders will preach in the Baptist church next Sabbath at 10½ a. m. and at 2½ p. m.

—John Mahowld was awarded the contract for building a sewer across Front street at the foot of Mulberry, his bid being the $332,17, the lowest offered.

MOWERS.—There is economy in buying the Excelsior mowers, as parties who purchase them can get the Reaping attachment as a self raker another year at a cost of not more than $35, should they need the Dropper. 2w

JAIL.—The basement and first story of the new jail will be completed this week. The Sheriff has removed from the old jail building to Judge Finch's house, opposite. There are no prison birds on hand, and it is hoped there will be none until the new building is completed as the old jail is both unsafe and unfit for use, and culprits would have to be sent to an other county for safe keeping.

MINNEINNEOPA CLUB FESTIVAL.—We wish to remind our readers of the Ice Cream festival to be given at Shoemaker's Hall this (Friday) evening by the Minneinneopa Base Ball Club. For the encouragement of a healthy and harmless exercise we trust the friends of the club will meet at the Hall and give them a good benefit. The proceeds are to be appropriated toward the payment of the uniforms.

EXTRACTING TEETH WITHOUT PAIN.—Stauffer & May, dentists, have just received a large Gas-meter for generating nitrous oxide gas. The apparatus is of the most approved patent, and is said to be the largest in the State. By inhaling the gas produced from this generator the patient suffers no pain in the extraction of teeth. A test of five years experience has proved the gas to be perfectly harmless, and greatly beneficial to those who dread the pain occasioned by dental instruments.

STRANGERS.—The influx of strangers to Mankato for the past few weeks has been greater than ever before. Navigation this season has given excellent facilities for pleasure seekers and business men to visit our town. Many who are here express themselves as highly pleased with our location and lively appearance, and think Mankato the best town in the State considering its size. Quite a number of wealthy men are talking of investing, and doubtless will as soon as the railroad nears us.

ANOTHER ESCAPE.—The St. Paul papers state that four prisoners in the St. Paul jail attacked the turnkey on Saturday last, choking him till he was senseless and taking the keys from him, they then proceeded to the door, unlocked it and met the wife of the turnkey who attempted to obstruct their passage. They knocked her down and passed out. One of them was caught but the other three are at large. Of those at large one is Charles Johnson the man who was arrested in Mankato last winter for obtaining goods under false pretences, but was acquitted, and this spring was again arrested and tried at LeSueur for stealing $75 from a woman he fell in with here. He escaped jail here and was retaken, and now he appears in the same role at St. Paul. There is no longer any question as to his rascality.

LATER.—By the Press of yesterday we notice that Johnson, with one of the other prisoners named Sterling, was captured in Wisconsin near Menomonee on Red Cedar river about 75 miles from St. Paul.

LESUEUR FRESHET—RED JACKET MILLS INJURED.—The sudden and unexpected rise in the LeSueur river (being 9 feet in 18 hours) of July 26, came upon the proprietors of the "Red Jacket" mills like a clap of thunder. The bulkhead in their race, upon which they were working, though in an unfinished condition, withstood the mad waters bravely, and still holds its position, though cut off from the west bank of the race by a channel of nearly 100 feet in width. Having flanked the bulkhead, the impetuous torrent went for the mill. Finding that well guarded by permanent gates at the entrance of the flume, it made another flank movement, and cutting through the levee above, it passed round the mill to the west. The damages to the race and dam during the season cannot be estimated at less than $1,000. Though the losses sustained by the proprietors of the mill in consequence of the unprecedented high waters of this season, would have disheartened men with less energy, they still are, "not cast down," and will renew their labors to place their mill upon a secure basis as soon as the waters subside.

LATER.—We are informed by Mr. Scott, that repairs are almost completed, and the bridges replaced, and they will be ready to grind about next Tuesday.

FROM MAPLETON—CROPS—IMMIGRATION.—Our reporter from Mapleton says that the crops in that town are improving and doing remarkable well, though in some of the low lands the grain will not entirely recover from the effects of the wet weather. He reports that emigrants are filling up the town at a speedy rate. A friend of his three years ago erected a house and commenced farming with only three neighbors in sight. He can now stand in his door and count EIGHTY neighboring farm houses in sight. Men of considerable means are settling in, who give more life and thrift to the town than would be seen if homestead settlers occupied the land. He mentions one gentleman from Wisconsin, Hon. M. L. [illegible], who has bought a half section of land and is now running over the sod, with the intention of opening a large farm.

COMMITTEE MEETING.—We understand that the Republican Central Committee of Blue Earth county, and the District committee of the 17th Legislative District will hold a meeting in this city, to-morrow for the transaction of business pertaining to the coming election campaign. For the benefit of those interested we give the names of the members of the committees. The county committee is composed of Mark D. Flower of Mankato, chairman, S. E. Stebbins, Medo, John J. Lewis, Sterling, J. W. B. Welcome Garden City, and Thos. Pugh, South Bend. Of the District committee C. S. Dunscomb is chairman, and C. M. Pomeroy, Madelia, and J. W. B. Welcome, are members. The principle business of these committees will be to fix a time for holding conventions, and to organize clubs throughout the District for the promotion of the interests of the party and a thorough canvass before election.

PERSONAL.—W. H. Mitchell, Esq., former editor of the Rochester Republican called on us last week. We are obliged to him for a copy of his work on the development of Olmstead county, which also contains a brief survey of the material resources of the State.

"TATERS".—Last week we mentioned that new potatoes had appeared and were selling at $5 00 per bushel. There has been a great decline in the week past, the price now being only $1 90.

INSURE YOUR LIVES.—It is the universal opinion of those who have insured their lives in a substantial company, that there is nothing to a business man more gratifying, than to know, that, whatever reverses befall him, even though he be stripped of all his tangible possessions, he has yet beyond the grasp of creditors, and the falling debris of financial ruin, an investment which in case of death, will inure to the benefit of his wife and children. Upon those who have not insured or considered its benefits we urge the importance of commencing at once, with an insurance upon their lives of from one to five thousand dollars. In ten years time any man with moderate prudence, may have a paid up capital of that amount for his wife or family, or other friends, or for his own benefit, by taking out policies in the celebrated PHOENIX MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE company of Hartford.

Hon. T. G. Jones, of the firm of Jones & Van Duzee, General agents for this company, was in town last week, and assures us that the system of life insurance is becoming as much the rule among business men, as fire insurance, and no careful man will allow himself to go uninsured any more than he will take the risk of his own property in a wooden block. As an evidence of the above assertion he mentions that in round numbers he has taken insurance to the amount of a HALF A MILLION DOLLARS in the past three months in this State alone. If you insure in this company you need not consult latitude or longitude or the seasons or the occupation of the assured. In other words you may travel anywhere in America or Europe, and follow any avocation, and the policy remains good. This privilege is not accorded by other companies.

For the Minnesota and Blue Earth Valleys Mr. Jones has appointed Mr. E. D. B. Porter of this city agent. Mr. Porter is too well known to need any commendation at our hands. Every facility for knowing the exact conditions and terms, upon which persons may be insured, will be faithfully and cheerfully afforded, and we will guarantee all applicants as easy and cheap terms as any other company will offer. See the Phoenix advertisement at elsewhere.

—The following, if it is somewhat appropriate to the season of political aspirations which is drawing nigh. Candidates should read and reflect.

A candidate for office, canvassing his district for voters, came upon a man who had a vote to cast; he was milking when Mr. Office-seeker found him. "Shall I hold her?" asked he, seeing the animal was uneasy. The old man consented: the office seeker took the cow by the horns and the man proceeded with the milking. "Have you had Young around here lately?" asked the candidate presently, referring to his rival. "Oh, yes," said the old man, "he's behind the barn, holding the calf!" The next time that cow was seen it was rather uneasy.

COURT DECISIONS.—When Wilson's family had the small pox last summer Isaac Marks and others incurred expense in taking care of him which Wilson was unable to pay, and therefore the county was asked to pay it out of the poor fund. The county objected and suit was brought against the commissioners to test the question as to who should pay for it. J. A. Wiswell as referee ascertained the facts in the case and reported them at the May term of court and the Judge has filed his decision against the county. He says:

From the findings of facts by the referee I have no doubt that the said family was a proper subject of public relief at the expense of the county under the circumstances; and as a conclusion of law I find that the county is liable to the plaintiff for the goods, provisions and care to the amount found by the referee to have been furnished said family by the plaintiff. It is accordingly ordered that the plaintiff have judgment against the defendants for the amount aforesaid.

In the case of W. B. Marble against Cynthia Marble, a suit for divorce, an order was filed, granting a divorce to the husband, and giving alimony of $300 to the wife.

In the case of Catherine Cole et. al. against George Maxfield, who recovered from Maxfield three blocks of land on the town site, a motion for a new trial was denied.

Willard & Barney have appealed from the decision of the District court in relation to the streets, parks, levees &c., which gave the city an easement in them regardless of any other claim.

In the case of Tate against Dr. Muller for mal-practice the motion for a new trial will probably be abandoned.

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.—There is a strong prejudice against articles of American manufacture, and justly, too, in many cases, but not so with D. B. De Land & Co.'s Best Chemical Saleratus. This is the best article in existence for cooking purposes, yet many families are using English Soda, when this Saleratus is much better, and by using it you are patronizing home production. Messers. Hostetter & Smith,

GENTS:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so, much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
Yours, gratefully,

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans it for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the selves, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the sieve at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

THE SURRATT TRIAL

WASHINGTON, July 22.—The proceedings in the Surratt trial case to day were very interesting. The defence closed their case by calling the Catholic priest with whom the prisoner was secreted in Canada for three months after the assassination. It may be stated that neither the prosecution in this trial nor any officers of the Government before knew where he was hidden. They knew he was under the care of a priest, but had never been able to fix upon the man. The story of this witness was therefore listened to with the closest attention by a crowded court room. The cross examination put him in an extremely bad fix, showing that he kept Surratt concealed ten or twelve weeks after he had confessed to him; that it was not usual for priests to appear in citizen's dress, but he had frequently done so; that he was in pretty close relation with more women than the Church law allowed; that he visited watering places under a false name, and in the character of a lawyer, and that complaints of various kinds had been made agains him to his Bishop.

The prosecution occupied the afternoon in presenting rebutting evidence, and will probably use two days more in this way. It having been set up by the defence that Surratt could not have got here from Elmira, as it has been admitted he was there after the regular passenger train for the South left on the morning of the day preceeding the assassination, numerous witnesses were called by the prosecution now to show that he could have done so with the greatest ease. They prove that an extra train left Elmira just before noon that day, and ran to Williamsport; that these passengers were ferried across the river, and took another irregular train and came to Sunbury, and there were received by the regular train for Baltimore. They have not found anybody who saw Surratt on this special or extra train from Elmira, but they produce: the ferryman at Williamsport, who identified him as the man he took over the river just after the arrival of that train. They show that he disappeared immediately after reaching this side, but have not shown that he took the train just then starting towards Baltimore.

What evidence they have in reserve on this point is not known. The ferryman remembers him well, and partly by the gray Garibaldi sack he had made in Montreal during the first week in April, which is also one of the marks by which the defence identify him in Elmira on the day of the assassination.

REV. CHAS. BOUCHER TESTIFIED.

and cross-examined at great length. In 1865 I resided in Parish St. Leboire. I recognize the prisoner at the bar. I saw him in April, 1865, at St. Leboire. About the 22d of April, 1865, he was in company with Mr. James Dutillery, who brought him to my place. Prisoner remained at my house about three months, and after that went to Montreal. I saw him from time to time until he went to Europe. I saw him twice a week.

My place was four or five miles from Montreal. When they came they gave the name of the prisoner as Charles A. Armstrong. I was told he was coming to the country on account of his health, and of being compromised in the American war. I did not then know that he was accused of being a conspirator to murder the President. From the time the prisoner reached my house until he left for Europe, prisoner's health was very bad. He had chills and fever twice a week. He remained in bed most of the time, so at times I despaired of his life. I saw it in the papers afterwards that John H. Surratt was accused of being a conspirator. When I saw that Surratt was missing, I coupled that with the secreting of the young man in my custody. I put some questions to the young man, and he acknowledged he was John Harrison Surratt. A little after the first of May, I believed he was John Surratt. His friends came to see him at the house.

I did not communicate to any one that I knew the man staying with me was Surratt. Said I could not speak of it to any man. My house was visited by my parishioners every day. My parishioners sometimes saw him. I did not tell my parishioners I was concealing Surratt. When I found the person at my house was Surratt I did not report him to the authorities of the United States because I believed him innocent. Witness testified that McMillan's reputation for truth and veracity was bad.

After recess several witnesses were examined for the prosecution as to the movements of trains between Elmira and Williamsport, April 14, 1865. It appears there was at the time necessarily a ferry at Williamsport.

MAURICE DROHAN TESTIFIED.

In April, 1865, I ran the ferry at Williamsport. Don't know anything about a special train on April 14. I remember a man coming to me when I was on the Williamsport side coiling up my rope, and the man came and asked me to ferry him across. I said I would if he would pay. He said he would pay. The man had on a peculiar coat that attracted my attention. The man said he wanted to make the other side. He asked me to take him over, and I said the charge would be fifty cents, and in the middle of the river I stopped and collected the fare. He gave me a dollar. I had no change and he allowed me to keep the dollar. Witness identified the prisoner as the man he ferried across on the day referred to.

The Ups and Downs of Life.

The ups and down of life have offered an ever available theme for the novelist ever since the old Biblical maximist declared that a man knows "not what a day may bring forth." But we remember few such remarkable illustrations of human changes as a story told by Gen. Clinton B. Fisk, at a recent missionary meeting. He said not many years ago in a Southern city, he saw a man publicly flogged by sentence of the court, for the crime of having taught a class of six colored children to read the Testament. Last year he visited the same city and saw eight hundred colored children gathered in schools without opposition or molestation. They sang, "My country 'tis of thee," while the same constable who did the whipping, stood by his side, and the very mayor of the city who ordered the whipping, took off his hat and joined with the children in giving three cheers for the old flag.

MORMON SETTLEMENT.—We are informed by a gentleman who has just returned from the locality, that there is a Mormon Settlement, of more than a hundred persons, at Lake Clitherall, between Alexander and Otter Tail Lake. They have a flourishing colony, and seem to be getting along well.—St. Cloud Journal.

PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

DUPLEX ELLIPTIC
SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been throw aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

A VOICE TO THE PEOPLE.

Oh ye who watch with anxious eyes
The evil omens of the hour,
See how the foes of freedom rise,
And struggle upward into power.
Stand, freemen, firm at duty's post,
For lo, your work has just begun;
Not yet has "right come uppermost,"
Not yet, alas! is "justice done."

Oh little thought the "boys in blue,"
Who fell upon the battle plain—
The [illegible]rted and the true—
Then [illegible] seem so vain,
That this [illegible] sacred faith,
Would be [illegible]s bought and sold,
And those who sought to blight and scathe,
Would come like wolves into the fold.

All bruised, and scarred, and battle worn,
Your loyal sons for justice wait,
While he who caused this land to mourn,
Is richly fed and served in state.
Is freedom then so little worth,
That they who scorn her righteous laws,
Should be more glorified of earth,
Than those who suffer in her cause?

Speak out, oh Libby and Bellisle!
And tell your tales of woe once more,
That loyal hearts may feel awhile
The righteous anger felt before.
Tell of the cells whose narrow walls
Shut out the heavens' reviving breath,
Where, crowded like the beasts in stalls,
Brave hearts found no relief save death.

Tell of the fixed and vacant stare,
The flesh all wasted to the bone,
The settled look of dull despair,
The pale, pinched lips, the dying moan.
Alas! can we forget so soon
The wounds of those who dying lay,
Beneath the heavens at night and noon,
Until the life tide ebbed away?

Not blood for blood should man award,
Or with a fiendish hate pursue.
"Vengeance belongs unto the Lord,"
But justice he demands of you.
The justice that with power sublime
Will hold the traitor's heart in awe;
That teaches treason is a crime,
And vindicates the outraged law.

A shame to those throughout the land,
Who sink the nation's pride so low!
Who clasp the blood stained traitors hand,
And fawn like dogs upon the foe.
Who weakly court the breath of fame,
And with a servile homage wait,
And then, to glorify their shame,
Call this magnanimous and great.

Magnanimous! we hurl it back,
And give the vain pretence the lie;
'Tis but the shameless, sinful lack
Of moral power for duties high.
The flimsy veil will not conceal
The politician's reckless game,
Where human hearts, and human weal,
Are staked for power and worldly fame.

Rise up, oh Jackson! from the shades
Of hero souls of long ago,
Who never sheathed their battle blades,
To bow before a conquered foe.
Return, oh spirit! brave and pure,
Of our immortal Washington,
And teach us wisely to secure
The blessed fruit of victories won.

Oh Lincoln! justify once more
The blood of heroes, bravely shed;
Answer from that eternal shore,
Where thine immortal soul hath fled.
Lo! from the heavens of starry blue—
That flag o'er every nation thrown,
Of every kindred, tongue and hue—
The answer comes with thrilling tone.

"Quit you like men, be brave, be strong,
And wisely use the victor's might.
Freedom and favor to the wrong,
Is base injustice to the right.
Remember, ye are men, not slaves,
And now, if ever, is the hour
For rulers false and traitor knaves
To feel the people's moral power."

Amen! Amen! so let it be;
We only serve a higher will.
Roll on, ye wheels of destiny,
His mighty purpose to fulfill.
His hand, with an unerring might,
At length will strike the balance true;
Our duty is to know the right,
And knowing it, that right to do.

IN THE DARK.

For the Union.

Will the moon rise? I have waited, shivering
For the weird splendor of its light,
With every heart string wildly quivering,
I stare into the dark face of night!
When will the moon rise?

I saw the sun set, like a dream of glory,
Fade—with its isle of purple bloom—
I heard the twilight sighing a vague story,
That seemed of grief, but wept not in the gloom.
When will the moon rise?

The night! I tell thee, smiler, its shadows
Are peopled with a vast yet voiceless band,
Who walk mist bridges from the amaranth meadows.
And golden hazes of the viewless land.
When will the moon rise?

Sometimes my spirit, in its thirst to greet them,
Half bursts the iron of its bars;
And raises its wings to fly and meet them,
Up mid the splendor of the stars!
When will the moon rise?

But, on earth, there's yet enough to bind me,
The birds, and roses, and dim shadowy woods,
The winds, whose airy arms so sweetly wind me,
The wild music of its rushing floods.
When will the moon rise?

And its forms of breathing life and splendor
Where art thou—and thou—and thou—and thou?
Where the eyes, the voice dear and tender,
That once—away! I am only asking now
When will the moon rise?

Since March, 1861, the United States Treasurer has handled $11,500,000,000. This shows what an astonishing thing the country has done in the way of war making and how rich the country is.

In the forks of a large elm tree in Amherst, eight or nine feet from the ground, a current bush is growing thriftily, on which are several bunches of ripe currents.

Twenty-four cars containing five hundred barrels of petroleum, was burned near Brockton, on the Lake Shore railroad, on the 27th inst. The heat was so intense that the car wheels were melted, and the rails and ties were destroyed for a distance of 400 feet.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

A letter written sometime in February was mislaid and lost, Kate says; so wholly omitting it, we will pass on to

No. 10---The Canoe Ride.

H——, Apr. 15, 1862.

MY DEAR KATE.—I will try and answer your letter, if my jumping tooth will allow me to so do. Ugh! how it aches! Now, what do you think it makes all this fuss for? Do you suppose I am paying the penalty for sugar plums, and other luxuries, long ago eaten? If so, I am well punished. Oh, oh! I verily believe it will jump out of my head. Kate Harlow, do you suppose I am going to bear all this patiently? I fear that very excellent quality does not much abound in my character; but I tell you, I will be revenged! Before I am many days older, this troublesome molar shall be moldering in the grate. "Vain, vain, give o'er!" what are all my threats, when I know that there is not a dentist within six miles; so for mustard poultices, and hot flat-irons again, for I am so distracted that I cannot write. If the climate of Minnesota is healthy, it will not keep us from having the tooth ache.

Evening.--Joy! at last I shall see this disturber of sleep and quiet fitly punished; oh, you need not tone down now, as though to pacify me with the belief that you are through with your tantrums; too well your ways are known to me; so ache away, your dominion is short.

Mary Starbright just came in, bringing an invitation from Lattie Baily, asking me, in company with a number of others to come over to her father's, and eat maple sugar. And Mr. Kingsman, a near neighbor of theirs, is a dentist, or rather "he sometimes pulls teeth." Mary Celia Wells, Jessie Morris and myself, are the girls invited, and Charlie Wells, Fred Manning and Harvey Foster, will take us over. We will have a pleasant time this evening, and in the morning I will have my tooth extracted. But I must get ready for my ride.

April 16th.—Back from my excursion, and with the severe cold I have taken, you need not look for anything sentimental; I think there is no sentiment in a cold. But such a splendid time as we had last evening! I wish you had been with us, yes and Dale, too, then my pleasure would have been complete. Lattie and her brothers know well how to entertain their guests, and the walls of the ample log house, echoed the merriment of the happy company. Such delicious sugar, but my grumbling tooth would not allow me to partake freely of it.

Immediately after breakfast, this morning, Mary and I went over to Mr. Kingsman, when I learned, to my dismay, that I must undergo the ordeal of having it drawn with turnkeys, as he had no forceps. I will not detail to you, the number of times that those horrid instruments slipped, or of the smothered groans, thoughts of soldiers, suffering worse than this, and inward resolves to never have another tooth extracted with those detestable turnkeys: but at last with a wrench, which seemed to almost break my jaw, and the offending molar flew across the room. After my nerves had somewhat toned down, after the tension they had been subjected to, Lottie and her brothers proposed that we take our dinner, and go down to the "Island," distant about a mile and a half, and spend, the remainder of the day. We all assented, and soon we found our selves on the banks of the creek that separated us from our place of destination.

On the other side were two Indian tepees, and as we had no way of crossing, the boys hailed them, and asked them to come over for us in their canoe. Presently a very good looking young squaw stepped into the frail canoe, and with a few strokes of the paddle, was on our side, waiting to ferry us over; that taste of a ride only made us resolve that, before the day was over, we would have a longer one. And now we were like so many young colts let loose to enjoy ourselves, after being pened up through the long, cold winter.

There was a sugar camp here, just finishing up their last run, we helped them materially, as they did not have to take near so much home with them.

The boys had brought a large rope with them, and such a famous swing as we had; I tell you, we made those old woods ring, as they had not rung for many a day. There was a vein of humor in the remark of Frank, one of the young Indians, that we little expected, when he asked us "What tribe we belonged to." These Indians were Winnebagoes, and were cleaner and more intelligent than any I had ever seen. Frank was good looking, and had been pretty well educated; his mother was a neat seamstress and a good washer, and earned many a half dollar from the settlers around.

Such beautiful grasses as we found down by the waters edge, and green mosses on the north side of the trees. And when we had gathered all we wished of these, our pleading appetites, warned us that it was dinner time. And after we had partaken of the tempting lunch that had been provided for us, with a relish, unknown to indoor meals, a ride on the creek was proposed. About three, was all that could ride at once, with safety; and though we had to wait our turns, we enjoyed it much. Just as we had all had a ride, George Bailey's dog that had followed us, came upon a coon's track: this was too great a temptation for the boys, and apologizing to us, for leaving us, they borrowed the Indians guns and started in full chase through the thick underbrush. Seeing us thus deserted, with only one short ride apiece, Frank very politely, for an Indian, invited us to ride with him.

I do not know as we would have done it again, but we had come down to the Island for the express purpose of enjoying ourselves, and were as wild as most girls of our age generally are when there is no older person to chaperon them: and when Lottie laughingly said "Girls, I do not see as there would be any harm in doing so, if you will, I am sure I should have no objection to another ride," we assented, charmed with the novelty of the idea. Lottie and I were the first to place ourselves under Indian Frank's protection, and he would take us as far down as the eagles nest, a distance of over a mile, that we might see where those kingly birds made their home. We had to sit very still, the canoe looked little, and the wind, coming down the marsh, had chilled us through by the time we had returned; nevertheless we enjoyed the ride very much, and Frank entertained us by singing some simple hymns, that he had learned at school; but we knew by the chills that crept over us, that we had taken cold, and were very well pleased, when all had had a ride, and the boys, who had returned from their unsuccessful chase, proposed a return home. But before we went, we arranged, that as I am to teach the school at H——, this coming summer, (I am older than I was last, you know,) and Lottie is to teach the one in her neighborhood, we would meet here about the last of August, as our schools would both be out about the same time, and have a grand picnic. Won't it be nice? "What a prosy letter," I imagine I hear you saying, "just a dull narration of stale facts," but I told you, you need look for nothing sentimental, for a cold is the most unsentimental thing in the world: no one thinks a cold very dangerous; and yet it is one of the most disagreeable ailments that flesh is heir to. But I presume you will only laugh at me, so I may as well bring this to a close, and go to drinking "yarb" tea, to pay for my canoe ride. So, bonsoir.

"JUST THIS ONCE."

By our Madelia Correspondent.

"Rusticus" of the "Red Jacket" locality, accepts our challenge to compare crop notes. This is right, and we wish that gentlemen of the "Rusticus" stamp lived in every neighborhood, to "punch" up the farmers now and then, and thereby create a healthy emulation to do better. Farmers have no business to accept the "situation," as the rebs say, for they have the means in their own hands to improve. Time was when all muscle and no brains stood a fair chance for success but that day is past, a new era in the agricultural world has dawned and the active energetic brain plays an important part in the struggle for fortune, reputation and affluence. Experiment is the watch word, and note the manner of cultivation, the growth of plants, the seasons, the yield, and a hundred other subjects which will suggest themselves to the thoughtful farmer. Our worthy friend "Rusticus" can reserve his charity for the benefit of the "heathen" nearer at home, for it is believed on pretty good evidence that the farmers this way will raise more grain than will be required for home consumption, notwithstanding the large number of persons who came in too late to sow wheat, &c.

The story circulated in the counties east of this that the people in this county were in a starving condition is absurd, being without foundation in fact. There has been and is at this time wheat for sale in this county, and if our friend "Rusticus" believed the story referred to, he was a victim of "misplaced confidence." "Rusticus" asks "will "our own reporter" come down to the Blue Earth County fair next fall and compare notes?" You bet.

TENNESSEE ELECTION.

SUMMARY OF ELECTION.

Associated Press Dispatches.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—The Herald's Nashville special says the election returns come in slowly. Every county in Middle and East Tennessee, so far as heard from, has gone radical. Brownlow probably carries every county except two in West Tennessee, and they are doubtful. Middle Tennessee gives him a majority of at least 15,000.

Nashville city gives Brownlow 3,300 and Davidson county over 4,000. Of the Legislature 20 out of 23 Radicals are elected for the upper House, and all but 10 of the 83 in the lower House. Returns thus far, midnight, indicate a majority for Brownlow of 25,000, which will be probably increased to 30,000. In Nashville there was a great suspension of business. Most of the streets, except in the immediate vicinity of the polls were almost as quiet as on Sunday. There was no disorder. The election to-day dates an epoch in the political history of the country.

The Herald's Memphis special says from other counties in West Tennessee returns are very meagre. Brownsville gives Etheridge a majority of 124. Hardeman also has gone Conservative. Bolivar, the county seat, gives Etheridge 122 majority. Fayette county is strongly conservative, but no returns have been received. Henry county gives a small conservative majority. The polls were open in but one precinct. Abel and Coleman, conservative candidates in this city for the legislature, are defeated by Ryder and Hamilton, radicals. Leftwitch, conservative candidate for Congress is probably elected by a very small majority.

The Herald's Clarksville special says the election passed off quietly here to-day. At this precinct 56 votes were given for the Radical and 128 for the Conservative ticket.

Brownlow's militia are here. They kept away from the polls, and the disfranchized whites also. The usual white vote of the county is 3,000.

The Tribune's Nashville special says the majority for Brownlow in the State, from indications received, will exceed 30,000. Every Radical candidate for Congress will be elected by majorities of from 3,000 to 8,000 each.

The Times' Knoxville special says the negro vote in the city was very heavy, about 550, nearly solid for Brownlow. The city gives Brownlow 644 majority. In his own precinct out of 454 votes, he got all but one, and that was his own.

Gov. Brownlow claims the eight Congressmen and a majority of 30,000 in the State, and 20,000 in East Tennessee.

KNOXVILLE, Aug. 2.—A dispatch to the Commercial says Gov. Brownlow estimates his majority at 30,000. All the eight Congressmen will be Radical, and a U. S. Senator in place of Patterson.

VARIOUS NOTES.

NASHVILLE, August 2.—Several freedmen having been discharged by employers in this city for voting the Radical tickets, and others threatened, Gen. Carlin has ordered Groesbeck to use every effort to find employment for them, and compel an immediate settlement with their former employers.

The United States troops sent to Franklin and Springhill to keep order have returned.

The special police and cavalry have been withdrawn from the streets of Nashville. Wm. McDonald was killed on Wednesday at Elkmont, Alabama, in a street fight with Mr. Leatherman.

An assault was made at Murfreesboro, today, by H. C. McClaughlin, editor of the Monitor, on Mr. Skerbook, Registration Commissioner. Militia were sent there, a riot being feared. Major Ready telegraphed to the State authorities he had appointed extra police and could maintain peace.

The returns foot up a majority of 17,000 for Brownlow, but few counties are complete. The majority for Brownlow in Nashville and Davidson, foots up 3,910, with a few precincts to hear from. Trimble, Stokes, Arnell, Maynard, Hawkins, Mullins, Munn and Butler, Republicans, are elected to Congress. A clean sweep of both branches of the Legislature.

A Woman tries to Blow Herself Up with a Cannon Ball.

From the St. Louis Republican, July 26.

One of the most whimsical and unheard of "shuffling off this mortal coil," occurred in this city on Wednesday. A woman living in the lower part of the city named Meyer, who, from ill treatment of her husband, had become disgusted with life, attempted to make way with herself in the following unique manner. She took a six pounder cannon ball which her husband had brought from Vicksburg as a relic, and which had been lying on the mantle piece for years, and having a rather indistinct conception of the terrible effects of the projectile and the manner of using it, at length hit upon an idea. She went to Edward's grocery and purchased fifty cents' worth of power, returned home, and, procuring a breakfast plate, she placed it on the floor. She then poured the gunpowder upon the plate, and put the cannon ball on the top of the powder. Having then got her artillery into position and everything in readiness, she then sat down over the loaded plate, and with a burning taper in one hand fired the powder. The effect of the explosion may be imagined. The exploding powder burned and blackened her lower extremities while the ball which she expected would end her miseries did not stir from its position. The unfortunate victim of this insane attempt at self-destruction is lying in a precarious condition from the effects of her foolhardy attempt upon her own life.

—The Albany Journal says, that after the 1st of October, all railroad conductors are to be uniformed alike throughout the State of New York. A provision to that purpose was incorporated in an act of the Legislature last winter. A plain uniform will be in better taste than the present fashion of labeling these officers with a band upon their hats.

—In connection with the charges now so frequent in Democratic papers, that rebel prisoners were treated with great severity in Union prisons, the fact has come out in an examination of the record of the Elmira prison on the Surratt trial, that for three months in the spring of 1865, out of over five thousand prisoners then confined there, only six died.

—A young woman of respectable connections in Cincinnati has defrauded a clothing firm for whom she worked, of nearly two thousand dollars during the past two years. Her mode of prosecuting her game has been to obtain the garments upon which she was to operate from the store—suppose it to be eight pairs of pants—she would return them finished, and on a subsequent visit to the store, would present her check demanding pay for eighteen pairs. As her returned goods were seldom counted she was very successful in the enterprise.

—The Archduchess Sophia, who is now going crazy on account of the murder of Maximilian, wears a ring with the names of twenty Hungarian noblemen engraved upon it, whom she ordered to be put to death.

—The St. Louis Journal is authority for the assertion that many of the leading Democrats of the country are pulling the political wires to place General McClellan once more in nomination for the Presidency.

General Grant has stated his belief that all the Indian tribes were anxious to make peace. Members of the Commission have started West to night.

The visit of the Sultan to Vienna, terminated August 1st. His Majesty departed this evening for Pesth, where he will make a brief visit, and thence proceed to Constantinople.

The following is a fair synopsis of Merrick's secession harrangue in defence of Surratt, which occupied the whole day: First—Mrs. Surratt was innocent, and Judge Advocate General Holt got witnesses in the case to perjure themselves to screen his guilt. Second—The jury, and not the Court, are judges of the law. Third—A conspirator is responsible only for what he personally does, and is not implicated by the acts of his associates. There is great indignation among the loyal members of the bar at this extraordinary attempt to persuade a jury to disregard the law, as charged by the Court.

—Nothing further had transpired up to ten o'clock regarding the President's final action in Sheridan's case. A Cabinet Minister states that he knows of no order for his removal, and hopes none will issue.

—A delegation of rebel Alabamians had an interview with the President, and urged the immediate removal of General Pope, charging that he held precisely the same views as Sheridan.

—In the competitive trial of mowing and reaping machines at Paris, on the imperial farm at Vincennes, the distribution of prizes made by the jury shows that the American inventions excelled all others. C. H. McCormick receives the highest prize for reaper and mower, and gold medals were awarded to Messrs. Wood and Parry.

CHARLESTON, July 31.—A large Republican mass meeting was held last night, the freedmen larely predominating. Dr. Mackey presided. After several speeches, resolutions were unanimously adopted expressing their unalterable determination to carry out in good faith and without reservation the measures looking to restoration, endorsing the platform of the recent Republican Convention at Columbia.

—The United States Treasurer has received a letter post marked Dubuque, Iowa, enclosing $150, which the writer says was unjustly taken while in the United States service for commutation of rations for a servant when he had none. Another party from Indiana returns one dollar fraudulently obtained in a statement of an account with the Government.

Imprisonment for debt has at last been abolished in France. The French law, in this particular, is now substantially the same as that of England and of the United States. This is a hopeful sign of the rational and humane legislation which has begun and is destined to prevail more and more. The old law regarding the debtor was barbarous in the extreme.

St. Louis, July 31.—The surgeon at Fort Harker reports that no cases of epidemic cholera have occurred there for some days past. The few cases last week were sporadic and due to carelessness or specially unhealthy circumstances. People are returning to Ellsworth and there is nothing new to deter trade or travel.

Rep. Dist. Com.

WAR ON GOV. MARSHALL.

The Press of Sunday last, evinces no inconsiderable degree of uneasiness, in relation to the course of the Mankato UNION and St. cloud Journal, upon the issues of the coming campaign, the most important of which, to the Press, the personal organ of Governor Marshall, who is a "bitter, personal enemy" of Hon. Ignatius Donnelly and ex-Senator Wilkinson, is the renomination of the present executive for re-election. It further says that we are especially conspicuous in spiteful and venomous animadversions against Gov. Marshall, and that the above named gentlemen take occasion to use our local disappointment on the Normal School veto, to prejudice our citizens against the renomination of Gov. Marshall. It further thinks that their are sensible republicans enough in Mankato and St. Cloud to rebuke the assaults of their respective journals, upon an officer so pure and conscientious as the gentlemanly Governor, who has only to turn the crank of the (hand) organ known as the St. Paul Press, to bring forth music which chants te deums to the praise of himself, and curses, threats and maledictions against any free man whose aspirations conflict with his easy road to fame. It further accuses the UNION and Journal of being the mouth pieces of Wilkinson and Donnelly. It also thinks our exertions to get rid of Gov. Marshall is a potential reason why the people should keep him there.

With this brief synopsis of the Press article we are able to give our readers a few more ideas upon the animus of the Press and the scheme of Gov. Marshall, and defend ourselves from a groundless attack. Its statement that we are the mouth-piece of ex-Senator Wilkinson, and that our paper is prostituted to further his ambitious schemes, is so very original with that sheet, that it must have come of the fruitfulness of its own imagination, aided by the fact that there never was a time when the Press was not the mouthpiece and venal tool of some ambitious schemer at the Capital. There can be no other source of information, for we have never intimated, or in any manner brought forward, the name of Mr. Wilkinson for Governor. On the other hand, the Press and Pioneer have recognized in Mr. Wilkinson a formidable opponant to the bond swindle, and therefore are troubled with the night mare, and are fighting what seems to them a hideous monster, when it is nothing but a phantom of fear caused by the unrighteousness of the bond proposition, the advocacy of which their consciences condemn, but mercenary considerations justify. We have said nothing in the interest of Mr. Wilkinson, nor could we, had we desired, as we believe he is not a candidate for Governor, but on the contrary is quietly at home minding his own business, whose example in that respect we respectfully recommend to the Press. The charge, however, against us for indulging in spiteful and venomous attacks upon Gov. Marshall, has only a shadow of truth in it. We believe last week is the first mention we have made of the Governor, in connection with the election this fall, or in connection with the bond question. As a true and faithful exponant of republican principles, and as a soldier in the crushing of the great rebellion, we concede him due praise, and upon these considerations, coupled with the fact that now is the great crisis in the maintainance of equal rights throughout the States south and north, and that a firm adherence to our reconstruction policy can alone carry us beyond danger, we could ignore local considerations to secure that great end, and cordially support Gov. Marshall if he should be the candidate for re-election. But in the mean time we shall not only plead and labor for any local advantage which the State may accord to us, but shall be faithful to the people in ventilating the schemes of bad men or bad editors who would, for paltry gain, lead them into the vortex of financial ruin. If Governor Marshall trains with the St. Paul Press he trains with those who wish to saddle the State with a ruinous indebtedness, without valuable consideration. And the quotation of his message by the Press, does not extricate him from responsibility. Due consideration of the bond proposition, if he wished to "protect the treasury from spoilation" as the Press claims, would have induced him to veto that measure, as it is agreed by all statesmen that it will be the most villainous haul of public plunder ever perpetrated upon a people, if ratified by them. If the Governor is opposed now to the measure, being satisfied of its unjust effect upon the State, its an easy matter to make his convictions public, though under the pressure of an ardent desire for renomination, an acknowledgement of his error might not have its usual weight. But however this may be, there can be no harm in planking our platform with a resolution in opposition to the bond proposition, and whoever mounts it must be able to speak by the card.

The Normal school bill would have cost the State one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. The bond proposition will cost the State five millions of dollars, at least two-thirds of which would be the ill-gotten gain of the backers of the St. Paul Press; and while that paper adores the Governor for crippling our educational interests for the sake of preventing a spoilation of the treasury, it has no words of censure for approving a bill which will be a mill-stone around our necks, and prevent emigration from entering our borders and sharing the burden with us. Before the Press in given to further laudations of Governor Marshall let it explain this little piece of inconsistency. It is no use to attempt to steal the livery of heaven to serve the devil in. If public leakages are to be stopped let it be done effectually, and not rob Peter to pay Paul, or Chamberlin, or any other reservoir of public plunder, which can be tapped by the Press and its friends, with a smaller instrument in consideration of services rendered. Honesty does not always make a man rich, but the payment of these bonds will, and no one knows or expects to realize that fact more than the Press and Pioneer of St. Paul, which go cheek by jole in trying to convince the public that they don't know right from wrong except as it is disseminated by those vicious journals.

LIQUOR PROHIBITION

An attempt has been made by the Democratic party to bring before the public this year the question of prohibiting the manufacture and sale of liquor. It would be naturally supposed that the opposing party, that is the republican party, had taken ground in favor of prohibition. Nothing can be further from the truth, and the evident intent of inserting a resolution in the democratic platform declaring against prohibition, was simply to draw off the votes of German republicans whose early habits lead them to use liquor and especially beer, as a beverage. The question of prohibition was raised in the legislature last winter, and we believe by a republican member, but it was heartily supported by every democratic member of the House, and were it not for the zealous labor of the majority of the republican members, the law would have been passed. What little strength the democracy had, was wholly thrown for the prohibitory law, and while some republicans were in sympathy with it, the majority of them killed the bill in the House, in spite of its advocates and the democracy combined. But it is said that the democratic members voted in this manner in order to place the responsibility of the bill upon the republican party, which was in the ascendency, and such a law being unpopular with the republican Germans, they would desert the party en masse, and join the ranks of the copperhead rebel sympathizing party, and by their votes, not only repeal the law, but place in power a class of demagogues, whose only profession has been that of enmity to free institutions, free speech, and free men.

A word to Germans upon this point. There are no doubt many who are attached to the principles of the republican party so far as they refer to government and manhood equality, but who would oppose prohibitory laws, should the party take up such an issue. Any restriction upon this matter, must come from the legislature, and we believe before forsaking the party, they should and will take pains to see whether our candidates for the Legislature are committed for or against such a measure. Considering it an infringement upon their customs, like every other question that comes up for public adjudication, they should first resist it in their own ranks, and failing there, no free man would question their right to seek redress elsewhere. The cause of temperance, if advanced by judicious measures, has our hearty concurrence, and any one who opposes it, is an enemy to himself; for drunkenness leads to vice and crime and physical ruin. But we have never had occasion to advocate total abstinance, for all the liquor we take, unless it is impure, has benefited us, and there are thousands of sober men who would prefer to be deprived of coffee than forego the daily use of beer. We suggest therefore as a remedy to the evils of intemperence a punishment for those who are intemperate and not a sweeping penalty to all who have never abused its use. Every man has an absolute right to do with himself as he pleases, except wherein his conduct effects society. Drinking, simply, does not effect society, drunkenness does; therefore punish drunkenness by law, and allow those whose tastes dictate a use of liquor in wholesome quantities, the right to so use it. So long as there are so many in the republican rank who are opposed to prohibition, it is suicidal in the party to divide upon this question. Nothing but the education of public sentiment to that standard, can ever prevent the use of liquor in some form, either legally or illegally.

Railroad Progress.

From the Austin (Mower County) Register, Aug. 1st.

We learn that the track on the Central road is laid nine miles south of Owatonna. At this point is the first station. We cannot learn as yet what it is to be named. Track laying for a few days past has been suspended, owing to the high water preventing the contractor from getting the iron, which was some ten feet under water at Mendota. A boat load was expected yesterday, in which case track laying would be resumed to-day. It is expected that the track will extend to Oak Glenn Station next week Saturday. This is about eighteen miles from Owatonna. If the weather is at all favorable the locomotive's shrill whistle on this Road, will be heard in Austin by the 15th of September.

Campaign Press.

The St. Paul Press will commence, on the 15th day of August next, the issue of the Weekly and Tri-weekly Campaign Press which will be furnished clubs at rates a trifle above the cost of the white paper for the three months ending November 15, a week after the election. The Campaign Press will thus cover the whole active period of the campaign, and include its results. Our Republican friends throughout the county should go promptly to work and get up clubs for either or both of these editions of the Campaign Press. The rates will be as follows:

The Campaign Weekly Press for the three months beginning August 15th and ending November 15th, 40 cents.

For the Tri-Weekly Press for the same period, $1 00.—Owatonna Journal.

The above notice of the campaign issue of the St. Paul Press we can endorse, except in so far as the Press is prostituted to the advocacy of the proposition to pay the Railroad bonds. Upon this question there is no doubt that the head of that sheet is a little turned, and its readers must recollect that its proprietors are not so invulnerable to "fat takes" as not be influenced to work for pay, and it is averred that even if a quickened conscience prompts them to advocate the swindle, the nimble shilling is still more potent in inducing them to think and talk as the bondholders do.

St. Paul and Chicago Railway.

By a special telegram to the St. Paul papers we notice that orders have been issued to commence work on this important railway at once, and farther, that the whole line from St. Paul to Winona is to be completed in one year. We are are not over sanguine in regard to the last part, but we think that when work is fairly commenced the road will be built without any unnecessary delay.—Red Wing Rep.

The Kentucky Election.

LOUISVILLE, Aug. 5.—The State election in Louisville, and throughout the State as far as heard from, passed off quietly. The result has been another Democratic triumph, by a majority variously estimated at from 45,000 to 60,000. Louisville city and the county of Jefferson have elected their entire legislative ticket, twelve members. It is believed that the Democrats in the State have elected seven-eights of the legislature. In the city the Radicals and third party made a very poor run, Helm, the Democratic candidate for Governor, beating both his opponents by about 3,300 majority.

STATE NEWS.

TO VISIT ENGLAND.—We understand that Bishop Whipple designs to visit England in September, at the invitation of the Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, to be present at the Grand Council of Bishops from all parts of the world.—Faribault Republican.

CAPT. DAVY'S EXPEDITION.—We are informed that a gentleman arrived in this city yesterday direct from the expedition under Captain Davy, which started from this vicinity several weeks ago for Montana. He represents the members of the expedition as being at or near Fort Berthold, in very destitute circumstances, and almost, or quite out of provisions.—Pioneer, Aug. 5th.

The Lawrence University of Wisconsin, at its recent commencement, conferred the degree of Divinity upon Rev. Jabez Brooks of this city.—Red Wing Rep.

RAILROAD ITEM.—A train of fifty-two cars, all loaded with freight, left this city one day last week for Rochester and other points on the Winona and St. Peter Railroad. The Rochester Post says this was the largest train ever brought through on this road.—Winona Republican.

EXTENSIVE FARMING OPERATIONS.—We met Oliver Dalrymple, Esq., the widely known farmer of Cottage Grove, in the city yesterday. He had just been buying twelve span of horses for harvesting. Mr. Dalrymple will run sixteen teams during his harvesting operations this year, and keep eight McCormick reapers in operation. He expects to cut eight hundred acres a week until harvest is over.

Mr. Dalrymple has 2,000 acres in cultivation. Seventeen hundred acres is planted in wheat. Should wheat command present prices after harvest, the crop will yield, when threshed and marketed, over $50,000. The land owned by Mr. Dalrymple dose not lie in a body, but is divided into three farms, on each of which he has erected fine and substantial buildings. On one of them he is putting up a stable to accommodate 100 horses. Those who have seen the fields of waving grain say it is a grand sight, and it will be worth a trip to the place to see the harvesters at work. Mr. Dalrymple is the most extensive farmer, we believe, in the State.—St Paul Pioneer Aug. 4th.

Alfred Marsh, who died at his residence in the town of Hart in Winona county, on the 35th ult., weighed a short time before his death 485 lbs., and was no doubt the largest man in Minnesota. He was a man of powerful muscular development—a blacksmith by trade—and four or five years ago lifted the extraordinary weight of between fourteen and fifteen hundred pounds. It is believed that he then injured himself internally, and, that to that cause his early death may be attributed. He died two days before he was 53 years old. He was one of the best citizens in the county, and numerous relatives and friends deeply mourn his loss.—Winona Democrat.

NEW PAPER.—We have just received the first copy of a republican paper just issued by M. C. Russell, Esq., at Shakopee, one of the strongholds of the democracy of the State. It is a neat six column sheet, and is edited by John H. Brown, Esq., a lawyer, of fine ability. A good lawyer, however, does not always make a good editor, but the first efforts of Mr. Brown indicate a talent for either position. In the local department we recognized the pen of M. C. Russell, who is among the best local editors of the State. We trust, together they will bruise the salient points of democracy in old Scott county, until victory crowns their enterprise.

ENLARGED.—The Lake City Leader comes to us enlarged to an eight column paper. The Leader is right, like the majority of its county cotemporaries, and the great majority of the people, on the bond question, and upon its evidences of financial success we extend our hearty congratulations.

—Mr. George Papendie, a well known broker of Boston, died recently under curious circumstances. He was drawing the cork from a bottle, at his summer residence at Blue Hill, Milton, when the bottle burst, a portion of it cutting deeply into the palm of one of his hands. Inflamation set in, and all attempts to allay it were unavailing.

—A telegram from New Orleans says that General Sheridan is about to remove Lieutenant Governor Voorhies of Louisiana.

—The Commissioner of Customs has started on a general tour of inspection of the custom houses along the Atlantic coast as far east as Eastport, Maine.

—By a comparison of the merchant fleets of the different nations, it seems that North Germany stands the third on the list. Great Britain, with her colonies, has about seven million tons; the United States have five million, and Northern Germany has one million three hundred and forty thousand tons. France has 985,000 tons; Italy, 656,000; Netherlands, 510,000; Spain, 276,000 Austria, 233,000; Sweden and Norway, 176,000, and Denmark, 140,000.

LAWRENCE, Kansas, August 1.

A New York correspondent at the Seminole Agency, dating July 18th, says the cholera is raging at Fort Gibson among the Cherokee Nation, at Holly Springs in the Creek Nation, and in a portion of the Seminole Nation, and to an alarming extent at Fort Gibson. About forty persons have already died. The disease has broken out in the western portion of the Seminole Nation, Six persons died with cholera last week. So far it has not made its appearance in this part of the country.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - - AUGUST 9, 1867.

On the second page will be found the calls of the republican County and District Conventions.

—Harrison's Camera for sale cheap. Inquire at Mrs. Ogelesby's millinery shop.

—The Frontier Club have procured their uniforms, preparatory to meeting the St. Peter club next Tuesday. Walter Fowler has arrived to take part in the game.

—We are in receipt of a sample of flour from Rockey's mill, which makes very nice white bread. His flour seems to be in good demand in consequence of its very fine quality.

—The funeral of Lewis C. Miller, the son of W. H. Miller, who was drowned in the LeSueur on Monday last, took place at the Presbyterian church yesterday.

Mowers.—There is economy in buying the Excelsior mowers, as parties who purchase them can get the Reaping attachment as a self raker another year at a cost of not more than $35, should they need the Dropper. 2w

—The lecture of Hon. Mark H. Dunnell will take place at Shoemaker's Hall.

Base Ball.—We are informed that the South Bend Base Ball Club are coming down to-morrow to play a match game with the Minneinneopa Club.

—Luther Shearer of the Hoosier Grocery has purchased a lot on the bench near Court House Square and is erecting a frame dwelling at a cost of $1,200.

"Red Jacket."—We are under obligations to Messrs. Scott & Elliott for a 50 pound sack of their best brand. The reputation of this mill for making splendid flour is too well established to need further commendation. The mill is again in running order and will despatch grists in short notice.

Personal.—Mr. O. P. Whitcomb, of Rochester, and treasurer of Olmstead county, who is visiting friends in this city, called a moment this week. He reports that Rochester is making great preparations for the State Fair, and would be glad to see our Mankato and Blue Earth people attend.

The Sabbath.—Rev. Mr. Tice will preach next Sunday evening, at the usual hour, in the Methodist Church, upon the Sabbath Question, giving a distinction between the Jewish and Christian Sabbath, and the obligation to keep the Lord's day.

Minneinneopa Festival.—The festival of the young lads Base Ball Club last Friday night was largely attended and was a complete success. The crowd was so much larger than the most sanguine expected, that they were obliged at great expense to purchase ice cream from dealers. Their receipts were over $75, though the nett gain was but $25.35. A pleasant dance rounded off the gaieties of the evening. Most of the boys have secured their uniforms.

Register of Deeds.—We are requested to announce the name of Lorin Cray, of Shelbyville, as a candidate for Register of Deeds, subject to the decision of the Blue Earth county republican convention.

Public Lecture—Common Schools.—Hon. Mark H. Dunnell, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, will deliver a public lecture in Mankato next week Thursday evening August 15th at 7½ o'clock. The public are invited to attend. Further notice will be given of the place of meeting.

Circus.—The advertisement of Dr. Caldwell's Occidental Circus appears elsewhere. This troupe are said to possess talent inferior to no company in the West. The performers are selected with a view to skill and experience in the art of the athlete, and the feats of horsemanship. This will be the last opportunity to witness a circus performance this season, and those who are attached to such amusements, must be on hand next Monday afternoon and evening. They promise to give you the worth of your money.

Personal.—Maj. W. R. Snider spent a short time in town last week. We notice from the last issue of the Goodhue County Republican, that the Major has bought into that paper, and will hereafter act jointly with the former proprietor in its editorial and business management. From what we know of the Major, we presume the Republican will show increased marks of talent and enterprise. We have but recently placed it on our exchange list, and are rather surprised at seeing so large a paper published at that place.

Millinery and Dyeing.—We call attention elsewhere to the card of Mrs. Sarah C. Williams and her husband G. O. Williams who have lately established themselves in the millinery business on Front street, opposite to L. L. & O. H. Davis' hardware store.

In addition to a large experience in the making and trimming of bonnets, cloaks and dresses. Mr. Williams pays special attention to bleeching straw under a new process, and coloring the same any desired shade. He will also in the fall erect a dye house, and gradually work into the business of dyeing cloths, silks and clothing. The enterprise of Mr. and Mrs. Williams deserves, and doubtless will merit, a handsome patronage of our citizens.

Presler Boys.—These unfortunate children, who it will be remembered lost their hands and feet by freezing on the 13th and 14th of February 1866 in Martin county, were in town on Wednesday last en route for Kendall county Indiana where they have an Uncle, to whom they go for the purpose of receiving an education. They are under the care of N. D. M. Bradt, of Blue Earth City, who has volunteered to interest himself in seeing them safe to their destination. Being very poor, their parents trust that a sympathizing public will at least do as much as to assist them in this journey. A report was in circulation several months since that these boys were used for the purposes of speculation, but we are assured that Mr. Bradt is quite a different man from the individual in charge of them last spring, and that all moneys collected by the boys will be faithfully appropriated in their behalf.

Railroad Meeting.—Pursuant to a notice published in this paper, a meeting of those interested in the Minnesota Northwestern Railroad Company, was held on Tuesday last at the office of Dr. W. R. McMahan. There were present, Judge H. D. Baldwin, John C. Hunter, P. C. Bailey, and J. W. Johnson, of Wilton, Francis Baasen of New Ulm, and Dr. W. R. McMahan, Basil Moreland and Stephen Lamm, of Mankato. Unfortunately a copy of the law reviving the charter, which had been sent for, did not arrive in time to enable them to effect a permanent organization. The importance and feasibility of the road was discussed, and a harmonious and determined disposition was manifested to make the enterprise a success.

Mite Society.—The ladies of the Methodist church will hold their Mite Society at the church, on Wednesday evening of next week. Ice cream and peaches will be served

Rev. J. G. Craven.—We are informed that the Rev. J. G. Craven, Baptist minister of this city, has sold his residence to Judge Brown, preparatory to leaving for Pella, Iowa. Mr. Craven has been engaged in organizing and building up the Baptist church of this city, and his arduous labors have been crowned with great success. Surmounting every obsticle attending a feeble organization, he has built a very neat church, which is paid for, and a small amount of money is still on hand. Mr. Craven is an efficient worker, and advances his denominational views with great force and diligence, and the church will find it dificult to fill the vacancy caused by his removal.

Death by Falling from a Swing.—Our Mapleton reporter furnishes us the following account of the death of a little girl by falling from a swing:

Ed. Union:—Another accidental death in our vicinity, and another family mourning the loss of a departed child. A daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hutchinson living near the west end of Minnesota lake, came to her death in the following manner: The girl was about ten years old. Seated in the swing, a couple of boys rendering assistance by keeping her in motion, while at a considerable elevation, she attempted to arrange her clothes, lost her balance and fell to the ground. This was on Friday and on the following Sunday she died of injuries received by the fall. The funeral on Tuesday was attended by a large gathering of friends and neighbors. No further particulars are furnished us or we should give the matter more attention.

Twenty Eight Miles to Railroad.—We are informed by a gentleman of Janesville that the Clear Lake Station called Waseca is only 28 miles from Mankato, it being 16 miles to Janesville and 12 miles from that place to Waseca. It is thought that there will be but one more station on the road, and indications point to section 30 in Janesville Township which is in Waseca county, next to the Blue Earth county line. If located there it will be about a mile and a half this side of the village of Janesville.

Republican Committee Meeting.—Pursuant to a previous call the members of the Blue Earth county Republican central committee, and the District committee of the 17th Legislative District, assembled in joint meeting in this city on Saturday last, the 3d inst.

The meeting was called to order. M. D. Flower President, and C. S. Dunscomb acting as Secretary.

Mr. Stebbins moved that a joint Convention be held on the 5th of Sept. next at Mankato, to place in nomination county and District officers, and to elect Delegates to attend the State Convention, at St. Paul. Carried.

On motion of Thos. W. Pugh, the town committees of the several townships are constituted as special committees to organize Republican clubs, for the purpose of more efficiency in carrying the elections this fall. Carried.

On motion of John J. Lewis, Saturday the 31st day of August, at 5 o'clock p. m., was designated as the time for holding the caucuses in the several townships, unless otherwise directed by the town committees.

The apportionment of delegates was then made to the different towns, as appears in the call elsewhere. (Ed. Union.)

On motion a committee was appointed to issue an address to the Republican voters of the District.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

Sales and Improvements.—Rev. J. G. Craven has sold his house and lot where he resides to Judge Brown for about $1,000.

Martin N. Dayton, of Ohio, purchased a corner lot of the Van Brunt estate, on Front street, nearly opposite Mr. Brink's log house for $500. This sale is deemed very low. Mr. Dayton will bring his family here, and become a resident of this place. He intends this fall to erect on the lot a business house, of brick, about the size of Ray, Williams & Bros.

A. J. Foster has commenced the erection of a large one story brick house on Second street Van Brunt's addition nearly back of J. C. Wise's residence. The cost including lot will be nearly $2,000.

E. D. B. Porter and J. T. Williams are erecting a business office, for the sale of land, Insurance, &c, to be 16 feet by 24, one story. It is located between Willard & Barney's law office and Howe & Everett's grocery on Front street.

Mathias Weitinger of Kasota is building a 1½ story house back of Rev. Mr. Sommereisen's residence, on the bench at a cost of about $1,500.

Peter Sibauer is erecting a frame building in Lower town opposite the Bierbauer's Woolen mills at a cost of about $500.

Railway Station at Clear Lake.—Our readers are interested in anything that pertains to the movements of the Winona & Mankato railway, and we therefore clip from the Wilton News some items concerning the first station west of Owatonna, which is at Clear Lake, 28 miles east of Mankato, and at which point a town has been laid out and named Waseca. The News speaks as if the cars would be running to this point by the 20th of this month. It says:

> Mr. I. C. Trowbridge has just completed a survey of about 60 acres of his new town, near Clear Lake, and christened it Waseca. He has commenced grading the main business street and will have it completed in a few days.
> Messrs. McVeigh and Betterly have each purchased lots and commenced the erection of stores. Mr. J. R. Whitman has purchased ground, and intends to build a livery stable this fall. Mr. Vincent, formerly of Baston, has purchased some lots, and will in a few days commence the building of a large hotel. Messrs. Baldwin & Kittredge, J. W. Johnson & Co., and P. C. Bailey, of Wilton, have bought lots and will probably build this fall. Mr. Williams has engaged Messrs. Taylor & Clark to put up a building for him.
> Mr. Searles, of the firm of Sterling and Searles, lumber dealers, is about to build a residence, we are informed, where he may always be found, ready to sell lumber of all kinds, at the lowest cash rates.
> Many others have purchased lots, and many new buildings will be erected before winter sets in.
> Mr. Trowbridge has taken considerable pains to lay off his town in good style, and persons desiring to settle in a new and thriving village, will do well to call and take a look at Waseca.
> The R. R. track has been laid some distance west from Owatonna, and will, it is said, reach Waseca within the next twenty days.

Drowned.—On Tuesday evening, August 6th, Lewis C. Miller, younger son of Wm H. Miller, aged seven years, was drowned in the Le Sueur river, at the ferry.

The following are the circumstances of his drowning: Mr. Miller had gone out on the prairie to make hay, leaving his hired man to attend to the ferry until the school was adjourned in the evening, when he directed him to come out and help load some hay, leaving his elder son to run the ferry, as he had been accustomed to do frequently before. The two little boys had crossed the river with a team and three men—Barney Simmons, William Juste and a man by the name of Bloom. The younger boy as the boat neared the shore, stepped upon a pole to hold up the apron. As the boat was landing, William Just walked out upon the apron, throwing the pole up, and the boy into the river on the upper side of the boat. He passed directly under the boat and came to the surface below it, within ten feet of the bank, and although he came to the surface three times, as his brother affirms, and the water was quite shallow, those three men stood upon the boat and let him drown, without making an effort to rescue him. It is understood that Mr. Simmons was a good swimmer, yet refused to go to his rescue, affirming that he was too warm to go into the water, while Mr. Miller's dog, with apparent solicitude for the boy's safety, jumped in and swam around the boat after him.

Mrs. Miller and Miss Hannah, who were standing on the bank of the river watching the boat cross, saw him fall and screamed to the men to get him out. Mr. Miller who was coming home and near the river at the time, left his team in the woods and ran to the spot, but was too late to save him. Within half an hour some twenty persons were present and vigilant search was made for the body, which was found lodged on the dam of the "Red Jacket mills", a short distance below the ferry, in seven feet of water. Every effort was made, by the parents and friends to restore life to the recovered body, but all was in vain. The spirit had taken its flight. This is a very severe affliction to the parents for he was a promising little boy, and will be missed not only in the family circle but in the neighborhood.

He found a watery grave;
Though sturdy men were near,
They dared not try to save,
The drowning boy, through fear.

Green Corn.—Roasting ears appeared in the market this week being the first of the season.

Hot.—The thermometer was 100° in the shade on Sunday last and on Wednesday also. Yesterday was nearly as warm.

Harvesting.—The haying season is now in full blast and harvesting will be fairly commenced next Monday. The prospect of a fair yield is flattering, and the hot weather will insure beyond peradventure a good corn crop.

Splendid Brick.—The last kiln of bricks burned by Gregg & Co. at the upper yard is said to be the best brick ever made in Mankato. They are selling at the very low prices and those intending to build will do well to give them a call.

Work on the McGregor Western is progressing with renewed vigor. The track, according to the latest advices, was laid eight miles, and was being put down at the rate of half a mile a day, and in a short time was expected to be increased to a mile a day.

DIED,

Of drowning, in the Le Sueur, on Tuesday Aug. 6, 1867, Lewis C. Miller, younger son of W. H. and Aesa Miller, aged 7 years, 4 months, 21 days.

Farewell, sweet child farewell!
'Tis hard to see thee so,
With death so like a spell,
Upon thy cheerful brow.

But the Saviour called thee home,
To dwell with him above,
The fields of bliss to roam,
Where all is joy and love.

We yield thee to His will,
We dare not answer no,
Then bid our grief be still,
And let the angel go.

Passed on to the higher life, from Belgrade Minn., July 28th, 1867, Eddie, son of LaRue and Lavina Parsons, in the third year of his age.

"Rest thee darling Eddie! Earth had no sweeter flower, but thou hast been transplanted to the garden of the Lord, to bloom there in fragrance and beauty forever.

Gents:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
WILLIAM MILLER

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name of "Sweepstakes," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., Manufacturers, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the Sweepstakes.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the sieves, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the sieve at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the Sweepstakes in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

WITHOUT PEEPING THROUGT THE BLINDS.

For the Mankato Union.

Why, peeping, stand before the blinds,
To see men passing of all kinds,
When men are always on the go?
Though some move fast and others slow,
How often will they pass the door,
To be seen and heard?—nothing more.
Men of high and men of low degree,
Men of all kinds we daily see,
Without peeping through the blinds.

Men with rubicund face and nose;
Well dressed men, (in their creditor's clothes,)
Men who live by work every day,
And men with time to idle away;
Men who love to puff the cigar,
Belching oaths to be heard from far,
Men black and blue, from kicks and blows;
Such men as these every one knows,
Without peeping through the blinds.

Beautiful men well shaven-fair;
Men known best by the cut of the hair;
Men who write their best verse in prose,
Stare at a woman wherever she goes,
Such men every lady will meet.
They take the side-walk—give her the street,
And all these their own story tell,
Which is read and known very well,
Without peeping through the blinds.

Destruction of Table Rock at Niagara Falls.

Niagara Falls Correspondence (July 24) of the Pittsburg Commercial.

The farfamed Table Rock, on the Canada side of Niagara Falls, which has excited the admiration of thousands from all parts of the world, and from which multitudes have gazed on this masterpiece of Nature's wonders, is no longer in existence. It was at one time an extensive platform jutting far out over the water below the falls. Portions having been falling for nearly fifty years. In 1818, a mass 160 feet long and 40 feet wide, broke off and fell into the flood below; and ten years later, in 1828, three immense masses fell with a crash that sounded out above the eternal roar of the Falls. Again a fragment fell in 1829, and in 1850 a huge mass two hundred feet in length and one hundred feet in thickness. Other portions fell in 1857 and 1863. At one time upwards of fifty persons had been standing upon the rock but a few minutes before one of these portions fell. The only loss sustained, however, was an old hack, from which the horses had been taken but a few moments before.

Owing to the frequent breaking away of portions of the rock, it has of late been regarded as dangerous, and persons have been warned against going on the rock or underneath it. Visitors have thus been debarred some of the grandest views to be had of the Horse-shoe Falls. The danger is gone, but with it the view, of which Charles Dickens wrote:

It was not till I came on Table Rock, and looked on the fall of bright green water, that it came upon me in its full weight and majesty. Then Niagara was forever stamped upon my heart, an image of beauty, to remain there, changeless and indelible, until its pulses cease to beat forever.

For two weeks past efforts have been made to disengage what remained of the rock, by blasting with powder. Advantage was taken of a deep chasm formed by the weight of the projection, to sink a hole ten or fifteen feet deep, and then insert in the crevices an immense blast of powder. At 6 p. m. to-day, the match was applied, a dark color of smoke and sand arose, and a terrific crash was heard, and the last of this once magnificent rock, still huge in its proportions, and weighing hundreds of tons, rolled in the seething cauldron below.

A STRANGE STORY

From the DeKalb County News.

On Saturday last, as Thomas Scott, one of the workmen at the Gardner Coal Mine, on the Chicago and Alton railroad, was driving an entry in the coal vein at a depth of nearly two hundred feet from the surface, he found, imbedded in the coal, next to the face of the limestone rock overhead, a square block of stone eighteen inches in length, one foot wide, and thirteen inches thick, partially hollow, and having the appearance of petrified wood. In the center was found two plates that appear to be solid gold. They are three inches in length, and about two in width, and three-eighths of an inch thick. On each are some curious inc[r]iptions and hieroglyphics. The owner has been prevailed upon to permit them to be sent to New York, where it is hoped the inscriptions may be deciphered. The Gardner Coal Company have become responsible to the miner for the safe return of the plates, or their full value.

TEA TABLE TALK.

—Long John Wentworth has been made a Long Legged Doctor by Dartmouth College.

—Widows have been compared to green wood, which, while it is burning on one side, is weeping on the other.

—A young ladies' base ball club has been organized in Niles, Mich. We suppose they are now open to engagements for a home match.

—An ungrateful son at Boston, named William Wallace, stole his mother's feather bed, worth $40, and sold it for $7, to take his girl out riding, the other day.

—A Connecticut journal adds to its "standing heads" that of "divorces," and inserts the list between the marriages and deaths.

"What did you used to do, mamma, before you were married?" asked a cherubic four years' old. "Well, my dear, I had a very good time." "A good time!" he exclaimed, indignantly—"what, without me!"

"Thou art a little bear, madam," said a Quaker to a fashionable belle at an evening party. "Sir," exclaimed the dismayed one. "About the shoulders, I mean," smilingly replied he.

Susan C. Eodsa, the sleeping wonder of Kentucky, has never been known to lay awake longer than ten minutes at a time in the last ten years.

—The New York Tribune's Washington special says: "It is rumored that Sir Frederick Bruce and Mr. Seward have been trying to agree upon a plan for the cession of the British American posessions adjacent to Walrussia, in settlement of the Alabama claims.

PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent
DUPLEX ELLIPTIC
SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been throw aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered: preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

Farmers, the best is the cheapest—Consult your interest and secure a good machine by purchasing a

CONSISTENCY.

Nothing is more to be praised and admired in any one than consistency. whatever may be his profession. We all admire the man whose practice corresponds with his preaching, and especially is this true in religion. There are in every branch of the Church, a few persons who love, like the Pharises, to make long prayers, standing on the street corners, to be seen and heard of men, but whose practice is bad. They use religion for a cloak to conceal their real purposes, which is to gain popular favor at the sacrifice of a good conscience. But popular opinion coincides with the Scriptures in their condemnation.

"No man can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one, and love the other, or else he will hold to the one and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and Mammon." That professing Christian who has set out with the Bible in one hand and the world in the other, or with the world in his heart and Religion in his head, will lose the esteem of his friends, and secure to himself the condemnation of all honest men.

Suppose, Reader, you go to-morrow, at mid-day, to the house of a neighbor, a man of wealth and learning, the doors are shut and the window blinds are closed. You knock and enter. The room is dark. Your neighbor is seated before a table in the center of the room, upon which is placed a box of matches and a candle which he is lighting, then blowing out again. You ask him what he is doing. He answers impatiently, as he continues to light and extinguished the candle "Sir, I am trying to make light and darkness dwell together in this room." You go again. It is bitter cold. The doors and windows are open, and your friend is throwing wood and coal upon a blazing fire. You inquire what he is trying to do, and he answers abruptly as he continues to throw fuel upon the increasing flames "I am trying to make cold and heat dwell together in this room. Or suppose you find him engaged in trying to make a massive stone and a light feather balance each other in the opposite sides of a pair of balances, and he tells you that he has been thus engaged for months. Would you not denounce him as insane? But is he more so than that professing Christian who has been laboring for years to make the world out weigh his soul. or has been laboring for a life time to secure earthly possessions and has at the same time been trying to lay up treasures in Heaven. A laughing world looks on and says "Oh! Consistency thou art a jewel!"

RUSTICUS.

FROM STERLING.

STERLING, Aug 5, 1867.

MR EDITOR.—I presume a few lines from Sterling might interest your numerous readers. We had a very pleasant pic-nic on Saturday Aug. 3d, at Mr. Peter's Grove near the Maple River. It was composed of the children and parents of School District No. 21, taught by Miss Martha Rouse of Shelbyville. The Children marched in procession with a pretty Banner at their head, with the motto inscribed "Onward and Upward and never say fail," from the School House to the grove. A stage was then erected with the Stars and Stripes, suspended. The programme

1st. Singing by the school, "We have come to our schoolroom."

2d Piece, The manners of England, by Master Charlie Webb.

3d. Knowledge better than Wealth, by Miss Van Voltinburgh.

4th. The Maiden's Prayer, by Miss Mattie Pelter.

5th. Jennie Wren, by Master Pennack Webb.

6th, Singing, Lightly Tread.

7th Piece, Mary Dowby, Miss Olive Root.

8th. Dialogue on Dancing, by Master Samuel Spickerman and Alva Spickerman.

9th. Singing, Teacher may I be your pupil.

10th. Singing, Away over the Mountains, by some of the Shelbyville School.

The boys and girls then took to the swings provided for the occasion, one being a very large one made from hickory poles, suspended between two fine Oaks. Some amused themselves by skipping the rope, the ladies, in the meantime, spread the tables with the bountiful provisions. At 1 o'clock dinner was ready, when the School marched in procession to the tables, all present done justice to the nice pie and cake, tea, coffee, milk, and cold water from the spring. The girls then took to swinging, whilst the boys and young men, cooled off by swiming and diving in the Maple. A few innocent games were then played, and pieces sung. All appeared to be merry and happy, which numbered about one hundred.

The crops look well, some fields of Barley are already harvested, and haying commenced in earnest. Spickerman & Co., are repairing their flume, and are determined upon having their mill in good running order again, and manufacture flour that will give general satisfaction to their customers.

JOHNSON AND STANTON.

Rich and Racy Letters.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—The following is the correct text of the correspondence recently passed between the President and Secretary of War:

EXECUTIVE MANSION,
WASHINGTON, August 5, 1867.

SIR: Public considerations of high character constrain me to say that your resignation will be accepted.

Very respectfully,
[Signed] ANDREW JOHNSON.
To Hon. EDWIN M. STANTON, Secretary of War.

WAR DEPARTMENT, Aug. 5, 1867.

SIR: Your note of this date has been received, stating that public considerations of a high character constrain you to say my resignation as Secretary of War will be accepted. In reply I have the honor to say that considerations of a high character which alone have induced me to continue at the head of this Department, constrain me not to resign the office of Secretary of War before the next meeting of Congress.

Very respectfully yours,
[Signed] EDWIN M. STANTON.
To the President.

No further action has been taken by the President, and Secretary of War remains at the Department transacting business as usual.

THE PRESIDENT ASKS STANTON TO LEAVE.

The Herald special says the Secretary of War refused the President's polite invitation to retire from office. The President's note is very brief, only four lines in length, and simply states that grave public considerations constrain him to request Mr. Stanton's resignation.

MR. STANTON BRIEFLY DECLINES.

Mr. Stanton's answer is also very brief, and intended to be very severe and cutting. It is not decided what step Mr. Johnson will next take, but think he will notify Mr. Stanton that he is no longer Secretary of War, and must vacate forthwith.

THE PRESIDENT ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT.

After the adjournment of the Cabinet meeting, the President was closeted with his secretaries until ten o'clock to-night. It is supposed it had reference to the Stanton imbroglio. The subject of Stanton's removal has been the absorbing topic of conversation today in every circle, and there has been much speculation to learn what will next transpire. Among prominent officials it seems to be the general opinion that the President has power to remove Mr. Stanton under the provision of the first section of the Tenure of Office bill. Mr. Stanton kept himself almost completely shut up in his private office today. It is said that Secretary Seward is not altogether in favor of the President's action in this matter, and that he and Thurlow Weed are about to strive to save Stanton's head again. A year ago when there was serious thoughts of removing Mr. Stanton, Weed and Raymond's influence, coupled with Seward's entreaties, induced the President to abandon the idea.

MR. STANTON'S OFFENCES.

It is now said by the friends of the President that Stanton's offences amount to a deliberate system of thwarting the President, obstructing his policy in every way and insulting him repeatedly in his official intercourse. The President, it is claimed, has determined to tolerate this no longer, and has put his foot down firmly.

MR. JOHNSON'S DILEMMA.

The Tribune special says under the civil tenure bill Mr. Johnson does not feel fully satisfied that he can remove Stanton because of the phraseology quoted here:

"Shall hold their offices respectively during the term of office of the President by whom they have been appointed," but he feels satisfied that he can suspend Mr. Stanton and prevent him from exercising the duties of War Minister. This latter point was submitted to the Cabinet and they agreed that the President could so suspend. Mr. Johnson will, therefore, in a day or two, notify Mr. Stanton that he will not hold any further official relation with him and that he cannot be admitted to Cabinet meetings.

THE PRESIDENT AND SHERIDAN.

The Times' special says that Grant has publicly expressed the opinion that Sheridan would not be removed, and an evening organ of the administration prints an editorial tonight advising the President against the issue of the order to that effect. It is probable, however, that neither of these statements, were made after consultation with the President as it is known that he still persists in his intention to displace Sheridan. Grant says that Thomas and Hancock are both actively engaged in the duties of their department, which can't be interfered with without detriment to the public service. Rumor connects the fact that Johnson has telegraphed in person to General Rousseau, ordering him to Washington, with the removal of General Sheridan, and it is suggested that he is to be assigned to the 5th district.

Judge Pierrepont's Charge—The Case Given to the Jury—No Prospect for a Verdict Up to Ten O'clock Last Night.

WASHINGTON, August 7th.

The Surratt case went to the jury at noon to-day. The charge of Judge Fisher was very impressive, though there were some marked efforts to break its force by sneers of counsel for the defence and by rebel sympathizers present.

The court-room is lighted up, and a large crowd is in waiting for the jury. At this writing, 10:30 p. m.—there are no prospects for a verdict to-night. The best thing the counsel for the prosecution hope for is a disagreement and chance of a new trial, though reports at the Court House are that the jury is 9 to 3 for conviction.

Since the close of the testimony, in addition to Warden Heustis, who says he saw Surratt here on the 14th of April, a man has arrived who rode with Surratt, on the 13th, on a special train, from Elmira to Harrisburg; and a third party, from the interior, gives the information that he met Surratt in this city on the 14th, and shook hands and conversed with him.

WASHINGTON, August 7.—In the Surratt case to day, after some discussion upon immaterial points, Judge Fisher charged the jury at length, concluding as follows:

I presume that, from the observations which have been addressed to you, you will infer—

First. That a conspiracy formed in time of war to take the life of the President and Vice President of the Republic, and of the heads of the executive departments, for the purpose of aiding the enemies of the Federal Government, by throwing it into anarchy and confusion, is treason, as heinous and as hurtful to the people of this country as compassing the death of the King or Queen of Great Britain is to the subjects of that realm.

Second. That every person engaged in such conspiracy, as long as he continues a member of it, is responsible, not only for the act of treason, but for any murder or less crime which may follow from it.

Third. That the Government may waive the charge of treason against any or all conspirators, and proceed against them for the smaller crime of murder, included in the greater crime of treason,

Fourth, That under an indictment for murder, resulting from the prosecution of such conspiracy, evidence of the entire scope of the conspiracy may be considered in estimating the heinous character of the offence laid in the indictment.

Fifth. That it was not necessary to aver in the indictment the fact that Abraham Lincoln, the victim of the murder. was at the time of its commission President of the United States, or to prove it in order to allow the jury to take that fact into account in determining the heinous character of the crime, it being a fact of which the Court will take judicial cognizance.

Sixth. That he who does an act by another does it by himself, and is responsible for its consequence, in a criminal as well as in a civil case.

Seventh. That although an alibi, when clearly established, forms a complete and unanswerable defence, the mere absence from the immediate scene of a crime resulting from a conspiracy unrepented of and abandoned by the party, will not avail him if he were at some other place assigned him, performing his part in that conspiracy.

Eighth. That this plea is, unless clearly made out, always regarded with suspicion, and a circumstance weighing against him who attempted it, because it implies an admission of the truth of the facts alleged against him, and the correctness of the inference drawn from them.

Ninth. That the flight from the scene of the crime, the fabrication of false accounts, and the concealment of instruments of violence, are circumstances indicating guilt.

Tenth, Although a confession in the slightest degree tainted with the promise of favor, or by duress or fear, is not admitted as evidence against him who makes it, yet if made freely and voluntarily it is one of the surest proofs of guilt. As to the credibility of witnesses, you are to be the exclusive judges. You see them face to face; you know whether they are confirmed or unsupported or contradicted by other witnesses of credit or by other circumstances; you are to judge whether their testimony has been impeached, and to consider every matter that will shed any light as to what has been truthfully or falsely disposed by any witness you will diligently collate, compare. and carefully weigh and consider all testimony in the case on both sides; you will not disregard or reject the testimony of any witness unless satisfied that he has been shown to be unworthy of pure evidence by reason of his want of character for truth, his contradicting himself, or being flatly contradicted by others, of better credit. or by dishonesty of purpose manifested by his conduct and manner in testifying before you. In conclusion, you will take the case with the honest purpose to do justice to the United States and the defendant, bearing in mind that it is the office of the law to secure the punishment of the guilty and the protection of the innocent. If John H. Surratt, in the honest and intelligent conviction of your judgement and consciences, is not guilty, so pronounce by your verdict, thus giving a lesson of assurance that a court of justice is the asylum of innocence. On the other hand, if guilty, pronounce him guilty, and by your verdict furnish a guarantee to the intended victims of guilt, and a testimonial to the country and world that the District of Columbia. set apart by the Constitution of the United States as a theatre for the exercise of Federal power, gives the judicial guarantees essential to the protection of persons, public servants commissioned by the people of the nation to do their work. safe and sacred from the presence of unpunished assassins within its borders.

The jury retired to their rooms at twenty-eight minutes before twelve.

At 3:30 p. m., Judge Fisher went home. Rumors are flying that the jury stands 10 to 2. The prisoner, was taken from the room at 4:10. The Judge returned at 6:30, but as nothing had been heard from the jury, he subsequently left between 9 and 10 o'clock. Bedding was brought into the Court House and taken to the jury room. The crowd in the Court room hangs on, and not a few are fast asleep. The room is dimly lighted with candles. Among the spectators remaining were half a dozen females.

At 1 o'clock Judge Fisher again took his position on the bench. He was informed by one of the bailiffs that there was no prospect of an agreement. The Judge stated that he would go home but would not order a recess. but it was understood that he would not be here to receive the verdict until to-morrow morning.

Some of the jurors are comfortably disposed upon pallets, and others striving to convince each other of their views.

From the Rural Minnesotian.

On page 343 of the journal of the Senate of Minnesota for 1860, will be found the Reports of the Special Committee of the House and Senate on Railroad Grants, presented Feb. 3d, 1860. The majority report, signed by J. H. Stewart, G. K. Cleveland, Geo. W. Green, Orange Walker, and John W. Burnham, states:

"From the most reliable information your Committee has been able to obtain, the cash cost of this work, including grading, bridging and other legitimate expense incurred upon the road, will not exceed $2,500 per mile. Ten thousand dollars per mile have been delivered to these companies in State Bonds. This rule of estimate fixed TWENTY-FIVE CENTS on the dollar, (of the bonds issued,) or one-fourth, as the percentage to be paid by the State, and which will fully cancel all claims in law or equity, which the holder of the special bonds can properly set up against the State."

Even this small percentage the Legislature refused to pay, and proposed an amendment to the people to strike the whole thing out of the Constitution—to EXPUNGE—which amendment is now a part of the Constitution.

Gen. John S. Averill, one of the Committee, (then Senator from Wabashaw, now of St. Paul,) made a separate Report in which he says:

"The amount of road graded is 249 miles. The cost of this work per mile, according to the estimate of engineers, is from $2,000 to $2,500 per mile. The amount of bonds issued is $2,500,000. The cost of the work at $2,500 per mile would be $600.000.—There is more than $100,000 of the work unpaid for; this leaves us $500,000, or about $4.50 of bonds to $1.00 of work done."

Gen. Averill goes on to show that the Cedar Valley Rail Road Company hypothecated $227.000 of bonds for $52,000; or less than 23 per cent!

Even Gov. Sibley, in his message. when retiring from office, Dec. 8, 1859, although he had been father of the whole measure, says apologetically:

"It is doubtless true that the amount of $10,000 loaned by the State to the companies for the grading of each mile of their roads was greater than the actual cost of such grading, and it is equally well known that many of the present holders have purchased or received the bonds at a much less rate than the par value."

Another fact can be shown that when the miserable wild cat banks, established on the bonds were sold by the State Auditor at the Merchant's Exchange, in the city of New York; they sold for 16, 19, 20, 21, and even as high as 35 cents on the dollar. The amount so sold, we shall refer to hereafter.

Hot Ice Cream.

There are many wonderful and curious things in Japan. Those strange people have arts and inventions whereof the secret is as yet unknown to the "barbarian." But the natives of that land, having begun to travel, are gradually letting out their knowledge and bestowing enlightenment sparingly upon the "foreign devils."

The latest and most anomalous secret they have communicated is a culinary one, and, naturally, this has been confided to the French cooks of Paris. It is, however, no longer a secret, but it is thus betrayed in a foreign journal: "The cooks in the Grand Hotel, in Paris, have learned from the Japanese attaches to the embassy a method of baking ice cream. This is accomplished as follows: The cream is frozen as hard as possible, a very thin crust of pastry is quickly wrapped round it and the roll is put in the oven. Dough being a good non-conductor of heat, the paste bakes before the ice melts; it is withdrawn promptly and served hot."

Here is a vertable ice cream pie, it would seem. The dish is certainly a singular one, but if the pastry is as tough as the story, epicures will not appreciate it very highly—outside of Japan.

Jeff. Davis' Visit to Vermont.

The Boston Herald givs an amusing account of the recent visit of Jeff. Davis to Vermont, as follows:

"Jeff Davis visited Stanstead last week, and was the guest of Mr. T. Terrill. Frederick Terrill, Esq., brought him from Therbrooke there, in a very quiet manner, on Wednesday last, professedly to see the country, and to consult in regard to an investment in the the gold mines of Hatley. On Thursday, as we learn from the Newport (Vermont) Express, Mr. Terrill, in his best turnout, took Jeff. about the village to ride, when several incidents occurred not altogether pleasing, we should imagine, to either the host or his guest. Not only boys but men hooted at him in the street and greeted him with those familiar words, "We'll hang Jeff. Davis to a sour apple tree.' He was frequently asked where he had left his 'petticoats,' and various like remarks, more suggestive than pleasing, fell upon his ear. One lady, stung by the recollection of the suffering and death of a near erlative at Andersonville, gave utterance to her feelings by hurling a stone at him.

"Permission was asked that Jeff. might ride about the grounds of Mr. Carlos Pierce, and take a look at his noted heards, but the request was emphatically denied by Mr. Henry Pierce, in charge of the premises, who declared in unmistakable language, 'that in no event could Jeff. Davis be admitted to those grounds.'"

CONSISTENCY---THE REASON WHY.

If ever there was an instance of the exhibition of the cloven foot, it was when the Winona County Convention, at its session on the 10th inst., adopted a platform of resolutions. And if ever there was an evidence of a determination on the part of the citizens of Winona and Gov. Marshall, to "despoil the treasury", as the Press says, for the purpose of ornamenting that city with a fantastic and costly structure far beyond the demands of our educational necessities, it may be found in the concerted action of the afore-mentioned gentlemen and Gov. Marshall. Last winter our people and the people of St. Cloud, asked of the Legislature the sum of $150,000 to be divided equally between the Mankato, Winona and St. Cloud Normal school enterprises. Winona had already received we believe about $25,000 by previous donations. The sum asked last winter, to-wit, $50 000 for each school, was sufficient to build plain but large and commodious buildings, for each point. The legislature granted our request, but Gov. Marshall vetoed the measure and immediately recommended an appropriation of $50,000 to the Winona school which was reluctantly given. Winona had planned a building on a scale of magnificence unequaled by even old Yale or Harvard, after a successful career of many decades, in which, by donations and financial successes they had become immensely wealthy. This $50,000 will no-where near complete the building in Winona, & a contract has been let for enclosing it at $52,000, and of course they will lack $2,000 of sufficient appropriation, while it will yet require another $50,000 to complete it on this wild and extravagant plan. Gov. Marshall is invoked to "spoilate the treasury" for that purpose, and therefore this convention recommends his re-nomination in the following words:

Resolved, 5th. That in Gen. Wm. R. Marshall we recognize a tried and true executive, jealous in behalf of the public welfare, faithful in the discharge of his duties, and worthy of the continued confidence of the people of Minnesota, and therefore we respectfully recommend he be re-nominated by the approaching State Convention.

If jealousy in behalf of the public welfare means the building up of one place and tearing down of another, the sacrifice of a general educational interest, to build up one locality only, then we can accord to him jealousy in behalf of public welfare. The people of Winona intend to ask the Legislature for a further "spoilation of the treasury" and as a quid pro quo they expect Gov. Marshall to approve the bill in consideration of their efforts for his renomination. The Press claims for Gov. Marshall, goodness, honesty, purity, and faithfulness in duty. Now in view of this scheme to "spoilate the treasury" it is no compliment to use those flattering terms, for if he be so, it only proves on the other hand that a lack of discernment, statesmanship and common horse sense has caused him to be the dupe and tool of those who desire nothing but self aggrandisement. There is no honesty in the plan so vividly mirrored to public gaze, by the action of the Winona convention. Mr. Marshall is either the dupe of designing men, or he is a co-worker in the "spoilation of the treasury." Take either horn of the dilemma, but be careful and not get gored, Mr. Press. The people of Winona are determined to waste the money of the State upon this extravagant building and expect in the person if Gov. Marshall an ally whose position if renominated will give him the opportunity to assist in this "spoilation of the treasury."

But there is another feature of this convention which not only shows self stultification, but is a further proof that whatever "spoilation" is made must be done to subserve Winona extravagance. They resolve that it is their bounden duty to use every fair means to defeat the bond proposition. Why? Because it would involve taxation for which they are not prepared, and an expenditure of money they do not owe. How far do they use "every fair means" to defeat the bond swindle, when they propose to elect again a man, who as far as the public knows, is in favor of the scheme, and will continue to recommend to succeeding legislatures, propositions of a similar nature until he succeeds in fastening the burden upon the people. They forget the greater danger of saddling the State with an immense debt, in their zeal to secure a smaller "spoilation of the treasury" in behalf of ornamenting Winona with a costly structure at State expense. To secure the latter they only need to secure the election of Gov. Marshall. If the Winona delegates wish to enjoy the unenviable position of carrying water on both shoulders, and the meaner notoriety of of self stultification, let them act in accordance with the resolutions passed at the convention.

LAKE SUPERIOR RAILROAD.

There seems to be a prospect that work will again commence on the St. Paul and Lake Superior Railway, if we can rely upon the reports to that effect eminating from St. Paul. There is no line of road so important in its bearings upon the avenues of trade, and channels of egress and ingress, than the line of 140 miles between St, Paul and Lake Superior. The people are impatient to see its completion, and are loud in their complaints against the incorporators who have been so unsuccessful in their negotiations for money. St. Paul has still greater reason for complaint. The company, notwithstanding its large land grant, and its guarantee of success to be found alone in the importance of the road as a great grain thoroughfare, have levied black mail on that city to the amount of $200,000 as an inducement to commence work. For several years this company have stood between the public interest and capitalists, and even now are in a fair way to fail to perform the conditions imposed last winter by the Legislature. We hope they will be held strictly to the conditions of their amended charter, as the public will not consent longer to see this important work hang fire simply to enrich a few men who are controling it. This road is much like the Valley road, which will pay nothing on the investment until it reaches Mankato. It is a poor investment to contract 20 or 50 miles or even 100 miles of it. It must be wholly completed before a bushel of grain will be carried eastward over it. Therefore the true policy of the company is to enlist an amount of capital which will build the road in one year, and then commence at each end and in the center and push the road through in true American style. While this is the true policy of the company we hail with pleasure even the evidence before us that at some future date the work will be an accomplished fact, and therefore give our readers a small clipping from the St. Paul Press indicating its progress:

> Arrangements are being rapidly pushed forward for the vigorous prosecution of the grading of the road. A force will be set to work this week, probably in two or three days. A call for a large force of laborers is to be issued as soon as the engineers can lay out the work, which will probably be in a day or two, as the engineers went out on the line last week.
> The grading to be done is all within six miles of the city; of this, two and a half miles are already graded, leaving three and a half miles of heavy grading to be done, about one mile of which is that commencing in the city, and two and a half miles at Bell's tract.
> The amount of grading to be done within this distance is three hundred thousand feet.

ANOTHER CONVERT.

The bond swindle has received another supporter in the person of C. H. Davidson, editor of the Austin, Mower county Register. That sheet has been considering gravely and wisely this bond proposition all summer, and has at last declared the result of its cogitations in the following language:

> "We are disposed to think it the wisest plan, after some time spent in thought, and investigation, to adopt the plan agreed upon by the legislature last winter, viz: That the proceeds of the sales, as fast as they reach the sum of $20,000, of the five hundred thousand acres of land which the State receives for Internal Improvement, be given to that holder of the bonds who shall deliver up to the State the largest amount in bonds for the money. And that the tax of three per cent, on the gross earnings of the railroads, which is now paid into the State Treasury, be devoted to the same purpose. * * * The obligation was made by the State, and the bonds issued. There is no way possible of escaping their payment, as it is a bona fide indebtedness, which the State is bound to acknowledge and cancel. * * * We have no doubt the State made a bad bargain when it issued these bonds, but yet there is no way left, but to pay them in full."

His advocacy of the bond proposition has at least the merit of uniqueness. He says after some time spent in thought and investigation, he has decided that the bonds must be paid in full. There is not a word of argument in his language. His patrons are not allowed to know what course of reflection or reason led him to that conclusion. Oh no! It is sufficient for them to know, that the fiat has gone forth, and without sniffling or wincing they must take his dicta as law, without asking a reason for the faith he professes. Are his patrons mules that they are to be led as with a halter? And will they meekly accept the situation without inquiring how the Register arrived at his wise conclusion? If so we mistake the intelligence of the citizens of that county. The Register must at least make haste to publish his arguments as well as his conclusions, or be liable to the charge of a motive not altogether honorable. He asserts that there is no possible way of escaping payment. He is among the number that does not know that no process of law can compel the State to pay any debt. The avenues of escape from this swindle are all closed up are they? Well, we shall see at the November election; and the Register editor will perhaps by that time awake to a knowledge of public sentiment, which cares as little for his dicta as it does for the idle wind.

NEW MINISTER.—Rev. E. Brill, late of Blue Earth Co., has located at Carver. Mr. B. preaches every Sunday morning at ten o'clock in the German language. He belongs to the Methodist denomination. Rev. A. H. Fisher (Moravian) officiates in the afternoon, also in German.—Chaska Herald.

RIVER ROAD.—The St. Paul papers advertise for six hundred hands to be immediately employed on the St. Paul and Winona Branch of the St. Paul and Pacific Railway. They will probably be at work on the grade opposite this city in a few days.—Hastings Gazette.

BRICK POMEROY.

Had space permitted, we should have noticed last week the fact that M. M. Pomeroy, alias Brick Pomeroy of the LaCrosse Democrat was announced by the Record to speak here on behalf of the democratic party, some time in September next. The Record characterizes the announcement as being "gratifying intelligence," and adds that "his many friends and admirers should be on hand to hear him." It is gratifying to the Record to be able to receive and entertain this man Pomeroy, and to admire him, and he invites his admiring friends to hear him expound the principles of modern democracy. A man is known by the company he keeps. The affiliation of the Record with this treasonable scum of human society, is proved by its complimentary notice of him, and invitation for the unwashed democracy to come and do him reverence. To show the public what style of man the Record endorses, we will quote one simple extract from the LaCrosse Democrat, a vile sheet published by this man. It is upon the subject of the release of the arch traitor Jeff. Davis, upon whose skirt rests the blood of the nations' cherished heroes. Here it is:

> "Glory to God in the highest! In spite of Rump tyranny, Abolition malice, Johnson timidity, and the hatred of the fanatical and bigoted, Jefferson Davis once more breathes the air of freedom, (that is to say, as free as it can be in a Rump despotism), and walks among his fellows, "the noblest Roman of them all." Long life and happy years to the bravest man of our country and age."—La Crosse Democrat.

Jeff. Davis the noblest Roman of them all! How sounds this upon the ear of his victims, who were the inmates of Libby, Belle Isle, Andersonville and other prison pens. Suffering from starvation, cold, rain, a blistering sun, and a prolonged confinement more barberous than Christian man could invent, visited upon them by this monster of iniquity, how do our returned soldiers view the compliment paid to Jeff. Davis in the above paragraph? Could a greater insult be offered o their patriotism? All our armies from Gen. Grant to the corporal's guard, are held in contempt, while Jeff. Davis is styled the noblest and bravest man of our country. Yet such is the record of democratic principles; and their enmity to the nation's cause of self protection is clearly manifest by their choice of Brick Pomeroy to personate and advocate their doctrines in this State. So far, there has been but one democratic sheet in the State, that was disposed to disavow the sentiments of this man Pomeroy, and it is now evident that the Record is not of the number who would ignore a full fellowship with traitors and blackguards, but commends to public favor the traducer of our "boys in blue," and the villian who counseled the assassination of President Lincoln.

SECRETARY STANTON SUSPENDED.

At the hour of going to press we received the announcement of the suspension of Secretary Stanton and the appointment in his stead of Gen. Grant ad interim. This event has been expected from the fact of Mr. Johnson's having requested the resignation of Mr. Stanton, which originated from a constant disagreement at cabinet meetings between them upon the reconstruction policy of Mr. Johnson. As 'tis reported Mr. Stanton is not removed but suspended and from this, it would seem that the president did not dare to assume the responsibility of a removal, but rather chose to displace that obnoxious being from any official relation by merely a pro tempore suspension, and that should any serious results appear imminent he might avert them by reinstating Mr. Stanton to his official relations. What may be the result of this rash act, the future shall determine, but of one thing we feel assured, that Mr. Johnson will find as great an opposition element to his reconstruction policy, in Gen. Grant, as in Mr. Stanton.

IMPRESSIONS OF MANKATO.

We are handed a communication from Mr. Nathaniel Bishop, of New Lebanon, N. Y., who, with his family, are spending the summer in this State, and has for several weeks been stopping at the Clifton. The article is signed by three other gentlemen, who are also visitors here. Its object is, first to give the public their impressions of our town, and secondly, to enter a protest against the abusive article which appeared in the last issue of the Record concerning Rev. Mr. Marshall's views of the Sabbath. While paying us deserved compliments, their strictures upon the abuse of the press, and its effects upon the settlement of our town are equally deserving. We commend its perusal:

EDITOR UNION:—Having come to your town for a short sojourn, we have noted our impressions of your place, which you are at liberty to dispose of as you see proper. Our first view set you down as a very uneven town, not particularly sensitive to appearances; but the way we were hustled from the steamer to the hotel indicated that the bump of go-ahead-ativeness was pretty well developed in your livery men at least. Upon a more particular inspection, we find your town contains many buildings that would be a credit to any city. Its capabilits are unquestionably great. The dwelling and store of the pioneer stands in strong contrast with those of the more recent inhabitants, and shows most conclusively that progress is your watchword.

We have not explored to any great extent the surrounding country, but judge from the great number of farmer's teams seen every day in town, that your wild lands are rapidly appropriated and put in cultivation. We are astonished at the very large number of labor saving machines, such as reapers, mowers, thrashers and revolving rakes, together with wagons, plows, cultivators, etc., that are daily sold by your dealers. We learn that some two hundred of these helps to farmers have been sold this season. We think your merchants must succeed, as they seem generally to advertise their wares in the two very respectable newspapers printed in your place,—another evidence that they understand their own interest. Your main street is being very much improved by grading. Several buildings are now going up, some of which will be expensive, as well as ornamental, and improvements are being made in many other parts of the city. Your court house and jail now being completed, show that your community intends that the laws shall be obeyed, or the penalty paid. It is with pleasure that we testify to your being a law and order people, and although from the number of drinking saloons we judge that the "Maine Law," is not in full force here, yet we have not seen a drunken man during our stay, and only to or three that were "how come you so." No rows, no orgies making night hideous, but quiet and order seem to reign supreme.

It is rare in a frontier town to find much regard paid to religion. Cosmopolitan communities are not regarded as models of moral and christian virtues, and we were more than surprised, we were highly gratified, to find that great, praiseworthy and successful educational efforts were being made, and so many churches with large intelligent and appreciative congregations were established. Such advantages have a great influence upon those who are looking for a home.

The courtesy and kindness extended to us by many of your inhabitants, with whom we have become acquainted, has extended the time of our sojourn among you. We shall speak of your quiet, law and order people—the freedom from nightly disturbances—the great educational advantages—the priviliges of the sanctuary, where we find enlightened audiences, intellectual and earnest pastors, and a liberal and charitable church.

We regret to say it, but we were pained by reading in the Record of last week, a most scurrilous attack upon the Rev. Mr. Marshall, disgraceful to the writer, and no credit to the publisher. We cannot but feel that the editor was not fully aware of the animus displayed by the author, or he would have consigned the article to the waste basket, and ejected the writer from his sanctuary, before he would have prostituted the columns of his very respectable paper, to such a base use. Should such unwarrantable attacks upon worthy gentlemen, and especially upon your ministers of the Gospel, be permitted by the silent acquiescence of your community, it will do away with many of the advantages you possess, in the minds of those seeking a location by turning them to some place more congenial.

SEVERAL STRANGERS.

FROM MADELIA.

By our own Reporter.

THE CIRCUS.—Saturday was a gay time for Madelia. Caldwell's circus came to town, to the delight of everybody in general and the little "urchins" in particular.

> "Rejoice you men of Angiers, ring your bells.

and proclaim the fact that Madelia is no longer an insignificant frontier "Post," but has with the advancing tide of immigration "swelled" into a thriving village, attracting the attention of talented men in the "saw dust art" and negro shows. We can do no less than record the fact that the first circus ever exhibited in this county, was Caldwell's at Madelia on the 10th of August, 1867.

APPOINTMENT.—There being a vacancy in the Board of County Commissioners, for this county the appointing board, H. Montgomery Judge of Probate, John Travis Register of Deeds and C. M. Pomeroy, Justice of the Peace, met at Madelia on Saturday the 10th and appointed H. K. Webster, of Antrim, to fill said vacancy. This appointment of Mr. Webster speaks well for the appointing board and will give general satisfaction.

HARVEST.—Farmers hereabouts are at work in earnest, gathering in the small grains. There is no discount on oats, but the hot weather of two and three weeks ago damaged wheat, to what extent cannot be told until after the wheat is harvested. We are hopeful and think the harvest promises a fair yield.

A QUESTION.—Was the appointment of Mark H. Dunnell, Esq., as State Superintendent of Common Schools, by Governor Marshall, a violation of the State Constitution? Vide article 4, section 9, Constitution.

The question of our correspondent is well put, and we are of the opinion that an affirmative reply would be correct.—[ED. UNION.

Reduction in Prices.

The Erie Railroad Company is now issuing First-Class Tickets at the following rates: Dunkirk to New York (460 miles), $8.00; Buffalo to New York (423 miles,) $6.75, Salamanca to New York (415 miles), $7.25; By this arrangement passengers for New York, Boston and New England Cities, can effect a great saving in purchasing their tickets to Dunkirk, Buffalo, or Salamanca, and from thence to New York at the Erie Railroad Company's Offices, which are always open on the arrival of the trains of all Western and Southern Lines. The line of the Erie Railroad passes through the most picturesque and romantic portions of the States of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and its passenger equipment is generally considered superior to that of any other road. The employees of the Line are attentive and courteous, and render passengers all the assistance desired. If you would enjoy a journey of several hundred miles without change of coaches, and at a less expense than by any other route, take the Erie Railway when going to New York or New England.

THE CROPS.

THE WHEAT.—Within the last few days we have heard many unfavorable reports from the now fast ripening wheat. The general tenor of these remarks are that many of the heads of wheat are blighting, and in some localities so much so as to greatly lessen the yield. A gentleman, who has traveled the whole length of Washington county, thinks that the damage in the section that he passed over will be serious, especially on the late sown—some farmers even alleging that some of their fields will not be worth reaping. On this side of the river the same blight is apparent, but not to so great an extent, and hopes are entertained among Dakota county farmers that they will still have a good crop. —Hastings Gazette.

UNFAVORABLE REPORTS.—Within the past week, we are sorry to say, the former flattering prospects for a large yield of spring wheat have been lessened considerably. A half dozen good farmers—from this county and Fillmore—report the heads of wheat in some fields as not more than half filled. Though the grain from a distance looks well, a close inspection reveals the fact that much of the late sown wheat has been blighted. —Winona Democrat.

SOME OATS.—J. A. Mabie exhibited at our office some specimen oats raised by him which are five and a half feet in height, with the largest stock we have seen. He has twentyfive acres which will average nearly as good, and which is estimated to produce 75 bushels to the acre.—Lake City Leader.

WHEAT CROPS.—The indications are excellent for a large and healthy crop of wheat in this county. The reports that we get from every section of the county are encouraging, and the yield this year promises to be considerably larger than ever before.—Red-wing Republican.

UNIVERSALIST MEETING.—Rev. S. C. Eaton of Des Moines, Iowa, will preach in Shoemaker's Hall, this village, next Sunday morning at the usual hour for Church services.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—This house of divine worship is so far completed as to admit of the gospel being preached within its walls. The walls are as yet unplastered and will probably remain so for the present. The windows, which are of divers colors, are of a style peculiar to that denomination and present a very beautiful appearance. Before winter closes in upon us they will have the walls plastered, ceiling painted, and suitable permanent seats arranged.

—The Hutchinson's passed through town en route to Kansas, where, this fall, they intend singing, during the coming campaign, songs in favor of 'Woman Suffrage. They are to accompany the politicians who are advocating women's rights.

—The Masons commenced work on the new bank on Wednesday last. It will pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. The brick delivered thus far are of an inferior quality, and are from the lower yard.

—Last Saturday afternoon a friendly game of base ball took place between the Minneinneopa club of Mankato and the South bend club at the grounds of the former. Quite a spirited game was played, which was won by the Minneinneopa club by more than three to one. The score ran Minneinneopa 131 to South Bend 39. The South Bend club having had but little practice made a small score, but in a short time with practice will make a better showing.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.—There will be a Teacher's Institute held at Mankato Union School House on the 9th of September next, under the supervision of Capt. J. R. Beaty, for the examination of teachers. The session will be of two weeks duration. A general invitation is given to teachers throughout the county to be in attendance.

THEATER.—Mr. Steidle announces a theatrical performance to take place at Higgins' Hall on Monday evening the 26th inst. The piece to be enacted is "WM. TELL." He is to be supported by a full corps of well qualified assistants and a pleasant entertainment will be given.

SCHOOL APPOINTMENT.—We are informed that the trustees have secured, as principal of the Union School, the services of Mr. B F Jenness, of Minneapolis. Mr. Jenness has had several years experience in teaching under the Union School system at Minneapolis, whence he comes to us well recommended, and on the 23d of next month will commence to organize, clasify and instruct our young lads and lassies, in connection with a full corps of teaches. He is to receive a salary of $800 for teaching ten months in a year.

THE LADIES SOCIAL of the Presbyterian Church will be held this Friday evening at the Baptist Church. Refreshments will be served.

—Rev. Charles Secombe, of St. Anthony, will preach in Shoemaker's Hall next Sabbath afternoon at 4 o'clock, and will present the subject of "Northfield College." All classes of the citizens are invited to attend.

FROM MONTANA.—We are under obligations to Mrs. Dr. Wickersham for copies of the Helena Herald, published at Helena, Montana, and sent to her by the Doctor. The Doctor has also forwarded by L. N. Brown, Esq., of Shakopee, a number of samples of gold and silver quartz taken from his claims. He is still in hopes to be able to open and work his claims and thinks they will prove to be rich and valuable

PUBLISHING LAWS.—The Winona Republican and Minneapolis Tribune have been designated as the papers in our State to publish the Laws, Treaties, &c., of the United States for the year commencing the 5th of March last.

DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—A convention of the Democrats of Blue Earth county will take place on Saturday Sept. 7th. The following is the apportionment of delegates made by the central committee:

Mankato village, 8; Mankato township, 4; Garden City 3; South Bend 2; Butternut Valley 1; Cambria 1; Judson 2; Rapidan 1; Lime 2; Jamestown 2; Le Ray 2; Vernon Center 2; Ceresco 2; Mc Pherson 3; Lyra 1; Lincoln 1; Danville 2; Shelby 2; Sterling 2; Pleasant Mound 1; Mapleton 2; Beauford 1; Medo 2.

In all 49 delegates.

—The Hon. M. S. Wilkinson will deliver a Temperance Address under the auspices of the Good Templars at the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, August 21st. The Public generally are invited to attend.

SCHOOL MEETING.—Pursuant to call of the board of trustees of school district No. 84, the legal voters of said district met at the house of Wm. P. Boardman, on Wednesday evening last, to elect new trustees and consider the proposition of providing a suitable building for the instruction of the youth in that district. Messrs W. P. Boardman, Andrew Hanna, and David Wilcox were elected trustees for the ensuing year. After some consultation a committee consisting of Messrs. Boardman, Wise, Hanna. Wilcox and Tonner were selected to ascertain as to whether or no bonds could be negotiated, and in what amount—to find out the probable cost of a suitable building, and to select a building site. The meeting then adjourned to meet again next Wednesday evening, at the same place, and hear the report of the committee.

BASE BALL.—Mr. Editor:—Tuesday the 13th inst., was the day appointed for the trial of skill between the "Frontier" B. B. Club, of Mankato, and the St. Peter B. B. Club of St. Peter. As it was known that the "weather would be fine," and "vast numbers of fair ladies would be present," and that it would be "a fine opportunity to make proposals," &c., &c. Mankato turned out to the number of between one and two hundred. Even children teased their parents to let them go. The party was hospitably entertained by Capt. Davis, of the North Western, and all was done that could be to make it pleasant and agreeable.

The game was called at 2 o'clock and 45 minutes, and continued 2 hours and 30 min., resulting in a victory for the Frontier club, though the St. Peter boys played splendidly for the amount of practice they have had. The fielding done by the St. Peter Club was superior we think to that of the Frontier, C. Davis in the left field made some splendid fly catches, which elicited much applause from the spectators. During the entire game the utmost harmony and good will prevailed and we heard of nothing that occured to mar the days sport, and all seemed satisfied. Our St. Peter friends seemed satisfied that with a little more practice they could win back all the laurals they had lost, and the Mankato boys were satisfied that they had for once beaten our neighbor city at something, if it was'nt a horse race.

Three fine fly catches were made by Fowler and one by Frisbie of the Frontier, and seven by Davis of the St. Peter club. Three wild throws were made by the Frontier, and four by the St. Peter. The Frontier muffed nine balls, the St. Peter ten. Foul catches, Frontier nine, St. Peter seven. St. Peter struck out at the bat twice. The game was scored by E. D. B. Porter of the Frontier and Dr. Pratt of the St. Peter and umpired to the entire satisfaction of all by J. J. Thompson, of the Frontier. After the close of the game the party from Mankato returned to the hotel and after supper those that were there with carriages returned home, well pleased with the trip. Those that went down on the boat were joined in the evening by the fair and brave of St. Peter in a social party at the Northwestern, and returned next morning on the boat, and we venture to say left St. Peter as quiet and composed as in the day's of "J. Hunter." Peace to her ashes, and may she never be infested by a worse crowd than was she on Tuesday the 13th inst., is the wish of

Yours truly,
JONES.

Preparatory to going East after their fall and winter stock of clothing, Gents furnishing goods cassimeres and tailors trimmings they are now offering their present stock at greatly reduced prices, and persons will do well to call at the clothing emporium of Randall & Smith and make their purchases.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—We learn that the Blue Earth Agricultural Society have concluded to hold an annual fair at their grounds in Garden City in the early part of September. The Executive committee held a meeting last week and resolved to revise the premium lists so as to give more encouragement to exhibitors to bring forward their products and stock for the purpose of competing for the prizes. There will be several novel features which will have their attractions. and we trust with the flatteaing prospect of a bountiful harvest of all kinds of products, that the fair this year may be one of unparalleled success both to the exhibitors, the cause of agriculture, and the finances of the society. The premium list, we understand, will be published in the county papers. Taylor's Museum, comprising statuary of Lincoln and wife, and his assassinator Booth, and of Mr. Seward and Payne who attempted his life, together with the "bearded woman," "fat girl, and the 'living skeleton,' will be on exhibition. A match game of base ball for $10 and a foot race are among the new features to be introduced at the fair.

LADIES ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Episcopal Church will give an Ice Cream Festival at Shoemaker's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, the 20th inst. Their friends are respectfully invited to attend.

—There will be German Evangelical service at Higgin's Hall on Sabbath morning at half past ten o'clock. Also German Sabbath School at the same place at half past three o'clock P. M.

REV. C. WISNER,
Pastor in Charge.

GOOD COOKS.—Ladies, if you would be known as good cooks, and would avoid the mortification of having poor biscuit for tea when you have company, use D. B. De Land & Co.'s Best Chemical Saleratus, and that only.

New styles of Summer and Fall Caps, consisting of the Derby, Jerome, All Right Opera, Our own Style, for men and boys, just received, together with a good line of Hats, making the clothing emporium of Randall & Smith the place to buy your Hats and Caps, give them a call.

TREASURER.—We are informed that Isaac Marks Esq. will announce himself as a candidate for county Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Democratic county convention to be held on the 7th of September.

A NOVEL CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—One of our county correspondents sends us the following remarkable statement, the truth of which he is willing to vouch for:

"The medical world will be no less surprised than gratified, to learn that a remedy for that dreaded scourge of the people, the consumption, which has so long battled their skill, has at last been discovered. The statements here made public, were related by persons acquainted with both parties, and may therefore be regarded as substantially true. and are as follows. There is in the town of ——Blue Earth county, Minnesota a young lady in the last stages of pulmonary consumption. Her attending physician, informed the mother of this young lady, for such she truly was, that but one remedy remained to be tried, which was sexual intercourse, and with the knowledge and tacit consent of the unnatural mother, he proceeded to administer the prescribed remedy himself. The young lady was removed to a dark and close room, convenient for the purpose, and in her amaciated condition has been the victim of his beastly lusts, until it is thought she is enscienle by him. When these things came to the knowledge of her father, he ordered the doctor from his house, and remonstrated with his wife, against such inhuman treatment of his daughter, in her helpless condition, but in vain. His son favoring the mother's course, used physical force to intimidate him into subjection to the doctor's will, who says his patient rests better when he remains with her. Time will develop more fully the real facts in this case, which, whatever they may be, ought to be placed before the public."

NEW PLOWS.

Mishawaka! Mishawaka!!

L. L. & O. H. Davis have just received a large supply of Mishawka plows. These are an excellent plow made of the very best material, and will scour where no other plow ever did,—will outlast three unhardened plows—are equally adopted to turning stubble and turf—are very light draught and will give entire satisfaction. These are just the plows for farmers in this country. Give them an examination.

HARVESTING.—The cutting of grain fairly commenced on Tuesday last, though a few pieces were cut last week. We hear from Butternut Valley, Judson and South Bend that the grain has not suffered materially from blight, and that the yield will average well with other years. In many cases the grain is very stout and heavy. In the vicinity of Mankato there is no complaint, but on the contrary oats and corn, as the rule, are very fine and heavy.

Up the Blue Earth river it is said that the wheat on corn ground is about one fourth blighted, but on stubble ground it is good. Oats and corn are splendid. The wheat crop is sure to average well with other years notwithstanding the blight.

FOR SHERIFF.—We are requested to announce that Mr. Evan Bowen, of Butternut Valley, is a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Blue Earth county, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention to be held on the 5th of September next.

QUEER MODE OF TRAVEL.—At our levee this week may be seen in process of building a small flat boat 6½ feet by 19, upon which a man by the name of Worden will soon embark down river with his family. It seems that this gentleman is from Pennsylvania, and came here to explore the country and start a stock farm. He concluded that Minnesota was not a corn country from the fact that hams are worth 20 cents per pound here, while in Pennsylvania they are only worth 12½ cents. He did not seem to understand that the demand exceeds the supply in almost all new countries where emigration is constantly pouring in. But without careful reflection his mind is made up, and he leaves for Cairo, via. St. Paul, on a craft 6½ feet by 19. For the sake of his family we wish him a safe trip to the land of cheap hams and tall corn. For our part we are perfectly satisfied with the corn prospects of this State, even if we were a stock raiser.

PITTSBURGH, SEPTEMBER 4, 1866.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTS:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed o have been infused into my system, so, much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pouds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a onic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
Yours, gratefully,
WILLIAM MILLER

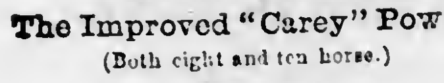
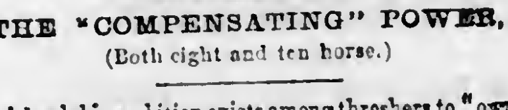
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.



The Improved "Carey" Power,
(Both eight and ten horse.)



THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot bo too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—This house of divine worship is so far completed as to admit of the gospel being preached within its walls. The walls are as yet unplastered and will probably remain so for the present. The windows, which are of divers colors, are of a style peculiar to that denomination and present a very beautiful appearance. Before winter closes in upon us they will have the walls plastered, ceiling painted, and suitable permanent seats arranged.

Quite a spirited game was played, which was won by the Minneinneopa club by more than three to one. The score ran Minneinneopa 131 to South Bend 39. The South Bend club having had but little practice made a small score, but in a short time with practice will make a better showing.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.—There will be a Teacher's Institute held at Mankato Union School House on the 9th of September next, under the supervision of Capt. J. R. Beaty, for the examination of teachers. The session will be of two weeks duration. A general invitation is given to teachers throughout the county to be in attendance.

SCHOOL APPOINTMENT.—We are informed that the trustees have secured, as principal of the Union School, the services of Mr. B F Jenness, of Minneapolis. Mr. Jenness has had several years experience in teaching under the Union School system at Minneapolis, whence he comes to us well recommended, and on the 23d of next month will commence to organize, clasify and instruct our young lads and lassies, in connection with a full corps of teaches. He is to receive a salary of $800 for teaching ten months in a year.

FROM MONTANA.—We are under obligations to Mrs. Dr. Wickersham for copies of the Helena Herald, published at Helena, Montana, and sent to her by the Doctor. The Doctor has also forwarded by L. N. Brown, Esq., of Shakopee, a number of samples of gold and silver quartz taken from his claims. He is still in hopes to be able to open and work his claims and thinks they will prove to be rich and valuable.

In all 49 delegates.

—The Hon. M. S. Wilkinson will deliver a Temperance Address under the auspices of the Good Templars at the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening, August 21st. The Public generally are invited to attend.

SCHOOL MEETING.—Pursuant to call of the board of trustees of school district No. 84, the legal voters of said district met at the house of Wm. P. Boardman, on Wednesday evening last, to elect new trustees and consider the proposition of providing a suitable building for the instruction of the youth in that district. Messrs W. P. Boardman, Andrew Hanna, and David Wilcox were elected trustees for the ensuing year. After some consultation a committee consisting of Messrs. Boardman, Wise, Hanna. Wilcox and Tonner were selected to ascertain as to whether or no bonds could be negotiated, and in what amount—to find out the probable cost of a suitable building, and to select a building site. The meeting then adjourned to meet again next Wednesday evening, at the same place, and hear the report of the committee.

BASE BALL.—Mr. Editor:—Tuesday the 13th inst., was the day appointed for the trial of skill between the "Frontier" B. B. Club, of Mankato, and the St. Peter B. B. Club of St. Peter. As it was known that the "weather would be fine," and "vast numbers of fair ladies would be present," and that it would be "a fine opportunity to make proposals," &c., &c. Mankato turned out to the number of between one and two hundred. Even children teased their parents to let them go. The party was hospitably entertained by Capt. Davis, of the North Western, and all was done that could be to make it pleasant and agreeable.

The game was called at 2 o'clock and 45 minutes, and continued 2 hours and 30 min., resulting in a victory for the Frontier club, though the St. Peter boys played splendidly for the amount of practice they have had. The fielding done by the St. Peter Club was superior we think to that of the Frontier, C. Davis in the left field made some splendid fly catches, which elicited much applause from the spectators. During the entire game the utmost harmony and good will prevailed and we heard of nothing that occured to mar the days sport, and all seemed satisfied. Our St. Peter friends seemed satisfied that with a little more practice they could win back all the laurals they had lost, and the Mankato boys were satisfied that they had for once beaten our neighbor city at something, if it was'nt a horse race.

A NOVEL CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—One of our county correspondents sends us the following remarkable statement, the truth of which he is willing to vouch for:

"The medical world will be no less surprised than gratified, to learn that a remedy for that dreaded scourge of the people, the consumption, which has so long baffled their skill, has at last been discovered. The statements here made public, were related by persons acquainted with both parties, and may therefore be regarded as substantially true. and are as follows. There is in the town of ——Blue Earth county, Minnesota a young lady in the last stages of pulmonary consumption. Her attending physician, informed the mother of this young lady, for such she truly was, that but one remedy remained to be tried, which was sexual intercourse, and with the knowledge and tacit consent of the unnatural mother, he proceeded to administer the prescribed remedy himself. The young lady was removed to a dark and close room, convenient for the purpose, and in her amaciated condition has been the victim of his beastly lusts, until it is thought she is enciente by him. When these things came to the knowledge of her father, he ordered the doctor from his house, and remonstrated with his wife, against such inhuman treatment of his daughter, in her helpless condition, but in vain. His son favoring the mother's course, used physical force to intimidate him into subjection to the doctor's will, who says his patient rests better when he remains with her. Time will develop more fully the real facts in this case, which, whatever they may be, ought to be placed before the public."

Mishawaka! Mishawaka!!

L. L. & O. H. Davis have just received a large supply of Mishawaka plows. These are just the plows for farmers in this country. Give them an examination.

The walls are as yet unplastered and will probably remain so for the present. Quite a spirited game was played, which was won by the Minneinneopa club by more than three to one. The score ran Minneinneopa 131 to South Bend 39. The South Bend club having had but little practice made a small score, but in a short time with practice will make a better showing.

He is still in hopes to be able to open and work his claims and thinks they will prove to be rich and valuable.

SCHOOL MEETING.—Pursuant to call of the board of trustees of school district No. 84, the legal voters of said district met at the house of Wm. P. Boardman, on Wednesday evening last, to elect new trustees and consider the proposition of providing a suitable building for the instruction of the youth in that district. Messrs W. P. Boardman, Andrew Hanna, and David Wilcox were elected trustees for the ensuing year. After some consultation a committee consisting of Messrs. Boardman, Wise, Hanna, Wilcox and Tonner were selected to ascertain as to whether or no bonds could be negotiated, and in what amount—to find out the probable cost of a suitable building, and to select a building site. The meeting then adjourned to meet again next Wednesday evening, at the same place, and hear the report of the committee.

BASE BALL.—Mr. Editor:—Tuesday the 13th inst., was the day appointed for the trial of skill between the "Frontier" B. B. Club, of Mankato, and the St. Peter B. B. Club of St. Peter. As it was known that the "weather would be fine," and "vast numbers of fair ladies would be present," and that it would be "a fine opportunity to make proposals," &c., &c. Mankato turned out to the number of between one and two hundred. Even children teased their parents to let them go. The party was hospitably entertained by Capt. Davis, of the North Western, and all was done that could be to make it pleasant and agreeable.

The game was called at 2 o'clock and 45 minutes, and continued 2 hours and 30 min., resulting in a victory for the Frontier club, though the St. Peter boys played splendidly for the amount of practice they have had. The fielding done by the St. Peter Club was superior we think to that of the Frontier, C. Davis in the left field made some splendid fly catches, which elicited much applause from the spectators. During the entire game the utmost harmony and good will prevailed and we heard of nothing that occured to mar the days sport, and all seemed satisfied. Our St. Peter friends seemed satisfied that with a little more practice they could win back all the laurals they had lost, and the Mankato boys were satisfied that they had for once beaten our neighbor city at something, if it was'nt a horse race.

Three fine fly catches were made by Fowler and one by Frisbie of the Frontier, and seven by Davis of the St. Peter club. Three wild throws were made by the Frontier, and four by the St. Peter. The Frontier muffed nine balls, the St. Peter ten. Foul catches, Frontier nine, St. Peter seven. St. Peter struck out at the bat twice. The game was scored by E. D. B. Porter of the Frontier and Dr. Pratt of the St. Peter and umpired to the entire satisfaction of all by J. J. Thompson, of the Frontier. After the close of the game the party from Mankato returned to the hotel and after supper those that were there with carriages returned home, well pleased with the trip. Those that went down on the boat were joined in the evening by the fair and brave of St. Peter in a social party at the Northwestern, and returned next morning on the boat, and we venture to say left St. Peter as quiet and composed as in the day's of "J. Hunter." Peace to her ashes, and may she never be infested by a worse crowd than was she on Tuesday the 13th inst., is the wish of

Yours truly,
JONES.

Preparatory to going East after their fall and winter stock of clothing, Gents furnishing goods cassimeres and tailors trimmings they are now offering their present stock at greatly reduced prices, and persons will do well to call at the clothing emporium of Randall & Smith and make their purchases.

AGRICULTURAL FAIR.—We learn that the Blue Earth Agricultural Society have concluded to hold an annual fair at their grounds in Garden City in the early part of September. The Executive committee held a meeting last week and resolved to revise the premium lists so as to give more encouragement to exhibitors to bring forward their products and stock for the purpose of competing for the prizes. There will be several novel features which will have their attractions, and we trust with the flatteaing prospect of a bountiful harvest of all kinds of products, that the fair this year may be one of unparalleled success both to the exhibitors, the cause of agriculture, and the finances of the society. The premium list, we understand, will be published in the county papers. Taylor's Museum, comprising statuary of Lincoln and wife, and his assassinator Booth, and of Mr. Seward and Payne who attempted his life, together with the "bearded woman," "fat girl, and the 'living skeleton,' will be on exhibition. A match game of base ball for $10 and a foot race are among the new features to be introduced at the fair.

LADIES ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—The ladies of the Episcopal Church will give an Ice Cream Festival at Shoemaker's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, the 20th inst. Their friends are respectfully invited to attend.

—There will be German Evangelical service at Higgin's Hall on Sabbath morning at half past ten o'clock. Also German Sabbath School at the same place at half past three o'clock P. M.

REV. C. WISNER,
Pastor in Charge.

GOOD COOKS.—Ladies, if you would be known as good cooks, and would avoid the mortification of having poor biscuit for tea when you have company, use D. B. De Land & Co.'s Best Chemical Saleratus, and that only.

New styles of Summer and Fall Caps, consisting of the Derby, Jerome, All Right Opera, Our own Style, for men and boys, just received, together with a good line of Hats, making the clothing emporium of Randall & Smith the place to buy your Hats and Caps, give them a call.

TREASURER.—We are informed that Isaac Marks Esq. will announce himself as a candidate for county Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Democratic county convention to be held on the 7th of September.

A NOVEL CURE FOR CONSUMPTION.—One of our county correspondents sends us the following remarkable statement, the truth of which he is willing to vouch for:

"The medical world will be no less surprised than gratified, to learn that a remedy for that dreaded scourge of the people, the consumption, which has so long battled their skill, has at last been discovered. The statements here made public, were related by persons acquainted with both parties, and may therefore be regarded as substantially true. and are as follows. There is in the town of ——Blue Earth county, Minnesota a young lady in the last stages of pulmonary consumption. Her attending physician, informed the mother of this young lady, for such she truly was, that but one remedy remained to be tried, which was sexual intercourse, and with the knowledge and tacit consent of the unnatural mother, he proceeded to administer the prescribed remedy himself. The young lady was removed to a dark and close room, convenient for the purpose, and in her amaciated condition has been the victim of his beastly lusts, until it is thought she is enscients by him. When these things came to the knowledge of her father, he ordered the doctor from his house, and remonstrated with his wife, against such inhuman treatment of his daughter, in her helpless condition, but in vain. His son favoring the mother's course, used physical force to intimidate him into subjection to the doctor's will, who says his patient rests better when he remains with her. Time will develop more fully the real facts in this case, which, whatever they may be, ought to be placed before the public."

NEW PLOWS.

Mishawaka! Mishawaka!!

L. L. & O. H. Davis have just received a large supply of Mishawka plows. These are an excellent plow made of the very best material, and will scour where no other plow ever did,—will outlast three unhardened plows—are equally adopted to turning stubble and turf—are very light draught and will give entire satisfaction. These are just the plows for farmers in this country. Give them an examination.

HARVESTING.—The cutting of grain fairly commenced on Tuesday last, though a few pieces were cut last week. We hear from Butternut Valley, Judson and South Bend that the grain has not suffered materially from blight, and that the yield will average well with other years. In many cases the grain is very stout and heavy. In the vicinity of Mankato there is no complaint, but on the contrary oats and corn, as the rule, are very fine and heavy.

Up the Blue Earth river it is said that the wheat on corn ground is about one fourth blighted, but on stubble ground it is good. Oats and corn are splendid. The wheat crop is sure to average well with other years notwithstanding the blight.

FOR SHERIFF.—We are requested to announce that Mr. Evan Bowen, of Butternut Valley, is a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Blue Earth county, subject to the decision of the Republican county convention to be held on the 5th of September next.

QUEER MODE OF TRAVEL.—At our levee this week may be seen in process of building a small flat boat 6½ feet by 19, upon which a man by the name ot Worden will soon embark down river with his family. It seems that this gentleman is from Pennsylvania, and came here to explore the country and start a stock farm. He concluded that Minnesota was not a corn country from the fact that hams are worth 20 cents per pound here, while in Pennsylvania they are only worth 12½ cents. He did not seem to understand that the demand exceeds the supply in almost all new countries where emigration is constantly pouring in. But without careful reflection his mind is made up, and he leaves for Cairo, via. St. Paul, on a craft 6½ feet by 19. For the sake of his family we wish him a safe trip to the land of cheap hams and tall corn. For our part we are perfectly satisfied with the corn prospects of this State, even if we were a stock raiser.

PITTSBURGH, SEPTEMBER 4, 1866.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTS:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pouds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
Yours, gratefully,
WILLIAM MILLER

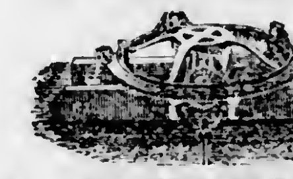
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.



The Improved "Carey" Power,

THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—down-right piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams around at their own expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

Indian Depredations.

An Omaha dispatch says the Crows, Sioux and Shoshonees have driven the miners away from South Pass, and killed one white man, and two others are missing. Washakee has notified Brigham Young to recall the Mormon miners from the new diggings, as the country belongs to his tribes. A large band of Sioux crossed the Black Hill Friday last, going east. They were struck by Mr. O'Neil's engineering party, and one Indian killed.

OMAHA, August 7.—About one o'clock last night a freight train going west on the Union Pacific Railroad was thrown from the track near Plum Creek, by Indians, who immediately thereafter rushed upon the train from their ambush, and shot and scalped the engineer, fireman and two brakemen. The conductor fortunately escaped in the darkness and confusion, and immediately started back to signal the train following, which he succeeded in doing. The engine was detached and run up to the scene, when it was found that the Indians had set fire to the train, which was loaded with merchandise and ties. Seven cars were completely destroyed, with their contents, valued at from thirty to forty thousand dollars. The engine was nearly demolished.

A telegraph operator and three station men, who were on board a car repairing the line, were attacked and three men killed. The operator succeeded in escaping, and reached Willow Island Station safely. A company of troops was sent from here this morning for the field of action. The damage is being repaired, and a track will be laid around the wreck.

A flagman was killed and scalped by Indians at noon to day, only a quarter of a mile from the wreck, while flagging an approaching train.

The Indians are evidently in heavy force, and mean business. A large body of them is at North Platte, clamoring for subsistence. The raiders are supposed to be a part of the Spotted Tails, "friendlies," who have been fed at the Government expense for several months past. It is also supposed that white men are implicated in the affair. Every exertion is making to clear the road and afford full protection against a repetition of the raid.

The steamer Silver Lake arrived from Benton last evening, and reports being fired into fifty miles above Fort Rice, and one of her crew wounded.

What to Take.

A young lady of our acquaintance called on a physician to prescribe for a rush of blood to the head. "I have been doctoring myself," said the languid fair one, with a smile, to the kind M. D., while he was feeling her pulse. "Why, I have taken Brandreth's pills, Parr's pills, Strasburg's pills, Sand's sarsaparilla, Jayne's expectorant; used Dr. Sherman's lozenges and plaster, and——"

"My heavens! madam," interrupted the astonished doctor, "all those do your complaint no good!"

"No! Then what shall I take?" pettishly inquired the patient.

"Take," exclaimed the doctor, eyeing her from head to foot—"take!" exclaimed he, after a moment's reflection, "why, take off your corsets."

It is needless for us to state that she is still suffering from the disease.

A Stairless House.

There is now building in a busy quarter of Paris an experimental house, which if successful—and there seems no reason why it should not be so—will serve as a model for similar structures in this and other great cities, where the value of land is very high, and the economy of space a matter of vital importance. The chief novelty in this house is the absence of any staircase, the place of that hitherto necessary means of access being supplied by a hydraulic elevator, ascending and descending noiselessly every minute. By means of this the lodgers will reach their respective floors speedily and without effort, at any given minute of the day or night. Another advantage of this arrangement is, that it enables houses to be built to a much greater height, the upper floors being as easily accessible as the lower, and for that matter preferable, on account of better air, light and freedom from intrusion or the noises of the street. The tenement house building in Paris will be eleven stories high from the street level.

A Plot to Assassinate the Loyal Citizens of Missouri.

A project to assassinate loyal citizens is said to have come to light in Dent county, Missouri. The Southeast Missouri Enterprise, of August 1st, has the following rather startling piece of intelligence:

The citizens of Dent county last week broke up a regular encampment of guerillas. It seems that a loyal citizen, while in his field at work, was attacked by two men, who rode up to him and commenced firing at him with revolvers. The man ran for his house, and was met by his wife with a shot gun, which he immediately began to use, the first fire bringing one of the guerillas from his horse, and the second shot supposed to have wounded the other. Although wounded severely in several places, the loyal man gave the alarm, and the neighbors gathered and arrested a young man suspected of knowing all about the guerillas. At first the young man knew nothing, but a little coaxing made him communicative, and he said there was a camp containing ten or twelve guerillas under a desperado named Kitchen, but he did not know its location. He, however, referred to a neighbor who knew all about it, and this man was soon in custody. The loyal men persuaded him to show the way to camp. Approaching the camp, the guide began halooing, and thus gave the alarm to the guerillas, who prepared for fight, while he made good his escape through the thick brush, followed by several rifle balls. A lively battle ensued, resulting in the severe wounding of one of the attacking party. The camp, baggage and equipage, was captured. Among the captured baggage was found the records of the band, containing a list of about a hundred persons connected with it, nearly all of whom were citizens of Dent and surrounding counties. The object of the desperadoes was to be a raid on citizens who were loyal during the rebellion, and a list of those who were to be murdered was found. The list is quite long and embraces many of the best men of the country. The guerillas all escaped and are still at large, and fears are entertained that other depredations will be committed. The loyal men are awake, and somebody will get hurt if the guerillas make any further demonstrations."

PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been throw aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Eliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

Farmers, the best is the cheapest—Consult your interest and secure a good machine by purchasing a

DREAMLAND

BY MAY LEONARD.

A kiss for his lips, and one for his brow,
And two for his sleepy eyes;
No danger that walks the wide world now
Knows where the little one lies.

The moon shines soft and the winds breathe low,
And the bright stars twinkle on high,
And up from the courtyard the fountain's flow
Floats in like a lullaby.

The little one's limbs are tired with play,
He's gone to the land of dreams,
To daisied meadows, where he may stray,
Or bathe in crystal streams.

To endless forests of stately pines
Where each is a Christmas-tree!
To wonderful gold and silver mines,
And the treasures of the sea.

To a milk-white pony that he may ride,
And down on the streamlet clear
A tiny canoe his hand may guide
With never a thought of fear.

The little one reigns a monarch, now,
Whatever he likes his own,
A fairy crown is upon his brow,
And his is a magical throne.

He has fruits and flowers, and marvellous toys,
And all that is dainty or rare,
And troops of merriest girls and boys
His treasures and sports to share.

When morning reddens the eastern sky,
And the lights of Dreamland pale,
Will he waken from sleep with a heavy sigh
To life that is weary and stale?

No; his kingdom fades at the dawn of day,
Its magical charms grow dim,
But the world that to us seems cold and gray
Is still fairyland to him.

OUR MITE.

For the Union.

Certain it is that every item written and published is the cause of a new idea produced by some mind; though that mind may be one undeveloped. Then the more we read, with care, the more we learn. Matter must be presented to the mind's eye, before it can see and produce matter for another mind. We all differ in some particularity—one in this and another in that, and from the matter presented to the mind we select that which best suits our fancy. One will take one view of the matter, another a different. This difference, which exists among people, represents a different mental organization and with its corresponding development upon the cranium is the substantial proof of Phenology. (We wish here to say that, with the editor's permission, we intend, occasionly in our feeble manner, to present to his readers "our mite" in advocacy of this science.)

We do not expect all or any to immediately flock to the support of this science of the mind, because nothing short of patient study and extensive personal observation can produce a conviction of its truth. It was first offered to public consideration on the continent of Europe, in 1796, but was not much received until 1815, and from that period has been steadily advancing.

Dr. Gall, of Vienna, was the founder of this system and delivered his first lectures in the year 1796. He did not commence his lecture until by personal observation he could prove his stand points. From an early age he was given to observation and noticed the different peculiarity in disposition and talent in various persons. Some of a benevolent, open-hearted, frank and outspoken—others cruel, cold, still, and deceptive. Some noted for beauty of penmanship, excellence in mathematics, and others for elegance of composition, eloquence of argument. That while some were frivolous minded, others were studious—some were active, others were indolent. This diversity of disposition and talent presented to Dr. Gall, the idea that one part of the mind must predominate and could be more easily developed. The brain being acknowledged the organ of the mind, he immediately began to examine the head to find a corresponding development for characteristics which were known to predominate in certain persons. After four years of candid observations, and lecturing, Dr. Spurzheim commenced studying under him and during the first year assisted at one of his lectures. He afterwards became associated with Dr. Gall, and principally contributed to bring to light these truths by forming a beautifully arranged system of their respective observations.

More anon,
PHOENIX.

FIRMNESS.

Firmness, or moral courage is an essential element in the Christian character. No person can live a consistant Christian life without firmness—firmness enough to do what we think to be right, and not to do what we are sure is wrong, trusting the result with God. The time has come when men with nerve enough, to adhere to the cause which they have espoused, to stand for the principles which they have adopted, are needed in every branch of society.

Men of firmness are needed in the Church. Men who can say, to the designing friend that would allure them into inconsistencies and then laugh at their folly, Sir; I would be glad to accommodate you but I never do business on Sunday! Men who can say, I am glad of your friendship and I reciprocate your sentiments of kindness—excuse me! I never drink any. Men who can say, I would be glad to spend an hour, in social intercourse with you, but I have no time to lose at billiards. Such Christian men and women will command the respect of all who know them, while those professers of religion who are ready to desert their Master at every turn in life, render themselves obnoxious to all classes of society.

Men of firmness are needed in business. Men who have resolved to pursue a legitimate and honorable calling through life, and who have firmness enough to adhere to their purpose however many the apportunities, or ardent the desires of their friends, for them to secure wealth by dishonorable and illegitimate means.

Men of firmness are needed in the political field. The country is overrun with office seekers, who care but little about the principles they enunciate so they obtain the "loaves and fishes." These persons are continually vascillating between the two great political parties of the country, ready to espouse the cause of that party which offers the greatest inducements irrespective of their own political sentiments, and who will betray their benefactors as soon as they obtain their desires—the spoils of office. Such persons are not to be trusted anywhere, and are the standing ridicule of good men of all parties. Consistency of profession and practice however admirable is impossible to persons wanting firmness of character.

Adopt correct principles in business, in politics, in religion, and then adhere to them with firmness and you will command the respect and admiration not only of your friends but of those who oppose you.

RUSTICUS.

IMPROVEMENT OF SOCIETY.

For the Union.

We are a world of brothers and sisters, in a certain sense, and that the improvement of our social relations should be regarded with approbation no one will deny. Our main idea is to enjoy all we can. The christian lives a life of self denial in order to secure an everlasting enjoyment. The worldly minded labors to receive his greatest enjoyment. We all labor for the realization of those delicacies which add to our enjoyment. But we are all too selfish and labor more to gratify self than others. It is all right enough to gratify our selfish propensities to a limited extent, but we must not forget the claims society rightfully has upon us. We must be more generous in our ideas. We are so differently organized that some excel in this peculiarity and others in that, and each should remember that society claims the exhibition of our more excellent qualities, that we may contribute to its enjoyment. How shall we thus contribute to the improvement of society if we allow our endowments to slumber in dormancy? Awake, cultivate and develop them in the highest degree. This is a life of reality as Longfellow says:

> "Life is real, life is earnest,
> And the grave is not its goal,
> Dust thou art to dust returnest,
> Was not spoken of the soul."

Our creator demands of us the improvement of our talents, rewarding those who accede to his demands, and discarding those who do not. Let us all labor for the improvement of not only our special endowments, but those in which we are most deficient. Let us labor for morality, temperence, and the general good of our brother beings, as much as we possibly can, and we shall at least have the reward of the consciousness of having given our mite. We all have an influence upon our fellow beings and that too in a great degree—let it be exerted for good results. Let us all strive to live an honest, upright, industrious and active life.

THE INDIAN WAR.

A Desperate Fight for Three Hours.

OMAHA, August 14, 1867.

Information from Fort Phil. Kearney, received at the Military Headquarters this morning, state that on the 2d of August a large body of Indians, supposed to number fifteen hundred, attacked Porter's wood train of thirty teams, when about five miles from the post. The train was accompanied by about fifty citizens and the same number of soldiers, under charge of Major Powell, of the Twenty-seventh Infantry. Major Smith was sent to the rescue with two companies and howitzers from the fort, when the Indians retired, going north, taking all the stock belonging to the train and their own dead and wounded, except five, left dead on the field. Their loss is supposed to be about sixty.

When Smith arrived Major Powell and men had maintained the fight three hours behind breast works made of wagon beds and ox yokes. His loss was six killed and two wounded. Among the killed was Lieutenant Jenness of the Twenty-seventh Infantry.

Major Powell displayed great coolness and bravery. He was formerly in the Eighteenth Infantry, was twice wounded leading an assault at Atlanta, distinguished himself at Chickamauga, and is well known as a brave and valued officer.

ALARMS ON PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Indian alarms continue along the line of the Union Pacific railroad. Only day trains are allowed to run. Gen. Augur and Captain Denman say Turkey Foot, chief of the Cheyennes, is alone guilty of the Plum Creek massacre. He is now camped 90 miles south of the Platte river.

THE PARIS EXPOSITION.

A visitor to the great Exposition gives the following homely but clear description of the palace in which it is held in the Champ de Mars: Take a round gingerbread with a hole in the middle. Around the hole describe with a knife eight or ten circles, each of which represents an aisle, running quite round the exhibition. Across these concentric circles draw from the hole to the circumference of the gingerbread thirty or forty straight lines or radii. These separate the nations. The first circle contains the paintings and sculpture of the different nations; the next, the class of articles approaching nearest to the fine arts; and soon to the outer circle, which contains the machineries of all nations, the various circles presenting an epitome of all that art and science and industry can do for man.

At the very entrance of the Champ de Mars stands a building appropriated to religious purposes, containing, besides a hall for meetings, a collection of the trophies of the various Protestant Missionary Societies of France, Germany, England and the United States, and of the publications of the Bible and Tract Societies of those countries. On the opening day of the Exhibition, over 7,000 copies of the Bible, in fourteen different languages, were given away at the Bible stand, and a large distribution has been constantly made since that time. A very marked feature in the British and American departments is the observance of the Lord's day by the stopping of their machinery, giving a day of rest to the men there employed, thus giving a silent but significant testimonial to the sacredness of the Sabbath.

—Mr. Edwin Stanton, son of Secretary Stanton, holds his office as Chief Clerk in the War Department.

The Animal Ubiquitous—He appears in Iowa and Lake Ontario.

IN LAKE ONTARIO.

A correspondent of the Rochester Union and Advertiser, writing from Sodus Point, N. Y., Aug. 7, tells the following:

Considerable excitement prevails here at the discovery of a veritable sea serpent just outside the peirs, at the harbor entrance. Some men, employed on the public works, saw the monster some days ago and reported it, but it was thought they were mistaken. Others saw it afterward; yesterday, four or five men in a boat came full upon it, riding the crest of the waves, its head elevated, they say, several feet above the water, and its huge form entirely visible near the surface. They describe it as about thirty feet long and as large around as a man's body, resembling, as it lay on the water, the "liberty pole," which is of those dimensions. As they rowed after the creature its head descended into the water, and it glided near the surface for some time, affording them a good view till, alarmed at their approach, it plunged down, disappearing in the depths. Efforts will be made to capture it alive, for exhibition, but there seems not much chance of its being secured by a hook, and a net could hardly go deep enough. There can be no doubt now, however, of the existence of such prodigious serpents in the lake.

IN IOWA.

The following letter is furnished the Galena Gazette of the 13th. Mr. Cruikshanks' reputation is vouched for over the signatures of three respectable gentlemen, who declare his statement worthy of credit, and the annexed account is sworn to before a Justice of the Peace in Jackson county, Iowa:

MR. EDITOR:—While engaged in fishing below the mouth of the Tate des Morts river, on Saturday evening last, between 6 and 7 o'clock, I saw a monster, which I will endeavor to describe to you: He was, when first descovered, about 300 feet from me, and was moving down; his head was raised about six feet, and his body was stretched out to the length of, I should judge, between 30 and 40 feet. His size was about as large in his middle as a mast of a sand boat—tapering gradually at head and tail; his head was more the shape of a large codfish than a serpent; his body was covered with light scales; he moved very rapidly and was only in sight for about five minutes. I should not be at all surprised if it was the same animal lately seen in Lake Michigan. He had probably been around the lakes, and came down the Mississippi. I should think, from the course he was taking, that he was bound for New Orleans and the Gulf. I have resided in this place for about fifteen years, and this is the first serpent of this kind I have ever seen in the Mississippi. What is it?

Yours,
ANDREW CRUIKSHANKS.

Grant and Stanton Correspondence.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The following is Gen. Grant's note to Secretary Stanton, on being directed by the President to act as Secretary of War:

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 12, 1867.
Hon. E. M. Stanton, Secretary of War:

SIR—Enclosed herewith I have the honor to transmit to you a copy of a letter just received from the President of the United States, notifying me of my assignment as acting Secretary of War, and directing me to assume those duties at once.

In notifying you of my acceptance, I cannot let the opportunity pass without expressing to you my appreciation of the zeal, patriotism, firmness and ability with which you have ever discharged the duties of Secretary of War. With great respect,

Your Ob't Serv't,
U. S. GRANT, General.

To which Mr. Stanton replied as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
Washington, Aug. 12, 1867.

GENERAL: Your note of this date, accompanied by a copy of a letter addressed to you, Aug. 12th, by the President, appointing you Secretary of War ad interim, and informing me of your acceptance of the appointment, has been received. Under a sense of public duty, I am compelled to deny the President's right, under the laws of the United States, to suspend me from office as Secretary of War, or to authorize any other person to enter upon the discharge of the duties of that office, or to require me to transfer to you or any other person the records, books and papers, and the public property in my official custody as Secretary of War. But inasmuch as the President has assumed to suspend me from office as Secretary of War, and you have notified me of your acceptance of the appointment of Secretary of War ad interim, I have no alternative but to submit, under protest, to the superior force of the President. You will please accept my acknowledgement of the kind terms in which you have notified me of of your acceptance of the President's appointment, and my cordial reciprocation of the sentiments expressed. I am, with sincere regard, truly yours,

E. M. STANTON,

To Gen. U. S. Grant.

A Courageous Woman.

From the Stratford (Canada) Herald.

A startling rumor prevailed at Stratford, to the effect that three men had been killed by a woman in the township of Elma. On making inquiries we learned from Chief Constable Harrison the following facts as given by Messrs. Moore and Dood, constables from Elma:

A woman named Gibson, living near Trowbridge, had lately received a sum of money from her husband, who resides in the States. This, of course, became noised abroad among the neighbors. On Saturday evening last four men entered the house in her absence, but were unable to find anything. In the evening the same parties came again. This time Mrs. Gibson was at home. On their demanding admission she refused, as the children had told her of the previous occurrence.

They then attempted to force their way in. Mrs. Gibson warned them to desist, at the same time threatening to shoot; but they still persisted, when she fired the gun, and shot the formost in the face, the others withdrew for a while with their companion, but shortly returned to the house and burst the window open. The brave woman seized an axe and buried it in the skull of the man who was attempting to climb through the window. The other two immediately decamped, taking their wounded companions with them.

The alarm was not given till morning, when the neighbors turned out and followed the tracks, which were easily distinguished by the pools of blood which lay along the Concession; but it was found that the parties had got into a conveyance and drove off. Up to going to press we have not learned that any were captured. It is almost certain that one of the ruffians was killed, and the one that was shot must have been severely wounded, as the woman saw them carry him away before returning to their second attack.

The Chicago Times solemnly advises President Johnson to resign. It says that under existing laws and existing facts he can do nothing as President but "minister to his own shame." This will constitute a powerful motive with Mr. Johnson for continuing to hold his office.

—The Democratic papers, so far as they have come to hand since the suspension of Mr. Stanton, express a decided willingness to accept Johnson's resignation. Some of them advise him to "throw up his hand" and quit the White House; others intimate that it would be better for the future prospects of the Democratic party if he would retire from the Presidency, remarking that every step he takes strengthens his opponents and weakens his supporters. It is very clear that if Congress shall impeach and remove him, no tears will be shed by the Democracy on his account. Indeed they would rather have him removed than retained, and will feel disappointed if he is allowed to drag out the miserable remnant of his term. He has forfeited the respect and confidence of all parties, and has come to be regarded, by common consent, as utterly "played out," a disgrace, an eyesore and a stench in the nostrils of honorable men. Hated by the North, despised by the South, he presents a vivid example of the penalty which treachery and apostacy always receive at the hands of the people.—Chicago Tribune.

ORIGIN OF THE TERM NEWSPAPER.—In Hadyn's Dictionary of dates, it is said that news is not, as many supposed, derived from the adjective new. Importing that these papers contained intelligence from the four quarters of the globe, and from this practice is derived the term newspaper.

Marrying a Man for Motives of Benevolence.

[From the New Orleans Times, August 7.]

A short time since there resided over the Lake, at Biloxi, a gentleman very wealthy and very dissipated. Born to wealth, and reared in the lap of luxury, his father—now deceased—holding an eminent position in the old United States army, and in the esteem of all who knew him, it truly seemed that he was one of the fortunate sons of earth; that life with him must, almost necessarily, prove a pleasant pastime. His education was in accordance with the high social position and brilliant future awaiting him. At the conclusion of his education in this country he was sent to Europe. Unfortunately, while tutors imparted the finishing touches to his education, "friends" imparted knowledge that rapidly led to a life of constant dissipation, and he returned to his native city a confirmed and hopeless drunkard. At the opening of the present summer he retired to the lake village above mentioned, and spent his days in endless carouse. His business and all his large monetary interests had for some time been confided to a gentleman who very kindly consented to burden himself with their conduct, and who proved to be such a thorough business man that the entire estate eventually acknowledged him as owner. Not long ago a lady, a total stranger to all Biloxi, and as afterward appeared, to the object of her errand, arrived at this place and proceeded to the residence of the weak and self degraded man, requesting an interview with him. She was informed that he was too ill to receive any company whatever: that is, he was, in plain language, dead drunk. The next morning this lady repeated her visit, and succeeded in meeting with Mr.——, and, incredible as it may appear, in convincing him that he ought to marry her. The marriage ceremony transpired a few days after, and a change for the better was soon perceived in his habits. The lady frankly announced to anxious feminine inquirers that she married her husband from motives of benevolence, being firmly persuaded that unless some disinterested person assumed control of his affairs he would very soon be reduced to abject poverty. Legal measures have recently been instituted for the recovery of a large portion of his estate, which had passed into other hands.

CHURCH ETIQUETTE.—The following is said to be the latest church etiquette:

Let the lady advance one pace beyond the door of the pew she wishes to enter, half about face and salute. The pew must then be vacated by such gentlemen as there are in it by flank movement. The squad should rise simultaneously when the lady presents herself and face by the right flank, then deploy into the isle, the head man facing the lady, and the rest, walking to his right and rear, the direction of his halt being changed by a right countermarch, and forming again into line up and down the aisle, still faced by the right flank. The lady, when the coast is clear, completes her salute and advances to her position in the pew. The gentlemen break off by files from the rear and resume their places. Great care should be taken, of course, by other parties not to enter the aisle when this evolution is in progress until it is completed.

FOR GOVERNOR--THE ISSUE.

We are able to give this week more definite information concerning the probable candidates for Governor before the Republican convention which meets in St. Paul September 11th. As the season advances the disposition of the party seems to be to divide upon the issue of bond proposition and anti-bond proposition. Such a course is the logical sequence of all political enterprises. And if an election is to ensue, it is quite as logical and natural that the friends of either side of the issue enforce their wishes and principles by supporting for office a person committed to their views. It is impossible in the coming convention to avoid a square issue for or against the bond proposition. From personal information gained in a trip to St. Paul, we can state without fear of successful contradiction that Gov. Marshall is fully committed in favor of the bond proposition. Both in St. Paul and Minneapolis we find that every advocate of the bond swindle is earnestly urging the re nomination of Gov. Marshall, and we were personally met by earnest bond advocates who were disposed to argue us into the notion that Gov. Marshall was right in advocating their payment. On the other hand the plebeians of those cities—those who are not interested either directly or indirectly in the spoils of this fraud, are a unit in opposition to him. The candidate of the anti-bond party is Hon. C. D. Gilfillan of St. Paul, who is in favor of settling the bond matter by paying only what is equitably due, which according to the Hubbard committee appointed to investigate the question, is about 30 per cent of their face. He is weekly gathering strength and the anti-bond party are rallying around him, while those in favor of the proposition of last winter which will surely effect a payment in full, are the eager friends of Gov. Marshall. Mr. Gilfillan was a strong candidate two years since, and has never been forgotten by the people. Consistency on the part of the public will prompt them, if opposed to the swindle, to oppose also any man for office who favors it, and to call to the maintainance of their rights a man who is not controlled body and soul by the ring of bond swindlers at St. Paul.

TO BE PAID IN FULL.

The question is pertinently asked why if the legislature, or the Governor, in passing and approving the bond proposition intended that its practical effect would be to pay only the percentage of the bonds equitably due, they did not urge that a precentage be fixed by law beyond which no proposal for surrendering the bonds would be entertained. This would have protected the people from any overreaching by the commissioners, who, by the present law, are not only not limited, but may even pay the whole face of the bonds, and a premium besides. There is a little history of the legislation of last winter which shows that although it was proposed to fix the per centage, it was voted down, and the Governor signed the bill with its unrestricted provision. Upon this subject the Rural Minnesotian says:

"Mr. Donnelly in his letter to the Press "asks the significant question, "why" [if it "was intended that only a per centage should "be paid upon the bonds,] 'the law did not "fix the per centage?"

"That was the very thing sought to be "avoided by the Bondholders.

"Hon. E. Ayres, of Washington county, a "faithful member of the House last winter, "offered an amendment to the bill, that "in "no case should more than forty cents be "paid on the dollar" of the face of the Bonds!

"This amendment was VOTED DOWN—and "nevertheless, Wm. R. Marshall, with this "fact before him signed the bill—well know "ing that if adopted, it could only result in "the people paying every dollar of the debt, "principal and interest—and that nothing "else would satisfy the big bondholders.

"Surely every fair minded citizen will feel "that forty per cent. would have been a very "liberal allowance on Bonds that to-day can "be bought for thirty cents on the dollar in "the city of St. Paul.

"Only last week a prominent banker of St. "Paul sold two of these $1000 Bonds, for "$300 each, which, allowing for the accumulated interest, would make the amount paid "on the principal not more than twenty per "cent.

"—Yet the framers of this same bill re"fused to fix the limit at forty per cent., and "the man who signed the bill asks to be made "Governor by the votes of the people this "scheme would have robbed to the tune of "millions!"

LT. GOVERNOR.

The victorious Union Republican party of Minnesota have another battle to fight at the coming election. They must win it, as of old, by adherence to great principles that never know defeat, and by toil that commands victory.

To render the coming one a crowning victory, our party must have able leaders, men with brains in their heads, and enthusiasm in their souls. Eminent in this list stands Col. WILLIAM PFAENDER, of Brown county. As such he would ably represent the Radical, Free-Suffrage views of our German and Scandinavian fellow citizens. He has been repeatedly honored by the suffrages of the voters of his own county. He has ably represented his District in the State Legislature. More than this, he is a soldier and won renown and promotion in the bloodiest battles of the war. The "first in war" are worthy to be "first in peace."

We commend his name to the State Republican Convention, soon to assemble, for the office of Lieutenant Governor.

—General Grant will make no general change in the working of the War Office. The changes he has for some time contemplated in the Quartermaster's Department will soon be made. Of the nine adjutant generals two will be transferred to duty elsewhere. Of the twenty-nine assistant quartermasters on duty at Washington the majority will be sent elsewhere, and the Quartermaster's Bureau considerably reduced.

PROBABLE SWINDLE.

There is, we understand, a company in Freeport, Illinois, styling themselves the Citizens Health Insurance Company. They have agencies throughout this State, and are taking risks which guarantee a person's health, and when sick pay them so much per week, according to the sum named in the application. Mr. C. H. Austin, boot dealer of this place, was induced to insure early last spring. After a few weeks of illness, he applied for his insurance, at $5 per week during his illness. After repeated unsuccessful efforts to obtain any word from the company, he wrote to a lawyer of that place to ascertain the trouble. It seems from his letter that the concern is not at all reliable. He thinks all that can be done is to secure a return of his premium notes, but that "nothing else could be squeezed out of them." We publish this as a warning to our citizens to beware of traveling insurance agents whose principals live in a remote eastern town, having no reputation or permanent agencies, in our State. Our advice is to insure with your own citizens in whom you can have confidence, and who are always ready to adjust losses.

To the Teachers and School Trustees of Blue Earth County.

The County Superintendent of Schools is required by law to "organize and conduct at least one Institute for the instruction of teachers in each year, if he deems the same necessary."

For many reasons, I deem it highly necessary, and will open an INSTITUTE IN THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE IN MANKATO, ON THE 9th DAY OF SEPTEMBER next, to continue in session two weeks.

Experience has shown that a well conducted Teachers' Institute is one of the best means in use for the improvement of teachers and the common schools.

We need to improve. It must be admitted that our schools, generally, are in a very poor condition. This is owing in part to poor houses and a want of means to support schools properly, but in the main it is attributable to the inefficiency of teachers. Under these circumstances we earnestly request all our teachers to attend the Institute, when we will try to find out what the defects are in our present modes of teaching and managing schools, and devise means to remedy them.

The time will be spent in a thorough review of the branches taught in our common schools and in giving instructions daily as to the best method of teaching each branch. Certificates will be given at the close of the Institute to all those attending who are found to be qualified.

A number of gentlemen of large experience in teaching and conducting Institutes, has kindly consented to assist me during the whole term, among whom is Prof. B. F. Jenness, who has been engaged as principal of the Mankato School, and wishes to select from the teachers present, ten assistants for the coming term of ten months.

Hon. Mark H. Dunnell, State Superintendent, will also be present for a few days, and will address the Institute.

The room, which has been freely tendered to us by the school trustees here, is large enough to accommodate all the teachers in the county, and many visitors besides.

It is well furnished with black boards, seats and desks of the latest styles.

Now, teachers, please do not fail to attend. We must do something to secure better teaching and management in our schools. Bring your school books with you. Lessons will be announced each evening for the succeeding day. The only expense will be for boarding which can be had at from $3.50 to $4.50 per week. I think an arrangement can be made with the County Commissioners to refund the boarding to all who have to pay, if they teach in the county.

Those who may have no boarding places in view, will be told of places to board if they will come at once to the school house on the first day of the institute.

School trustees who have teachers in view should see that they attend. All those who think of teaching in the county the coming winter, or the next year, should attend, because I am instructed to make very thorough examinations this fall, and many of our teachers will not get even third grade certificates without some special training.

Assassination of Lopez, the Betrayer of Maximilian.

A letter gives the following details of the assassination of Lopez, who betrayed Maximilian:

I arrived here to day, and learned the startling news of the assassinaion of the traitor Lopez. The particulars of the assassination are as follows: Lopez was standing at a hotel in Puebla, where his wife spurned him from her presence. Early one morning a Mexican arrived, and familiarized himself with an ostler in a livery stable adjoining the hotel. General Miguel Lopez was inquired for, but, not being in, the stranger was told that the General would be at dinner. Before the dinner hour, Lopez returned, and was pointed out to the stranger who made special note of his man. When dinner was called, Lopez and his assassin occupied opposite seats at the table; after some minutes, during which time the stranger called and drank a glass of wine, he deliberately rose, drew a concealed knife, and sprang upon Lopez, and stabbed him nine times. The stranger then took his hat, and as he started to leave, said, "This is the way all traitors should be paid." No one interfered or prevented the assassin from leaving. Thus was the blood of Maximilian, Miramon, Mejia, yes! and thousands of others avenged.

THE PRESIDENCY.—The Stillwater Messenger has hoisted the following at the head of its editorial columns:

FOR PRESIDENT,
Andrew Johnson's victim of Malignity and Hate of Yesterday,
EDWIN M. STANTON!
"Rally round the Flag, Boys!"

—The Iowa papers complain that the locust trees are being killed by the borer. This pest began its work of destruction in the Eastern States a quarter of a century ago, and has been steadily working its way West. Wherever it finds its way it kills out the locust tree entirely.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—It is understood the President has assigned General Thomas to Sheridan's District, Sheridan to Missouri and Hancock to the Department of the Cumberland.

The Herald's Washington special pronounces the affidavits published against Judge Holt a hoax.

Official Mexican advices announce the refusal to deliver Maximilian's body to the Austrian government. It is buried in the cathedral at Queratero.

Judge Holt is granted leave of absence until the 5th of September. In the meantime the President's order transferring him to other duties will be issued.

FROM MADELIA.

By our own Reporter.

COUNTY CONVENTION.—The Republican Central Committee of Watonwan County met at Madelia on the 17th, present, R. W. Montgomery Chairman, C. M. Pomeroy Secretary, W. W. Murphy, E. M. Sprague and Bowne Yates.

The committee after considerable consultation on the kind of a convention to be called, finally concluded to call a mass convention, and in accordance therewith a call was issued for a republican county convention to be held in the school house at Madelia, on the 31st day of August 1867, for the purpose of placing in nomination candidates for the following officers:

Clerk of the District Court, Auditor, Treasurer, Sheriff, Judge of probate, District Attorney, Register of Deeds, County Surveyor, Coroner and three county commissioners.

Also to elect one delegate to the republican State convention, and also one delegate to the Seventeenth Senatorial District convention.

The County Convention will be called to order at 2 o'clock P. M.

The committee were hopeful that the style of a convention called would prove satisfactory to all republicans and that by another year such measures would be taken as to make it practicable to call a Delegate Convention and thereby place the party organization in this county upon a sure and satisfactory foundation.

It is desired that all republicans will avail themselves of the opportunity of meeting together on the 31st inst., and by a combined and united effort place in nomination men in whom all can have confidence.

Let every part of the county be fairly represented, so that a ticket may be selected which shall reflect the wishes of republicans in whatever quarter of the county they may reside. Thus we may expect to ever defeat the nefarious schemes of those who were wicked enough to rejoice at the diabolical murder of Abraham Lincoln.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.—On the recommendation of the republican central committee that Republican Clubs should be formed wherever practicable, the people of Madelia have been invited to meet in the village on Saturday the 24th inst., to perfect such an organization.

This is a step in the right direction and we hope it may result in creating an earnest zeal in the good work.

Let republicans everywhere be earnest and untiring in their labors for the benefit of the party.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Mr. Ransom has completed a substantial frame addition to his shop, and aside from blacksmithing, intends to keep on hand a good stock of plows and having ordered an assortment expects to receive them in a few days. Mr. R. has sent patterns of castings to the Mankato Iron works and will when he receives the proper castings, commence building breaking plows of a superior style and finish.

Our old friend Miller who formerly occupied the shop now owned by Mr. Ransom has built a good shop on his lot and is now prepared to do blacksmithing on short notice.

This makes three blacksmith shops we now have in full blast.

Winona Eastern Connection.

From the Winona Republican, 16th.

Seeing is believing. A gentleman of this city who came through from Milwaukee on the LaCrosse road, on Thursday, informs us that the grading on the Winona Eastern Connection, is already done from the point of junction as far as the view is unobstructed, and that there is a large force at work along the line of the road for several miles. Our informant states that he had a conversation with one of the contractors, Mr. Wells, on Thursday, and learned from him that the iron for the track has been purchased and a portion of it is on the way westward from New York. The contractors were fortunate enough to close a contract for 50,000 ties, now lying within accessible distance of the track, and ready for use when required. Contracts have also been closed with mills on the Black river for the heavy timbers for the bridges, including the railroad bridge across the Mississippi at this city. The timbers can easily be floated down the Black river to the point where the road crosses that stream. We are further informed that the Western end of the line, opposite this city, will be definitely located within a few weeks, and that active operations on the Mississippi bridge will be commenced some time during the coming winter.

—The infant daughter of Col. Richard Long, of Chillicothe, O., had a miraculous escape last week. While being drawn in her little carriage along the edge of a precipice ninety-five feet high, a strong blast of wind forced the wagon, which had been left standing but for a moment, over the rocky edge, and it fell seventy-nine and a half feet, striking at the foot of a small tree, on a ledge that jutted out about fifteen feet from the foot of the precipice, throwing the baby out into some bushes and a pile of leaves that had been swept from the yard above. When found, its dress was over its eyes, and it was indulging in a little cry. A doctor was telegraphed for, and found that, save a slight injury on the scalp, she was none the worse for her perilous descent.

—The Cincinnati Times thinks this would be a strong ticket for 1868:

For President—E. M. Stanton.
For Vice President—Philip H. Sheridan.

So it would.—Chicago Post.

—George Ingraham, a day laborer in Boston, has just fallen heir to one twentieth of an estate in England, valued at $1,000,000.

—When Daniel Webster was a young man, about commencing the study of law, he was advised not to enter the legal profession for it was already crowded. His reply was, "There is room enough at the top."

MINNEISKA.—The Catholics are building a church at this place. It is to be 32 feet in width and 50 in length, and will do credit to Minneiska when finished. The foundation is already laid, and the superstructure will soon follow.—Wabashaw Herald.

PEAT.—Being in treasurer Whitcomb's office this week, we were just in time to see a couple of bricks of peat brought in by Mr. Joseph Berry. It had been taken from a bed of about seven acres in extent and four feet in thickness, situated on his farm in the south east corner of the town of Viola in this County, and only three miles from the Village of Eyota.—They appeared to be very pure and solid specimens. There is considerable peat scattered around in this vicinity. —Rochester Post.

RAILROAD NEWS.—A rumor was in circulation yesterday that the track on the Central was laid down to within four miles of Lansing, which would be only nine miles from Austin. We hardly credit this, however. But there is no doubt that the track is down to within twelve miles of Austin, which would be twenty miles this side of Owatonna. With three weeks of good weather, we will venture the assertion, that the track will be laid to Austin. Indeed, we believe the cars would be running into Austin in two weeks, was it not for the bridge across the Cedar, and one or two other short places to be bridged, which will probably retard the track-laying somewhat.

We understand that no regular trains will be put upon the road until it is finished to Austin.—Mower County Register.

RT. REV. BISHOP GRACE.—This distinguished Catholic prelate returned last Friday from Rome, where he had been to a convocation of Bishops, called there by Pope Pius IX. It was understood that the Bishop would arrive in the afternoon express train, from the East, and the Catholic citizens of St. Paul, determined en masse, to give him a welcome. There was a salute of artillery fired, a procession of the various Catholic societies, and of the Sunday school marched to the depot, with a band of music and banners flying, and the resident clergy of the Catholic church, also in the procession, and escorted the Bishop to the Cathedral, where an address of welcome was delivered by one of the priests, and a felicitous reply was made by the Bishop.

There were about one thousand persons in the procession, and following in its wake.—Minneapolis Tribune Aug. 17th.

TO BLOOMING PRAIRIE.—On and after Monday next trains on the Central will make regular trips to Oak Glen and Blooming Prairie, eighteen miles below Owatonna. Construction trains are hard at work, and our railroad lines, east and west, are increasing in length daily.—Minneapolis Tribune.

WHEAT.—Several farmers informed us that they find upon close examination in certain localities that the blight has effected some fields sown late. It is not general by no means, as yet, we have heard of but few fields effected. Harvesting wheat has commenced in earnest, and already many "golden fields" have been laid low, by the sinewy hands of our sturdy farmers.—Chaska Herald.

—The second supplemental reconstruction act requires the virtual approval by General Grant of all orders which any district commander may issue. The first instance of the disapproval of any order yet issued occurred on the 13th, when General Grant telegraphed General Sickles, setting aside his order prohibiting the execution of a process relative to debt which was issued in North Carolina by the United States District Court, Chief Justice Chase presiding.

The undersigned begs leave to inform the Ladies of Mankato and vicinity that she has opened a new Establishment, on Front Street, opposite L. L. & O. H. Davis' Hardware Store, where she may be found, always ready to do any work in the above line. She has just received a large stock of NEW MILLINERY GOODS which may be found in fine display at her place. Ladies will do well to call and examine her latest fashions. She would also call attention to her Straw and Napolitan Bleeching, which she claims is superior to any thing yet introduced in this community. It does not injure the Straw in the least, but preserves it from impurities. She warrants her work to give PERFECT SATISFACTION or no pay, and only asks for a fair trial.

MRS. SARAH C. WILLIAMS.

☞Take Notice.—MR. G. O. WILLIAMS will pay special attention to bleeching and pressing, and to the coloring of straw any desired shade. Dye works in connection with this store will be erected soon on the Van Brunt Addition.

EXPLANATORY.—There appeared in the UNION last week, much to our surprise, an article intimating that some one in this county professing to be a physician had been tampering criminally with a lady who was one of his patients. We had supposed the article had been effectually disposed of before our leaving for St. Paul. On Wednesday evening during a busy hour in preparing to leave home, our attention was called to this correspondence. Knowing its source we hastily read it, and with a view of publishing it put a small heading to it and read it over a second time. The phraseology was so objectionable, especially for a local paper, and other objections appearing, we at once placed it as we supposed in our box of deferred and rejected correspondence which is next to the "inside" copy box, intending to see the correspondent in person. It was thus indefinitely postponed, but either through our mistake in putting it in the wrong box, or the printer boy in taking it from the wrong one, it crept into print, and in our absence was published. Of the statement we since learn that our correspondent being ambitious for news, took his information from a stale neighborhood rumor which had no foundation in fact. This incident is proof of the incessant labor and watch care of an editor and the necessity of constant personal attention at the sanctum.

HAMLINE UNIVERSITY.—We are in receipt of a circular containing the announcement of the fall term of this well known Institution. The departments of instruction include the collegiate, preparatory, normal and academic. Rev. Jabez Brooks is still the President, and he is assisted by seven professors and teachers. This institution has a reputation for talent in its Faculty, and thoroughness in its courses of study, which should commend it to the favor of the public, as affording the very best educational facilities in the State. The fall term commences September 26th, and the tuition is low. For particulars address Rev. Jabez Brooks, Redwing, Minnesota.

SALES.—Mr. Cannon has sold his residence on Front street including two lots for $2,700, to the Messrs. White of the Crockery store.

Mr. A. T. Foster has sold to Mr. James Cannon a corner lot on Second street, Van Brunts Addition, opposite Captain Burke's residence for $450. Mr. Cannon is preparing to build a dwelling on it at once.

BLACKBERRIES.—We are under grateful obligations to Mrs. D. H. Tyner for a bowl of fine large blackberries, of the Lawton variety. They were raised in her garden, and some of them were more than an inch in diameter. This enterprise of raising small fruit in the garden should be emulated by all our citizens who own a foot of ground, or at least a home. Blackberries, Raspberries, Strawberries, and Curents could be raised plenteously, and would form a good substitute for such fruit as we are importing.

SALVE.—The attention of our readers is called to an advertisement called "Dr. Peter Schwind's Rose Healing Salve." It is said to be very effective in curing all kinds of sores and wounds. Wickersham & Co., keep it for sale.

MATCH GAME.—The first nine of the Minneinneopa Base Ball Club will play a match game with the second nine of the Frontier Club on Tuesday afternoon next at 2 o'clock. It will doubtless be an interesting game, and if the weather is not too hot the friends of the respective clubs will doubtless be present to enjoy the sport.

THEATER.—Elsewhere see the advertisement of T. Steidle's theater which takes place next Monday night. The play is William Tell, and it will be rendered in the German language. Give him a full house.

TEMPERENCE LECTURE.—On Wednesday evening last Hon. M. S. Wilkinson delivered a lecture before the Good Templars at the Methodist church. It was delivered by request, as a repetition of his Northfield lecture. He took the ground that the true way to advocate the cause of temperence was by appealing to and cultivating the moral sentiment of the people, giving illustrations of many reforms including that of the abolition of slavery, which were accomplished by an appeal to the people. Among these he mentioned the name of William Lloyd Garrison, who thirty years since was dragged through the streets of Boston on account of his out spoken opposition to American slavery, but who since its abolition has been the honored guest of the eminent men of both the United States and of England. Mr. Lincoln's plan was that reforms could only be effected by popular opinion, and as soon as it had been ripened sufficiently by appeals to the moral and humane sentiments of man's nature, he was ready to promulgate the edict of emancipation, and success followed the pronunciamento because the people said, Amen. He said that no reform in temperence could be effected by force of law, no more than a stream can rise higher than its fountain. The whole tenor of his remarks was in opposition to prohibitory laws, while he counseled thorough effort on the part of temperence organizations and churches to educate the rising generation to habits of soberness and to continue by precept and example to persuade all from the intoxicating cup. We believe that Mr. Wilkinson's position is correct. It is quite as impractical to force people to a certain belief upon the temperence question, as it is to force upon them by law the creeds of any religious order. As we pursuade men to acknowledge Chist, so we persuade them to eschew evils which encounter their temporal success. "Convince a man against his will and he is of the same opinion still." Statute law may sometimes inflict a penalty, but it will never force a public sentiment which is always necessary to the maintainance and uniform execution of it.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday evening last Charlie Griswold, acting foreman in our office, was working our Gorden Jobber and caught his right hand between the bed and platen while the press was in motion. The whole hand below the nuckles was badly crushed, the bones snapping so loud as to be heard plainly at our desk. Any one acquainted with the power of the driving wheel will understand the fate of a limb if caught in its meshes. He went to Wickersham & Co.'s drug store, where the hand was examined and dressed by Dr. Clark. The Doctor thinks the fingers can be saved by careful treatment, though the wounds will disable him for quite a time and are distressingly painful.

HORSES STOLEN.—Elsewhere is a reward of $125 offered for the thief and the return of two horses supposed to have been stolen on the Cottonwood on the 16th inst., from J. A. Crisp. Mr. Crisp lives in Iowa, and his wagon and goods and himself are left among strangers in this unfortunate predicament. We trust our citizens will take a little pains to secure information regarding the disappearance of his team.

FARMERS INSURANCE CO.—We publish elsewhere the advertisement of the FARMERS INSURANCE COMPANY of ROCHESTER. In the start we wish to say that this company has no connection with the bogus concern, lately defunct, and formerly known as the Rochester Insurance Company. It will be seen that the officers and directors are among the best and wealthiest citizens of Rochester, and the State. J. V. Daniels has long been honored with a seat in the State Senate, from that city and county, and enjoys their confidence. W. D. Hurlbut is the wealthiest banker in the place, and O. P. Whitcomb is treasurer of Olmstead county. Hon. Alex. Ramsey, U. S. Senator, and Hon. Chas. Scheffer, State Treasurer, are well known thoughout the State. This company have been doing a small but safe and prompt business for several years, and are now preparing to extend their range of operations. As an omen of success it should be stated, that they pay but one officer a salary, and that is the Secretary. The others only take a dividend of the earnings of the company after all losses are paid. They have deposited $25,000 with the State Treasurer, as a guarantee to the insured, and have a capital in all of $66,062. We see no reason why this company should not receive the patronage of our readers, and we therefore commend them to their favorable consideration.

NEW TOWN.—We should judge that the railroad company are not to have it all their own way at Clear Lake in reference to the new town at that point. From what we can gather of the following item from the Wilton News it is probable that another town site speculator is attempting to build another town on the opposite side of the railroad track from Waseca. It says:

CLEAR LAKE CITY.—On the southside of the track of the W. & St. P. Rail Road, at Clear Lake has now been surveyed and platted by H. G. Mosher. A plat of the Town site is in the hands of J. C. Hunter of Wilton, who will be glad to give intending purchasers of lots, every information. Lots have been sold to the following individuals who are under contract to erect buildings forthwith—J. H. Wrightman, James W. Hunter, S. L. Haines, John Forrest, O. P. Smith, R. B. Johnson, G. W. Watkins, N. T. Huxsie, Henry Myers, Whitney L. Wheeler, Hall & Ostertag. An Hotel of the following dimensions 44X70 feet, with a barn 40X60 is also under contract to be completed in six weeks, and will be under the management of a landlord that knows how to keep a first class Hotel. No expense shall be spared to make it a pleasant resort for tourists, travelers, and others visiting Clear Lake City either on business or pleasure.

STRAWBERRY VINES.—This month is the time to transplant Strawberry vines to secure a crop next year. I have a few hundred of the Russel's Prolific, also the Wilson's Albany. Those wishing Vines will do well to call soon. Price to suit purchasers.

BENJ. DURKEE.

Mankato Aug. 22d 67.

AN APOLOGY.—We are requested to state to those members of the brass band who left the Episcopal festival on Tuesday evening last so early and unexpectedly, that an apology is due them for the apparent lack of attention on the part of the ladies in charge. The first Vice President of the Ladies Aid Society invited them to play, and procured an extra freezer of delicately prepared ice cream for their special benefit. When the refreshments were served, the rush was so great that the ladies were, as it were, tied to the tables and did not realize that time was passing so rapidly and that a portion of their guests were not waited on. The first Vice President discovered that some of the band were leaving, and hastened to have them called back, but she was too late, and therefore takes this method of making amends for any want of courtesy to them. We are confident if our band friends took any exceptions to their treatment, they are gallant enough to receive this apology in full satisfaction for the oversight.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE.—The citizens of school District No. 81, which comprises the Van Brunt Addition to Mankato and West Mankato, have resolved to build a school house to cost, including lots, $5,000. It will be two stories high and the size it is thought will be 32 by 48 feet. Two lots have been engaged in the block back of Ray's new dwelling, at $600 and bonds are to be issued in small sums at 12 per cent interest, and negotiated. Those having a little spare money will do well to purchase a few of the bonds. They wish to complete the building this fall.

ALMOST A FIRE.—Mr. A. D. Seward on Broad street, had in his cellar a ham which he was smoking under a barrel to preserve it from insects. The cellar has a stone floor and the smoke was in an iron kettle. Either the fire blazed into the ham or it fell in the fire, and caused a heavy smoke which almost enveloped the house, and the alarm of fire was given. The Engine, Hook & Ladder, and hose were promptly on the ground but a pail of water did the business for them.

SENATOR.—It has been rumored on the street that Hon. M. S. Wilkinson's name is mentioned in connection with the State Senate. Upon enquiry we find that he will not decline a nomination if tendered, though we think he has little disposition to make a personal fight against other aspirants in this city. If nominated his friends must interest themselves in the matter.

MILLINERY SALE.—Attention is called to the advertisement elsewhere, of the sale of the stock of Millinery of Mrs. M. S. Potts, to be found under the proper head. We are informed that her stock is large, and well selected and that purchasers will find the goods to be of the first quality, and latest styles. The entire lot will be sold without reserve, and it will afford a splendid opportunity for our people to buy at a very reasonable figure. Recollect the time and place, at Mrs. Potts millinery store, next Tuesday, Aug. 27th.

Rev. T. C. Eaton, Universalist, will preach in Shoemaker's Hall next Sunday at the usual hours for church services, both morning and evening.

THE BANK BUILDING.—Mr. Henry Hartman wishes us to say that the inferior brick from the lower yard mentioned in our last issue as going into the Bank building, were not put in but were taken away and used for other purposes. He promptly ordered a better article, and is determined that his contract shall be fulfilled to the letter. He is prosecuting the work with perfect satisfaction to the proprietors.

PITTSBURGH, SEPTEMBER 4, 1866.

Messrs. Hostetter & Smith.
Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTS:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pounds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
WILLIAM MILLER

A lavish [illegible] everybody to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—Downright stealing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeits, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans it for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, saving time and [illegible].

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the sieves, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it reaches the sieves at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with names and certificates, and the names and residences of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

National Labor Congress.

The annual session of this body will commence next Monday in the Wabash Avenue Rink. Delegates from all parts of the United States will be present. No less than sixty from New York city, and several from the Pacific coast, are expected. This is, perhaps, the most influential body of workingmen in the world. It represents nearly every organization of skilled workmen in the United States, and its deliberations and its action will command the attention and the respect of hundreds of thousands of the most efficient producers in the country. It is supposed that the questions of the hours of labor, and the proper method of securing the rights of employees will be discussed. Among the delegates are many of the most distinguished of the leaders of workingmen's Unions.

A meeting of the Chicago delegates to this Congress will be held this evening, at eight o'clock, in the office of the Workingman's Advocate.—Chicago Post.

Death of a Boy from a Blow Received While Playing Base Ball.

A boy named James O'Donnell, aged eleven years, died at half past five o'clock this morning, at his father's residence, No. 37 Superior street, from the effects of a blow received while playing base ball. On Tuesday afternoon two clubs, composed of juveniles, were testing their skill at base ball on a vacant square on the corner of Market and Superior streets. Towards the close of the game James Powers was at the bat. While in the act of striking, the bat flew from his hands, the end striking in the lower part of the stomach of young O'Donnell, who was standing about twenty feet to the left and slightly to the rear. With a cry of agony, the boy fell senseless to the ground. He was picked up and conveyed to his home, about a block and a half distant. Dr. Winer was summoned, and the utmost was done to relieve the terrible sufferings of the boy. The blunt end of the club struck and ruptured the lower intestines, and, mortification supervening, death ensued at half past five o'clock this morning. The Coroner holds an inquest this afternoon.—Chicago Post.

—In running to catch a "fly ball" in a base ball game at Osage, in Mitchell county, Iowa, a few days ago, two players came in contact with such force that one of them had a jaw broken and was knocked down insensible, and was "crazy for twenty-four hours thereafter," while the other had his face bruised and the bones of his nose broken.

A Child Mangled to Death.

From the Dubuque Times.

One of the most horrible reaper accidents that has ever come to our knowledge occurred in a wheat field three miles south of the village of Cascade, in this county, on Thursday, August 1st. It seems that a child, but three years of age, strayed from the home of its parents into the wheat field, which was near by, and fell asleep among the wheat. Before long the father of the child came along with a reaper, driving at a brisk rate. He was startled by a sharp cry, which was almost instantly hushed. Looking down to the sickle he saw what was once his infant child, rolling before the knives, already dead. He instantly stopped the team, and got down to the child. The little creature was frightfully mangled. The sickle had cut and torn it from its head to its feet. Its face was not recognizable so terrible had been the work of the knives—its nose and cheeks and eyes had all been lacerated. The skull had been cut through—and probably this almost instantly killed the child, as the head was evidently the first part struck. The child screamed but once, and then was instantly still.

Our informant, who is one of the prominent citizens of Cascade, was unable to give the name of the child's parents. The incident is one of the most harrowing ones that we have chronicled in many a day. Farmers and their wives cannot be too carefully watch their small children during the progress of harvest.

Profits of Advertising.—A dealer who advertised with us two years since to the amount of fifty dollars, told us a few days since that as near as he could calculate he had realized eighteen hundred dollars from the transaction. Perhaps it is not often that the circumstances admit of anything like an accurate calculation of the profits of advertising, yet experience has demonstrated beyond question that they are very large.—Lewiston Journal.

—An Indiana paper heads its base ball column "Tinct. Arnica."

—Two persons in Vienna, disputing whether men or women had the most vanity, made a bet to decide the matter. They agreed to stand opposite a mirror shop and count the number of men and women who should stop and admire themselves in the looking glasses. In one hour they had counted 100 women, 80 of whom stopped to look at themselves, while of the same number of men, 95 paused to admire their face and figure.

—Jonathan presented himself and his intended to the minister for the purpose of being married. Being questioned if they had been published, "Oh, I guess so, for I told it to Uncle Ben, and he told his wife morn'n a week ago."

—A bashful young man escorted an equally bashful young lady. As they neared the dwelling of the damsel, she said, entreatingly, "Jehiel, don't tell anybody you beaued me home." "Sary," said he emphatically, "don't you mind. I am as much ashamed as you are."

—At a trial of a divorce case, a witness recently in England made the following replies: Mr. Sergent Tindal—"He treated her very kindly, did he not?" Atkinson—"Oh, yes, very: he kissed her several times." Sergeant Tindal—"And how did she treat him?" Atkinson—"Well, she retaliated."

—Young ladies should never object to being kissed by editors; they should make every allowance for the freedom of the press.

Apples.—Minnesota apples, large and fine flavored, of the red Astrican variety, have been left at our office by Sudge Baldwin—raised in his garden on High St. S. Doughty will probably make cider this fall, as his trees are loaded with the luscious fruit. Let us hear no more the whimpering cry "apples can't be raised in Minnesota."—Lake City Leader.

—Secretary Stanton has left Washington and has gone to the White Mountains, ad interim, to recruit his health.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. Schenck, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. Schenck makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. Dr. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. Schenck, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

UNEQUALED

Heavy or Lodged Grain.

THE ONLY SELF RAKER THAT WILL WORK

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign; on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following.

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower si light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

Farmers, the best is the cheapest—Consult your interest and secure a good machine by purchasing a

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 11—The Reign of Terror.

H——, Aug. 26, 1862.

DEAR FRIEND,—The bright sun is shining at last, and in its protecting light, I will jot you a few lines in the hour that is at my disposal before school time.

Probably before this, tidings of the horrible outbreak of the Indians has reached you; the pen shrinks from a description of their fiendish work. Only the Sioux have risen, and now the greatest, and most important question with us, is, "Will the Winnebagoes join them?" In the weakened condition of our State, with the most of her warriors at the South, what might not their united bands accomplish?

Some of our citizens went up to the Agency a day or two ago, and brought back word that the Winnebagoes would not rise, if assured of the protection of the whites against our common enemy, the Sioux; and to day all the young and able bodied men of the place turned out en masse, armed to the teeth, for the Agency.

All day, vague rumors vexed our ears, whether true or not we did not know. Every stage driver loved to magnify the facts, horrible as they were at best, and taking them for truth, each lip, from urchin to matron took up the frightful tale, that "The Indians were within ten miles of us, that "they had burned this and that town, killing and scalping as they went." Another, evidently true, gave us more uneasiness. Near sundown some people, living a few miles out of town, saw three Sioux skulking in the grass, and firing at prairie chickens, etc., but the common belief was that they were stragglers, returning from the east.

Mr. Osborn, was among the number of those that went up to the Agency, and May, his wife, staid with us last night; we are always pleased to have her with us, she is so lively, that we consider a visit from her a real treat, but words were few last night, and we hovered together with pale faces, or crept to the doors and windows to listen.

It was painful to see the look of fear on the white faces of Rosa and Mrs. Osborn's little Katie; more painful still to think what might befall them ere the morn. Years seemed to have been added to Willie's age, as he carefully examined the priming of his shot gun; a look on his young face showed that he would prove no coward, should the trial come.

By and by father, who had been out all the evening, came in, and in a cheerful tone said, "I have been scouting around with some others, and as there are no signs of danger we might as well retire, after committing ourselves to that Power, that is able to deliver from all danger." Fervently did he commend us to Him, whose all seeing eye is over all his works, and strengthened and comforted, we sought our couches.

But as we lay there thoughts of what might be before morning, visions of the painted savages, with bloody tomahawk and murderous scalping knife would not let me rest.

Imagination [illegible] the defiant whoop of the Indian, or the cry of despair of his victim in my ears. I knew father, though advanced in years, was brave and would fight desperately, but once sound asleep, it was so hard to awaken him. With strained ears I lay and listened, or foolhardy sprang to the window to peer into the darkness. Nothing though to break the silence but the tramp of the sentinels, who were aided in their watch by old Tige, Capt. Heath's good dog. He was a thorough Indian hater, and we knew that no sneaking red skin could come within the range of his vision, and be safe.

Soon father's sonorous breathing, from below told that he had forgotton all about the Indians, and May, too, was asleep; not so for a time at least, with me. Oh, how ardently I wished that we were on the other side of the Mississippi. Faces of the old time rose before me, and then came the torturing question "Shall I ever see them again?" But tired nature must have at last asserted her right, for I was suddenly awakened by a bang! bang! against the door. Down stairs, in a suppressed voice, I heard mother trying to awaken father.

"Ha, Oh, what is the matter," he exclaimed in his loudest tones.

I was up to the window in a twinkling, with not a thought of what a nice target my head might afford, but that glance sufficed me; there was old Tige, vigorously engaged with—a cat! I did not sleep much after that, and do you wonder that I feel thankful for the blessed morning light?

Aug. 27th.

Morning again, but its light brings but little refreshing to weary nature, for the duties of the day will take no excuse.

"Mollie," said Mrs. Osborn, coming into the school room at noon, "Mr. Dow says he saw Indians on the Island, how many he could not very satisfactorily say, but should judge there was quite a number. Oh, what if they should come upon us to night and the boys all away! And Katie is so sick that I do not dare to take her out to night, won't you come and stay with me?" and the blue eyes of my friends plead in unison with her voice.

I consented, though I must confess, rather reluctantly, for to stay alone with May and her child in that great house was rather dismal.

Night, cheerless and dark, had at last thrown her mantle o'er this troubled earth, as May closed the blinds, that not a ray of light might guide the prowling savage to our covert, and with the doors securely fastened, she sat down to watch little Katie who was indeed very sick. No interchange of pleasant confidences, as was usual when we were alone together; instead oppressive silence was our companion. The day had been warm and sultry, but the night came on with a chill, and banking clouds presaged a storm.

"Just the kind of a night for their fiendish work," whispered May, as we shuddered, and drew nearer each other.

The town boys did not seem to have the fear of Indians so much before them, for occasional shouts and bursts of laughter found their way to our ears. It grew louder at last.

"I do wonder," said I, "how the boys around town can make so much noise—"

"Hist," she whispered, bending her head to listen. I never shall forget the white face and staring eyes that she turned to me.

"Mollie, 'tis not the boys," as we stepped to the door to listen. Kate, the shrieks of all the fiends in Pandimonia let loose, could not to our excited ears have equaled the whoops and howls that rent the air.

"Indians, and from the island," we gasped as with clasped hands, we gazed into the blanched face of the other. Simultaneous from white lips came the question, "Where shall we go?"

"To the hotel, it is nearest," answered May, and catching Katie in her arms, while I fastened the door behind us, we started.

Louder, and nearer, came the yells, but, (how my heart leaped) mingled with them was the rumble of wheels.

"Soldiers!" I said to May, "let us hasten or we will be run over in the dark."

The door was fastened, and no one seemed to hear our repeated knocks.

"Let us in," shrieked May, who did not seem to understand what I had told her, and supposed that Indians were within a few yards of us.

Not until they understood who we were would they let us in, showing though they laughed at us afterward, that they were frightened as well as we. May fell fainting to the floor, and it was long after we had brought back consiousness, that she could be made to understand the true condition of affairs.

And now the ill mannered soldiers, who only laughed when they were informed of some of the consequences of their mischief, clamored as loudly for their supper.

Mrs. Horton, the landlady, was averse to bestiring herself at that time of night, having done a hard day's work, her hired girls both having gone on a visit; but Horton was not going to let such an opportunity for getting a "good haul out of Uncle Sam," slip, and politely invited us to "help Mrs. Horton". So until 2 o'clock, did we cook and wash dishes, and when at last we sought repose for our weary bodies, sleep had flown. Do you wonder I feel weary this morning?

If this Indian trouble is quelled, Mary Starbright and I intend going to R—, to attend school, commencing with the full term. I had almost forgotten to tell you, that Miss Tibbitts is reported engaged to a fogy, grey headed widower, with eleven children, he is a Copperhead, too, could he be any meaner? If I had time and space, I would like to tell you what she says about it, but I must away to the busy, heated, uncomfortable school room.

Affectionately
MOLLIE.

THE PRESIDENT AND GEN. GRANT.

If President Johnson expected to find a tool, a mere subordinate, who, with important civil responsibilities, would only remember that the President was his military superior, and blindly record his military orders, he has already learned his mistake. No officer better than General Grant understands the duty of subordination to superior military authority, and none is readier to obey; but he is also aware that, in his position as Secretary of War, he has duties and responsibilities as one of the President's constitutional advisers, and that he is answerable to the country for the manner in which those duties are preformed. Already the President has learned that he has a Secretary to deal with who has convictions of his own, and will maintain them to the extent of his authority. We refer to the case of General Sheridan, and the correspondence relating to it which, our Washington despatches affirm, has passed between Gen. Grant and Mr. Johnson. The President, it seems, sent General Grant a peremptory order for the removal of Sheridan, and General Grant went directly to the White House to urge that the order should be withheld. But the President was obstinate on the subject, and emphatically refused. A correspondence passed which, on the part of General Grant, amounts to a protest against the contemplated removal. The supersedure of Sheridan is a fact as good as accomplished; but General Grant has refused to take any responsibility for the step, and has placed himself on record as opposed to it. The odium will rest on the shoulders of Andrew Johnson, and on him alone.

In this refusal of General Grant to become the tool of the President's vindictive hatred of General Sheridan, whose course has made him so popular with loyal men, the country will see new reason to admire the patriotism and firmness of the first General of the army.

A Sharp Trick.

A correspondent of the Chattanooga Union describes a sharp trick practiced by an Atlanta merchant:

"I heard of a good thing perpetrated by one of them, which was related by him to a New York, 'drummer.' The merchant aforesaid is in the ready made clothing business, and he told the gentleman from New York, that when a customer comes in, after letting him try on several coats, he would say to him that he had a coat which he had given a gentleman to take home the night before, but he was not satisfied with it and returned it. Perhaps it may fit his customer. 'Now you know,' says he, 'all men are more or less dishonest; so I put a pocket book in one of the coat pockets, which only cost me thirty or forty cents. Now when the man tries the coat, he puts his hands in the pockets, and feels this pocket book, and he buys the coat at once, for a considerable advance on the usual price; and he never comes back to see about it.' "

—Last week a man entered the sanctum of the St. Joseph (Mo.) Herald, with an old copy of Tom Paine under his arm, and asked to have a new one printed for him. The editor told him it would cost him several hundred dollars to have it printed. At which the man left, remarking that it only cost him a dollar in the first place. He isn't the only man who thinks printing costs nothing.

—A butcher in New York named George Metz, has been sentenced by Justice Kelley to serve thirty days' imprisonment and to pay a fine of $50 for cruelty to an ox. The complaint was brought by the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and it was proved that Metz had broken the legs of an ox with a club, knocked out its eyes, and otherwise tortured it.

—The corner stone of the first bridge over the Missouri river was laid on the 17th, with Masonic ceremonies, at Kansas City. The result of this experiment in bridging the largest and most treacherous stream in the world will be watched with interest. Some engineers hold that the Missouri can never be spanned by a bridge that will last.

—The Cleveland and Toledo papers notice the passage along the route of a bell consigned to the Very Rev. Lorin Notre Dame, Ind., which weighs 11,590 lbs., the tongue alone 450, and the yoke upon which it is to hang 2,000—making altogether a weight of 14,620 lbs. It measures twenty one feet in circumference at the bottom, and eleven feet six inches in circumference at the top, and seven feet in height. It was manufactured by Baffe & Sons, Mans, France. The names of 236 persons, as donors, were engraved in the metal, with the amount given by each, making a total of $4,465. The ornamental work is beautiful. The bell is destined for the tower of the Cathedral at Notre Dame, near South Bend.

Legend of a Musket.

Mark Twain tells the following story related by a fellow passenger who, being bantered about his timidity, said he had never been scared since he loaded an old Queen Anne's musket for his father once, whereupon he gave the following:—

"You see the old man was trying to learn me to shoot blackbirds and beasts that tore up the young corn, and such things, so that I could be of some use about the farm, because I wasn't big enough to do much. My gun was a little singlebarrelled shot gun and the old man carried an old Queen Anne musket, that weighed a ton, made a report like a thunder clap, and kicked like a mule. The old man wanted me to shoot the old musket sometimes, but I was afraid. One day though, I got her down, and so I took her to the hired man and asked him how to load her, because he was out in the fields. Hiram said: 'Do you see those marks on the stock—an X and a V on each side of the Queen's crown! Well, that means ten balls and five slugs—that's her load.'

"But how much powder?"

"Oh,' he says, 'it don't matter; put in three or four handfuls.'

"So I loaded her up that way, and it was an awful charge—I had sense enough to see that, and started out. I leveled her on a good many blackbirds, but every time I went to pull the trigger, I shut my eyes and winked. I was afraid of her kick. Towards sundown I fetched up at the house, and there was the old man resting on the porch.

"Been out hunting, have ye?'

"Yes, sir,' says I.

"What did you kill?'

"Didn't kill anything, sir—didn't shoot her off—I was afraid she would kick.' [I knew blamed well she would.]

"Gimme that gun!' the old man says, as mad as sin.

"And he took aim at a sapling on the other side of the road, and I began to drop back out of danger. And the next minute I heard an earthquake, and saw the Queen Anne whirling end over end in the air, and the old man spinning round on one heel, with one leg up and both hands on his jaw, and the bark flying from that old sapling like there was a hail storm! The old man's shoulder was set back four inches, and his jaw turned black and blue, and he had to lay up for three days. Cholera, nor nothing else, can ever scare me the way I was scared that time.

Finding A "Werdick."

A funny story is told by a correspondent of a Western paper of the first colored jury impaneled under the recent military order in Texas. It appears that, by a municipal regulation, justices of the peace have jurisdiction over offenses of certain grades, with power to impanel a jury of six, and try the case in regular and ample form. An offense having been committed by a colored citizen, he was arrested and brought before such a jury, composed chiefly of negroes from the cotton fields in the district, who were duly sworn, and one of their number appointed foreman. After hearing the evidence and pleadings of counsel, the jury were charged by the justice that their duty was "to find a verdict, and when they had found it to return into court," and thereupon they retired to deliberate. In about an hour the foreman, whose name was Sam, returned at the head of his mates, and the panel being called, rose and spoke to this effect:

"See here, Mr. Court, we's been down to dat are room, and we hunts in evry crack, in evry corner, up the chimney and under de floor, and can't find anything that looks like a wordick."

The Judge then gravely proceeded to explain to the jurors the nature of a verdict, and having apparently succeeded in enlightening their minds, sent them back once more to deliberate. In another half hour they again made their appearance, and "Sam," with every symtom of honest indignation, thus inquired of his honor:

"Look a here, Mr. Court, didn't you 'point me foreman of this jury?" "Yes, sir, I did." "Dat's what I told dese fools, but dey didn't got sense enough to know it. I tells 'em what and how dis case is and dey won't do as I tells 'um. Ain't dey bound to do what I say, Mr. Court?"

The upshot of the matter was that the Judge finally sent the counsel out with the jury to help them make up a verdict, and then a suitable one was rendered. But the blacks are learning rapidly.

To the Teachers and School Trustees of Blue Earth County.

The County Superintendent of Schools is required by law to "organize and conduct at least one Institute for the instruction of teachers in each year, if he deems the same necessary."

For many reasons, I deem it highly necessary, and will open an INSTITUTE IN THE NEW SCHOOL HOUSE IN MANKATO, ON THE 9th DAY OF SEPTEMBER next, to continue in session two weeks.

Experience has shown that a well conducted Teachers' Institute is one of the best means in use, for the improvement of teachers and the common schools.

We need to improve. It must be admitted that our schools, generally, are in a very poor condition. This is owing in part to poor houses and a want of means to support schools properly, but in the main it is attributable to the inefficiency of teachers. Under these circumstances we earnestly request all our teachers to attend the Institute, when we will try to find out what the defects are in our present modes of teaching and managing schools, and devise means to remedy them.

The time will be spent in a thorough review of the branches taught in our common schools, and in giving instructions daily as to the best method of teaching each branch. Certificates will be given at the close of the Institute to all those attending, who are found to be qualified.

A number of gentlemen of large experience in teaching and conducting Institutes, has kindly consented to assist me during the whole term, among whom is Prof. B. F. Jeaness, who has been engaged as principal of the Mankato School, and wishes to select from the teachers present, ten assistants for the coming term of ten months.

Hon. Mark H. Dunnell, State Superintendent, will also be present for a few days, and will address the Institute.

The room, which has been freely tendered to us by the school trustees here, is large enough to accommodate all the teachers in the county, and many visitors besides.

It is well furnished with black boards, seats and desks of the latest styles.

Now, teachers, please do not fail to attend. We must do something to secure better teaching and management in our schools. Bring your school books with you. Lessons will be announced each evening for the succeeding day. The only expense will be for boarding which can be had at from $3.50 to $1.50 per week. I think an arrangement can be made with the County Commissioners to refund the boarding to all who have to pay, if they teach in the county.

Those who may have no boarding places in view, will be told of places to board, if they will come at once to the school house on the first day of the Institute.

School trustees who have teachers in view should see that they attend. All those who think of teaching in the county the coming winter, or the next year, should attend, because I am instructed to make very thorough examinations this fall, and many of our teachers will not get even third grade certificates without some special training.

JOHN R. BEATTY.
County Sup't. of Schools.

Mankato, Aug 21st, 1867.

Changes in the War Department.

Pertinent to the changes in the personnel of the War Department, it may be stated that Brigadier General L. H. Pelouse, who has been the immediate and efficient Adjutant of Secretary Stanton, has asked to be relieved, in order that he may be transferred to duty at some frontier post, where he hopes his health will be benefitted. He served during the war, and was severely wounded. Brigadier General Horace Porter, of General Grant's staff, will be detailed to replace Pelouse in the War Department.

SANFORD CONOVER, the convicted perjurer, has written a letter to the President, asking for pardon, in which he professes to reveal the details of a plot concocted by Ashley and Butler to connect President Johnson with the assassination of Lincoln. The letter charges that Ashley and Butler had connived with Conover to suborn witnesses to prove the complicity of Johnson with the conspirators. The whole story is totally and palpably absurd.

The Surratt Trial.

The jury in this case failed to agree, and on Saturday were discharged. It is reported that 8 were for acquittal and 4 for conviction. It is stated in the dispatch that if the indictment had been for conspiracy, a verdict of guilty would have been promptly rendered.

—About two o'clock A. M., Aug. 10, the wife of Dr. Jesse Carter, of Mobile, Ala., thinking she heard burglars in the house, quietly approached the bedside of her son, in an adjoining room, and he, thus roused and half awake, suddenly drew a pistol from beneath his pillow and fired, calling at the same time to his mother that there were robbers in the house. He continued to cry out "robbers," "robbers," until the screams of his sister, who had a better understanding of the fatal mistake, and the calm assurance of his mother that it was she who had been shot roused him to a sense of the dread calamity which had befallen them. Mrs. Carter was shot in the neck, and lived but a few hours; but with characteristic self forgetfulness she spent her last fleeting moments in the kindest efforts to comfort her poor boy, and to shield him from blame. Dr. Carter, with the larger part of his family, was absent on a visit to his son, the Rev. William A. Carter, at Pensacola.

OUR LOCAL POLITICS.

The time is rapidly approaching when the contest for the nomination of persons in the republican ranks to fill the various county and Legislative offices will be decided. The fact cannot be disguised that the county is being thoroughly canvassed by the aspirants for office, and that for each position there are many who would be glad to serve the public. As high as five or six are spoken of for one office, and in proportion to the multiplicity of candidates will be the disappointment at the county convention. Each candidate deems his own chances a little better than his neighbor's, and men are too much inclined to guage their personal strength by their hopes and desires, and the passing favor or assent given to their nomination by persons who are not always regardful of their promises, or have not the manliness to speak out their choice frankly. If there was but one office to fill, it would be an easy matter to concentrate the strength of one's friends, but where there are so many conflicting interests, the contest is doubtful until the actual vote is taken. We make these remarks not only for the purpose of preparing the minds of our aspiring friends to suffer defeat nobly and heroically, if such be their fate, but for the further purpose of warning them against that element in man's nature which at first resists the declared will of the majority, and seeks revenge by turning upon its own household and rending it, as a solace for disappointment. Harmony is the greatest element of success. There should be an open field for all who desire to contend for official position. The question of ability first settled, there remains nothing to influence a choice except personal friendship, and this is gained frequently by personal solicitation, and not from any inherent preference. A defeat in a nominating convention does not always arise from unpopularity, but more frequently from the fact that delegates were, early in the canvass, committed to another. The plea of fraud is scarcely ever a proper shield to the bolter. If delegates are instructed, they should conform to the wishes of their constituency as long as there is hope of success; but the simple promise of a delegate, if broken, is a matter wholly with him and the candidate, and does not reflect upon the integrity of the convention. Candidates know the uncertainty of political success, and they know further that they are committed to a faithful support of the party nominations if they enter the arena of political strife. We have endeavored to exclude from our columns a word that would give one candidate an advantage over another, and have sacrificed personal preferences in order that all candidates may be free from bias caused by the party organ. We trust that the success of the party, will be paramount to any other consideration, with those who essay to lead or act with it, and for it. The demands o the different localities should be considered, and every element in the party fostered with exceeding care, so that we shall be able to present a united front against the party whose antecedents prove them enemies to the country, to liberty and equality before the laws.

THE PRESS ON MR GILFILLAN.

The Press of last week contained a most villainous and untruthful attack upon Hon. C. D. Gilfillan, which every local paper in the State that desires to shield a worthy gentleman from journalistic abuse, should at once refute. It is not only characterized by lies conceived in the deepest iniquity, but in malignant vituperation and charges of pollution, bribery and every phase of corruption, no effort of Satans minions schooled in the highest arts of infamy could begin to emulate it. It is not necessary to repeat or quote from so mean an effusion of Billingsgate, but our only object is to call the attention of the very few of our subscribers who read the Press to the fact that this unscrupulous and lying attack is made simply in the interest of Gov. Marshall to crush an opponent, at every sacrifice of truth and the rules of honorable political warfare. That the Governor should be a party to such meanness is another evidence that his "high moral tone" is a clap trap to catch the unwary, and when that won't catch them, his dirty tools change front and reflect a greater degree of low beastly depravity, than even his enemies ever charged him with.

Mr. Gilfillan needs no better compliment than to be known as the enemy of the Press, for there is nothing in the sink of political corruption too low for the long lank digits of that ghostly God forsaken concern to reach and serve to an insulted patronage. The republican party and the cause of equal rights in this State owes ten fold more to Mr. Gilfillan than to the Press. While its present editor was in 1859 editing the Pioneer a democratic pro slavery bond swindling sheet, Mr. Gilfillan, was working, canvassing, advising and progressing manfully in breaking down the democratic strong holds of this State. While he was chairman of the Central Republican Committee the State was disenthralled from democratic rule, and the success of our party was very largely attributable to his efforts. His personal habits and social relations in St. Paul are even better than many who receive the flatteries of the Press. The only trouble is, that he is not the Press candidate for Governor. Last spring Mr. Gilfillan's brother James, was a candidate for Judge of the Court of common pleas in the St. Paul district, and received the highest commendations of the Press. The names being confounded many were indignant that the Press should now abuse one whom a few months before it had commended for the suffrages of the people. The Press explained that the persons were not the same, but that it was his brother who was so superior in talents and moral worth. It says:

> We take this first opportunity to correct this error and to testify our appreciation of the ability integrity and high toned honor which has ever characterized Mr. James Gilfillan who was the candidate alluded to.

There is not a man in the State unless [illegible] by [illegible] considerations, who is acquainted with these brothers, but what will accord to C. D. Gilfillan the same amount of praise for personal honor, integrity mental acquirements and moral worth that the Press has meted out to his brother James. But James is not a candidate for Governor, and Charles D. is, and "thats whats the matter."

—We reprint this week on the first page the address of our School Superintendent, in reference to a Teachers Institute, which is to take place under his supervision in this city on the 9th of September. We trust his earnest appeal will be headed, and that in response thereto there may be a teacher from every school District present during the session. We also call attention to his notice for the examination of teachers to be found elsewhere.

—The change in District commanders which the President had planned has not been fully carried out. Gen. Thomas on account of ill health will not be able to go to New Orleans. Persistant in his determination to thwart the plan of reconstruction so favorably inaugnarated by Gen. Sheridan, he has ordered him to turn over his command to the next officer in rank and proceed at once to Missouri, to relieve Gen. Hancock, who will succeed him at New Orleans. Gen. Grant's order required him to appear at headquarters in Washington, but it is thought that the President, fearing a public demonstration of the people in behalf of the General, ordered him at once to the West.

FROM MAPLETON.

By our own Reporter.

TEAM STOLEN—HARVESTING—THRESHING.—Mr. Peet had a team stolen last night. A young man working for Mr. Sprague, name unknown to your reporter, and a young gentleman of our town ten years old, whose name we will at present withhold, are the principle actors in the scene. The two went to the barn of Mr. James Little, took his bridles, then to Mr. Peets and took his horses. It is supposed they have started for Wisconsin, several of the neighbors are in pursuit. The journey of the twain will probably be short, but every day counts when a harvest field is necessarily left.

We are sorry that we can not add to the universal cry of "splendid crops" but our soil is not of that "peculiar formation" that can stand a two months incessant rain without being somewhat damaged, but such seasons come only once in ten years, they say, and furthermore our town will have nearly an average crop, but the "splendid we can't see." Cutting grain is nearly over, most of the fields are in the shock and take the country as a whole it presents what one might call a shock—ing appearance. The weather is favorable and soon all will be safe. We understand that Ames & Harrimar will set their threshing machine in order soon and will thresh a load or two for any and all that will draw to where they are at work. They will thus be the means of accommodating many and furnishing immediate relief to some who are no doubt in want.

FROM GARDEN CITY.

By our own Reporter.

BOY DROWNED.—On Tuesday of last week a boy by the name of Lewellyn Raymond, aged about 15 years from Pleasant Mound came to Garden City with a farmer to mill, and when the farmer got ready to go home he missed the boy, and went off and left him, and arriving at home late at night he passed Mr. Raymonds house without informing them about the boy. Early in the morning Mr. Raymond went to the farmer's house and finding he had left him at Garden City, was alarmed and declared that he was drowned. He immediately came to Garden City, and a search was made, and his clothes found on the bank of Quayle's mill pond. The pond was then searched, and the body found a few rods from the bank where he went in to bathe. He could not swim and waded in until he fell into a deep hole and sank. When taken out he had been in the water about 14 hours as near as could be ascertained, and the mud turtles had sadly mutilated his face. A coffin was made and that evening his body was taken to Pleasant Mound.

—BUSINESS is rather dull in town just now, while the farmers are busy gathering their crops, which though injured some by the heat yet will be a middling crop.

IMPROVEMENT.—Ten dwelling houses, one store, one saloon, one cabinet shop have been erected this season, and a number of additions to other buildings, and the prospect is that a number more will be built, among them a church and school house.

BRICK YARD.—Messrs. Geist & Heutzelman, two gentlemen from Illinois, have purchased a machine and are doing a good business making pressed brick, and as they understand the business we are satisfied they will succeed in making a fine quality of brick. We have examined them and they seem as hard as a rock. We understand that the Baptist church which is to be erected this fall is to be built with them.

GREAT FEAT AT CRADLING.—On a wager of $100, J. F. Smith, on Tuesday, cradled six acres of wheat, in the field of a farmer near Crystal Lake, with whom the wager was made. The ground was chosen out of a field of sixty acres, and staked out the evening previous. Smith put in his cradle at sunrise, rested from half-past eleven to half-past 12 o'clock, and cut the last stroke at 20 minutes before six P. M. A gentlemen, whose name we have not learned, wagered $150 that he would rake and bind and keep up with Smith, and though he showed himself a very expert binder, he was compelled to abandon the undertaking at 9 o'clock. We say, let Smith have the belt.—Minneapolis Tribune. Aug. 22.

—A piece of the dress worn by Miss Laura Keene at Ford's Theater on the night of the Lincoln assassination, stained with the blood of the President, has been framed and hung up in Mr. Lincoln's late residence at Springfild, Ill.

—Election returns received indicate a decided success of the Republican ticket in Omaha. Araphoe county, in which Denver is situated, gives an overwhelming majority in favor of issuing bonds to the amount of two hundred thousands dollars to aid the branch from the Union Pacific Railroad to Denver.

"Beyond the Mississippi."—A Complete History of the New States and Territories, from the Great River to the Great Ocean, by Albert D. Richardson.

The above is the title of a handsome volume just issued by the National Publishing Company, Davenport, Iowa. The Author's long and varied experience in the little known and interesting regions of the Far West, furnishes the valuable material for this work.

Mr. Richardson is widely known as one of our most brilliant journalists and writers. No other Author has traveled over so much of our vast western domains, and we know of no one who can so well describe what he has seen. He is always interesting, generally amusing, and, better still, invariably truthful.

The volume before us is accompanied by an accurate and minute map of the entire region beyond the Mississippi, and is elegantly printed and profusely illustrated with over two hundred engravings, from original photographs and sketches from the pencils of Bierstadt, Nast, Hennessy, Darley, Fenn, Stephens, Forbes and other eminent artists, which are really beautiful and worthy of examination as specimens of art. Those who wish for authentic information of the resources, condition and prospects of the Western and greater half of the continent, within a few years to be sown thick with civilized States, rich in all the elements of greatness, should consult this most valuable work.

It is a credit both to American art and authorship, and is not only the most valuable work from Mr. Richardson's pen, but by far the best and most complete history of the great West ever issued. Its descriptions are photographically vivid. It blends information, pathos, fun, and legend with full practical and minute accounts of the farming, mining, trading, railroad building and other great interests and resources of our much talked of, though heretofore little known, new States and Territories.

It is the product of vast labor, in travel and personal observation, and is destined to have an extraordinary sale. It is sold only by subscription. and is just such a book as persons seeking to act as agents should add to their lists.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs, Mr. Taylor, returns on private business. He will return to the Indian Commissioners in a few days, if they cannot fully consummate their object of harmonizing all differences, they will endeavor to separate the peaceful from the hostile Indians and place the former on reservations under government care and encouragement. The commissioners are represented to be united in the belief that their efforts to secure the general peace will be successful. Gen. Sherman is not so hopeful as they are, but is doing all in his power to assist them in the accomplishment of their purposes.

Indian Fight With Large Odds.

JULESBURGH, August 23.—Judge Kinney, special Indian commissioner arrived from Fort Phil Kearney to-day. Major Rowell was not killed as reported. He fought 3,000 Indians with 29 men concealed behind a corral made of wagons. Lieutenant Jennis and five soldiers were killed. The Indians lost heavily.

Further particulars concerning the fight at Fort Phil. Kerney, a short time since, show it to have been a desperate affair. The Indians, after two or three attacks in small parties, tied their horses to the timber and stripped themselves naked and fought on foot, surrounding the corral, which was defended with the most determined bravery. Many of the Indians were killed within thirty paces of the defences. The coolness and skillful handling of their breech loaders were the only things which saved the whites from utter complete destruction. The fight raged with intense fury for two and a half hours, when the appearance of Colonel Smith with two companies of troops and two howitzers compelled the Indians to retreat. Colonel Powell and Mr. Porter estimate that at least two thousand savages were engaged, not less than three hundred of which were killed and wounded. The loss of property was thirty-five thousand dollars, and the damages otherwise as much more.

—Mr. Ashman living near Booneville, Mo. had a diseased mule, which he attempted to drench by pouring medicine down its throat, and his fingers were slightly bitten by the animal during the operation. The saliva entered his blood, causing the most intense suffering, from which all efforts to relieve him were unavailing. He died on the following day in the greatest agony—a raving maniac.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug.—The wine crop of this year is estimated at thirty-five millions of gallons, and brandy half a million gallons.

AND MANUFACTURERS OF ALL THE LATE STYLES OF ARTIFICIAL TEETH.

Are now permanently located in Mankato, for the practice of dentistry, in all of its departments. We would particularly invite attention to their superior method of inserting Artificial Teeth on coralite, or Hard Rubber, which, for durability, cleanliness and beauty, surpass anything ever produced in the dental line.—Teeth filled with Crystal Gold so as to replace almost every deficiency arising from decay. Teeth extracted without pain, upon the most scientific principles.

Hoping to merit a liberal patronage, not so much for extremely low prices as for the superior style and finish of artificial teeth and all operations entrusted to our skill, we respectfully tender their services to a discriminating public. All work warrented to give satisfaction. Special attention given to mending of Rubber Work.

Millinery
DYE WORKS.

The undersigned begs leave to inform the Ladies of Mankato and vicinity that she has opened a new Millinery, Cloak and Dress Making Establishment, on Front Street, opposite L. L. & D. H. Davis Hardware Store, where she may be found always ready to do any work in the above line. She has just received a large stock of NEW MILLINERY GOODS which may be found in fine display at her place. Ladies will do well to call and examine her latest fashions. She would also call attention to her Straw and Napolitan Bleeching, which she claims is superior to any thing yet introduced in this community. It does not injure the Straw in the least, but preserves it from impurities.

She warrants her work to give PERFECT SATISFACTION or no pay, and only asks for a fair trial.
MRS. SARAH C. WILLIAMS.

Take Notice.—MR. G. O. WILLIAMS will pay special attention to bleeching and pressing, and to the coloring of straw any desired shade. Dye works in connection with this store will be erected soon on the Van Brant Addition.

—A regular meeting of Engine Company No. 1 was held at the Engine house on the 23 inst., at 7 o'clock P. M. The following officers elected for the ensuing year:

Foreman Wm. Bradley, 1st Assistant H. L. Young, 2d Assistant G. V. Megraw, Treasurer S. Randall, Secretary J. C. Haupt. Standing Committee, Wm. Frisbie, E. D. B. Porter, H. [illegible]

LEG BROKEN.—The son of Mr. Leonard Johnson, our city marshall, about seven years of age, was crossing the log which spans the creek on Second street near Mr. Little's house, on Sunday last, on his return from Sabbath School, and fell off, breaking his left leg above the knee. Dr. McMahan was called in and the leg was properly set.

ARM BROKEN.—A son of Mr. Himmelman, wagon builder, corner of second and Plum streets, three years of age, had his right arm broken above the elbow on Sunday last. He was sitting in a baby wagon near the house in the street and several loose horses were chased by some boys toward the wagon, one of which struck it, turning it over and breaking the boy's arm. Dr. McMahan was called and set the limb.

Mr. Himmelman's family has been quite unfortunate in accidents. When the oldest child was a year old he fell down stairs at two different times and broke his arm each time. The second boy a year since fell from the porch and broke his leg. The third now comes in for a share of bad luck, while the first was also injured in the boat again last Sunday. Mrs. H. is also confined to her bed by sickness, and the whole series of calamities are unusually grievous and remarkable.

ACCIDENT AT SOUTH BEND.—Last Sunday a son of Roland Lewis, about seven years of age, broke his arm badly at the left elbow joint. He was taken to Dr. Christopherson's in South Bend, who sent for Dr. Clark of Mankato. So much time had elapsed since the injury took place, and the limb was so much swollen that it was necessrry to give chloroform before an examination could be made. The Doctor ascertained that there was comminuted fracture of the elbow, but on account of swelling was not able to put on a splint. He is in hopes of saving the arm.

LOST.—Between Mankato and Scott & Worden's mill, a Baby's cloak—blue and white plaid—lined with white flannel. A suitable reward will be paid for its return, either to this office or to Mrs. J. B. Hubbell, of this city. no8 tf

RIVER AND RAIL.—The river is receding at a steady, but not very rapid rate. The Mollie is obliged to land at the lower ware house, and will soon be obliged to withdraw from the line. The Ariel is being overhauled and fitted up to take her place, she being of considerably lighter draft. It is the intention to keep on a freight line during the entire season, even if the stages should resume travel. Another four miles of rail have been completed on the Valley road which brings the terminus above Faxon to a point called Sioux Bluff. The Mollie commenced to receive her passengers there Monday evening last, thus saving her about 8 miles travel.

—The New School Presbyterians of Blue Earth City have just completed a neat house of worship which they are to dedicate on next Sabbath, Sept. 1st. The sermon is to be preached by Rev. Thomas Marshall, of Mankato.

—Rev. Peter S. Davies of Pittsburg, Pa., will supply Mr. Marshall's pulpit next Sabbath morning and evening.

—The pews in the Presbyterian church will be rented for the ensing year on Friday, Sept. 6th, at 4 o'clock P. M. All persons interested should be promptly on hand.

OUR MANKATO WOOLEN MILL.—We take no little pride in giving to our readers this week a detailed notice of Mr. Jacob Bierbauer's new woolen mills, which are soon to go into operation at this place. The fact that we are located 140 miles west of the Mississippi, in a country so new that scarcely a fourth of our own county is under cultivation, and further west the settlements are only beginning to grow, adds greater interest to an enterprise where so much capital is invested. Our undeveloped resources are however the best guarantee of the success of this manufacturing establishment, and with the growth of our town we hope to see it greatly enlarged.

The building is 40 feet by 52, 3 stories high. The engine room is 36 feet square, one story high. The whole is built of good substantial brick, except the first story or basement, which is of stone. The engine is a 20 horse power, which will drive the machinery with ease. In the engine room is a water tank 9 feet by 11, and 8 feet deep, from which the boiler will be supplied, and the water furnished for scouring and coloring wool, which will be done in this room. The basement proper is divided in two parts, one third of which has a hard cement floor, and will be used for sheering, brushing, pressing and finishing cloth. The other two thirds will be used for fulling, scouring and gigging, and for wet work generally. In the second story is a 240 spindle jack, upon which the spinning is done, also a sett of three 40 inch carders; and two 45 inch looms and one 92 inches in width. In the third story is the picking, dusting and washing room, three separate pieces of machinery being used for that purpose. At present this room will also be used for storing wool. The looms were made at the Crumpton Loom Works of Worcester Massachusetts, all other machinery was obtained in the same place at the works of D. Tainter. Mr. Thomas Bennett of New York, who has been in the business for the past 25 years, has the superintendency of the mill, and is bringing the labor of setting up the machinery to a close. He says that the mill is in all respects a first class "one sett" factory. They intend manufacturing yarn, blankets, tweads plain cloths, cassimeres and doeskins. On Wednesday last steam was turned on for the first time, and next week they will commence cleansing wool, and by the following week the mills will be fairly in motion. It will require from 12 to 14 hands, partly men and partly girls, and we are informed that experienced operatives can be obtained in our midst. The mill will consume about 20,000 pounds of wool per annum, thus furnishing a home market to that extent. Mr. Bierbauer has on hand about 4,000 pounds and will buy as fast as it can be manufactured. This factory will not only be of immense benefit to Mankato and the surrounding country, but we trust will be a paying investment to the proprietor.

ECCLESIASTICAL.—The Synod of Minnesota (New School Presbyterian) will hold its annual session at Mankato beginning on Thursday Sept. 26th at half past seven o'clock P. M. and continuing over the following Sabbath. This is by far the most important ecclesiastical assemblage that has ever been held in this locality. This Synod is emphatically a live body and contains some of the best clerical talent in the State. In point of enterprise it outstrips similar bodies in many of the older States. Organized less than ten years ago it now comprises about forty ministers and nearly as many churches with over sixteen hundred members. We bespeak for all the members of the Synod a cordial welcome, and during their stay with us our homes shall be their's.

WHEAT.—We received this week a sample of new wheat from Mr. Bundy, of Madelia. We submitted it to a grain dealer who pronounced it very fair, and thought if it was properly cleaned it would pass for number one. Whether this is a fair sample of the wheat in that vicinity or not we did not learn.

ICE CREAM FESTIVAL.—The Ladies of the Episcopal Church will hold an Ice Cream Festival at Shoemaker's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, Sept. 3d. Their friends are cordially invited to attend. Peaches will be served to order.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. M. Pryse, of South Bend, will preach in the absence of Rev. D. Tice, who attends the St. Peter Quarterly Converence, at the Centenary M. E. Church in this City, on next Sabbath morning, Sept. 1st, at 10½ o'clock. Subject: "The necessary connection between Sin and penal Suffering."

☞ All persons who have had books from Smith & Humphrey's Circulating Library over two weeks, are requested to return the same at once. Those failing to comply with this notice, will be charged with the price of the book.

SMITH & HUMPHREY.

—Next Thursday afternoon the republican county convention will be held in this place. We urge upon our county friends the necessity of sending in full delegations. What is needed is a fair and full expression of the party upon the choice of candidates.

STEAMBOAT ARRIVALS.—Since Friday the 16th inst, we have omitted a publication of the daily steamboat arrivals, and therefore include them in one item up to to-day. The Mollie has made 13 trips including this mornings arrival and the Mankato 2.

FERRY.—The village authorities have caused the ferry to be raised, and it is now undergoing repairs. It will probably be in operation in a day or two. Ellis Clark is relinquished from his contract to run it, and Mr. Howe of Howe & Everetts grocery has taken charge.

—THE NEW YORK MEDICAL COLLEGE FOR WOMEN will begin their Fifth Annual Term, of 20 weeks, at the College in 12th Street, two doors east of Fourth Avenue, the first Monday in November. Address the Dean, MRS. C. S. LOZIER, M. D., 361 West 34th Street, N. Y., or the Secretary, Mrs. C. F. WELLS, care of Fowler and Wells, N. Y.

JAIL.—The Jail is now being covered in. It presents quite a handsome appearance—as handsome at least as its occupants will deserve, if we except the sheriff. It is not usual for people to strive to get in there, but we have now quite a number of aspirants for the front part. The unvoted question is, who shall occupy. This class of criminals will be tried before the tribunal of the people on the first Tuesday in November, all others before the District Court.

MINNESOTA HOUSE.—Elsewhere will be found the advertisement of the Minnesota House. C. Krone proprietor. It is situated near the steamboat landing, and near the mills and warehouses and is a convenient place for both travelers and farmers. Mr. Krone has refitted and repainted the building, and spared no pains in making it a comfortable stopping place.

COUNTY BOARD.—The regular session of the Board of County Commissioners takes place on Tuesday next, at the Auditors office. Quite a long time has intervened since the last meeting and the business accumulated will render the session somewhat protracted.

WHOLESALE STATIONERS.—We take pleasure in referring our readers to the card of Culver Page & Hoyne manufacturing and jobbing stationers of Chicago. D. R. Cameron Esq., their gentlemanly agent gives us a call twice a year and always succeeds in supplying our merchants with goods. His personal bearing makes him hosts of friends, and his low prices does the rest. We can heartily endorse Cameron and the firm for whom he is acting and bespeak for them a prosperous trade in our State.

CROPS.—We are informed that the crops of Blue Earth county on the whole are up to the average. The wheat is very good in some localities, while in other parts of the county it will hardly pass for number one. The Oat crop is an abundant yield. What little Rye and Barley has been sown has turned out well. Much of the corn is out of reach of the frost. Potatoes and vegetables of all kinds promise a large yield.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—Our fourth quarterly meeting for Mankato charge, will commence at the Centenary M. E. Church in this city on Saturday 7th Sept. at 2 o'clock p. m. Rev. J. O. Rich, P. E. will preach at that hour, and immediately after preaching, hold the "Official meeting." No postponement from this announcement!

The "Lovefeast" will be opened precisely at 9 o'clock on Sabbath morning; Preaching by Rev. Rich at 10½, and as usual, the Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered.

Prayer Meeting on Friday morning previous at the Church from 8 to 9 o'clock. A cordial invitation is hereby extended to all our friends, in town and country?

DAVID TICE, Pastor.

A beautiful Lot on Broadway for sale. Also Furniture and Household goods. Inquire of J. G. CRAVEN, or M. W. CRAVEN.

MERCHANTS—Are you willing to buy a certain number of pounds of saleratus and only get so many papers containing only 14 or 15 ounces? Buy Best Chemical Saleratus and you will get full weight and best goods.

—Mr. H. C. Howard left Mankato, on Monday last, for the east, for the purpose of purchasing mill machinery, to be put up in Shelby township, on section 17. Howard & Co. are already building a store and several dwellings, and will plat a town near the mill site. Shelby Center is mentioned as a name for the new town, though the matter has not been determined.

—We are informed that a newspaper is to be started in Garden City in a short time. It is said that the office has been purchased entirly new at Chicago and is in transit for that place.

—Our republican friends should remember the town Caucus which meets to-morrow (Saturday) at Higgins' Hall at 3 o'clock P. M. It is probably unnecessary to wake up the people upon the subject of candidates, except as a matter of form, as we understand there is an unusual degree of interest taken by the aspirants themselves, and the town is through them apprised of the issues.

—A splendid opportunity to buy a farm is offered in another column. Mr. McNutt wishes to go Oregon with his son, and offers one of the handsomest farms in the valley for almost a song. Inquire for particulars at this office.

—Closing out sales at greatly reduced prices for the next 30 days. Wishing to close out their present stock of clothing, gents furnishing goods, cloths, cassimeres, tailors trimmings, Hats and caps, in order to make room for an extensive stock of Fall and Winter goods in the same line and are offering superior inducements to purchasers. Now is the time to go to the clothing Emporium of Randall & Smith and make your purchases. Give them a call.

PITTSBURGH, SEPTEMBER 1, 1866.

Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTS:—I think I am only doing the part of a good citizen when I testify to the great benefits received by me from the use of your Stomach Bitters during the last five years. Sojourning for a time in the oil regions, in 1861, I had a severe bilious attack, which, in connection with dyspepsia, left me in a very weak condition. I was advised to try your Bitters, and, having procured a bottle, found that they worked like a charm upon me, eight pounds haveing been added to my weight in the space of one week, and new life seemed to have been infused into my system, so much so, that I have been induced to use them every summer since that time. As a tonic, I think they are invaluable.

This summer, having had a similar attack, (and as before, much reduced,) although under the treatment of an A No. 1 physician, I was again obliged to have recourse to the old Bitters, and with the same good result, having gained six pouds within a few days I purchased a half dozen bottles a few weeks since, and purpose to use them regularly as a tonic.

Wishing you every success, I remain
Yours, gratefully,
WILLIAM MILLER

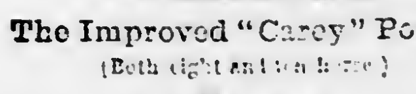
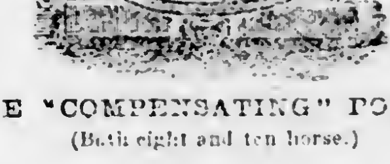
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.



The Improved "Carey" Power,
(Both eight and ten horse.)



THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A landable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other in the world, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them on expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usualy a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

—A terrible affliction has overtaken Tom Thumb—he has begun to grow!

—At the negroes' Equal Rights Convention at Reading, Pennsylvania, resolutions were adopted condemning the conservative Republican Senators and advising the negroes to vote for such men as Stevens, Wade, Sumner or Stanton for President.

—Some idea of the extent to which fruit growing is carried on in Illinois may be gathered from the fact that the Illinois Central Railroad runs special daily trains for the transportation of fruit alone. One morning last week, one of these trains left Cobden for Chicago with twelve cars, each containing eight hundred boxes of fruit. This train took one and a half car loads from Anna and six from Makanda.

—Henry Decker now in Philadelphia, from Memphis, Tennessee, is 19 years old, 31 inches high, and weighs but 45 pounds. As a Lilliputian, he promises to put a whole hand in the public pocket, where his rival in this region puts in only a Thumb.

The Chicago Tribune which has hitherto opposed impeachment now calls on Congress to impeach and remove the President from office, because of the removal of Stanton and Sheridan.

—A couple in Adams, Mass., are 81 years old, have been married sixty-two years, and have had eight children, all of whom are living. The oldest is sixty-one, and the youngest forty-five.

—The new Turkish Minister arrived at Willard's Hotel in Washington on the 17th, and created a decided sensation with his numerous and gaily arrayed attendants. He will be presented next week.

—The Government has received intelligence from California that several speculators have gone to Alaska and made a kind of preemption of large tracts of lands and will undertake to hold them when the territory is transferred to the United States.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 17.—A large meeting of Soldiers and Sailors held this evening condemnatory of the President's removal of Secretary Stanton and Mr. Stanton's official actions heartily endorsed, expressed the hope that the President will pause before removing Sheridan.

Though it is difficult to obtain any reliable information from Spain, it is known that General Prim is still at the head of the insurrection, which has not been quelled. It has been reported that General Prim was supplied with funds by prominent bankers in Paris.

Although there is no reason to believe that any further Cabinet changes will be made, it is an announceable fact that the virulent attacks on Secretary McCulloch, now emanating from certain quarters, are with a view of effecting his removal. Numerous names are mentioned in connection with the office, but none more prominently than that of John J. Cisco, of New York. There is no probability, however, that the opposition to McCulloch will effect anything, although it proceeds from quarters generally deemed friendly to the Administration.

The story that Judge Advocate General Holt has been granted a leave of absence until the 5th of September, preparatory to his removal, has no foundation further than that on the 5th he was granted a month's leave by Secretary Stanton, which he was enjoying when the late assault on him was made.

TOMATO WINE.—Take small ripe tomatoes, pick off the stems, put them in a basket or tub, wash clean, then mash well and strain through a linen rag; (a bushel will make five gallons pure,) then add two and a half to three pounds of good brown sugar to each gallon, then put it into a cask and let it ferment as for raspberry wine. If two gallons of water be added to each bushel of tomatoes, the wine will be as good.

A Substitute for Calomel.

These Pills are composed of various roots, having the power to relax the secretions of the liver as promptly and effectually as blue pill or mercury, and without producing any of those disagreeable or dangerous effects which often follow the use of the latter.

In all billious disorders these Pills may be used with confidence, as they promote the discharge of vitiated bile, and remove those obstructions from the liver and biliary ducts, which are the cause of billous affections in general.

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS cure Sick Headache, and all disorders of the Liver, indicated by sallow skin, coated tongue, costiveness, drowsiness, and a general feeling of weariness and lassitude, showing that the liver is in a torpid or obstructed condition.

In short, these Pills may be used with advantage in all cases when a purgative or alterative medicine is required.

Please ask for "Dr. Schenck's Mandrake Pills," and observe that the two likenesses of the Doctor are on the Government stamp—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other in his present health.

J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent DUPLEX ELLIPTIC

SKIRT.

The Wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any Lady, wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, Operas, Carriages, Railroad Cars, Church Pews, Arm Chairs, for Promenade and House Dress, as the Skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any Single Spring skirt.

A Lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the Duplex Elliptic Steel Spring Skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For Children, Misses and Young Ladies, they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the Single Spring, but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The Hoops are covered with double and twisted thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in Crinoline, viz.: Superior Quality, Perfect Manufacture, Stylish shape and Finish, Flexibility, Durability, Comfort and Economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or Double Spring Skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against IMPOSITION be particular to NOTICE that skirts offered as "DUPLEX" have the red ink stamp, viz., "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs," upon the waistband—none others are genuine. Also Notice that every Hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their Flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other Skirt.

FOR SALE in all Stores where First Class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere. Manufactured by the Sole Owners of the patent.

IMPROVED SELF RAKERS,

McCORMICK'S HARVESTERS.—RADICAL CHANGES.

A system of yearly improvements has gone on so regularly and silently that our present machines are wholly unlike those made a few years ago, either in appearance, weight, draft, style of construction or capabilities of work. We make this statement to correct the falsehoods of some opposition agents, who point out our machines made a dozen years ago as fair samples of our present machines. Now we are not ashamed of these "old sogers," who have gone through many a hard fought campaign: on the contrary, we are proud to see them still at work, with a long life before them, while all others made at the same time have passed out of existence, carrying their faults with them into the grave. We made ours for work, and their continued existance shows they were not made in vain.

We invite farmers to personally examine our new machines and avail themselves of the liberal opportunity we give of testing their merits alongside any others in the harvest field. We know that each maker would have it appear that his machine is the best, but as all cannot be best, we propose to close that controversy on our part by the following

CHALLENGE.

Any purchaser who desires it, can have our New Two Wheeled Mower, or our Improved Self-Raking Reaper on trial with any Mower or Reaper in the United States, and have the privilege of working them together through the entire harvest, he agreeing to keep and pay for the one preferred, at the regular price.

This is our method of doing business with those who may have doubts, or who may not have seen our new machines at work. It is a plan all can understand and appreciate who have been compelled to bind themselves in a note before even loading a machine on their wagon, or at most allowed but a few hurried hours trial.

IN MOWERS,

McCormick sweeps the board at the Great Paris Exposition of all nations with his new two wheeled MOWER with patent tilting lever by which the points of the guards can be tilted up or down at any angle instantly and while in motion. This mower is light, neat, of easy draft, compact, simple and durable.

Farmers, the best is the cheapest—Consult your interest and secure a good machine by purchasing a

REVIEW OF ELDER TICE'S SERMON ON THE SABBATH DAY.

You will please permit me Dear Editor, to review in a christian like manner, in the columns of your excellent paper, the discourse of Elder Tice, on the institution and obligation of the Sabbath, and its change.

The hearers of that discourse will doubtless remember that in the opening remarks of the Elder, he made the remark, after reading the first six verses of Romans, 14 ch, that the days there spoken of, do not refer to the Sabbath of the Lord, which I believe to be correct, and can heartily assent to. A parallel passage in the book of Exodus will prove the truth of this. In Exodus 16, 4, "and the children of Isreal shall go out and gather a certain root every day," and the sabbath was excepted. Next he read from Collosians 2, 16, "Let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink or in respect of an holy day or of the new moon or of the Sabbath days." This Elder Tice says, has refference to both Jewish and Christian Sabbaths. To this, Dear Sir, I could not agree, if by Christian Sabbath you mean the Sabbath that was made for man, for that would leave every one at their own wishes, and no one has a right to say "why do ye so." But the Jews had Sabbaths and holy days connected with feasts and new moons, which were shadows of good things to come; but the body was of Christ. These they were to keep besides the sabbath of the Lord. Also Brother Tice, if I did not misunderstand you, you said that the Lord did not give the Hebrews the real seventh day, from creations week, but according to chronology reckoning by sevens down to the passover, there were so many weeks, and six days to the day that God gave them to keep as a Sabbath; so that instead of their having the original seventh day from creations week, their Sabbath came one day before the true seventh day, and then the Jews observed the real sixth instead of seventh; then at the resurrection of Christ in the wise providence of our Lord, it was fully understood that the day they had previously called the first day, was in reality the seventh day, from the first seventh day in rotation of seven down to the resurrection of Christ; and his followers have always kept it since down to the present time. So that the day that is commonly called Sunday or first day, as we have commonly reckoned time, is not in reality the first, but the seventh day. Now although we are strangers to each other, and I would not question your good intentions, yet there is something in Scripture that seems to conflict with your chronological calculations. Please hear my reasons. Did not the sacred Historian say that He (God) have a double portion of manna on the sixth day? Did he not say on the sixth day that to-morrow is the rest of the holy Sabbath unto the Lord? Six days ye shall gather it but on the seventh, which is the Sabbath, in it there shall be none. "And it came to pass that there went out some of the people on the seventh day for to gather and they found none, and the Lord said unto Moses how long refuse ye to keep my commandments and my laws. So far that the Lord hath given you the Sabbath, therefore he giveth you on the sixth day the bread of two days." What language could be used to make it plainer. Now do you not see that the chronology that you refer to, is not in accordance with the sacred writing, which I believe is the professed choice of all protestants and which must settle all points of difference between candid believers therein? But let me add yet more, it may be three fold, and a three fold cord is not easily broken; next I will bring up the fourth commandment, Ex 20 8 "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." How are they going to do this except they know which day is the Sabbath day. "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work but the seventh day is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt not do any work, thou nor thy son, nor thy daughter, thy man servant, nor thy maid servant, now thy cattle, nor the stranger that is within thy gates, for in six days the Lord made heaven and earth, the sea and all that is in them, and rested the seventh day, wherefore the Lord blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it." Now how should words be framed to leave it without a doubt that he gave them the very seventh and rest day of the Lord? But we find the third positive statement by Nehemiah 9, 14, "Thou comest down also upon Mount Sinai, and speakest with them from heaven, and madest known unto them the holy Sabbath." Is not this clear and conclusive? But perhaps you say all this I new before. Well, if so, should we not hearken to his commandments, then should our peace be as a river and our righteousness as the waves of the sea. The Lord loveth those that tremble at his word. What is the chaff to the wheat, and is not my word as a hammer that breaketh in pieces? Why be so intent my friend in holding to the traditions of men at the expense of the commandments of God? But again, we see that all the scriptures are in favor of the seventh day clear to the last book, and not the first day of the week. Jesus says the Sabbath was made for man; surely what day was the Sabbath? Why the very day he gave to the Jews and Adam in Eden before the fall. Jesus told his disciples to pray that their flight from Jerusalem might not be in the winter, neither on the Sabbath day. What day was that? Did he mean the so called Christian Sabbath, or was it the Sabbath the Jews accused him of breaking which he said was made for man? Grammarians tell us that a noun without an antecedent is taken in its broadest sense; as, man dieth, yea man giveth up the Ghost, &c., all die. so the Sabbath was made for all but you said that the Lord met with his disciples on the first day of the week, everytime he met with them after his resurrection. Dear sir, if that was the fact, it would prove nothing in favor of the change of the Sabbath. But let us see if that will bear investigation. The first time he showed himself after his resurrection was on the first day, and the Evangelist inspired by the Holy Ghost, calls it by the name of first day, and the day just before it (which must be the seventh) he calls the Sabbath. So according to Luke 23; 56, and 24: 1, the first day was not the Sabbath; but was the second time he met with them on that same day of the week. Let us see Jno. 20: 26 verse. "And after eight days again his disciples being within and Thomas being with them then came Jesus."

Now if John had said "after six days" we might suppose it to be the next first day; but after eight would carry it over on to the ninth certainly. Again, after these things Jesus showed himself again to his disciples, at the sea of Siberias, and they were fishing, John 21: 1, 2. Now would you say that was the first day of the week and then claim that they ever after the resurrection kept the first day as the christian Sabbath? If so, here is an example how to keep it, and Jesus himself taught them how to fish, with success. Dear Elder Tice, would you do that, on the first day of the week which you claim to be the Christian Sabbath? No, no. Methinks you would exclaim, My Dear friends you are engaged in highway robbery, and your attacks are upon the Almighty; you are desecrating the Lord's day. But do the scriptures say that the first day is the Lord's day? what saith it? I have before proved by abundant testimony that the day that the Lord thy God gave his people, is the very day that he blessed and sanctified in the beginning. John was in the spirit on the Lord's day, Rev. 1; 10, you affirm this was the first day, but in my candid opinion it is the same day that Jesus said he was Lord of: Mark 2; 27, 28, the sabbath was made for man, therefore the son of man is Lord of the Sabbath day. Again, Isaiah 58; 13, "If thou turn away thy foot from the Sabbath from doing thy pleasure, on my holy day, and call the Sabbath a delight, the holy of the Lord honorable; and thou shalt honor him; not doing thine own ways nor finding thine own pleasure nor speaking thine own words." Now are there not a great many ways to get rid of the claims of God's holy Sabbath? Are not your feet upon it, do you not intend to keep it down, do you not say to men they may take their pleasure on that day, do you call it a delight, do you not rather say it is dishonorable, you call it Jewish instead of the Lord's holy day, your choice is to go your own way, do you not intend to elevate another day, will you not speak your own words to justify the keeping of the first day? Where are your words to prove it? Has the Lord furnished words to do it. What more need be said but much more might be said, to honor his holy just, and good law. The Psalmist said "thy law is the truth," then did the Lord speak the truth upon mount Sinai. Brother Tice, did you see and know of what you affirmed, when you said that by chronology it could be proved that he gave his people the sixth instead of the seventh? Now my friend let us be honest with our maker, even if it should lead us in an unpopular way. Are we afraid of making a sacrifice? See the sacrifice that Jesus made to redeem us from the transgression of his Father's righteous law. O! let us be reconciled to God's commands, just as he gave them.

"Blessed are those that do his commandments that they may have a right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." Amen.

WASHINGTON NEWS.

The President's Game Blocked—Grant Declines to be Ridden.

NO REMOVALS YET—GRANT HOLDS THE POWER.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The order issued by the President yesterday directing General Hancock to relieve Gen. Sheridan and Gen. Canby to relieve Gen. Sickles, has not been executed. It is said that Gen. Grant, in a letter to the President, declines to direct the order to be executed, and states his refusal in strong terms, virtually denying the right of the President to interfere in any of the five military districts created by Congress, asserting that the entire control of the districts created by Congress, the entire control of the departments rests by the supplemental reconstruction act in the General of the United States army, and that therefore he is not at liberty to, and he will not transfer it to another. The letter has not been made public, but the above statement is believed to be reliable, as it is derived from a usually well informed source.

THE CABINET RESIGNING.

Thus far the President has not been shown but one written resignation, and that from Gov. Randall. Secretary McCulloch has written his out but has not laid it before the President. All parties protest against his resignation.

IRRECONCILABLE DIFFERENCE.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—It is believed by prominent gentlemen that the differences between the President and Gen. Grant in relation to the removal of Gen. Sheridan and Sickles are irreconcilable.

GRANT WILL NOT BE TRAMPLED ON.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—A special to the Times says the order transferring Gen. Hancock to the 5th military district, has not yet been promulgated by Gen. Grant. He regards the last order of the President as entirely superceding general orders including his instructions to Gen. Thomas, and there is little doubt that a serious difference has occurred between Grant and the President regarding the powers of the former under the reconstruction acts. The situation of matters between the War Department and the Executive are exceedingly delicate. Predictions are made that Grant will refuse to issue the order unless modified or accompanied by instructions of his own, and that in consequence he will be relieved from duty in the War Department by the President. Should this occur, and the President undertake to transmit orders through any new Secretary of War, the issue will then be direct and unavoidable, for Gen. Grant is acting under a law of Congress, providing that all military orders and instructions shall be issued through him, and the President, under the law, has no right to suspend him, or select any other instrument to carry out his instructions.

OPINIONS OF GRANT'S "FRIENDS."

A special Washington telegram to the Post says, after careful investigation it is generally agreed among the friends of Gen. Grant that the supplemental reconstruction act confines his authority over district commanders solely to the approval or disapproval of their acts in removing rebel officials, and does not extend to all the acts of said commanders, such as postponing elections, changing registration, &c.

This is regarded as a great omission by Congress, and was not so understood by Gen. Grant when Gen. Thomas was directed by him to continue in force every order of Gen. Sheridan's.

—Gen. McClellan, General Rousseau and General James B. Steadman are all prominently named in connection with the War Department, and the President will probably appoint one of them to be Secretary of War. The two latter gentlemen are both there, and General McClellan will be there in a few weeks. It is understood that his friends are in communication with him on the subject. The President is determined to have, as his Secretary of War, a man in whom he can repose full confidence.

Santa Anna's Trial.

Santa Anna is to be tried by a court martial. Lozada has given in his adhesion to the government. A carefully estimated list of the number of persons executed since 1865 by Maximilian's order, shows a total of 9,244.

More Territory for Mr. Seward.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.

A special dispatch, dated Havana, the 22d, says that President Cabral, of Dominicia, has sent a messenger to Washington, with instructions to accept the offer of the United States for the purchase of Samana Bay, on the island of Hayti, for $5,000,000.

Samana Bay, on the south side of the peninsula of Samana, on the northeast coast of Hayti, is about forty three miles in length, from east to west, by about eight miles broad, and at its west end receives the Zuna, the largest river in the Dominican Republic. It forms one of the finest harbors in the world, and is a most important maritime position in reference to the trade of the Gulf of Mexico and the interoceanic routes across Central America, both in a commercial and military point of view. On its north shore is the small town of Santa Barbara. It lies on a bight of land-locked bay, and has natual facilities for repairing vessels.

Grand Trial of Reapers and Mowers.

A trial of reapers and mowers took place at the State Fair Grounds at Rochester last week, continuing from Tuesday until Thursday. The attendance was good, there being present, the Post says, representatives of machines from New York, Illinois and Wisconsin. The result of the trial will be of considerable interest to farmers:

Singular Death from Lightning.

From the Pittsburgh Dispatch, Aug. 24.

Edward Parker, aged nineteen years, and son of Lafayette Parker, of Conneantville, Crawford county, died on Sunday evening last from the effects of a stroke of lightning, received during the storm of the afternoon of the 8th inst., ten days before. At the time of being struck he was seated in a grocery store, and the lightning was seen to strike in or near a pond, a quarter of a mile distant. The deceased at the same instant felt a shock in one of his limbs, and on examination found a small dislocation near the thigh. The shock was also felt by other parties in the store but not severely. Nothing serious was anticipated, and though the limb was somewhat painful no attention was paid to it for three or four days, when it became dreadfully swollen. Everything that could be was at once done to relieve his pain, but without avail, and he died as stated. The circumstances are very singular, as nothing about the store was injured in the least, and there are no marks of lightning in the immediate vicinity.

Inside a Printing Office.

The composing room of a printing office is about as productive of various questions, and elicits as much curiosity from visitors, as any place of business we know of. First thing a visitor does is to step up to a case where fingers are at work, and watch every motion with perfect steadfastness; looks into the compositor's face to see where his eyes are; the process looks mysterious, and questions about like this:

"How do you know where to find the letters? Are they arranged in order?—How do you know when they are right side up? What is the reason that there is more type in some boxes than the others? I should think you would make mistakes; you ought to have the boxes marked.—Don't you get the wrong letters sometimes?

Looking around, he spies in a corner a lot of "something" that calls forth, "what are these?"

Compositor—"Quads."

Visitor—"What's Quads?"

Compositor explains Next finds the forms from which another person is distributing.

Visitor—"Tearing 'em down, hey?

Compositor—"Yes."

"Can you do that faster than you can set it? What makes you wet the type? (looking at the form) why, it's all upside down. Is that the way it always is? You can't read it, can you?

Next goes round the press and finds the roller, puts his fingers on it, and gets them dyed a shade or two darker than their original color.

"What's this roller made of—India rubber?"

Compositor—"No, of glue and molasses."

Visitor—"Of molasses? I should think it would melt!"

Compositor—"Twill when it gets warm enough."

His eyes next fall upon the paper wet down ready for press.

Visitor—"Why, this paper is all wet. Do you have to do that?"

Compositor—"Yes."

"What for?"

Compositor explains and wishes he would dry up.

He looks around and finds a form of advertisements laid aside. He runs his finger over the column, and knocks a square of it into confusion. Compositor looks cross, and says, "you've knocked that into pi."

Visitor whistles and goes out when compositor isn't looking.

A Reverend Forger.

MADISON, WIS., Aug, 29.—The First National Bank of Madison was victimized out of $7,000 by a man calling himself A. Burns, who had been doing some heavy preaching as a Baptist clergyman at Mazomanie, and by this pious proceeding had obtained letters of credit, armed with which he presented five forged drafts of $3,000 each, and asked that $7,000 be given him in currency and the balance, $8,000, be placed to his credit. The Cashier being satisfied with the identification paid the money and Burns left town. On Saturday last the Cashier received a dispatch from New York saying the drafts he had cashed were forgeries. A reward of $2,500 is offered for his capture.

Grant and Johnson Exchange views.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—In his second letter to the President Gen. Grant says if he construes the reconstruction acts correctly, he is vested with the power of approving or disapproving orders to commanders of military districts, and that this does not rest with the President. To this the President replied he had thought of all this, and there was nothing for the War Department to do but execute the order sending Hancock to New Orleans. Grant has also informed the President that he saw no necessity for the removal of Gen. Sickles, and did not look upon the conduct of Sickles as tending to insubordination. The President replied he regarded Sickles' course as direct disobedience to the orders of the Commander-in-chief and Gen. Grant.

Washington Excitements Calming.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 28.—The Times' special says the political situation to night is much calmer than for several days. Grant has not refused to obey orders, notwithstanding the positive statement to that effect, telegraphed last night. His last letter to the President, sent in yesterday, was of no avail. In it General Grant earnestly urged Mr. Johnson to modify the order, and even went so far as to state his own opinion, that persistence on the part of the President, in his present course, would bring innumerable evils upon himself and on his administration. He visited the President this morning, and learned again that his suggestions and wishes would be overruled. The President insisted upon the order as it stands. Gen. Grant had nothing to do but obey. Whatever instructions Gen. Grant may deem necessary will follow hereafter in separate orders. Section 2 of the appropriation act quoted last night compels all orders to be sent through his headquarters, but does not give him power to refuse to transmit orders which he may disapprove.

The supplemental reconstruction act passed July last, which everybody supposed gives Gen. Grant precisely the same powers as are possessed by military commanders is strangely deficient in that very essential. It gives Grant power to approve or disapprove all removals, appointments, details, etc., of persons to or from office. He can himself remove a Governor of Mississippi if he chooses, but if the President chooses to order boards of registration in Louisiana to be re-opened in ninety days, Gen. Grant is powerless to prevent it. Or if Gen. Hancock on his own responsibility, shall choose to postpone, indefinitely or otherwise, the election ordered by Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Grant has not even the power to disapprove his action.

Seward not going to resign.

Secretary Seward's friends say he is not going out of the Cabinet, as his presence in the State Department is absolutely required, at least for some time to come, for the completion of negotiations with Great Britain, concerning the settlement of the Alabama claims, which are in a fair way of progress, upon the basis of the cession of British Columbia. Important negotiations with other powers, involving the cession of territory to the United States, have also been opened by Secretary Seward, and it is believed that he alone can bring them to a favorable concinsion. The continuation of his services as Secretary of State, is, therefore, deemed as transcending in public importance all temporary political issues growing out of the late proceedings of the President. GILFILLAN AND MARSHALL.

The people of Hastings met last Thursday in town caucus and elected delegates to the county convention, who are opposed to the re-nomination of Gov. Marshall. The meeting was large and enthusiastic. By resolution it condemned the pending proposition for the payment of the bogus railroad bonds, as being an attempt to compel the people under fraudulent pretences to pay a debt it does not owe. Delegates were instructed to send if possible, men to the State convention who will vote against the re-nomination of Gov. Marshall, who they deem unsound on the bond question. It further resolved, that the St. Paul Press, by its malignant efforts to crush out Mr. Gilfillan, who is not in the bond swindle and its utter disregard of the public interest, by advocating the payment of the bonds in full, has lost the confidence of the republicans of Minnesota. Similar resolutions to the above were passed by a convention held at Plainview, Wabashaw county, and Waseca county will give a similar expression of sentiment at her county convention.

Upon the question of the abuse of C. D. Gilfillan the Wabashaw Herald speaks a few pertinent words of condemnation. It says:

> The St. Paul Press abuses C. D. Gilfillan, Esq., because forsooth, he is an aspirant for the office of Governor. Every citizen, native or naturalized, has a right to aspire to that position or any other in the State, and many do, even the editor-in-chief of that paper has not failed to take a suck at the public pap, and may again for what we care, if the people are willing. We are not particularly favorably to Mr. Gilfillan, do not urge his nomination, but we do not see how blackguarding a rival candidate is going to increase Governor Marshall's chances of re-nomination, especially when the subject on whose head falls such a torrent of billingsgate is an estimable gentleman and a true Republican.
> We hope Marshall may be re nominated, but suppose he is not, and suppose Gilfillan is, what will the Press do? Can it support him for office believing him to be the man it alleges he is?

There is nothing made in vilifying honorable members of the party for partizan ends; and the worst feature of our State politics is the habit of some of the press of belieing its aspirants and warring upon its own household, to favor a clique candidate for office. The effect of the controversy when carried to such a disgraceful hight as the Press has carried it, has a tendency to paralyze party strength, and deliver us a disgraced and disorganized host into the camp of our common enemy. The simple idea that no element in the party can name its candidate without such person becoming the victim of journalistic abuse, and maliginity, should be sufficient to condemn both the party and its organs.

THE ADVANCE.

We are in receipt of the first copy of The Advance, a religious journal, the publication of which has just been commenced in Chicago. As a denominational paper it may be called Congregational, but as a religious periodical it is purely Evangilical and will prove quite readable to any family who desires an exclusively religious journal. Many of our Western readers of the New York Independent will be glad to substitute the Advance for the former which in later years has prostituted its columns and its position to the most mercenary of motives, and finally declared itself no longer the organ of any church organization, and gave itself up to the advocacy of a lax and liberal form of Christianity. We have long felt that the Independent was conducted as a religious journal, and published the highly embellished sermons of Henry Ward Beecher, more to enhance the value of its advertising columns, than for its inherent love for the Church. One instance is sufficient to show the animus of the sheet and to put its patrons upon the inquiry as to whether or no it has not transcended its high and noble calling. The bonds of the Chicago and St. Paul railway were put in market in New York only a few weeks since. The Independent solicited an advertisement of their sale, but the request was not granted. The next day it took occasion to drive the company to it by declaring it a bogus concern and warning capitalists against investing. When a religious paper can give no better illustration of honesty and morality than this, its patrons will do well to seek a communion of thought through other channels. The Advance is a western paper, and is beautifully printed at the office of Blakely Brother's of the Post, who are well known in this State. The Editor is W. W. Patton D. D., of Chicago. We judge him to be a gentleman of high attainments from the high tone, smooth rhetoric and clear logic of the leading articles in the first issue of the Advance. We advise our readers to send for a copy, and learn its liberal terms. Address ADVANCE COMPANY 25 Lombard Block, Chicago.

LIEUT. GOVERNOR.

Two weeks since we mentioned the name of Col. Wm. Pfaender as a proper and available candidate for Lieutenant Governor, and one who would ably represent the German wing of the republican party. We have the pleasure of announcing that our St. Peter cotemporary of the Tribune gives our nomination a hearty endorsement. It has been usual for our friend to suppose that what was our meat was his prison, and therefore our suggestions have received no favor. For once, while differing upon the nomination for Governor, we can join hands upon the second candidate for State office. The Hastings Gazette copies our article, which we regard as at least an omen in favor of the nomination of Col. Pfaender.

STATE TEACHERS ASSOCIATION.

Last week was marked by the convening of some 300 teachers of the State at St. Paul for the purpose of comparing views, and discussing the various methods of school discipline. The Association held its first session on Tuesday and contiued three days. Mayor Otis in a cordial address welcomed them to the hospitalities of the citizens of St. Paul. Prof. Phelps, president of the Association replied in a few happy remarks. Three sessions were held daily. The first evening was occupied by an address from Prof. Phelps on "The classics vs. science in a course of study." On the second day a constitution was submitted and adopted. Mr. Pike, of Rochester, presented a paper on "Dull pupils and how to treat them." The suggestions of his paper were the subjects of discussion. Prof. D. H. Camp who is associated with Dr. Barnard in the National Educational Bureau explained its workings. Hon. M. H. Dunnell the State Superintendent delivered an address upon the subject of Public and private schools. An attempt was made to pass a resolution committing the society to the plan of reading the bible in the schools. It had many warm advocates and many opponents, but was finally indefinitely postponed. On the last day, Hon. I. Donnelly and Gov. Marshall addressed the association, and the election of officers with much other miscellaneous business took place. In the evening the association in a body just before the adjournment were abundantly treated with peaches and ice cream by the young ladies and gentlemen of St. Paul.

IMPEACHMENT.

Impeachment is looming up again with newly gained strength. Letters have been received at Washington from members of Congress, some of whom have heretofore been opponents of impeachment, declaring that this is the only remedy left to insure reconstruction. The present attitude of the Chicago Tribune, in favor of impeachment is regarded as a sign of a change of views of Mr. Wilson, of the Impeachment Committee, who has been opposed to the measure. If he has changed, the majority of the committee will be turned on the side of impeachment.

BLUE EARTH COUNTY FAIR.

We print elsewhere the premium list of the Blue Earth County Agricultural Society which holds its annual fair at Garden City on Thursday, Friday and Saturday the 26th, 27th, and 28th days of this month. The premium list has been thoroughly overhauled and presents much greater inducements to exhibitors than it did last year. Almost every industrial interest is represented and the premiums are better adjusted to the articles exhibited. Our notice of this enterprise is necessarily limited this week but we shall next week give it further notice.

Candidates for Governor.

The names of several gentleman are mentioned for the Gubernatorial nomination, besides Marshall and Gilfillan—for instance, Lt. Gov. Thomas Armstrong; Senator Folsom, of Chisago; Dorilus Morrison, of Hennepin; Judge McKelvy, of St. Cloud; Ex Senator M. S. Wilkinson, of Mankato; Earle S. Youmans, of Winona; Hon. Mark H. Dunnell, of Owatonna; John McKusick, of Stillwater; Ex-Gov. Swift, of St. Peter.—Rural Minnesotian.

FROM MAPLETON.

By our own Reporter.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE CASE OF HORSE STEALING.—The two youths, Lattimer and George Wetmore were overtaken by Messrs. James Little, and Sherman Peet, the owner of the horses, whose given name last week we were unable to give. The boy Wetmore is a son of a Widow woman of our township and we reserved his name in our former communication on account of a feeling of delicacy in regard to publishing him to the world as a horse thief before knowing the extent of his guilt. The two were taken on the Watonwan river above Garden City. Their whereabouts were discovered by the boys going to a house to borrow matches. Their trial was heard by Mr. Morrell Davis J. P. who sent them to Mankato where as reporter we will deliver them to our superior officer, viz, the Ed. of the UNION.

—Our town caucus convened according to notice. Mr. James Cornell was elected President and H. Goff Secretary.

Mr. P. F. Wise and James Davis were elected delegates to the county convention. The only instructions given was to obtain the office of county commissioner for Mr. Ray Rue if possible, provided it was conceded at Mankato that Mapleton was entitled to the office.

EARLY FROST.—On the morning of Aug. 27th a frost was discovered in different places throughout our section of country. A frost in the midst of harvest, well done 1867.

WATONWAN COUNTY CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Watonwan County, met pursuant to call at Madelia on Saturday, Aug. 31st.

E. M. Sprague was called to the chair and G. W. Yates chosen Secretary.

The meeting throughout was characteristic for harmony and unity of action.

Owing to the busy season the attendance was not large, though all parts of the county were well represented.

Aspirants for official honors were few and but few of the nominations were closely contested.

H. Montgomery was elected delegate to the District convention with instructions to use his vote and influence to secure the nomination of Col. W. C. Rhodes of Ceresco Blue Earth county for Representative. The nomination of Mr. Rhodes must meet with the approbation of the people of Blue Earth county, inasmuch as he represents not only the county of Watonwan but the entire western portion of his own county.

G. Yates was called upon for his opinion of the Gubernatorial aspirants, and after expressing his disapprobation of Gov. Marshall, was chosen delegate to the Republican Convention with instructions to oppose his renomination, and was further requested to present the name of Col. Pfaender of Brown county for Lieut. Governor.

A Republican county committee was chosen consisting of the seven following persons Viz: Chairman P. O. Kempfar, Geo. Dodge, Ole Jorginson, W. W. Murphy, James Williams, O. H. Howe, Chas. Plowman.

The Republican county ticket this fall as nominated will be, For county Auditor J. Flanders, Treasurer G. W. Yates, Register of Deeds John Travis, Judge of Probate J. Flanders, Clerk of District Court M. E. Mullen, County Attorney E. P. Freeman, Mankato, Sheriff Jens Thurson, County Surveyor M. E. Mullen, Coroner V. G. Mott.

County Commissioners, O. W. Howe, South Branch, Lewis Simonds, Antrim, S. P. Driggers, Madelia.

RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—At about six o'clock on Friday evening, the 30th; as the railroad construction train, on the main line of the St. Paul and Pacific railroad, was coming in from Wayzata, it ran off the track when at Cedar Lake, three miles from Minneapolis, killing one man instantly, and wounding others. About forty laborers were on board at the time. The man killed was named Hans Slauson; and there is believed to be another mortally hurt; two or three others were badly crushed. The train was running at very high speed at the time of the disaster.—Rural Minnesotian.

—It is the intention of Gen. Grant, Acting Secretary of War, to curtail the expenses of the War Department as fast as possible. A large number of buildings in the neighborhood of the department, now rented by the Government, will be given up as soon as the papers and records can be transferred to the Department About fifty clerks will be dismissed on account of scarcity of work.

$125 Reward
Strayed or stolen from Butternut Valley, two miles southeast of the Little Cottonwood, on Friday night 16th inst., a pair of horses—one a black horse, 5 years old; and an iron gray mare 8 years old, large wart under the tail. Had halters on and were hobbled when taken away. The above reward will be paid for the return of the horses and capture of the thief, if they were stolen; or if strayed, $25 for the return of the horses.

DONATION PARTY.

There will be a donation party for the benefit of Elder Craven and family, at the Baptist church on Wednesday evening Sept. 11th. MANY FRIENDS.

QUARTERLY MEETING.—The Methodist quarterly meeting commences to-morrow at 2 o'clock P. M. and continues over the sabbath.

—The pews in the Presbyterian Church will be rented this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

—The Universalists of Mankato and vicinity are requested to meet at Shoemaker's Hall on Monday evening next (Sept. 9th) at 7½ o'clock, to hear and act upon the report of the committee on organization.

Per order of COMMITTEE.

FIRE ALARM.—The cry of fire was raised in the street on Wednesday last about noon. With great celerity the engine, hose, and hook and ladder were brought out and rushed up Front street toward the alarm. At the Barrott House word was brought that the fire was extinguished. It was at the residence of Maj. E. H. Smith.

STAGING.—The eastern stage leaves at 3, a. m., and connects with the cars at Clear Lake at 10 o'clock making an evening connection with the Chicago train at La Crosse.

STEAMBOATING.—The Mollie has drawn off and stages are running to St. Peter where they connect with the Ariel for the present. Stages leave at 7 o'clock a. m. The Mankato was four miles below town yesterday and was unable to come further. The freight will be landed and brought up by team.

SPLENDID FRONT.—The stone front of Lewis Shaubut & Co.'s bank building is worthy of notice. It consists of three arches with stone pillars. At the top of one is chiseled the figures "18" and on the other "67." Above the arches is a stone cornice of beautiful design, projecting about 18 inches over the front line. The design was furnished by W. P. Boardman Esq., and the work done under the supervision of J. P. Burch, who is one of the best stone builders in the State.

—Rev. Mr. Craven, as is probably known to most of our citizens, is about to remove to the State of Iowa. We think it therefore but proper that the people among whom he has resided, and for whom he has labored should have an opportunity of testifying their appreciation of his services by some public expression of their feelings. The Elder has a large family to support, and taking into consideration the high prices of living, and his slender salary we presume that the material aid which his friends might bestow would be highly acceptable.

FARMERS INSURANCE AGENCY.—The Farmers Insurance Company of Rochester, have appointed J. S. Little of Mankato, a General Agent for the Western portion of the State. The agency by this appointment is left in competent and honest hands, and we trust both the company and Mr. Little will find this relation advantageous.

EARLY CORN.—We are in receipt of several specimens of early corn from Mr. N. C. Conner of this city, who raised it on his place near town. Some of it was planted on the 7th of June, and some on the 18th, and all of it has been out of the way of frost since the 20th of August. One kind was sent him from Washington, which proves to be the earliest of all. Either kind is said to yield as heavily as the Illinois dent, and a space of 65 days from the day of planting will mature them. This early species should be more generally introduced by our farmers, and thus save the anxiety occasioned by fear of an early frost.

PERSONAL.—Last week our town was visited by two distinguished gentleman of Green Castle, Indiana, Mr. E. T. Keightly and Lady, and Mr. Jerome Allen. The former gentleman is the proprietor of a private bank, and the latter a Cashier of the First National Bank of Green Castle. They came for the double purpose of pleasure and prospecting, and declared themselves highly pleased with the State, and with Mankato and its surroundings. They found here an old friend in the person of Col. J. R. Mahan who has been spending most of the season at this place. Col. Mahan is one of the veterans of the war, having led, as Lieut. Col., the 1st Indiana regiment to the front. These gentlemen made glad the days of their sojourn here by hunting and fishing and touring over the country. Mr. Allen was declared the champion of the hook and line having taken the largest fish of the party, from the Minnesota river. They are all looking Minnesota-ward, viewing our healthful and productive State as a desirable location for a home. We should be happy to welcome these staunch men as the future and permanent citizens of Mankato.

FROST.—The morning of the first day of September brought with it a slight frost at this point, and extended to other portions of the county. We are informed by Mr. S. C. Hilton that at the Agency much of the low land corn was injured, and that the Illinois dent cannot recover from it. All earlier kinds are secure. At Tivoli Mr. H. Robertson says that corn in the timber is uninjured, while on the low prairie it is. He has some corn from seed sent him from Washington, which was ripe fifteen days since, and he proposes to plant as much as possible of it another season. We hear from Mr. Kinney of Vernon Center that the frost has done no injury, and it is said that on the Cobb river there was no frost worthy of mention. Mr. Robertson says that in ten years he had not seen an early frost until last year, and he thinks years may again intervene without a similar visitation.

The Rochester Union announces that the Hon. T. J. Kenny, of Ohio, will deliver the annual address at the approaching State fair to be held at that place. The Union endorses Mr. Kenny as "a gentleman of rare ability, a first-class speaker, an able lawyer, and withal a practical farmer."

OUR BOYS AT BLUE EARTH CITY.—Last Friday morning at 2 o'clock, nine members of the Frontier Club, two of whom belong to the first nine, started for Blue Earth City to play a friendly game with the Club of that city. After a hard drive of 45 miles they arrived there at 2 o'clock P. M., and in a half an hour were on the ball ground and at it. The game was contested throughout with much spirit. The result was that our boys, to use a vulgar term, "got scooped." It was no doubt a heartrending catastrophe, but we trust they bore it with heroic fortit The score stood 62 for the Frontier and 67 for the Blue Earth City Club. Though beaten at this game, they were more than compensated for the disaster by the lavish hospitalities of the Blue Earth City Club and the citizens generally. Every thing was free to the Mankato boys, and all tenders of Mankato money was answered by the phrase "not current" as long the boys are in town. Hotel bills, cotillion tickets, and all the "sundries" were paid for by the Blue Earth boys, and our club on their return are almost wild in their praise of Blue Earth hospitality. We should not forget here to mention that on their way up at Winnebago City our host, D S Law, late of Mankato, who keeps hotel at that place gave the entire club their dinner and cigars free of charge. For this substantial compliment Mr. Law will please accept the grateful thanks of the Club. Without an incident to mar the pleasure of the trip, the boys returned on Saturday with nothing to regret except the "scooping."

SNAG BOAT.—Mr. S. A. Hooper, of Belle Plaine, who was awarded the Government contract for removing the snags and boulders in the Minnesota river, arrived with his snag boat last Friday, and commenced on Saturday at the red warehouse to remove the river obstructions. The boat is an ordinary flat boat with machinery of a powerful leverage, used entirely by men. There are forty men employed, and not only the snags in the river are taken out, but the shores are cleared of fallen trees. Two days were occupied in clearing the river to the first bend, which is about a mile in length. The boat is working down stream. Another boat is building at Belle Plain and we understand it is to be used between Mankato and Redwood.

MATCH GAME.—A match game of base ball will be played next Tuesday at the Frontier grounds by the St. Peter and Frontier clubs commencing at half past two o'clock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CELEBRATION.—A Sunday School Celebration will be held in the village of Garden City, by the two Sunday Schools in that town, on Thursday the 12th day of Sept. next, and a cordial invitation is hereby given to all the Sunday Schools in Blue Earth county, to attend and enjoy the occasion with them. A correspondence is solicited from the Secretaries of the several schools that may be pleased to favor us by helping in having a grand good time. As it will be immediately after harvest, and probably good weather, we hope there will be a general attendence by all the schools in the county. By order of the CORRESPONDING COM.

TOWN CAUCUS.—The republicans of Mankato, met in caucus on Saturday last at 3 o'clock P. M. for the purpose of nominating 15 delegates to the county republican convention. The caucus was called to order by E. P. Freeman Esq., chairman of the town committee, and Dr. W. F. Lewis was chosen chairman and A. S. White Secretary. A motion was made by E. P. Freeman, that the meeting proceed to elect 15 delegates on one ticket, which prevailed. The chairman appointed as tellers J. F. Wallace, W. B. Torry, and F. Prael. Mr. Duley suggested that Dickerson Burgess, Walker and Bennett from the country be made a part of the list, as representatives of the inland portion of the town. The action of the meeting upon this matter was to the effect that these gentlemen could be voted for by those who wished to, by erasing names on printed tickets and substituting these men, or by voting for them separately in the same manner that other candidates were voted for.

The vote was then taken resulting as follows: Edwin Bradley 108, L. C. Harrington 98, A. S. White 109, L. L. Davis 108, H. Humphrey 98, Wm. Bierbauer 108, J. T. Williams 99, Wm. F. Lewis 100, J. C. Haupt 98, S. D. Parsons 137, J. S. Thompson 100, Chas. Mansfield 108, Griffith Williams 145, D. Wilcox 109, F. Barke 109. The foregoing gentleman receiving the highest number of votes were decided elected. A minority ticket cast the following vote: L. L. Lewis 37, Chas. Griswold 47, Wm. McQueen 43, Chas. Bradley 37, L. N. Holmes 37, O. D. French 47, M. D. Flower 46, W. Miller 47, L. Johnson 39, G. Lulsdorf 37, Jacob Pfaff 37, H. Tibbetts 46, W. L. Coon 36, L. J. Lewis 9. A sort of ubiquitous meddlesome democrat so far abused his privilege of the Hall as to vote a distinct ticket including the name of men who had been mentioned in connection with county offices. The vote was canvassed but we shall not honor that distinguished individual with a report of it. The result being announced the meeting adjourned sine die.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS.—The copperhead democracy of Mankato met at Higgins' Hall on Wednesday last at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of electing delegates to the county convention. Upon our arrival at the Hall door we discovered at once that we had landed flatfooted in Egypt, where they are still voting for General Jackson. An unwashed lamb of the flock was loud and pathetic in his appeals to his neighbor to have him come to the support of the "Ould General, Be Dad." One of the knowing ones, however, corrected him by saying that they did'nt vote for General Jackson until November, but that they wanted to nominate Bill Hoerr as a member of his Cabinet, as Secretary of the Treasurer. All right. Now I understand it, "Whoraw for Bill Hoerr!" We passed to the hall and found that there was to be another "jail election," for all the copperheads, copperheels and coppertoes had sallied forth in martial array for mortal combat. The issue was, who should be the copperhead candidate for county treasurer, J. W. Hoerr and Isaac Marks being the contestants. Each appeared with printed tickets and by attorney Marks had employed N. C. Connor to conduct his case, with Geo. Clarke, Shoemaker and Judge Brown as assistants. Hoerr had the redoubtable "no-doubtable" unmistakable enemy of all Black Republican "devils," as he termed them, the Hon. Daniel Buck. With this array of counsel, court convened, and Geo. Maxfield was chosen chairman, and J. C. Wise secretary. Mr. Buck moved that no person who had not voted the latest democratic ticket, should be allowed to vote. He declared that the "black republican devils" had cheated him out of a judgeship and he now meant to be a little sharper. He had cut his eye teeth and the scales had dropped from his eyes. The "devils" could not deceive him Counsels Connor, Shoemaker, Clarke, Brown & Co., hoping to gain a few republican votes for Marks, advised the largest latitude. "While the lamp holds out to burn, the vilest sinner may return." If they would promise to go democratic hereafter, and to vote for Marks, it ought to be a passport to the ballot box. Ahem! Upon counting noses it was found that there were few if any republicans in the room, and the chairman said that they, he knew, would not infringe the sanctity of the ballot box. Of course he knew it, but the managers are so accustomed to mal-practices of their own, that the slightest alarm makes them shiver with fear, and smell the enemy from afar. The matter was laid on the table at last, and voting commenced, Wiswell and Barney being appointed tellers. The chairman said they would have a "tight pull" and he was bound to "see em through pon honor," and he therefore directed the voters, with the voice of a potentate, to come forward seat by seat. Confusion soon began to ensue and the chair called to order, but chaos ruled, and he again with fire in his eye cried out "What in h—l you doing there, take your seats!" This smell of brimstone was equally efficacious in restoring order as it used to be in robbing a bee hive. We ought to mention, before proceeding further, that Witt, who sells goods on the first floor, took his sample pieces inside as soon as a crowd commenced to arrive. But the voting progressed and with the result in favor of Marks. The following are Marks delegates and each received 127 votes: Geo. A. Clarke, H. L. Young, S. Pfeffer, Jacob Capp, Michael Ullman, J. G. Cuddy, Dr. A. G. Dornberg, S. M. Walker, H. Burgess, P. Miller, Michael Reinbold. The Hoerr delegates received 78 votes each.

We are at a loss to know quite what string was pulled to produce this result. Now Bill Hoerr claims to be the most "populous" man in the county, and he keeps beer and fancy drinks at his bar in his hotel. Androskis' saloon is hard by to Marks, and there's no bottom to his purse or generosity as long as whiskey will buy votes. Neither one of them can fill the office with any great credit to themselves, and so far they are about even. The old adage that "the tallest pole takes the persimmons" is the most intelligent theory of the case we can form. Who will get the country delegates remains to be seen. We understand that Mr Coulson, book keeper of Marks, has lately been in the country buying butter, and that Hoerr has had urgent business in the same direction pertaining to official duties. Put this and that together and we may predict a lovely fight on the day of final results.

BLUE EARTH CO. REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.—The republicans of Blue Earth county met in delegate convention at Higgin's Hall yesterday at 2½ o'clock P. M. and were called to order by Mark D. Flower, chairman of the County Committee. On motion of J. T. Williams, Dr. W. F. Lewis was elected chairman, and B. F. Steadman Secretary. The published call was then read. The chair appointed a committee on credentials consisting of S. E. Stebbins of Medo, J. J. Lewis of Sterling and Edwin Bradley of Mankato. The chair appointed as committee on resolutions, S. C. Clark of Garden City, Geo. Conrad of Sterling, Griffith Williams of Mankato.

SPECIAL NOTICES

AN AUTUMN-SUGGESTION.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow: now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heats of summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, ere the inclement winter makes its trying onset; NOW is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicine in existence,

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

FEVER and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phase of the disease which at persent prevades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy (so-called) is deadlier than the malady. But if quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given "Fever-and-Ague District" should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided every inhabitant would take the BITTERS according to directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken duly as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the officinal specifics and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fever. Vigor is the thing most needful in these cases, as well as in dyspepia and nervous affections, and are the safest, surest, and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

C. AULTMAN & Co's "SWEEPSTAKES."

THE ONLY GENUINE "SWEEPSTAKES"

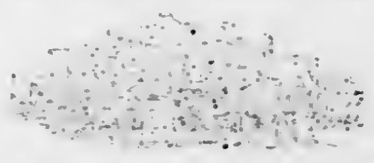
The Improved "Carey" Power,

(Both eight and ten horse.)



THE "COMPENSATING" POWER.

(Both eight and ten horse.)

A [illegible] "saw the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakings, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited best of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain fast and well, is better than any other in the world, as acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and others to attempt to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead the farmers.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and selling under false colors. To avoid the error of the use of every machine bears the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to [illegible] labor, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much provoking and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and does not keep a gang of men and teams about them an extra day.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warrant delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

A Western Lady Godiva.

At the South Pewablo mines, Lake Superior, a man and his wife had a severe quarrel, resulting in his packing his bundle and starting off for Ontonagon, declaring that he would live with her no longer. She followed him along the road, begging him to return; but he was inexorable, and trudged on. Finally she became so exasperated that she vowed that if he did not turn about she would strip herself stark naked and follow him to his journey's end. As he did not stop, she was as good as her word, and leaving her clothing by the road side, she followed him in the cool, fascinating costume of nature. This only made him laugh. When they came to the intersection of the road they were surprised by meeting with a party of young men who had been out fishing, and then the husband began to think the wife's costume was not exactly the kind prescribed by court etiquette, and cutting a stout switch he started her back on a keen run, not allowing her to stop and gather up her clothes. Our informant says she made splendid time in going from the clearing to the house, probably because she was not inconvenienced by extra clothing. Since then both parties have indefinately postponed their trip to Ontonagon.

The New Postal Treaty with Great Britain.

WASHINGTON, August 28.

The Postal Treaty with England goes into operation on the first of October.

Rates to the United Kingdom—Newspapers and unsealed circulars—Two cents each for newspapers or other printed matter, except books weighing over two ounces; four cents for four ounces or a fraction thereof; books, six cents per four ounces or a fraction thereof.

Patterns or samples of merchandise—Eight cents per four ounces or fraction thereof.

Postage must be prepaid. Wrappers of newspapers, pamphlets, books, etc., must be opened at the sides or ends. Book or sample packets must not exceed two feet in length or one foot in width. Patterns must not be of intrinsic value, while the rule excludes from the mails all articles of a saleable value or having a market value of its own. The reduced price of twelve cents per half ounce on letters does not go into effect until January 1st. The offices of exchange on the side of the United States are New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Portland, Detroit, Chicago, and San Francisco.

—Wool has now reached the lowest price, on the gold basis, that has ever been known in this country. The wool growers had it all their own way in the arrangement of the tariff last winter. It is to be hoped that they are satisfied with their experiment. Those who have been holding their wool for two or three years, for the purpose of getting the bill passed and selling out at a large advance are advised to commence an agitation for a higher tariff. Probably some of them can tell what would be the price of wool if an additional duty of ten cents per pound were put upon the article.—Chicago Tribune.

WASHINGTON, August 27.—A private letter, dated Fort Hayes, Kansas, August 20th, says: "The cholera has been the scourge of the Plains this summer, and it seems strange that it should ever become epidemic here, the air being so pure and so many thousand miles of it." One company of cavalry at that post lost twenty one men by cholera, and thus far eighty-two men in all by that disease have died at that post.

Receipts from distilled spirits and tobacco are stated at the bureau of internal revenue to be largely in excess for the fiscal year ending with June over those of any preceding like period.

—The farmers of Jefferson county, Mo., complain of the drought, which is causing serious injuries to corn and potatoes. It is currently reported that when it rains at all, the showers fall only upon the farms of the Radicals, leaving the land of the "Secesh" dry as powder.

—Gen. Cooper, adjutant General of Tennessee, has issued an order stopping the disbandonment of the militia. It is proposed to use them to protect loyal citizens against the outrages of rebel outlaws.

—Further particulars of the fight with the Indians on the Republican River show that after the battle the Indians sent over a message saying that they did not want peace, and would keep on fighting.

—Richard Smith, editor and manager of Cincinnati Gazette, was nominated for Congress on the 29th by the Republican Convention in the the Second Ohio District, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of General Hayes, now running for Governor. The nomination was by acclamation.

—An afflicted editor, who is troubled with hand-organs under his window, longs for the "evil days" mentioned in Ecclesiastes, when "the grinders shall cease because they are few," and "the sound of the grinding" shall be "low."

Cholera is reported to be raging in a malignant form in and around Shawneetown, Ill. Twenty cases and twenty deaths are reported. People are fleeing in great consternation.

—The first Union rally of the campaign was held in Canton, Ohio, Friday evening. The meeting was an outdoor one, held in front of the Court House, where a stand had been erected for the speakers. The weather was cool and beautiful. Over two thousand persons were present and listened to masterly addresses from Hon. John Sherman, Hon. G. W. Scofield, of Pennsylvania, and Wm. Stanton, who was announced as a cousin of ex-Secretary Stanton. Great enthusiasm was manifested throughout. The Union cause looks bright in old Molly Stark.

RICHMOND, Aug. 29.—Some negroes having badly beaten one policeman and stoned two others at the circus in this city, Wednesday night, a company of United States troops has been sent to the spot to night to suppress a riot, which is considered imminent.

—Information has been received of the escape last week of James Duncan Wirz Commissary at Andersonville, from Fort Pulaski, Savannah, where he was serving out a sentence of fifteen years' imprisonment for cruelties to Union prisoners. He was allowed to go from the hospital to the wharf at night, where he broke a small boat loose and put off to the French ship Leo which had cleared during the day from Savannah and sailed next morning to France.

SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC.

This medicine, invented by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, is intended to dissolve the food and make it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By cleansing the stomach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be eaten before using it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of the SEAWEED TONIC and three or four boxes of the MANDRAKE PILLS will cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia.

Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits in New York, Boston, and at his principal Office in Philadelphia every week. See daily papers of each place, or his pamphlet on consumption for his days for visitation.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half-dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr. SCHENCK'S Principal Office, No. 15 North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

MANHOOD:
How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and RADICALLY.

☞This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps. Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the publishers,

PROHIBITION.

MR EDITOR:—In a late issue of your paper, I noticed an article entitled "Liquor Prohibition" in which I find errors, on the temperance question. The whole article seems to savour of that common error of sacrificing principle to party. Of this I have nothing to say except that in the long run, you will succeed best by holding strongly to principle.

But your views upon the subject of temperance, which will sooner or later come before the public, show a neglect on your part of investigating the truth. You are in favor of the "cause of temperance" but not of "total abstinance." In taking this position you uphold moderate drinking. You say, "drunkenness leads to vice, crime and physical ruin." Not so. It is vice, crime and physical ruin. Moderate drinking LEADS to these things. When a man is drunk, he does not commit so much crime as when he is under the influence of one or two glasses of liquor. It is under the influence of the first or second glass that the foulest murder is committed. Wilkes Boothe was not drunk when he entered Fords theater to commit that dastardly deed. If he had been he would have utterly failed in his design.

Moderate drinking excites the digestive, nervous, and muscular systems; while drunkenness, or immoderate drinking prostrates them and robs the victim of the power of evil against any one but himself. You say, "drinking simply does not effect society, drunkenness does." This surely is a very great error, for you cannot speak a word or think a thought without effecting society. Both drinking and drunkenness affect all communities, and of the two, drinking is by far the most injurious to society, for every drunkard that staggers in the street is a strong advocate of the total abstinance cause, while the moderate drinker, if he is not himself led to drunkenness, leads others into the snare from which they cannot extricate themselves. If every man that drinks at all, would get thoroughly drunk every time he entered the saloon, it would not be long before our hospitals and jails would be almost useless. But if your suggested remedy be employed, to the benefit of society, it would be only like cutting the rattles off the snake's tail. The noise would be gone, but the deadly venom would remain in excited action without any alarm of danger. Though the punishment of drunkenness might rid the town of street nuisances, yet the "customs" would remain, and feed upon the vitals of society, gradually consuming the social fabric without any warning of the fatal disease. This would be the case, even though crime against the civil laws should not be committed; for the influence of acoholic drinks upon the race is finally degenerating. And just here is the greatest error of the times, and one which I found in the article to which I refer. This is the mistaken notion, that a moderate use of malt liquors benefits the physical system. Now there is alcohol, more or less, in these beverages. The effect of alcohol on the the system is not regenerative but only excitative. It moves the digestive and nervous systems to greater action than their natural powers will sustain. The man who takes his glass of beer two or three times a day, is excited to do more than he feels like doing without the stimulant. But after the effect of the stimulant is over, he relaxes into a lethargy below his proper tone. Now, the more or less remote results of this way of treating the system, is evidently a total prostration. If, in running a mill, you put on more power then the machinery is able to bear, you may for a short time do more work than usual, but soon your indiscretion results in a general smash up. Just so it is with the whole human system, both mind and body; and he who does this knowingly is willingly committing suicide. But, you may say, "you would prefer to stimulate your mind to stronger action while you do live, and give up the Ghost at once." Even though you take alcoholic drinks to force the mind to act, you are in great error. True, the liquor excites the imaginative powers, but it is a wild fiery excitement. You have not the will to direct an argument for the effect of the alcohol is to take away the will. That man who has signed the pledge, and has yielded to the entreaties of a friend to take one glass, is in a very hard condition; for if he is asked to drink again, he will yield sooner than he did to the first invitation, because he has partially lost the control of his will. King Alcohol has got him tight. In the great debate between Douglass and Lincoln, the former, though by nature one of the greatest intellects of the country, utterly failed in point of argument, because he had lost the will power from the influence of alcohol.

There are other gross errors prevalent which I would like to ventilate, but perhaps your columns are not open to a free discussion of the question of total abstinence.

Yours Truly,
VALENTINE.

Political Honesty.

The story that Chief Justice Chase entered the Cabinet as Secretary of the Treasury, a poor man, and now enjoys an income of $700,000 a year was too monstrous to be believed for a moment by any one at all familiar with the reputation of that incorruptible statesman; still some might think there was some ground for it, and to dissipate any such suspicion we publish the following extract from a recent Washington letter in the New York Tribune:

"Mr. Chase was for many years the pioneer of the telegraph operations of the country. By these enterprises, and his profession, he accumulated probably from $50,000 to $100,000 of property. While Governor of Ohio his capital decreased. His expenditures were more than his paltry salary, and it is well known that his salary as Secretary did not pay his household bills alone in this city. We all know how open and hospitable the Governor was. His house was the stopping place for many wearied Generals and soldiers, and around his table there was always a crowd. He is to-day a poorer man than when Governor of Ohio. It is well known that Governor Sprague, his son-in-law, never received nor made a dollar by any favor, directly or indirectly, from the Secretary. His relations with Mr. Jay Cooke were shown officially. I happen to know that Mr. Chase was very hard and stringent in his dealings with Mr. Cooke, and that that banker was more liberally treated by Mr. McCulloch and Mr. Fessenden. Mr. Chase was indeed so anxious on the subject of economy that many of his best friends remonstrated with him for what they considered morbid economy. During Lincoln's days he was always remonstrating about the army and navy expenses, and in his own department everything was kept down to the lowest figure. If Mr. Chase to-day is worth more than $75,000 then his most intimate and cherished friends are greatly deceived about his affairs.

The truth is that there is less dishonesty among politicians than seems to be generally supposed. Office holders, Congressmen and others, even if dishonestly inclined, would be exceeding foolish to sell themselves, providing they care for further gifts at the hands of the people. It is as difficult to conceal knavery in politics as in trade, and let it once be understood that a politician's vote and influence have a market price and he is a dead man. There are some, of course, who seek office for its emoluments alone and who can be bought by the highest bidder, but they are the exception rather than the rule.

A Curious Incident.

A Yancton correspondent of the St. Louis Republican relates the following curious incident:

"In the fall and winter of 1865-66, the 50th Wisconsin regiment while on its way from Fort Kendall, which they had been garrisoning, to Fort Rice, camped one night on Crow Creek. While in camp one of the captains spied what he took to be an Indian on the brow of a hill about half a mile distant. The captain called out to one of his men, and pointing out to him the person on the hill, said: "Do you suppose you can pick that fellow off?" when the soldier said: "I'll try," and raised his gun and fired and the man fell down dead. On repairing to the spot where the dead man lay, they found to their inexpressible astonishment and mortification that the next shot was a brother of the captain who ordered the firing. Language would fail to express the grief of the captain at what he had done.

The soldier was arrested and brought down to Yancton, on a charge of murder, but the grand jury, at the October term of 1865 having failed to find an indictment, he was released.

—Heavy seizures of liquor were made in Milwaukee on the 29th for violation of the revenue laws. One ingenious method adopted to conceal liquor was to put a keg containing ten gallons of highwines into a common flour barrel, pack round with hay and straw, and head up. A large number of barrels thus filled were found at the establishment of one Wirtz, near the Cold Spring House. Five seizures in all were made.

—It has been discovered that some of the farmers in the vicinity of Manassas, and other Virginia battle-fields, have reaped a large pecuniary harvest recently by digging up and selling to the bone dust manufactories the remains of soldiers buried on their farms. A skull, hip-bone, part of the vertical column, femur and tibia, were taken from a wagon which had been loaded at Bull Run by them, and which was on its way to Alexandria, and brought to Washington.

A New Orleans firm offers to supply planters and others with likely young and experienced Coolie laborers, who have served out an apprenticeship in Cuba, and to deliver the chattels in New Orleans in prime order and condition, and on short notice, at $30 a head. The Coolie traffic is forbidden by act of Congress; but what of it? A. Johnson is not enforcing laws of Congress at present.

"MADAM," said a husband to his young wife, in a little altercation which will spring up in the best regulated families, "when a man and his wife have quarreled, and each considers the other at fault, which of the two ought to advance towards a reconciliation?" "The best natured and wisest of the two," said the wife, putting up her mouth for a kiss, which was given with unction. She was the conqueror.

Singular Developments of the Bankruptcy Law.

[From the New York Herald.]

The petition of George L. Schuyler, to be adjudged a bankrupt and discharged from all his debts, affords an insight into the reckless manner in which business is conducted in the city of New York. The petitioner is a brother of Robert Schuyler, the former President of the New Haven Railroad, who left this country in consequence of the exposure of the well-remembered frauds in which he was implicated, and died in Italy. The indebtedness of George L. Schuyler is set down at not less than four million dollars; and he swears that he has no assets whatsoever, "neither land, property, stock, household goods, wearing apparel, nor personal property of any description." He is literally cleaned out—a respectable upper ten pauper; and yet, from the list of his confiding creditors, he appears to have enjoyed a good credit and a remarkable facility for borrowing money.

Among his creditors for "money loaned" are some gentlemen who enjoy the reputation of cautious, prudent business men. The brokers figure very prominently among the confiding victims. A prominent Democratic Manhattan Club politician is touched to the tune of $152,000. One well known broker figures in the schedule for $329,000, "money loaned." Four other firms in the same business evinced a similar confidence in the bankrupt to the gross amount of about $700,000. Some sharp lawyers are creditors for $169,000, while the great railroad king suffers for over half a million, and Governor Morris for a quarter of a million, all on the same description of indebtedness. The loans by themselves amount to over $2,000,000.

This is probably only one of a number of cases that will arise under the operation of the new Bankrupt Law, in which the reckless manner of doing business in this rushing, crowding, speculating, hare brained metropolis will be strikingly illustrated.

—While the Queen was en route for Balmoral, upon the arrival of the train at Carlyle the discovery was made that the new carriage in which the Queen was traveling would not pass through the bridges on the Waverly railway, and a change of carriage was made. But for this discovery at the eleventh hour, a fearful accident must have transpired.

Railroad Bridge at Winona.

The Winona Republican of the 4th says: The location of the railroad bridge across the Mississippi river at this place, which has been an open question hitherto, has at length been definitely determined upon—greatly to the relief of those of our citizens who have all along feared that the crossing might be effected at some other point. We learn on good authority that the engineers have selected the high ridge of land at the extreme eastern end of the city, a short distance below the residence of Mr. Keyes, as the place of crossing, and that the selection has been approved by the Company, who have given orders to commence the work of construction immediately.

The City of Havana has recently discovered a new source of revenue. Some 21,000 cock fights take place there every year, and by imposing a license of $100 per day on the fighters a neat little sum will be obtained. There is $12,000 invested in that business in Havana.

Legrand Byington, one of the leading Democrats of Iowa, was arrested at Iowa City, a few days since, on a charge of perjury. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $2,000.

The Estimated Vote of Virginia.

[From the Richmond Whig, August 31.]

As there are eight counties yet to be heard from, the registered vote of the State can only be approximated. From the returns already received, however, after a careful examination, we are warranted in placing the aggregate vote at 209,000. Of these, 119,000 are whites and 90,000 colored. The law of Congress authorizing the holding of a State Convention fixes the apportionment according to the number of delegates which the counties are entitled to send in 1860 to the House of Delegates. The fact that some of the counties now a part of West Virginia were then incorporated with border counties of Virginia as Legislative Districts, will render the apportionment somewhat difficult, but we feel safe in placing the number at 104 members. There is, however, at least a possibility that, by a different calculation, it may be made to reach 105 members. There will be a difficulty, it will be readily seen, in the apportionment of representation among the various counties, owing to the change brought about by the enfranchisement of freedmen. For instance, before the war, Elizabeth City had only [illegible] 300 voters, now it has 1,100 negro and 300 white voters. Richmond City has now 7,120 colored and 5,068 white voters. The same change is observable in the returns of many other counties and towns. As a consequence, while the aggregate of the State representation will remain the same, the apportionment as far as the counties, especially those of Eastern Virginia are concerned, will be naturally altered.

Whipping a Railroad.

The St. Paul Pioneer tells the following story of an old farmer in Ramsey county, Minn.:

It seems that on Monday, a conductor on the St. Paul and Chicago railway took a gang of about forty men to Pig's Eye, to commence work on the road. Ground was to be broke on the farm of Mr. O'Connor, but lo! and behold! that individual appeared on on the ground with a blunderbuss, and threatened that the first man who stuck a spade in the ground would be shot dead. Here was a dilemma. The laborers thought that their pay was rather too small to risk their constitution for, and no one volunteered to be the "first man." So work did not progress very brisk that morning.

The contractor, failing to pacify O'Conner, sent to town for the attorney of the Company. That personage soon appeared on the ground, and after surveying the scene, concluded he could "fix it up" quite easily, and started for O'Connor, who was still mounting guard over the sacred soil of Erin. The latter individual raised the terrible blunderbuss, and commanded the attorney to halt or he'd blow him through. "H-h-hold on—don't shoot," sang the attorney, as he fell back to a safer position, and concluded that treaty-making was not his forte.

A constable was next sent to arrest the belligerent O'Conner, but he, too, beat a hasty retreat before that terrible gun. At last accounts the building of the road had not been commenced, O'Connor still standing guard over his premises, having been on watch forty-eight hours without relief.

Greeley and Davis.

The Montgomery (Ala.) Sentinel says that since his bailing of Jeff. Davis, Horace Greeley's popularity has increased in that State to such an extent that the very class of people who eight years ago would have tarred and feathered, and perhaps hung him, are now naming their babies after him. The Sentinel predicts that within the next twelve months several hundred secession women will give birth to young Horace Greeleys.

The question is, Can Horace stand so much of this kind of popularity? Will it not seriously compromise his political, to say nothing of his domestic, status? We are alarmed for the consequences, when these impulsive women discover that their new divinity, the Tribune philosopher, has turned out bogus, and is a strong advocate for impeachment. Will they not, incontinently knock all these babies on the head?—or, what would be worse, rename them Andy Johnson?

Crimes and Casualties.

A Louisville dispatch of the 30th says: A gang headed by one Collins, yesterday stabbed and fractured the skull of John Gault, a pugilist from New York. Gault will die. The corpse of a man, supposed to be a Prussian ropemaker, has been found in Christy's wood mutilated by hogs. He is thought to have been murdered.

A young girl named Carl, living near Cincinnati, was arrested on the 29th ult., having confessed to an uncontrollable desire to burn up everything. It was found on investigation that within the last week alone she had fired five buildings in the suburbs, two of which were consumed.

The body of a young girl was thrown from a carriage at Lansingburgh, N. Y., a few days since. Upon examination it was found that there had been an attempt to commit abortion upon her.

At New Brunswick, N. J., on Friday, Bridget Dargan, the Newmarket murderess, expiated her crime on the gallows. A large number of people witnessed the execution. She made a full confession of her crime, fully exonerated her supposed accomplice, Mary Gilery, and alleged that she committed the murder in the hope of taking Mrs. Carriell's place in the household.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Latest steamers bring news of a startling account of a narrow escape of the Queen while en route to Balmoral. Upon the arrival of the train at Carlisle the discovery was made that the new carriage on which the Queen was travelling would not pass through the bridges on the Waverly route. But for this discovery at the last moment a fearful accident must have occurred.

Kate Krenenstaple, a fair Dutchess of Louisville, was disappointed in an affair of the heart, and took fifteen cents' worth of cold poison. The medicine caused pain in the abdominal region, and Kate, who defied death, couldn't stand the stomach ache and revealed the cause of her woes to a doctor who pumped her out.

A little girl in Rochester, N. Y., awoke one morning and complained that her "kitty had bitten her." An investigation showed that for a long time an enormous rat had been in the habit of sharing the child's bed, entering the room by the window, to which it climbed from the ground. It was watched the following day and killed.

There are one hundred and thirty visitors at the Hot Springs.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY TICKET.
For County Treasurer,
JAS. M. THOMPSON.
For Register of Deeds,
COL. B. F. SMITH.
For Sheriff,
EVAN BOWEN.
For Coroner,
BENJ. DURKEE.
For County Commissioners,
4th District, R. J. MARVIN,
5th District, RAY G. REW,

OUR CANDIDATES.

The contest for the nomination of Legislative and county officers at the Republican convention last week was much more spirited than usual. As will be noticed by report in our last issue the more prominent candidates were nominated by a very small majority, yet we believe the ticket as elected gives general satisfaction, and there seems to be an almost unanimous desire among true republicans to stand or fall by every candidate nominated.

For State Senator, E. P. Freeman of this city was the choice of the convention. Mr. Freeman is a lawyer of good ability, and great integrity. He has been identified with the party for a number of years, and worked faithfully and earnestly for its support. His record as a true partisan has no blemish, and no personal considerations could ever induce him to sacrifice, even to one vote, any candidate selected by our conventions for the suffrages of the people. He has had superior educational advantages, and as a scholar and State Senator our people can well afford to give him a hearty support.

Capt. John A. Reed of Sterling, was nominated for re-election for the House. Mr. Reed was in the House last winter and was faithful in the discharge of his duties. An attempt was made at the convention to prove him in favor of the bond proposition, but his explanation that he voted for it under protest, was satisfactory to the convention, as he was nominated by acclamation. His experience of last winter will enable him to be of still more service to his constituency at the coming session.

O. O. Pitcher, of this city, is the other candidate for the House. Mr. Pitcher is a member of the Mankato bar, and until lately a partner of Judge Finch in the practice of law. He is not only competent for the position, but brings also those qualities which will secure friends, not only to himself but to any measures he may wish to introduce. Being an old resident of Blue Earth county he is fully acquainted with its wants, and the legislation necessary to our general welfare.

COUNTY OFFICES.

James M. Thompson, of Garden City, is the candidate for county treasurer. We believe Mr. Thompson keeps a small store at that place, but is not a man of much means. He has, however, a store of general intelligence and business faculties, which eminently fit him for a public office such as county treasurer. He has had much experience as an accountant and book keeper and will be able to strike a clean balance with the county, if its business should be entrusted to his hands.

Col. B. F. Smith was renominated for Register of deeds. The past four years have proved the Col. to be worthy of re-election. He is always at his post, always courteous, and his fees are many times actually below the price allowed by law. He writes a very pretty hand, and keeps the records in a clean and handsome condition.

Evan Bowen is the candidate for Sheriff. Mr. Bowen is a citizen of Butternut Valley, and is the choice of that portion of the county, which rightfully demanded that that locality be represented on the county ticket. Mr. Bowen is an active industrious farmer, with a taste for good horses and blooded stock. Those acquainted with him vouch for his efficiency in performing the duties of the office of Sheriff with acceptability to the public.

Dr. Benj. F. Durkee of this city was nominated for coroner. He is one of our most respected citizens, and will be elected.

Our ticket contains the names of the candidates for county commissioners for the 4th and 5th commissioner districts. We understand that they are among the best men of the county and their election will do credit to the localities where they reside.

MOCCASIN DAYS RETURNING.

In the early history of Indian treaties, reservations, agents and traders, our "oldest inhabitant" will find at least a partial parallel to the method of electioneering, recently revived by a moccasin loco foco of this city, which culminated in a convention of the so-called democrats of Blue Earth county on Saturday last. The potent but perfidious agencies of money and whiskey, dealt out with an unsparing hand by Isaac Marks, were successfully pitted against J. W. Hoerr whose milder beverage of beer, and hospitalities of the dinner table, were eclipsed by the glittering coin and giddy cup. Mr. Hoerr has been one of the most efficient treasurers that Blue Earth county ever had. Especially in collecting personal tax lists he has been untiring in industry, and unequalled in success. Hence he was ignored and Mr. Marks nominated, not upon his merits as a gentleman or competent officer, nor because Mr. Hoerr was lacking in either, but because the "Ingin ring" was again formed and projects were carried through by means fair or foul, as necessity demanded. Bribery and bad whiskey ruined the democracy in this county and shelved its leaders in 1859. Among them was Isaac Marks, who, when, the democracy were in power, always knew where to bestow whiskey, and where money to advance the pilfering schemes of lisenced traders who shuffled for the double stake of Uncle Sam's treasury and Indian annuities. The disaffection in the republican ranks two years since, resulted in the choice of a democrat for county treasurer. To-day the democracy are reliant on similar dissensions for success. This fact has induced Mr. Marks to unsheath his sword, buckle on his money belt, fill up his demijohns, open his store to free trade, payment to be made 30 days after it is convenient, and then defy opposition in true moccasin style. Barring a few honorable exceptions, the democracy as of old, is susceptable of easy manipulation by such men, and the scenes of last Saturday are confirmatory of our opinions oft expressed that they are void of principle, and hold their manhood subject to the highest bidder. It seems that our friend Coulson's butter trip to the country was not a success politically, and when 24 solid delegates came from the rural districts to vote for Mr. Hoerr it became necessary to "go for them." The most susceptable were soaked with whiskey, and boot was offered freely when desired. One delegate tells of selling himself for a price, another as standing between the candidates crying for bids, another that a gallon of whiskey was offered, and still another that he could buy all the goods at Marks he d—m please, and pay for them upon the same terms. The convention assembled and Marks was nominated. But most conspicuous in the proceedings was the fact that three of the delegates were drunk beyond accountability, while some others were "too full for utterance." These men were allowed the immunities of sober men, and participated in the convention, making themselves the butt of ridicule from the audience. No less than a half dozen were speaking at once, and most prominent appeared those that tottered with the most whiskey. Some sober democrats seemed to enjoy the sport, until upon a moments reflection they pronounced such a monkey show as beneath the dignity of men, and a disgrace to any political organization. One of these "fuddled" gentry nominated himself for Coroner, and turned and asked another to second his nomination, and the chair put the vote apparently unconcerned whether he was addressed by men or floored inebriates. In the clamor and confusion a voice above the din nominated W. B. Griswold as a delegate to the District convention. This nomination was made by a disgusted delegate, who no doubt, thought to recover his lost fortunes and save the convention from further opprobrium by selecting a delegate from the head center of republicanism. Another respectable democrat told us that the only thing that saved him from profane language in expressing his contempt for such proceedings was the fact that he had purchased a pew in the Presbyterian Church the day previous. Our cotemporary was flushed with rage, but bore the disgrace meekly, all in the name of democracy. Such is the beginning of the new reign of democratic political strategy, and votes for their candidate for treasurer are to be purchased at the polls by the same influences, regardless of expense. The moccasin style of forcing elections by bribery, which had well nigh been forgotten in Blue Earth county, again drives its steed rough shod over every obstacle, except the land marks of political integrity. They alone will defy the rider and dismount him in a fair fight. We look to the republicans as of old to bear our champion, James M. Thompson, of Garden City, safely through a contest where the odds of political bribery and corruption holds sway against him.

☞At the Republican convention last week, the method of nominating the last two candidates for the lower branch of the Legislature was the subject of much complaint by not only members of the convention but by the friends of Col. W. C Rhodes, of Cereseo, who was the candidate of the people of Watonwan for that position. The proper course was to have nominated them by ballot, but the friends of John A Reed whose nomination was a foregone conclusion, to dispose of the matter quickly nominated him by acclamation. It was known that the fight would then be between Mr Pitcher and Col Rhodes. Instead of voting by ballot, the too eager friends of the former gentleman rushed his name through by acclamation. The Watonwan people are indignant and now threaten to run Colonel Rhodes independently. We are informed by the Colonel that although he could not approve the course of the convention, he will not allow his name to go before the people, but will support the ticket as it stands. The convention saw their mistake after it was too late to remedy matters, but it was the general remark that not only an apology was due the Colonel, but that they should see to it that this shiftless treatment shall be fully recompensed another year.

LEGISLATIVE CONVENTION.

The delegates to the 17th Legislative District convention, chosen at Mankato and Madelia consisted of the following gentlemen: Jas. E. Brown of Winnebago Agency, Geo. Conrad of Sterling, D. Wilcox of Mankato, D. C. Evans of South Bend, and H. Montgomery of Madelia.

The convention was called to order by C. S. Dunscomb, chairman of the committee. We failed to get the report of organization, but the convention in short form ratified the nominations made at the county convention and nominated E. P. Freeman for the State Senate, and John A. Reed, and O. O. Pitcher for the House. The following gentlemen were constituted as a district committee. D. Wilcox chairman, T. Eckstorm and Geo. Conrad. The convention then adjourned sine die.

STATE NOMINATIONS.

As we go to press before the evening mail reaches us, we cannot give the result of the State Republican convention, which was held at St. Paul on Wednesday last. We can, from indications at hand, predict the result with some certainty. Gov. Marshall will be renominated. Probably R. F. E. Cornell will be the candidate for Attorney General, Emil Munch for treasurer, and H. C. Rogers Secretary of State.

AMNESTY

President Johnson has opened his amnesty proclamation of May 29th 1865, which excluded from the benefits of a pardon fourteen classes of persons who participated in the rebellion. He now issues another, granting pardon to all while, except the three classes below mentioned.

1st. The chief or pretended chief executive officers, including the President, Vice President, and all heads of departments of the pretended confederate or rebel government, and all who were agents therof in foreign States and countries, and all who had or pretended to hold in the service of said pretended Confederate Government, a military rank or title above the grade of Brigadier General, and naval rank or title above Captain, and all who were, or pretended to be, Governors of States while mantaining, agreeing or submiting to and acquiescing in rebellion.

2d. All persons who in any way treated otherwise than as lawful prisoners of War, persons who, in any capacity, were employed or engaged in the military or naval service of the United States.

3d. All persons who, at the time they may seek to obtain the benefits of this proclamation, are actually in civil, military or naval confinement or custody, or legally held to bail either before or after conviction, and all persons who were engaged, either directly or indirectly, in the assassination of the late President of the United States or in any plot or conspiracy therewith connected.

JACKSON COUNTY REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

The republicans of Jackson county met in delegate convention at Jackson, on Tuesday, Sept. 3d and organized by choosing John Huntington, Chairman, and W. C. Garratt, Secretary.

After the report of the credential committee, the convention balloted for county officers with the following result:

Commissioner for District No. 1.—Peter Baker.
Judge of Probate.—William King.
County Auditor.—G. C. Chamberlin,
Register of Deeds.—Wilson C. Garratt.
Treasurer.—Joseph Thomas.
Sheriff.—A. Miner.
Clerk of Court.—W. S. Kimball.
Coroner.—Dr. J. S. Eaton.
Surveyor.—S. E. Palmer.

Thomas H. White was chosen delegate to the State convention, and Wm. King to the 20th District Senatorial Convention.

Clark Baldwin, Peter Baker, and Simon Oleson were chosen county Central Committee, for the year ensuing.

After brief remarks by G. C. Chamberlin and Wm. King, urging the importance of a full vote at the coming election, the convention adjourned sine die.

FROM GARDEN CITY.

By our own Reporter.

Harvesting is nearly over, wheat is a light crop, oats first rate, corn about middling, business rather dull at present.

Building in town continues. The foundation of the school house has been laid, and we trust we shall soon have a commodious building for schools.

A NEW MILL.—Rew & Heaton have nearly completed their flouring mill on the Blue Earth, about 3 miles from here. It's cost will be about $6,000, when completed, and from present appearances will be one of the best in the county. It will be set to running about next Monday, and as the proprietors are old and experienced millers, they will be hard to beat in the way of flour.

PRINTING OFFICE.—Mr. Manly from Wisconsin is daily expected, and will start a printing office immediately on his arrival in this place. Success to the enterprise.

Pertinent Inquiry.

SHELBYVILLE, Sept. 8th 1867.

MR. EDITOR.—In glancing over your last issue I noticed the Premium list of our agricultural society, and having a deep interest in the agricultural interests of our county, took the pains to read it.

It will be but a slight expression of my feelings to say that I was surprised. I had always supposed agricultural fairs were for the encouragement of industrial pursuits, domestic manufactures &c. &c. But I find that ours is for the encouragement of "gymnasties," that base ball is the greatest aim of our people.

Why not with as much propriety offer the largest prize to the best chess-player, or billiard player. The premiums offered for stock is not sufficient to defray the expenses of taking and returning the same; while if a "gymnastic" performer is what he professes to be, can walk the slight distance required of him, have a "heap of fun" while there, and be well paid for it. Why not give the greatest prize to the man that could produce the greatest yield of grain of any kind; of the finest display of horses, or cattle? Would not this be more in keeping with the intent of the society?

Millinery
DYE WORKS.

The undersigned begs leave to inform the Ladies of Mankato and vicinity that she has opened a new Millinery, Cloak and Dress Making Establishment, on Front Street, opposite L. L. & O. H. Davis' Hardware Store, where she may be found, always ready to do any work in the above line. She has just received a large stock of NEW MILLINERY GOODS which may be found in fine display at her place. Ladies will do well to call and examine her latest fashions. She would also call attention to her Straw and Napolitan Bleeching, which she claims is superior to any thing yet introduced in this community. It does not injure the Straw in the least, but preserves it from impurities.

She warrants her work to give PERFECT SATISFACTION or no pay, and only asks for a fair trial.
MRS. SARAH C. WILLIAMS.

☞Take Notice.—MR. G. O. WILLIAMS will pay special attention to bleeching and pressing, and to the coloring of straw any desired shade. Dye works in connection with this store will be erected soon on the Van Brunt Addition.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - SEPTEMBER 13, 1867.

Another Session of the Board.—The Board of County Commissioners will meet in adjourned session at the office of the Register of Deeds, on Thursday the 19th day of September.

Safe.—It is safe to say that no better Saleratus can be made than D. B. DeLand & Co.'s Best Chemical Saleratus. Besides it is full weight, and that is more than can be said of other Saleratus.

--Dr. Pierce, Dentist, of St. Paul, informs us that he will be in Mankato about the first of December, and will be able to extract teeth without pain.

Sold Out.—Messrs. Fuller & Miller, two of the partners in the saw and grist mill in Sterling on the Maple river, have sold their interest, being two thirds of the mill, to Mr Spickerman, the third partner, for $2,100. The latter gentleman will continue the business alone.

New Grocery.—We publish elsewhere the advertisement of J. B. Burke, who has just opened a store of groceries and provisions, on Maine Street, next door to the American House. We dropped into his store a moment and found him well supplied with a large variety of goods suitable for the trade. His store is so near Second street that it will be quite convenient for customers in that part of town. We bespeak for him his share of patronage.

Religious Notice.—The Old School Presbyterin church of Mankato, will hold service on next Sabbath morning, in Shoemaker's Hall, in the following order:

Meeting at 9½ o'clock a. m., for the purpose of organizing a choir and a Sabbath School. All wishing to unite with the former or to serve in the latter as teachers are cordially invited to be present. Preaching (in English) by the Rev. J. M. Pryse, at 11 o'clock a. m., subject, "The mission of the Christian Church and her relation to civil government. This is not an organization for the benefit of any nationality, but is intended for all citizens favoring the doctrine of that church, and preaching will always take place in the English language.

From Jackson.—Elsewhere we publish the proceeding of the Republican Convention of the county of Jackson held at the village of Jackson, on the 3d inst. We notice that our esteemed friend G. C. Chamberlin, who belongs to the corps editorial, and assisted us in our office last year, has been nominated for County Auditor. The selection is a good one, and the people of Jackson will do well to elect him. A late citizen of Mankato is also honored with a position, Dr. J. S. Eaton receiving the nomination for coroner. Although the Doctor begins at the lowest round of the ladder, he should not despise the day of small beginnings. "Tall oaks from little acorns grow."

County Commissioner.--The republican delegates from the 5th Commissioner District, consisting of Pleasant Mound, Shelbyville, Sterling, Mapleton, Danville, and Medo, after the adjournment of the county convention on Thursday last met and elected Ray G. Rew, of Mapleton, as a candidate for commissioner in place of Horace Kinney the present incumbent.

The delegates of the 4th Commissioner District which comprises Garden City, Vernon Center, Cereseo, Lincoln and Lyra, also met at the same time and place and elected R. J. Marvin as the candidate for commissioner to take the place of S. R. Grannis, the present commissioner.

Plow Factory.—We publish elsewhere the notice of Hatch & Roberds, manufacturers and repairers of plows. They claim for the Mankato Clipper superiority over all others and invite the farmers to come and see them. At Faribault where they are known, over one hundred have been sold from the factory at that place. They claim the same demand will be made upon them here for plows as soon as they become more generally known. Satisfaction is guaranteed or the money refunded. Call at the brick shop, Front street, above the bridge and see them.

School Furniture Arriving.—The seats and desks for the Union School have arrived at St. Peter by boat and are now arriving here by team. They are of the Chase pattern, and were purchased at Buffalo, New York. The frame of both desks and seats is of iron, while the seat and top of desk is of cherry wood. There are 532 desks, with the same number of seats. In the primary department the seats are double, and the desks also. In the intermediate the desks are double with single seats. In the upper department both the seats and desks are single. The weight of these desks is 9 tons and the cost $2,000. Besides these, there are five teacher's desks; two for the first floor, two for the second, and one for the third to be used by the principal of the school.

Produce.--The following is the buying prices of produce at this date. Wheat $1,00. Oats 45 to 50 cents. Corn $1,25. Potatoes 50 cents. New wheat is coming in slowly. Mr. S. S. Higgins is in the market for wheat and is purchasing at the old Leech stone building. We understand that others are preparing to buy soon.

Light Crops.—Since the farmers have begun to thrash, it is ascertained that wheat is a very light crop. Some pieces where 20 bushels were expected did not yield over 12 to 14 bushels, and the avarage crop the county through will not be over 15 bushels per acre.

Mollie Mohler.—The Mollie Mohler having been withdrawn from the trade on account of low water, we wish to put upon record our testimony concerning the amount of labor performed by her, and the judicious management of her officers. In the spring she made triweekly trips from Belle Plaine, but her captain, Harry W. Holmes requested of the company the privilege of making daily trips, which was granted. Eighty-seven trips were made during the season. The distance of the round trip is 175 miles, and the Mollie left Belle Plaine at 6 P. M., and as regular as the rising sun was found at our levee at an early breakfast hour. Leaving here at 8 A. M. she was always punctual at Belle Plaine before train time. Her speed was great, and once the distance of 30 miles between here and St. Peter was made in one hour and twenty minutes. During the whole season not the slightest accident happened, which fact was attributable to the constant care of Capt. Holmes. The first clerk Willie Mohler was always accommodating and courteous, and the business of his office was well performed. Last, but not least, we are under personal obligations to these gentlemen for substantial favors which we thankfully acknowledge, hoping long years of prosperity may be their lot.

Lecture on Common Schools.—Hon Mark H Dunnell State Superintendent, will deliver a lecture at Winnebago Agency on monday evening next, and at Mankato on Tuesday evening to the county Institute, at Higgins' Hall,

Editor Union:—Dear Sir.—In your last issue, I find a communication signed "L. H." professing to "Review" my "sermon on the Sabbath." The writer says. "If I did not misunderstand you etc." He did, either misunderstand me, or willfully misrepresents me, in order to have occasion for a review!

Soon as I can get time to do so, I will furnish a copy of the manuscript from which I preached and the large congregation who were present and listened so attentively shall be the judges of the correctness of the statements made. This is to my mind the easiest way for all. Also that must suffice me, as I cannot afford time to contend with all who may wish to differ on the various subjects discussed in the pulpit. DAVID TICE.

Mankato Sept. 11th 1867.

Base Ball Match.—The match game of base ball between the Frontier of this city and the St. Peter club took place on the grounds of the former last Tuesday afternoon. As the report of the innings shows, the clubs were even on the 6th innings, but the Frontier as is usual with them, played best toward the close of the game, and beat by a score of 33. There were many out to witness the game, and quite a number of people from St. Peter were in attendance. At the beginning of the 7th inning there seemed to be but little choice in predicting who would win, but the St. Peter club seemed to have lost their prestage and ran behind to the end of the game. After the playing was over the clubs with the band in front marched to town, first forming into line of two abreast, each couple composed of one of each club. The St. Peter were entertained at the Mankato and Clifton hotels, and in the evenidg a "hop" took place at Shoemaker's Hall. The following is the Teachers Institute.—According to previous announcement the Teachers Institute for Blue Earth county, under the direction of Superintendant Beatty, convened at the Union School building in the afternoon on Monday last. Forty-five teachers presented their names. This is a very gratifying exhibit as compared with the Institute of last year, when only twenty presented their names on the first day. On Tuesday the Institute numbered fifty-nine and on Wednesday sixty three teachers were enrolled Last year the entire school numbered but twenty three, while this season the class is almrst three times as large. Capt. Beatty has worked faithfully to bring out a greater interest in our educational matters, and the fruits of his labors are seen in the large attendance at his Institute. There are some twelve gentlemen in the class, the balance being mostly young ladies, though a few are married From a superficial view we should judge that a very fair degree of tallent will be developed before the close of the school, and that the best of results will ensue. Captain Beatty is so occupied with the outside labor of the Institute that he has employed assistance in the details of study and recitation. Rev. T. Marshall takes the reading class, and vocalizes one hour each morning. Mr. B. F. Jenness, principal of the Union School is the principal assistant of the Superintendent who takes charge of the recitations. A few more scholars will probably be added to the class. The superintendant desires us to say that the public are invited to attend the school, as it will be always open to visitors. The session convenes at ¼ before 9 o'clock A M and continues to 4 o'clock P M. Below we give the names of the teachers with their residences:

AN AUTUMN-SUGGESTION.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heats of summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, ere the inclement winter makes its trying onset; NOW is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicine in existence,

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Fever and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phase of the disease which at persent prevades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy (so called) is deadlier than the malady. But if quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given "Fever-and-Ague District" should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided every inhabitant would take the BITTERS according to directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken duly as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the officinal specifics and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fever. Vigor is the thing most needful in these cases, as well as in dyspepia and nervous affections, and are the safest, sursest, and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

—Go to Beebe's for photographs.

—Milch Cows and Calves for sale.

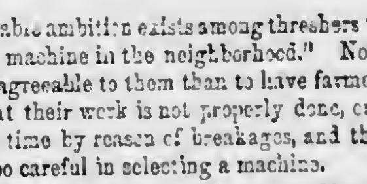
TWO STYLES OF HORSE POWERS.

The Improved "Carey" Power,
(Both eight and ten horse.)



THE "COMPENSATING" POWER,
(Both eight and ten horse.)

A laudable ambition exists among threshers to "own the best machine in the neighborhood." Nothing is more disagreeable to them than to have farmers complain that their work is not properly done, or to lose valuable time by reason of breakages, and they cannot be too careful in selecting a machine.

The Sweepstakes is the accredited head of the Threshing Machine family, and its superior strength, durability, simplicity, ease of draft, style of finish, and capacity for threshing and cleaning grain faster and better than any other machine, are acknowledged.

The great reputation achieved by this favorite machine has led several unscrupulous manufacturers, and numerous agents, to attach the name "SWEEPSTAKES," in one way and another, to their machines and advertisements to mislead and deceive.

This is the essence of meanness—downright piracy, and sailing under false colors. To avoid the counterfeit, see that every machine has the card, "C. AULTMAN & CO., MANUFACTURERS, Canton, Ohio," in gilt letters, conspicuously on both sides of the Separator.

The Genuine Sweepstakes enables the thresher to pick his customers, seldom stops for repairs, lasts much longer than others, saves much grumbling and vexation, does the same amount of work with less labor, and enables him to select the best and most profitable jobs.

The farmers give it a preference, and often an extra price per bushel, because it threshes clean from the heads, separates perfectly from the straw, cleans fit for market without waste, saves all the grain, does its work with the utmost speed, safety and economy, and they can keep a gang of men and teams about them no expense.

The elegant "Patent Pivot Side Gear" is to be found only on the SWEEPSTAKES.

Our "Patent Cleaning Apparatus" enables the operator to control the direction of the blast, and position of the seives, and clean either heavy or light grain, without waste, as fast as it can be threshed,—the chaff and dirt being separated from the grain before it strikes the seive at all.

Separators, Horse Powers, Straw Stackers, Gears or Jacks, sold separately, when desired. A written warranty delivered with every machine. The "SWEEPSTAKES" is usually a very scarce article after harvest, and parties should order early.

Call or send and get a pamphlet circular, giving a full description and particulars, together with numerous certificates, and the names and residence of over three thousand persons who have bought and used the SWEEPSTAKES in Illinois, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Kansas alone.

A Card to Invalids.

A Clergyman, while residing in South America as a missionary, discovered a safe and simple remedy for the cure of Nervous Weakness, Early Decay, Disease of the Urinary and Seminal Organs, and the whole train of disorders brought on by baneful and vicious habits. Great numbers have been already cured by this noble remedy. Prompted by a desire to benefit the afflicted and unfortunate, I will send the recipt for preparing and using this medicine, in a sealed envelope, to any one who needs it, Free of Charge

CONSUMPTION CURABLE BY DR. SCHENCK'S MEDICINES.

TO CURE CONSUMPTION, the system must be prepared so that the lungs will heal. To accomplish this, the liver and stomach must first be cleansed and an appetite created for good wholesome food, which, by these medicines will be digested properly, and good healthy blood made; thus building up the constitution. SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS cleanse the stomach of all billious or mucous accumulations; and, by using the Sea Weed Tonic in connection, the appetite is restored.

SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP is nutricious as well as medicinal, and, by using the three remedies, all impurities are expelled from the system, and good, wholesome blood made, which will repel all disease. If patients will take these medicines according to directions, Consumption very frequently in its last stage yields readily to their action. Take the pills frequently, to cleanse the liver and stomach. It does not follow that because the bowels are not costive they are not required, for sometimes in diarrhœa they are necessary. The stomach must be kept healthy, and an appetite created to allow the Pulmonic Syrup to act on the respiratory organs properly and allay any irritation. Then all that is required to perform a permanent cure is, to prevent taking cold. Exercise about the rooms as much as possible, eat all the richest food—fat meat, game, and, in fact, anything the appetite craves; but be particular and masticate well. [2nd w. ea. mo. 1 yr.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and RADICALLY.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps. Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the publishers,

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

We give below the resolutions adopted by the Republican State Convention, which met at St. Paul on the 11th inst:

Resolved, 1, That the Republican party of Minnesota holds itself a portion of the National Republican party, a party of national limits, a national record, and national purposes; whose past is crowned with the glory of preserving the nation, and its future charged with the duty of reconstructing and perpetuating it.

Resolved 2, That in such reconstruction, the true object is, as it was, in adopting the Constitution of the United States, "to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquillity, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty" to all the people of the United States.

Resolved 3, That we fully approve the reconstruction measures of Congress as wise, just, patriotic, and necessary to the further peace and well-being of our country.

Resolved 4. That President Johnson, in seeking to delay the establishment of civil government in the rebel States, prolongs the evils of their situation, baffles the expressed will of the people, and forces the acceptance of his repudiated policy of rewarding traitors for their treason by restoring every right and giving them additional political power, is an enemy to the peace and welfare of the country, and an impediment to the faithful execution of the laws.

Resolved 5. That although the burdens of taxation are necessarily heavier than ever before, yet, knowing that the national debt is the price of national existence, that breach of faith is national weakness, as well as a disgrace, and especially that one tenth part of the whole debt has already been paid in the two years next following its creation —we declare that repudiation of the national debt would be dishonorable, as the partisan clamor in that behalf is unreasonable and shameful:

Resolved, 6. That with the extinction of slavery, came the logical end of distinction of class and caste, and we therefore favor the awarding of the right of suffrage to our colored fellow citizens in accordance with the amendment to the Constitution now pending, and to be submited to the people at the coming election.

Resolved, 7. That the Republican party was formed for the preservation of the national life, and for the purpose of establishing equal liberty to all throughout the land; and that, while we, as a party, favor all movements tending to improve public morals, we are at the same time time convinced that the habits and customs of a people cannot be changed by prohibitory or sumptuary laws, and that the Legislature cannot interfere with such habits and customs without transcending the legitimate sphere of the legislative power.

Resolved, 8, That while we, as Republicans and citizens of Minnesota, solicitous for the good name and honor of our State, are unalterably opposed to the repudiation of any of our just indebtedness, we are opposed to the pending proposition for the payment of the Minnesota Railroad Bonds, so called, believing said propositions to involve taxation for whice we are not prepared, and an expenditure of the public money beyond any just obligations resting upon the State.

A FEARFUL DEATH.

From the London (Ontario) Free Press.

In the late fire which occurred at Oil Springs, resulting in the loss of the Hartford Oil Refinery, it was stated in this paper that a man lost his life, but it was not generally known then under what painful circumstances such loss of life occurred. This man was literally baked to death! He was, at the time of the fire, which took place at mid-day, cleaning out one of the stills. To effect this, he had to descend into the still by a small ladder which has to be drawn up to enable a man to go about his task. Whilst thus working, by some means through the pipe becoming disconnected under the hands of his fellow workman on the refinery, the oil ran out, and communicating with the fire, the whole mass was, in a moment, blazing. The man who escaped, endeavored to extricate his fellow; and succeeded in grasping his hand, but he was unable to retain his hold through the fierce flame which was rapidly surrounding him, and to save himself, was compelled to abandon his companion; in the meanwhile, being himself severely burned in his effort to rescue. Rushing through the flames, he escapes, and standing in the open air, only to hear, in common with the assembled neighbors, the hopeless cry for help which now and then rang above the roar of flaming oil from the fatal still which was to prove the terrible tomb in which, unscathed by flame, a living man was to grapple with the death heat, as hotter and hotter grew the iron, closer and more stifling the atmosphere, and more intense, though each time feebler, the attempt to draw breath, till at last the almost equally painful silence told the horror-stricken spectators, who stood powerless, that all was over, and that soon nothing but a blackened mass would remain of the man who not an hour before was in the prime of life and health. To add to their distress the wife of the dying sufferer hurried to the scene, but only to hear the last cry that came from that terrible tomb, and to be borne back again, stunned with her grief, to fold almost unconsciously within her arms four fatherless little ones. The poor man was subsequently found in an upright posture, leaning against the corner of the still, and though not touched by the fire, he was but a black, charred mass, whose clothes crumble away at the first touch, only to reveal the bare, burnt skeleton of the man Hutchinson.

HOW IT IS DONE.—A Kansas paper, alluding to the manner in which Indian agents accumulate a "pile", says:

"An Indian agent's salary is about $1,500. By being economical in the saving of his salary he manages to retire at the expiration of a four years' term with about $40,000, and in the meantime supports his family in a style that corresponds with the dignity of an official and the best government the sun ever shown upon." It is also added that a "superintendent who undertakes to say that an agent shall not make forty thousand dollars out of an income of six thousand dollars,' is apt to get himself into trouble. This state of things is eminently satisfactory—to the agent.

GOOD.—At a hotel, not a thousand miles from Minneiska, a facetious drummer told the waiter that he "would be her uncle" in exchange for a "good cup of tea," to which she quickly replied, that she would give him the tea, but to never mind about the uncle business, as she had mean relations enough, already.—Wabasha Herald.

Movement and Prices of Produce.

There seems to be a grand rush of produce, just now, to all the Western shipping points and trade centres; and, although the various lines of land and water transportation are working up to their full capacity, in drawing off supplies to the East, it is impossible to prevent a rapid accumulation. The receipts of grain at Chicago now average upwards of half a million bushels per diem, while at St. Louis, Cincinnati, Detroit, and Milwaukee, a similar condition of things exists. The cereal products of the West are in such abundance that they cannot be withheld or controlled by speculators, this season, and they must seek a market, moreover, in order to relieve the pressing pecuniary wants of that section.

Under these circumstances, of course, the tendency of prices is downward both for wheat and flour. The latter is relatively depressed, at present, as millers have forced their stocks on the market in anticipation of a heavy decline, which has thus been precipated. The new Spring wheat is just beginning to come forward, and values will soon be equaiized. There is no outlet for the breadstuff crops, this year, except to the Eastern markets; the South and Southwest are again self-supplying, and have changed from consumers to producers. Hence, a very brisk movement, in this direction, may be expected until the close of lake and river navigation and all the lines of railroad communication between the East and West will be well employed through the Fall and Winter.

The Eastern markets were very bare of supplies at the opening of the season, and will be able to absorb a large quantity of all kinds of cereals, to supply the wants of home consumption. But whether the East can take the whole surplus product of the West upon the basis of present values, is a question involving much doubt. It will require an immense amount of capital to do this; then there is the corn, the hog, and various minor crops yet to be provided for; and the accumulation of funds upon the seaboard has already been greatly depleted by drafts against heavy shipments of wool, etc.

To be sure, this drain upon the pecuniary resources of the East will, probably, in some measure be compensated for by Western purchases of dry goods, boots and shoes, and other products of our peculiar industry and commerce. But the prices of manufactured goods are now low as compared with those of agricultural staples, and our merchants and manufacturers are hardly turning a new dollar for an old one. Still the extent of our dealings with the West, this Fall, must depend very much upon the principle of reciprocity. We cannot afford to buy up its immense crops unless it will come forward and invest a liberal portion of the proceeds in such commodities as we have to sell. Unless domestic trade is good, and the home demand for produce is largely supplemented from abroad, we fear that our Chicago friends will hardly be able, this year, to control grain prices in all the markets of the country.—Boston Bulletin.

Divorce.

[From the New York Times.]

It was once supposed, that while it might be very easy to be fooled by the boy Cupid and he made as blind as he is, and to become subsequently entangled in the silken bonds of matrimony, there would always be no end of trouble in getting out again if the bargain did'nt suit. A lingering scrap of our College Virgil tells us facilis descensus into a scrape, sed, the bother of it is to get out again. A number of enterprising gentlemen of our city, who are in the law trade, seemed to have turned their special attention toward simplifying this business of getting out again, so far as the marriage question is concerned. We constantly observe the publication of notices to the following effect.

"Absolute divorces obtained from the courts of several States without publicity or fee till successful. Consultations free and strictly confidential."

"Absolute divorces obtained in any State. Drunkenness, desertion, neglect to support, sufficient cause. No fees untill divorce is obtained."

"Absolute divorces legally obtained in New York and States where desertion, &c., is sufficient cause,. No publicity or charge till divorce obtained."

Very many of these divorce suits are conducted in a manner so exceedingly confidential that one of the parties most interested is not informed of the proceeding at all, until astounded by the presentation of the decree. We are cognizant of a case wherein an estimable lady, innocent of all wrong, and ignorant even of any dissatisfaction on the part of her husband, parted with him affectionately at the steamboat dock as she started on a journey to see some friends, some hours after, in the privacy of her stateroom, she had leisure to examine a paper her husband had handed her at the last minute, and discovered it to be a copy of a decree of divorce rendered by an Illinoi Judge. Before the steamboat had been six hours gone her late husband had married another woman. Numbers of these confidential divorces are obtained for unworthy purposes by the most rascally means

The Des Moines Rapids.

The bids for the contract to build the National Canal around the Des Moines Rapids, on the Mississippi River, at Davenport, took place on Wednesday of this week. The number of bids reached twenty eight, and ranged from $2,200,000 the highest down to $711,000, the lowest. Mr. Hanighan & Son, of Mount Vernon, Ohio, are the successful bidders, being the lowest. At their bid the work will be done for considerable less money than the Government estimates. They commence immediately the job of removing the rock from the Rock Island Rapids, as the water has now sufficiently subsided to enable them to commence operations. They will use a ponderous chisel weighing 8,000 pounds which will be let drop from a height of thirty feet. In some experiments with it the other day it is reported that it penetrated the rock four feet in one blow. The statement is a little tough, unless the rock happened to be very soft at the point of concussion.

The work of excavating the canal will be commenced forthwith, and be pushed to completion with energy and celerity. This improvement will be of immense benefit to the navigation of the Mississippi river.

Over thirteen thousand acres of land were entered at the land office, in Omaha, on Tuesday.

—The country still feels the effect of President Johnson's "policy." Gold on Wednesday reached 145 5-8—a higher point than it has touched since the first week in November, 1866

FROM THE PLAINS.

OMAHA, August 22.

This city is flooded with all sorts of disreputable characters, the social evil predominating, coming principally from Chicago and St. Louis.

Track laying on the Union Pacific Railroad continues with unabated vigor.

Governor Butler reports that eleven men were killed, twenty-four head of horses stolen, and fifty-four farms deserted in consequence of the late Indian troubles on the Big Blue in the Southern part of the State.

Prof. Hayden, Government Geologist; leaves on Saturday to make a geological survey of Northern Nebraska.

The Salt Lake Vidette of the 10th and 11th pitches into Wells, Fargo & Co., heavily for non delivery of mails. A large amount of matter has accumulated along the road from Denver to Salt Lake. The Overland Company claim that it is impossible to transport the mails promptly unless the Government furnish better protection to the route.

ST. LOUIS, August 22.—The Gold Hill, Nevada, News of the 6th instant says that at 11 o'clock in the forenoon on the 3d instant the laborers on the summit tunnel on the Dutch Flat Railroad broke through the headings on the west end, and sixty four feet only remains. The great tunnell will be completed through the Sierra Nevada by the 20th instant.

Thirty Indians were seen at Junction, one hundred miles from Denver, on the 17th instant. Large fires were seen on Beaver Creek, and serious trouble is anticipated. The military authorities are arming all the citizens at Fort Sedgwick for the protection of the place.

The Denver News of the 17th says the cholera is raging among the Seminoles. There are twenty new cases every day.

WASHINGTON, August 22.—The following telegram was received this forenoon from Omaha:

Hon. N. G. Taylor, Commissioner of Indian Affairs:

I sent ten Indian runners yesterday from the North Platte with peace offerings to the hostile Indians' camps south of Platte. On the same day Spotted Tail, with 950 friendly Sioux, by consent of the Commissioner, started on a buffalo hunt. They went off well pleased, promising to meet the Commissioner at the North Platte.

Superintendent of Indian Affairs.

The Drowning of the Beecher Children.

From the Independent Sept. 5.

It is with a pang of sorrow that we chronicle the details of an accident to the Beecher family, which has already been briefly mentioned in the public press. One day last week, at Georgetown, Mass., a party of five young persons were sailing on Pentucket Pond, three of whom, by the sudden upsetting of the boat, were drowned. The deceased were Albert Lewis, aged 20, son of Dr. Edward Beecher, of Galesburg, Ill., and Harriet Edith, aged 13, and Esther Lyman, aged 15, daughters of Rev. Charles Beecher, of Georgetown. The other two persons in the boat, whose lives were saved, were Eugene F., son of Dr. Edward Beecher, and graduate of the last class at Yale; and Lockwood Coffin, a cousin of the Beechers. In a letter from the Rev. Charles Beecher to the editor of the Independent—a letter not intended for publication, but from which we feel warranted in making a few extracts—he says: "We had been expecting the cousins for some weeks. Esther and Albert had never met, but had corresponded for a year past. They came late on Monday evening; and we had one social evening. The next morning, after family prayers, I had to write, and could not go to the pond, as I usually do, with the young folks. They all set off in high spirits—five cousins; and sailed till noon up and down Pentucket Pond—which is about a mile long and half a mile wide. They had a flat bottomed boat, with a center board and quite a large sail. As they were tacking for a last sail up the pond, a flaw struck the sail and threw it across the boat, causing the children to fall to the other side. The boat filled and sunk to the water's edge.

They all held on, and were not alarmed, thinking they would drift ashore—only about 250 feet. But suddenly the mast floated out, and the boat turned entirely over. [That is, we presume, bottom-side up.—ED. INDEPENDENT.] All were thrown off except Lockwood Coffin, who got on the boat. Eugene swam part way to shore, and was caught by the wrist, just as he was going down. The others soon sank. A daughter of Mr. Coffin, Hattie's playmate, promised her father, as they started, that she would not go in the boat if they sailed. She accordingly staid on the shore, and saw the whole. When the alarm was given, and the people began to come, she came home—about a mile—and told us. We went up; but alas! all was over. The dark waters covered their secrets. Men were diving and grappling, but it was three hours before the bodies were found."

We venture, also, to copy from our friends letter these pathetic words:

"O how sweet, how lovely those children looked—dressed in their favorite attire, and covered with flowers! They were not dead, but sleeping!

"They are all three lying side by side in our pretty graveyard, just in sight from our door, and from the croquet ground where we used to play.

"It is wonderful. It is like a sudden stroke of thunder. Yet, in the midst of tears, and with a sword piercing through our hearts, we are not unhappy; Heaven is near—heaven is here!"

We may add to these touching particulars that Albert was a member of his father's church at Galesburg; Esther, of her father's church at Georgetown; and Harriet was soon to have united with the latter; but her first communion is elsewhere.

How to Propose.

A party of ladies and gentlemen were laughing over the supposed awkwardness attending a declaration of love, when a gentleman remarked that, whenever he offered himself, he would do it in a collected and business like manner.

"For instance," he continued, addressing a young lady present, "Miss Smith, I have been two years looking for a wife. I am in receipt of three thousand dollars a year, which is on the increase. Of all the ladies of my acquaintance, I admire you the most; indeed, I love you, and would gladly make you my wife."

"You flatter me by your preference," good humoredly responded Miss Smith, to the surprise of all present, "I refer you to my father."

"Bravo!" exclaimed the gentlemen.

"Well, I declare!" said the ladies, in a chorus.

The lady and gentleman, good reader, were married soon after. Wasn't that a modest way of "coming to the point," and ladylike method of taking a man at his word?

A lady was telling a young man of a child a few weeks old whose grandmother was only thirty-eight years old. The young man replied that that was nothing. He knew a young lady whose grandchildren were not born yet.

PROCLAMATION EXPLAINED.

A Washington dispatch says prominent Republicans believe that the proclamation of last week on the civil supremacy, and the pardon manifesto, are parts of a deeplaid plan to allow the excluded classes to vote without openly annulling the reconstruction law. In the first proclamation the President quotes the Constitution, and warns all persons against violating the law. In the last proclamation he restores the certain excluded classes to political rights, and when they attempt to vote, those who oppose or exclude them become violators of the law, as the President understands it, and he will then be called on to protect excluded parties in their rights, and use all the power at his command under the civil supremacy proclamation. If the district commanders then refuse to obey his orders he will remove them. Congress has given no protection to registrars, and as they are civil officers of the United States it is contended that the President can remove them and direct the appointment of others who will do his work."

Handkerchief Flirtations.

The following instructs in the art of flirting by means of the handkerchief:

Drawing across the lips—desirous of getting acquainted; drawing across the eyes—I am sorry; dropping—we will be friends; twirling in both hands—indifference; drawing across the cheek—I love you; drawing through the hands—I hate you; letting it rest on the right cheek—yes; letting it rest on the left cheek—no; twirling in right hand—I love another; folding it—I wish to speak with you; over the shoulder—follow me; opposite corners in both hands—wait for me; drawing across the forehead—we are watched; placing on right ear—you have changed; placing on left ear—I have a message for you; letting it remain on the eyes—you are cruel; winding round the forefinger—I am engaged, winding round the third finger—I am married.

☞SERVANTGALDOM in Troy, N. Y., has showed its good sense by holding a monster mass meeting to protest against any further demand for money to aid the Fenain cause.

We presume the Biddies found themselves invariably vanquished by superior force of blarney whenever they attempted to remonstrate in private with their Fenian admirers against this assault upon their feeble purses, and so were compelled to come together in force and strengthen each others' hands by strong public resolutions.

The Fenian war has proved so barren of results that these poor girls may well begin to inquire what has become of their hard earnings, so liberally contributed to the cause, and to question the propriety of invading Ireland via Canada.—Chicago Post.

The Election in Maine.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.

A World Bangor (Maine) special says the result of the election yesterday in Maine astonished both parties. The immense Republican majority last year, which was 28,000, has nearly if not entirely been overcome. It will take some days to decide certainly whether the Radical candidate for Governor is elected. The counties of York, Knox, Lincoln, Washington and Aroostook have certainly been gained by the Democrats, and others are in doubt.

Indian Commission

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.

An Omaha dispatch says the Indian Commission arrived there yesterday, and will start for Fort Laramie in a day or two. Commissioner Taylor arrived from Washington, and joined the party.

The Herald's Boston special says that Roxbury has been declared annexed to Boston by votes of citizens of both places by a decided majority on a very light vote, favoring the proposition. By this accession Boston gains 30,000 more of population, and becomes the fourth city in the Union instead of the sixth as formerly. She is now next in population to our suburb, Brooklyn.

—The earnings of the Atlantic cable during the past year are reported at $1,600,000 in gold, of which sum the Newfoundland line received $500,000 in gold as its share. Ocean telegraphing evidently pays; but before long the cable company will have plenty of rivals—and the more there are the better will it be for the public.

STATE CONVENTION.

The State Republican Convention which was held at St. Paul on the 11th inst. as we predicted, renominated Gov. Marshall, Lieut. Governor Armstrong and H. C. Rogers Secretary of State. For State Treasurer Emil Munch, the present Deputy Treasurer, a German, and crippled soldier was nominated, after the first ballot. Mr. J. T. Williams of our delegation nominated H. P. Christenson of Mankato who received 40 votes. While the vote was certainly a compliment to Mr. Christenson it is also true that his name was never mentioned for the office, to our knowledge, until the sitting of the convention, and as Mr. DuBuisson was known to be favorable to Mr. Munch it was thought the other delegates would not offer any resistance. There were three candidates in the field for Attorney General. Samuel Lord, of Dodge county received 43 votes, H. L. Gordon, of Wright county 22, and F. R. E. Cornell, of Hennepin 70. Mr. Cornell receiving the highest number of votes was declared the nominee.

In the contest for Governor, Hon. C. D. Gilfillan withdrew before the assembling of the convention, knowing that Governor Marshall had an overwhelming majority of the delegates. J. T. Williams of this place, however, probably to show the strength of the opposition, nominated Hon. W. H. Folsom of Chisago, Marshall receiving 119 votes, and Folsom 24. For Lieut. Gov., Armstrong received 78 votes, N. F. Teft of Plainview 41, scattering 20. Rogers' nomination was made by acclamation. The Governor upon being nominated, appeared in the convention and delivered a brief address which is published elsewhere. The resolutions adopted will be found on the first page. The following gentlemen were appointed a central committee for the coming year.

Levi Nutting, Rice.
J. B. Wakefield, Blue Earth.
G. H. Keith, Hennepin.
Fred. Driscoll, Ramsey.
Fred. Luhrsen, "
J. B. Crooker, Steele.
O. P. Stearns, Olmsted,
L. W. Collins, Stearns.
J. H. Brown, Scott.

GUBERNATORIAL NOMINATION.

In the discussion of the bond question we stated it to be our conviction that Governor Marshall was in favor of the bond proposition which is to be submitted to the people at the coming election. Opposing the proposition, we also opposed the nomination of any man for Governor who was favorably inclined toward it. We suggested that the party should commit itself upon the question, by inserting a resolution in the platform declaring against its ratification by the people. This victory was achieved in the convention, and the warm work of the anti-bond journals has smoked out the Governor and separated him from the bond swindlers. In his speech accepting the nomination, he repudiates all sympathy with the proposition, and expresses himself in favor of an equitable adjustment, upon the basis of value received by the State. The value received is simply the grading of the road beds, and therefore his position is now the same that we have advocated during the discussion. It being thus defined, nothing remains for us to do, but to give a hearty support to his renomination as an avowed enemy of those sharks who would unjustly saddle the full payment of these bonds upon the people.

There are also other considerations aside from this issue, which should prompt every republican to stand by his colors. These are plainly stated in the Governor's address, to which the attention of our readers is invited. A policy for the reconstruction of the rebel States has been inaugurated by Congress and received the endorsement of the people. The President is determined to crush their efforts and bring rebels into power. The moral effect of a defeat this fall will be to give a new impetus to his schemes, and demoralize the party at the Presidential campaign of 1868, which will soon be upon us. The election this fall is also an election for a United States Senator, as each State senator chosen, will cast a vote in favor of some one to fill the position now held by Gov. Ramsey. The policies of the republicans as a national, liberty loving party, cannot be fully vindicated short of another Presidential triumph. Let the people, then, rally again, disperse local and personal feuds, and vindicate their principles by an overwhelming vote which will quench the fires of treason, north and south, forever.

THE SEVENTH RESOLUTION.

Our readers will observe that the seventh resolution of our platform contains a clause, committing the party to the proposition, that the habits and customs of a people cannot be changed by prohibitory or sumptuary laws, and that the legislature cannot interfere with such habits or customs without transcending the legitimate sphere of the legislative power. Practically it may mean that the habits of cannibals who eat the flesh of men should not be restrained; or that the habits of Morman polygamy are beyond the power of legislative control, or the habits of the Indies who sacrifice the lives of their children by throwing them under the great juggernot wheels, or into the river, should not be interrupted by legislation, should such persons come to America in search of homes. The intention doubtless was to declare that the prohibition of liquor making and vending by legal enactments has not been and is not now the mission of the republican party. Every republican, whether a Good Templar or not, was willing the party should simply decline to be the champion of liquor prohibition. But unluckily this plank in the platform, it is said, was not considered by the committee on resolutions, but was offered in open convention, after many of the delegates had left, and those remaining simply understood it as a refusal to bring the liquor question into politics. Mr. Grant, of St. Paul, a prominent officer in the lodge of Good Templars, has issued a call for the moral and temperate people of the State to meet in mass convention, on Tuesday next, at Rochester, to consider the "situation." By him and his coadjutors the resolution is esteemed an insult to the friends of temperance and religion We certainly have no objection to that class of our citizens meeting in convention for consultation and action, but we do object to a democrat under the grab of moral promptings, trying to beat the republican party. The call for this convention is issued by a democrat, was printed by a democratic paper, the St. Paul Pioneer, and thousands of circulars of the same import are being printed at the same office, and are presumed to be paid for by the DEMOCRATIC CENTRAL COMMITTEE! The democracy think they have an entering wedge with which to split the republican party asunder. To the opponents of the resolution we suggest that a protest against it and a declaration of views upon this question, would be the only consistant and safe course to pursue, for 'twere better to bear the ills we have, than flee to those we know not of. To break ranks and join the enemy will avail nothing, while to vote the ticket under protest, gives you the opportunity of pressing on the great cause of human liberty and equal rights.

GRATIFYING.

In the anti-bond contest the UNION was among the first of the State to wage war against the proposition to be submitted to the people, for the payment of the bogus railroad bonds. In doing so we were prompted by the honest belief that the proposition would, if adopted, be the means of forcing the State into a full payment of these bonds. When the convention of republican delegates assembled, it transpired that the party were harmonious in their views upon this question, and that the position of the UNION was the exact position of the party. Whether the UNION had led off in the discussion, and therefore aided in forming these opinions, or whether it simply expressed and reflected public sentiment it is needless to determine, but it is gratifying to us to know that a similarity of views existed. Our State delegation who attended the State convention and the delegates from Watonwan also, worked faithfully to the end, in enforcing their views upon the convention, and succeeded in inserting a pank in the republican platform declaring against the proposition. Consistent with their position, they also opposed the renomination of the present Governor, understanding him to be in favor of the Legislative proposition. After the resolutions had been adopted, however, the Governor, after his renomination, in a speech before the convention, declared himself opposed to it. Our delegates deserve credit for standing with unbroken front in the face of the bondholders, and making their demands heard. We should hail with pleasure the day when, upon all subjects of public interest, Blue Earth county republicans, with those of Watonwan, shall work with like concentration, harmony and strength.

TOM. RUTLEDGE IN WATONWAN.

For the Union.

Our old neighbor Thomas Rutledge has received the Democratic nomination for Representative, and is just now pluming his feathers on an ideal winter spent in St. Paul at the expense of the dear people. The picture he holds up to his overcharged imagination is only ideal—a delusive phantom of hope which he will never realize.

The Record says Tom. was a soldier and served in the 11th Infantry as a private. This is a mistake, in part, which Tom. says must be corrected. He was a Corporal, and wont stand it to have his rank entirely ignored. That is right, Tom., stick to your stripes, (even if they run down your back,) and do not let the Editor of the Record be too wise for you.

Tom., the Corporal, is usually very slick at getting around little questions affecting the populace, and appearing on the popular side. He is up to this "pig pup" game so much that his friends have afore time called him the "little dodger." But the temperance question heads him off and he finds himself placed in a dilemma, either horn of which is rather thorny for his oily nature.

Last winter Tom., the Corporal, circulated a petition urging the enactment of stringent Liquor Laws—he is also a member of the Good Templars—and at this writing is the Worthy Chief of that excellent order.

Tom. has delivered some temperance addresses in which he gave the Liquor dealing and drinking men some pretty hard licks.

On the other hand Tom. finds himself the candidate of the very men whom he has virulently abused—the candidate of the party whose very power is whiskey and immorality. More than this Tom's party have resolved that they were opposed to all of Tom's avowed and "petitioned" liquor laws. Thus the "little dodger," for once, finds himself in a trap.

If he plays off on those whom he has taught not to "tuch" the intoxicating cup—they will not vote for him, and if he adheres to his sworn obligation, his party friends will not vote for him. Under these circumstances Tom. is very much exercised, and is not a man of principle enough to come out and say what he will do. LIBERAL.

ANSWER TO "PERTINENT INQUIRY."

MANKATO, Sept. 17, 1867.

EDITOR OF THE UNION:—In your issue of the 13th inst., "A member of the Agricultural Society," seems greatly surprised that a premium is to be awarded to the best Base Ball players at the coming county Fair.

A word of explanation may, perhaps, satisfy "a member" that the encouragement of "gymnastic performances", was not the object sought in offering such a premium. It is well known that an Agricultural Society cannot succeed unless some way is devised by which its pecuniary necessities are satisfied. A failure in this respect, is sure to bring a death blow to the Society. Until the farmers of our county make our fairs attractive enough to pay the expenses, by exhibiting their articles of manufacture, vegetable productions, and fine animals, some way must be devised to pay the obligations of the Society or else it must perish for want of support. In a newly organized frontier county, it cannot be expected that every person who receives a premium, will find it a full compensation for his time or expense. The indirect benefit derived from fairs is too well known for me to occupy space in setting it forth here. We cannot induce people to attend fairs unless there is something attractive. Fine vegetables suit one, fine animals another, while others are pleased with manufactured articles, trotting horses, ladies riding, fine music or even Base Ball. For instance, Mr Wallace, who has purchased the exclusive right to sell refreshments upon the fair grounds during fair time, pays $25 00 for such right, but absolutely refused to pay one cent, unless Base Ball and the attendance of the Mankato Brass Band was a part of the programme at the coming fair. So we lose nothing pecuniarily, and if the fair is thus made any more attractive the Society gains thereby. There is nothing immoral in Base Ball, though a "heavy nine" may think it a rather fatiguing "gymnastic performance." While "a member" finds fault with Base Ball I would like to know what he thinks of paying premiums for driving horses and ladies horseback riding. For years he has witnessed these things at our County Fairs and never raised his warning voice against them, although they are no more "in keeping with the interest of the Society" than Base Ball. Some people think dancing a very fine social amusement, and will go through more "gymnastic performances" than a Base Ball player ever dreamed of, and yet say Base Ball playing is childish and foolish. I am not the special champion of Base Ball, but as long as horse racing and equestrianship are encouraged by premiums at our fairs, I shall contend that Base Ball playing is equally as meritorious, and that in affording opportunities for physical culture and sociability, it has at least something to recommend it. We need the aid, sympathy and encouragement of all organizations and all classes of people in our efforts to place the Blue Earth County Fair upon an enduring basis, and especially do we want harmony among the members of the society. Discord is the road to ruin. Though not a farmer, I have been a member of the Society since its organization in 1859, and have earnestly worked for its success, and I regret to see any effort of a discouraging nature. If there are errors this year, they can be corrected another season. Blue Earth county is among the few counties in this State that has enterprise enough in it to have a county fair at all. The fair this year ought to be made a perfect success. If there are somethings distasteful to a few, it is no unusual matter, and should not deter any person who has anything worthy of exhibition, from carrying it to the fair.

Very respectfully,
DANIEL BUCK,
Cor. Sec'y.

GOV. MARSHALL'S ADDRESS BEFORE THE REPUBLICAN CONVENTION, SEPT. 11th, 1867.

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention:

I am deeply grateful to you, and the Republican party which you represent, for this renewed expression of your confidence.

In accepting your nomination, I pledge you that the trust which by your generous nomination for the highest office in the State, you repose in me, shall not be betrayed, nor your just expectations of my fidelity to the interests of the people be disappointed.

I have not been particularly informed in regard to the declaration of principles which you put forth as the platform of the party in this canvass. I trust it is such as all sincere Republicans can accept.

I understand that one question of local and State policy is referred to—the question of the State railroad bonds.

As there has been much misrepresentation and popular misapprehension of my position on this question, it is due to you, and myself, that I should state my views on this question.

Briefly, then, I was an original and earnest opponent of the five million loan bill. I believed it would prove a failure, and entail upon the State an embarrassing debt. I did what I could to arrest the evils of the measure. I have, therefore, no responsiblity for those evils.

After the adoption of the five million loan proposition, and the issue of the bonds under it, I have believed that there was no escape, without public dishonor, from paying on the bonds the just value of what the State received under its foreclosure of mortgage.

I have never believed it necessary to pay the bonds in full, principal and interest. I have never in public or private advocated or favored payment in full.

The recommendation on this subject in my last message, contemplated providing a sinking fund from lands, that I believed would otherwise be lost to the people, so that the people might be saved from taxation whenever an equitable adjustment of the bonds should be arrived at. My object was to avoid taxation if possible; to pay what the State does justly owe on the bonds.

I have believed that we should do substantially what the State of Michigan did with a suspended debt similar to ours.

Michigan thirty years ago issued five million dollars of bonds to aid internal improvements. The State received from the parties to whom the bonds were entrusted for sale, about one and a quarter million dollars. The parties failed before paying the State the balance due. After years of delay Michigan finally settled with the bondholders by paying for what the State received, and the bondholders gave originally about thirty cents on a dollar.

While the exceptional state of the public mind regarding this bond question has justified you in referring to it, and while the party is expected to guard well the interests of the people, and wisely administer the affairs of the State, we do not forget that the Republican party is a national party, and its mission a great national work. I doubt not you affirm in the platform the just principles of the party.

I believe there has been no time since the close of the war, more critical and fraught with danger to the national cause than the present.

A President recreant to the party and principles by which he was chosen, has leagued himself with unrepentant traitors, who, as Mr. Toombs has recently said, are ready to renew the struggle for the lost cause—and these, combined with the Democratic party in the North, that as a party aided and abetted the rebellion and tried to make the war a failure, are now attempting to defeat the work of reconstruction so well devised by the representatives of the people, and so well begun under the guidance of Sheridan and Pope, and other faithful commanders of the military districts in the South.

It is the demand of the hour that the great Union party that saved the Nation, shall stand firm and united—a bulwark of defence against this attempt to recover the lost cause of secession and rebellion.

If the Presidential Obstacle shall stand in the way of just and righteous reconstruction, he should and will be removed.

As General Grant, in his recent protest to the President, tersely expresses it:

"This is a Republic, where the will of the people is the law of the land."

Woe be to him who persistently stands in the way of the execution of the will of the people.

Then, Republicans of Minnesota, let us forget all personal rivalries and jealousies—forget all local and transient differences and divisions, and with harmony and unity advance again to victory, that our party may in the future, as in the past, through just and wise policies and laws, faithfully administered, continue to sway the destinies of this noble young State, and do our part in this great work of establishing the nation on the pure foundation of truth and justice.

Immediately after the close of Gov. Marshall's remarks the Convention adjourned amid great enthusiasm, and with three rousing cheers for the ticket.

The Herald's Panama correspondence says: The Colombia Congress, it is stated, has extended the Panama Railroad Company's franchise for 99 years, for the consideration of a million dollars cash in gold, and the annual payment of a quarter million dollars from date. Francisco Cruse had attempted a revolution in Guatemala, but it was speedily suppressed. He was captured and immediately shot.

—Kavanagh, Democrat, is elected delegate to Congress from Montana by 1,300 majority. The Legislature is almost unanimously Democratic.

CAPT. DAVY'S MONTANA EXPEDITION.—Mr. E. G. Rogers informs us that Davy's expedition was at Fort Buford on the 23d ult They were to resume their journey on the 24th, having laid over one day at Fort Buford. The party was doing well, and everything was harmonious.—Press Sept. 12.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - SEPTEMBER 20, 1867.

WANTED.—A clerk in a dry goods store—an American—acquainted with the business described. Apply immediatly at this office. Sept. 19, 1867.

—See Stidle's theater notice in an other column.

—See the notice elsewhere of Miss Hannah Tyner who is prepared to do ornamental hair work.

—By mistake the time for holding the school examintions at Winnebago Agency was not announced in the superintendent's notice.—It takes place on Monday the 23d inst.

ONIONS.—We are under obligations to Dr. Benjamin Durkee for a sample of onions raised from the seed, many of which would measure five inches in diameter.

SOMETHING NEW.—Griebel Brothers are now receiving their fall stock of boots and shoes which comprises the newest and prettiest styles. In rubbers they have a full line including ladies' and gents' rubber boots which were so much inquired for last spring.

MINNESOTA APPLES.—We received a call last week from Mr. T. Moses who brought with him two apples, which he raised on the farm of J. S. Little, which is located on the Mankato and St. Peter road, about five miles from the former place. The tree bore this year a half bushel of hardy winter apples. We should judge the variety to be Genitan, or something very near to it. They were of good size and flavor, and appear in every way as good as the imported fruit.

ALWAYS GET THE BEST.—Especially in getting Saleratus—as the best costs but a trifle for a year's supply, and that the good costs but a trife more than the poor. The best goes farther than the poor, and much more healthy. We can recommend the Best Chemical Saleratus to be the best.

EARLY CORN.—Mr. A. P. Davis of Lake Washington, left us a sample of Minnesota dent corn which he says was fully matured before the frost. He had two kinds, one a yellow and the other a white dent. He says the white yields much the best, and if properly cultivated will always escape the frost. His method is to go through the field each year, and pluck the ripest ears for seed, and by so doing you get that which ripens earliest. The theory seems quite plausible.

MARRIED.—Our young friend of the "ribbin" fraternity, Mr. Byron E. Pay, of this city, stepped into matrimonial bliss last week without a shudder or a thought of consequences. We were somewhat surprised that he did not tell us what he was about to do. Probably the reason was that we are in the habit of telling all we know "and more too," and he would therefore keep his own secrets. Appreciating the best treat the office could have, he sent in a basket of luscious apples, which all hands and wife and baby partook of, with thanks to the donor.

JACKSONVILLE MACHINE WORKS.—Elsewhere we publish the card of Samuel L. Graves manufacturer of wool carding machinery at Jacksonville Illinois. If we are not mistaken we recognize in this gentleman an early acquaintance who formerly lived at our old home, Quincy, in the same State. If this be so, we heartily extend our gratulations upon his business relations and prosperity. We notice that he is engaged not only in manufacturing wool carding machinery, but also keeps a general assortment of that class of material.

JURORS.—In the list of petit jurors drawn for the October term of the United States Circuit Court to be held at St. Paul on the 21st of October next, we find the following names from this locality: Daniel Tyner and Geo. A. Clarke of Mankato, Geo. S. Heaton of Garden City, John G. Rudolph of New Ulm, and Samuel Mc Phail of Redwood.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. J. M. Pryse will preach at the Methodist church next Sabbath, supplying the place of Rev. D. Tice, who is attending the annual Conference at Rochester. His subject in the morning will be, "The public mission of the Christian Church in the world, and her relations to the civil Governments of the earth." The evening subject will be, "Do the scriptures of the Old and New Testaments teach the doctrine that all mankind will be finally and unconditionally saved, or rendered happy?"

REMOVED.—Mrs. A. M. Sanderson has removed her millinery and dress making establishment from Drew's furniture store, to the building nearly opposite, lately occupied by Milnor's grocery store.

ANOTHER BOOK STORE.—Mr. John Hazen has ordered a stock of books and stationery with musical merchandise, and will open a store in Drew's building about a week hence.

BASE BALL AGAIN.—The first nine of the Minneinneopa Base Ball Club, of Mankato, consisting of young lads between the ages of 14 and 20 years, have sent a challenge to the Young America Club of Owatonna, which has been accepted, the game taking place yesterday at Owatonna. The boys chartered the Blue Bird and started for their destination early Wednesday morning. If they don't find themselves rowing up salt river on their return, we shall be highly gratified. It is certainly a marked feature in this Young American age to see a troupe of boys traveling a hundred miles by team to play a game of base ball. As they will doubtless return dead broke, we hope there will be no heads or fingers broke. In short we wish them a jolly success or a "happy new year" or "any other man." The names of the youthful adventurers are as follows: James Thorston captain, Major Burke, Joseph McMahan, Charlie McMahan, Henry Vaughn, Delos Vaughn, Olin Lalllin, John Brink, Julius Dawley and Henry Smith. Captain E. Howe, of this place, accompanied them, and acted as umpire. Had we telegraphic facilities, we could have announced the result in this issue, but under the circumstances it was scarcely possible.

Richard Himself Again.

LONG MAY HE WAVE.

PLOW FACTORY.—Mankato is becoming quite a point for the manufacture of plows. The firm of Mohr & Dauber are making a very fine hardened cast steel plow at their shop on Maine Street, and in another column will be found their advertisement, to which our readers are referred. They are giving first rate satisfaction to all who purchase of them and the demand is becoming so great that they are now building a large brick factory to supply their increasing patronage. They are also making arrangements to manufacture breaking and shovel plows, and cultivators. Their shop is on Maine street and near the levee. We bespeak for them a full share of business and trust the farmers in need of such implements will take pains to examine them.

TO ARRIVE.—Fifty (50) barrels sound, select, hand picked, apples, warranted best in market. This fruit will be in Sept. 19th or 20th and must be sold.

Parties wanting apples will please give me a call before buying elsewhere. Apples $6,00 to $7,50. J. F. WALLACE.

Front St. Mankato.

SYNOD.—The Prebyterian synod, will commence in this city at the Presbyterian Church on Thursday evening next, and continue over the Sabbath.

NEW SHOE SHOP AND STORE.—Mr. Leo Lamm of the brick block, Lower Town, has leased the rooms formerly occupied by Mrs. Potts, opposite the Clifton House, and has opened a shoe shop and store. Thomas Jenkins is in charge. Mr. Lamm will soon fill it with new goods of the latest styles.

PLUMS.—We are under obligations to Mrs. Jacob Copp, of this place, for a nice pail full of plums, which were very acceptable. Our thanks are also due to the same lady for a supply of horse-radish for our jar of mangos.

SPRING BED.—We have seen the Molden spring bed, at Drew's furniture store, and it seems to be the simplest and cheapest, as well as the best spring bottom bed offered to the public. The springs can be easily adjusted to any bed with but little expense. Call and see them.

BUFFALO HUNT.—We are informed that a party is to be formed at Red Wood for the purpose of a general buffalo hunt to take place as soon as the party is concentrated at that point. It is said that there are large herds of these animals within seventy five miles of Red Wood, and the party anticipate a lively time. Mr. J. H. Smith, father of Maj. E. H. Smith, Jerome Hollenbeck, and Mr. Rich of this place, and perhaps some others will join in the chase and expect to leave here in time to arrive at Red Wood by the 25th inst., at which time they will start for the prairies.

DEMOCRATIC SPEAKING.—We notice by a schedule of appointments, published in the Pioneer, that Mr. R. A. Jones, the renegade "Andy Johnson policy" candidate for Congress, who ran against Mr. Windom last fall is still alive. He is announced to "orate" at Mankato on Monday evening next.

STEAMBOAT ARRIVALS.—The Otter arrived from St. Paul on Saturday evening last. In the evening the Ariel came in heavily loaded. She returned to St. Peter, where Mankato freight had accumulated and brought the balance on Tuesday evening. She is now making tri-weekly trips as a freight boat between the railroad terminus and Mankato.

SCHOOL LAND SALES.—We direct the attention of those interested in the purchase of lands, to the notice published elsewhere which offers for sale some of the best lands in seven different townships in Blue Earth county. The sale takes place at the treasurer's office in Mankato, on the 31st day of October next.

FERRY.—The free ferry across the Minnesota river is now in prime running order for teams and foot passengers. This affords excellent facilities for people living in Nicollet county to bring their produce to the Mankato market.

WINONA & ST. PETER.—We call attention to the change in the time card of the Winona & St Peter railroad, to be found in another column. The stages leave this place early in the morning, and connect at Waseca with the morning train. The through trip to Chicago is now made with ease on this route in twenty-four hours.

RECONSTRUCTION RATIFIED.—P. F. Milnor dealer in groceries flour and feed, having completed his new and commodious store room on Front street between Jackson and Cherry, opposite L. L. & O. H. Davis' hardware store, where he will continue his former business of buying and selling grain, flour and feed, is now prepared to supply his former numerous customers with the best brands of flour manufactured by the Mankato City mills, Red Jacket, Rapidan, and others in Blue Earth County. He would also return thanks to the citizens of Mankato and County for their liberal patronage heretofore and would solicit a share and continuation of the same. He intends purchasing a new and complete stock of groceries, green and dried fruits, confectionaries &c.

OUR COUNTY FAIR.—Next week Thursday is the opening day of the Blue Earth County Fair which is to be held at Garden City. The importance of sustaining this institution has long since been conceded, and we trust that the farmers, and mechanics, and artisans will contribute liberally to that end by entering their best samples of production for exhibition. The executive committee have spared no pains in making the fair attractive, and have made the premiums as large as the income of the fair will probably justify. Maj. A. C. Woolfolk of this city will deliver the annual address. He is a gentleman of rare ability, a fluent speaker, and quite conversant with the subject of agriculture. As there will be no other fair held at the same time in the State, ours will attract from abroad many interesting features which help to entertain and instruct. The base ball contest will create no little interest, while the side shows which have promised to be there will be worth seeing. This much to those who wish a few days of recreation. We wish however to urge more especially upon our people the necessity and utility of bringing out for comparison and exhibition the substantial products of the country.

POSTPONED ONE WEEK.—The school trustees find that it will be impracticable to commence school at the time designated, and have therefore postponed the opening day until Monday September 30th. The paint is not thoroughly dry, and some time will yet be required to put in the seats. Eleven teachers are to be employed, and most of them are yet to be selected.

AN EDITOR NOMINATED.—We notice from the last issue of the Wilton News that James E. Childs Esq., the editor of that paper, has been nominated by the republicans of Waseca county, as a candidate for the lower branch of the legislature. If Mr. Child can acquit himself as well in the halls of legislation, as he does with the pen editorial, the people of Waseca will be ably represented.

TEACHER'S INSTITUTE.—Below we give the names of teachers who have joined the Institute since our last issue, the entire school numbering EIGHTY-THREE.

Hugh Jones Judson, Geo. Anderson Mrs. H. M. Braden Ella White and Julia Smith of Mankato, Emma Lewis Emma Weston and Anna Getty of McPherson, Nettie Cram Kate Marston and Miss L. Young of Garden City, Edward Thomas South Bend, Miss M. T. Shepard Waseca Co., Mrs. Sarah E. Taylor St. Peter, Miss Belle Duncanson Sterling, M. L. Lambie Danville, H. Libbie Miller Shelby, Mary Webster Madelia, Mary E. Rowland Butternut Valley.

The Institute closes its sessions to-night, but we are not able this week to give results.

MR. DUNNELL'S LECTURE.—The Blue Earth County Teachers Institute, consisting of about eighty scholars, was addressed by Hon. Mark. H. Dunnell, the State Superintendent, on Tuesday evening last, at Higgins' Hall. Quite a number of citizens were present, who, with the teachers swelled the audience to a full house. The lecture was confined to practical views upon teaching—the preparation of the teacher, his introduction to the school room and to his scholars, the methods of acquiring control of pupils, and the necessity of fully understanding the lesson in advance of the pupils, regardless of text books or keys. Many of his suggestions were very good, and were listened to with marked attention. A series of resolutions were offered by Maj. G. K. Cleveland, which were unanimously adopted, and are as follows:

Whereas, The Trustees of the village of Mankato, were authorized by a law, approved February 15th, 1867, to issue Bonds to the amount of $5,000 to aid in establishing the Second Normal School at the said village of Mankato, and

Whereas, It is provided by the law afore said that the Auditor of Blue Earth County shall include in the tax for the year 1867, the amount necessary to pay the aforesaid Bonds, and the interest thereon, therefore

Resolved, That the village Trustees of the village of Mankato are hereby urged and entreated to carry out immediately the provisions of said law, since any delay may prove fatal to the establishment of the Second State Normal School at Mankato.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the people of Blue Earth county at large feel a deep interest in the establishment of the Second State Normal School, and the county Commissioners of said County are hereby solicited to contribute not less than two thousand dollars to aid the Village of Mankato in meeting the indebtedness upon said Bonds.

AN AUTUMN SUGGESTION.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heats of summer, begins to wilt and droop now, ere the inclement winter makes its trying onset: NOW is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicine in existence,

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

FEVER and Ague is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phase of the disease which at present prevades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy (so-called) is deadlier than the malady. But if quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given "Fever-and-Ague District" should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided every inhabitant would take the BITTERS according to directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken duly as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the officinal specifics and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fever. Vigor is the thing most needful in these cases, as well as in dyspepia and nervous affections, and are the safest, surest, and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Errors of Youth.

Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience, can do so by addressing in perfect confidence. JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar St. New York. 44 1.

FOR NON-RETENTION or INCONTINENCE of the Bladder, or irritation, inflammation or ulceration of the bladder, kidneys, diseases of the prostate glands, stone in the bladder, calculus, gravel or brick dust deposit, and all diseases of the bladder, kidneys and dropsical swellings,

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU and Improved Rose Wash cures secret and delicate disorders in all their stages, at little expense, little or no change in diet, no inconvenience and no exposure. It is pleasant in taste and odor, immediate in its action, and free from all injurious properties.

ENFEEBLED AND DELICATE CONSTITUTIONS, of both sexes, use Helmbold's Extract Buchu. It will give brisk and energetic feelings, and enable you to sleep well.

DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP.

This great medicine cured Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, the Proprietor, of Pulmonary Consumption, when it had assumed its most formidable aspect, and when speedy death appeared to be inevitable. His physicians pronounced his case incurable when he commenced the use of this simple but powerful remedy. His health was restored in a very short time, and no return of the disease has been apprehended, for all the symptoms quickly disappeared, and his present weight is more than two hundred pounds.

Since his recovery, he has devoted his attention exclusively to the cure of Consumption and the diseases which are usually complicated with it, and the cures effected by his medicines have been very numerous and truly wonderful. Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits to several of the larger cities weekly, where he has a large concourse of patients, and it is truly astonishing to see poor consumptives that have to be lifted out of their carriages, and in a few months healthy, robust persons. DR. SCHENCK'S PULMONIC SYRUP, SEAWEED TONIC, and MANDRAKE PILLS are generally all required in curing Consumption. Full directions accompany each, so that any one can take them without seeing Dr. SCHENCK, but when it is convenient it is best to see him. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with his Respirometer his fee is three dollars.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor—one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health—are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers. Price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Letters for advice should always be directed to Dr. Schenck's Principal Office, 15 North 6th St., Philadelphia, Pa.

MANHOOD:

How Lost, How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhoea, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc., also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

☞ Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife—pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and RADICALLY.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid, on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps. Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents. Address the publishers,

REASONS FOR INSURING IN

The Farmers INSURANCE CO.,

Of Rochester, Minn.

1. This is a Home Company, and other things being equal, we should patronize home institutions, in preference to those from abroad.

2. Its Officers and Directors are among the well-known business men of this State. All their interests are here, and parties insured may have implicit confidence in its upright management.

3. It has a paid up capital of $25,000 (see annexed certificate) and an accumulated capital of $41,662, making in all $66,662, which places the Company on a footing of unquestionable standing.

LETTERS FROM MINNESOTA.

BY MINNE-HA-HA.

No. 14—Miss Tibbets Disposed of.

R——, Dec. 11, 1862.

MY DEAR KATE.—"Well, I guess Mollie is among the massacred, or a captive, pining for liberty, else why this neglect?" I imagine I hear you saying; and really I have been very naughty, but banish those frowns of reproof, and accept my apologies, and by your own promptness insure a speedier answer.

At last we can lie down at night, not fearing that our rest will be disturbed by the marauding savage. The Sioux are repulsed and the Winnebagoes held in check by, we hardly know what, unless it be ascribed to the sovereign power of a merciful God, that said to the destruction that seemed to hang over our young State, "Thus far shalt thou go and no further." Some say that it was the influence of one of their chiefs, that restrained them; others, that it was the presence of a few hundred soldiers, and their own cowardice.

The hearts of the few whites at the Agency must have grown sick with fear, as one afternoon they saw the whole tribe gathering in for their war dance, and where was that chief, whose power had been so manifest? On his way to Mankato! Did he find his influence unavailing at last, and fled, that he might not be a party to the horrid butchery? Ah, a sickening sight was it to those pale faced women, those ugly painted forms, those bows, and sheaths, well filled with pointed arrows. Will they ever forget the din, the piercing shrieks that rent the air, such shrieks as only Indians can give, or the ugly grimaces they made.

Bless God! there is a band of three hundred soldiers, quietly filing into town, and ere the savages are aware of it, they are surrounded; by a handful of men truly, but men who have come to fight, if need be, for all that is near and dear to them, their homes, their wives and little ones.

I shall always think that the night, after the fearful battle at New Ulm, was the turning point in the struggle.

Once more at school! a learner, not a teacher; oh, it is delightful to plunge again into those early old mathematics, or thread my way among the languages. Equations are better than sugar plums, and chemistry than mince pie. But I must stop right here and tell you that Miss Tibbits is married at last. I know it is so, for with my own ears I heard her promise to "love, honor and obey."

Said she, the night before the wedding, "Ah, me, Mollie, it will be an awful hour, when I give up my girlhood, and I am so young to assume such important responsibilities as those darling cherubs will bring upon me: if I was only older and had more experience."

Father groaned audibly, and glanced toward the corner where we were seated, with such a look of pity, but I guess he was thinking about those "darling children."

"You must come over, Mollie," she continued, "and comfort me in the trying hour, when I shall launch my frail and lovely bark upon the storm tossed sea of Matrimony." Here fathers paper came up between us and him, and he had a severe coughing spell, it was frightful.

"And then, Mollie, I want you to fix the rats in my head; oh me, I am afraid it will grow thin with all those dear children to care for."

"They will be as props to your old age," solemnly quoth father.

Miss Tibbits was much moved at this, but after blowing his nose and regaining her equanimity, she said, "I fully realize the important step I am about to take, I never felt so before."

"I presume not," said father.

"But, Miss Tibbits," said Willie, thrusting his head in at the window, "I thought you was going to have a soldier?"

"Oh, Mr. Baker has made me see things in altogether another light, he thinks the ladies should be protected and cared for at home."

"And so he has volunteered to take charge of you?"

But the future Mrs Baker disdained to hold parley with that little parcel of impudence, and requested me to come early, "and call for Mary Starbright, on your way, and oh, Mollie," in an undertone, "bring the camphor bottle along, for ours is all used up, and I know I should never live through the ceremony without it."

And looking supremely happy in spite of her simpering sighs and tears, Miss Tibbits departed.

Oh, Kate, you should have been here, for I never can describe the exquisite fun that Mary Starbright and I had at that wedding. I am sure, as Mary says, "we will never get over it." And yet, our's was an arduous task for the bride was very difficult to suit; I do not know how many times we had to rearrange her hair or adjust her collar; and then she seemed in imminent danger of fainting. I fear she would, had it not been for the rouge on her cheeks, and Mary had to keep her cologne within reach, and I my "camphor bottle" in constant use.

But we felt the need of these restoratives ourselves, when the bridegroom came forward to lead the "lovely blushing one to the altar.

Such a blear eyed, red nosed, fat, grizzly old creature, as only bad whiskey and Copperheadism could make. And Miss Tibbits had prated so much of his noble bearing, his refined ways, and in verse had celebrated

"His feature fair, and curly hair,
And voice, so mild and winning."

And, now, that I am disposing of this lady, I will give you some extracts from a letter of Will's now before me:

"Mollie, that old drunken Copperhead Baker has moved into town; such a family as he has got! The oldest son is a half idiot; and the next a girl, Jemima, and her step mother are as near alike in looks and disposition as those old yellow cats, that used to keep you awake nights, when, under your window, they disputed the right to mastership. Report has it, that things go on a great deal after that sort over at the Bakers. Jemima has been mistress of the household for several years, and mistress she says she will still be, and the old lady thinks differently. So don't the hair fly though? I am afraid Miss Tibbits' (for so I must still call her) hair is growing thin fast. And those dear children are the rudest, ugliest, most impertinent set of boys and girls. H. ever held.

But "Good Bye" to Miss Tibbits, while I tell you how fathers fever to enlist was nipped in the bud."

And here, Kate, let me throw in a word; you know, for several years before we left the old home, we considered our dear father a confirmed invalid, and what a great delight we children took in ministering to his slightest wish, and now although his health is nearly restored, the rivalry to see which child will take his hat, bring his dressing gown and slippers, or set the wash bowl before him still continues; but to return to Will's letter.

"You see, Capt. B, was getting up his company here, and every one was wild with enthusiasm, father among the rest, and one night he came in flushed and excited, and expressed his determination to enlist. Mother, in dismay tried to dissuade him from his purpose, but in vain; neither would he hear to me, when I told him I had better go instead. Poor little Rose stood with her fingers locked, and looked at him with her big eyes full of tears.

"But pa," she said, "who will get your slippers, and the wash dish, and comb your hair for you, when you are gone to war?"

'Moll, that was a damper on fathers enthusiasm, and looking at her a moment, he dropped his head, and has not said a word about enlisting since."

Kate, I have sought the liveliest themes to write about to-day, in hopes of driving off the cloud of gloom that has hung for several days over my spirits, but all in vain. "Coming events cast their shadows before." Is something wrong with Dale? I have not heard from him for a long time; my, what is that Mary has in her hand, as she comes through the gate? a letter, and sealed with black; my heart tells me well, it is for me. And, there is the bell, and I shall have scarcely time to read the ill omened missive.

Your forboding,
MOLLIE.

RED WOOD COURT—TRIAL OF NEW ULM RIOTERS.

RED WOOD FALLS, MINN.,
September 16, 1867.

The District Court for the Counties of Brown, Redwood, Cottonwood, Murray, and Pipestone convened, pursuant to adjournment at the court house in the village of Redwood Falls, in the county of Redwood, on the 10th inst, at 3 o'clock P. M.,—Hon. Horace Austin, Judge, presiding.

President—T. Q. Flynn, Clerk. Norman Webster, Sheriff, S. A. Buell, esq., County Attorney for Brown County, Col. Sam. McPhail, County Attorney for Redwood County, and Hon. Charles E. Flandrau of Minneapolis, and John M. Dorman, esq., of New Ulm, Attorneys for New Ulm Prisoners of Christmas riot. 1866.

S. A. Buell Attorney for Brown County, withdrew his appearance in behalf of the State, and as County Attorney of Brown County moved the court to read the order for convening the court at Redwood Falls, and protested against the charging or certifying any of the expenses of said court, accuring since the 25th day of May, 1867, to or against said Brown County, which motion was objected to by the counsel for the State, for the reason, to wit: It does not appear from the papers offered by the Attorney of Brown County that said Brown County or their Attorney, is or have any business in this court.

Motion submitted without argument.—The court refused to entertain it.

By direction of the court the names of the grand jurors were called by the clerk—twenty answered to their names.

It was ordered by the court that a special venire be issued by the clerk for three men to serve as grand jurors during the term of said court, which was issued and delivered to the sheriff. The sheriff returned the venire and those summoned answered to their names, took their seats in the jury box. The grand jury was then sworn and charged by the court, after which an opportunity was given by the court for challenging the pannel of the grand jury. Hon. C. E. Flandrau interposed the following challenge, viz: John Gut, John Nun, Antone Ziehr, Henry Hartman, John Hose, Carl Bager, and Melchoir Roth, separately, and each, for themselves, challenged the pannel of the grand jury summoned to attend the adjourned term of the District Court now being held in Redwood County, upon the following grounds, viz:

1st. That the required number of ballots for said grand jury was not drawn from the grand jury box of Redwood County, or any other county, nor were any ballots drawn from said grand jury box of Redwood County or any other county, for the formation of said grand jury.

2d. that the drawing of said grand jury was not had in the presence of the sheriff of Redwood County or his deputy and Justice of the Peace of said County or any other sheriff or Deputy, or Justice of the Peace or other office whatever, nor were they drawn at all.

3d. That the drawing of the ballots for said grand jury was not at least fifteen days before the holding of said court.

4th. That the offence for which these parties are held to answer, was committed in the county of Brown, State of Minnesota, on the 25th day of December, 1867, and not elsewhere, and cannot be inquired into or indicted or presented by a grand jury of any other county than the county of Brown.

5th. That the grand jury as originally empanneled was summoned on a special venire, issued by an order of the court made at last term of this court, before any deficiency or absence of grand jurors was known to exist, twenty of said jurors appeared and serving, and three grand jurors have been added to the pannel so summoned by special venire, issued at this adjournment term.

Issue was taken on the challenge by Col. Sam. McPhail, Attorney for the State—Motion taken under consideration by the court. The Sheriff appointed Wm. Simmons, bailiff to take charge of the grand jury. Court then took a recess untill 7½ o'clock P. M.

7½ o'clock P. M., court convened and the challenge to pannel of the Grand jury was ably argued by Hon. C. E. Flandran one of the Attorney's for the defendants. 9 o'clock P. M., court ordered a recess until 8 o'clock A. M., Sept. 11, 1867.

WEDNESDAY, Sept. 11, 7½ o'clock A. M.—Court convened, roll of grand jurors called, Judge Flandrau resumed his argument upon the panel of the grand jury and upon the unconstitutionalities of the order for convening the said court at Redwood Falls, in the county of Redwood; he was followed by Col. Sam McPhaill for the State.

The facts upon which the said challenge was based were agreed to be as follows, viz: That the grand jury was summoned upon a special venire which was issued by the Clerk of Redwood court, on the 26th day of August, 1867, by virtue of an order which was made by the court at the last term of this court, which order is of record.

2d, That the court of Brown had furnished a grand jury list which was filed in the office of the Clerk of this court, June 18th, 1867; but none of the other counties attached to Brown county for judicial purposes had prepared a grand jury list.

3d, That no drawing was made of the present grand jury, but it was summoned solely upon the special venire.

4th. That twenty of the jurors so summoned appeared and a special venire was issued to fill the pannel and was served by the Sheriff, and the pannel filled under it.

5th That the offence for which the parties challenging and charges was committed in the county of Brown, 25th December, 1867.

The challenge to the grand jury was sustained and allowed by the court, on the ground that, the order for the special venire on which the jurors were summoned was a conditional order and for no other reason. The grand jury was then discharged by the court.

The court then ordered that a special venire be issued for twenty-three grand jurors to be returned forthwith to serve as such grand jurors during the term of said court. The special venue was returned by the Sheriff and the roll being called, twenty-two members were present, as follows:—J. A. White, N. O. Castle, G. H. Colburn, J. Doncaster, E. Barber, B. Sanders, B. H. Monroe, N. C. Tower, S. A. Larrabee, A. Slocum, G. Bickelhaupt, A. Back, J. Wheeler, F. Frank, M. Ganskee, F. Schmann, H. Bursch, M. Penning, C. Shoemaker, S. O. Root, T. D. Broughton, Park Worden, and J. H. Thomas. The grand jury was sworn and charged by the court, and B. M. Monroe appointed foreman.

The counsel for the defendants held to answer for offences committed in the county of Brown. John Gut, and other's interposed a challenge to the pannel of the grand jury, on the ground that there was a grand jury list on file in the Clerk's office from the county of Brown in time for the regular drawing, that the clerk knew of it and had it in his custody, and intentionally omitted to draw the pannel of the grand jury from the said list in order that the grand jury should not be composed exclusively of men of Brown county, and in order that the jury might be summoned on a special venire from other counties than Brown.

2, That the Sheriff in summoning the present grand jury selected intentionally all the old grand jurors that had been discharged on challenge of these parties to the pannel, except one Clarke Jacob Mix, and that said Sheriff intentionally omitted said Mix because he was from Brown county and chose in his place a man from some other county.

3d, That the grand jury is not an impartial one, and has been unfairly selected by the Sheriff, because he was supposed to be hostile to those parties challenged.

4th, That the law under which this present court is held, and the jury summoned is unconstitutional, so far as it attempts to authorize an inquiry into or indictment or trial of offences committed in Brown county within Redwood county.

Col McPhail Attorney for the State admitted that there was no drawing of the jury at all, but that it was summoned upon a special venire and objected to the challenge being entertained on the ground that it is not authorized by the statute, further than is included in the above admission.

Counsel for the challenge proposed to establish the facts alleged in the challenge by proof by record and by witnesses. The Court found as a fact that there is a list of names duly certified by the proper officers of Brown county to have been selected in the county of Brown for grand jurors for the year 1867, which list contains the proper number of names, and was selected at the regular meeting of the county commissioners of Brown county in 1867, and was filed in the office of the district court of Brown county, February 12th, 1867, and transferred to and filed with the Clerk of Redwood county, on the 18th day June, 1867.

Court further rules that the objection of the Attorney for the State, is sustained except as to facts admitted above, and the jury list above described, and refused to allow any proof of the facts alleged except as above by said admission and said list, and disallowed the challenge. Counsel for the challenging parties duly accept.

Counsel for defendants interposed challenges for cause to several of the grand jurors which were not sustained with the exception of one—A. Slocum—which challenge was sustained and he was discharged from farther attendance.

Counsel for the State interposed several challenges and they were not sustained. The grand jury then retired in charge of the bailiff. They are still in session.

The Attorney's present are Hon. C. E. Flandrau, C. T. Clothier, and J. M. Doran, for the defense; and Gen. Wm Colville and Col. Sam McPhail, for the State.

Yours,
WITNESS FROM MANKATO.

FROM A SCOTCHMAN.

MR. EDITOR:—It is a notorious fact that there is too much Knownothingism in the ranks of the Republicans of Blue Earth county. If a Foreigner belongs to the Republican party he is a fine fellow enough as long as he votes for the party, but he must never aspire any higher than to vote. If he makes any attempt to look for office no matter how competent he may be, or how long he has been in the country, or how much he is taxed to support the country, he is then looking for that which they think he has no right too. Americans to rule America, that is their motto. I understand that some of these Republican knownothings said in their election eering tour through Mapleton and Sterling before the county convention, that the Scotch had to be cleaned out, but. Mr. Editor, I want that medical gedtleman to understand that it will take a stronger emetic to clean them out than he is in the habit of administering. I should not be at all surprised, if he or the gentleman that was along with him, got cleaned out first. If so, he must be sure to take plenty of such as he used to in that saloon, he told of once in Mapleton, that he had been in often till past midnight, so that he can vomit freely when the emetic takes effect, for the gentlemen may be assured that his Knownothingism will be very cold before he gets that job accomplished of cleaning out the Scotch.

A SCOTCHMAN.

—The Jackson, O., Standard reports a snake, from sixteen to twenty five feet long, seen and chased by a large number of excited citizens in that county. Two men came near to it in the chase, but were too scared to fire at it, and it made its escape. "From sixteen to twenty-five feet" leaves plenty of room for guessing.

POLITICAL NOTES.

As the Democrats of the 17th Senatorial District have put in nomination their condidates for the Legislature, and are making sterunous efforts to secure a majority of the votes cast at the November election, it may not be inappropriate to give what appears to be, the animus of the party.

The candidates of the party in this District, are men who have no political record; or if they have, it is of so purely a local nature, that it cannot be dignified by being mentioned in this article. Hence I am forced to look to the acts of the party, and to those who "play" its wires, and who have made a public record, and then show that these nominees, if placed in power, would act with the "leaders."

In 1861 when President Lincoln called for troops, the Democratic Governor of Kentucky said:—

"Your despatch is received. In answer I say emphatically, Kentucky will furnish no troops for the wicked purpose of subduing her sister Southern States."

Representative Olds of Ohio said:—

"It is for your Legislature to tell Lincoln, that he can have no more soldiers for the prosecution of the war."

After the Star of the West going to the relief of the gallant Anderson and his brave men, in Fort Sumpter, had been fired into, and after the entire North was a blaze, the Detroit Free Press a Democratic sheet said:

"The people of the South are animated by the same spirit which fired the hearts of the patriots of the Revolution. They have borne with persecution, until forbearance ceases to be a virtue. We must say that if ever people had cause for any action, the people of the Southern States have cause for their action. It is worse than folly to talk of coercing the Southern States into subamission to the federal government."

Let the soldiers everywhere remember that this was the wild "fire in the rear," opened even before they had started on their weary march of duty, and which the Free Press, said was to "either stop their march altogether or wonderfully accelerate it."

On the 26th of January 1853 the Chicago Times, said:

"The war is a John Brown raid on an extended scale—only that and nothing more. Democrats decline to be parties it. They will not give their treasure and blood to support it."

Horatio Seymore, the Democratic leader of New York, said:

"If slavery must be destroyed to preserve the Union, then the people of the South should be permitted to withdraw from the Union."

William A. Richardson, a Democratic ex-Senator of Illinois said:

"The Republicans must be put down at the point of the bayonet."

At a mass meeting of the Democrats of Madison county Ohio, held at Medway on the 27th of May 1863, among other resolutions the following was adopted:

"Resolved.—That we favor an immediate termination of the present war, and a separation of the sections."

The Democrats of Fulton county Illinois, at a great mass meeting declared:

"We here deliberately and firmly pledge ourselves, one to the other, that we will not render any support to the present administration, in carrying out its wicked abolition crusade against the South, and that we will resist to the death all attempts to draft any of our citizens into the army."

The Democratic National Convention held in Chicago, declared the war a "failure."

This is a part of the record. I forebear to give more. I only ask that you go into the Democratic Counties of Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania and Illinois, and there learn the effects of Democratic teachings. To the Democratic party belongs the infamy of resistance, during the war, to parties sent out to arrest deserters, the number of quiet and peaceable Union men, the shooting and killing of officers appointed to execute the laws, the refusal to enlist in the armies of the Union, the riots in cities and the mobbing of presses.

Such is the true record of the party during the war, and such is the character of the party which comes up to day and asks that its candidates be elected over the men who stood by the flag in the darkest day of the Nation's struggle for National existance.

Loyal people thought and believed that the logical result of the war had permanently settled, among other things:

The perpetual Union of the States.
The freedom of the black race.
The inviolableness of the public debt.
Equal bounty to Union soldiers.
The sacredness of the Pension Act.
And the equality of all men before the law.

But this the Democratic party declares through its mouth pieces is unjust and untrue.

George H. Pendleton asked the assembled Democrats of Minnesota:

"How shall we dare to say what facts are accomplished?" This the Mankato Record applauds as an "admirable speech." The New York Journal of Commerce has said, "that the Union could only be restored by attaching to it the sympathies of the Southern people."

This is the animus of the Democratic party—this is the policy by which it is governed. The sympathies of the Southern people are and have been "peculiar institutions," known as human slavery. They hope through the influence of the Democratic party to have their slaves returned to them, and for the sake of getting into office, of gaining favor, of reinstating the old regimen extant previous to the war, the Democratic party is willing to disclose the issue of the war unsettled.

Will the nominee of the Democratic party in this District, if placed in office, act different from their leaders, contrary to the instinct of the party? Let no man deceive himself on that question. Go to the polls and vote. Be sure that there is no democratic name on your ticket, and you will have nothing to regret.

THE RECORD ON TEMPERENCE.

The Record has evidently been seized with a fit of total abstinence morality and religion. Another stride will surely bring him into the folds of the church. Nearly two columns of its pages were filled, last week, with an address issued by W. T. Johns, lecturer of the Good Templars of this State, calling for a convention to meet for the purpose of furthering the interests of temperance and religion. For three long months it has contained in its platform, and published in its columns, a resolution favoring the free and unrestricted use of intoxicating liquors. It had its hearty endorsement, and no compunction of wrong seized the editors breast, in declaring to the world without qualification, his unalterable love of the custom of an unrestricted whiskey trade. But it was not that he loved whiskey less, but that he loved democratic votes more. When the republican party announced a similar proposition, although coupled with a desire for the success of all moral movements through proper agencies, the Record gets terribly moral and temperate and contributes its whole influence in convincing the public of the horrors of intemperance, and pursuading the temperance wing of our party, that they are no longer afiliating with a congenial element. The animus of the Record is palpably plain. It cares nothing for moral results, but is endeavoring to don the cloak of righteousness to serve the democratic copperhead party in. Its shoulders are so broad that water rests by the barrel on both,—or rather whiskey in one and water in the other. It pursuades the rank and file of its party to believe that no restraint should be permitted, and appeals to a portion of our party, to attempt an enforcement of such restraint, by an independent effort to elect State officers. To do this would give a democratic triumph, "and that's what's the matter." It says that it remains to be seen whether our moral men will allow their love of party to overbalance their sense of right or justice. It is already seen that the Record will and is sacrificing its good sense in supposing the moral men of the country are to be caught by his chaff. Whatever they do, will be done from the dictates of duty, and not from any influence the Record with its known anticedents could give. They are not satisfied with the wording of the 7th resolution, because of its latitude, but they will only enter their protest, and go on with the congressional plan of reconstruction, which now, in a far greater degree, absorbs the public mind. As this plan can only be accomplished by supporting the republican ticket, those who sent Windom back to Congress will see him again endorsed, by appearing at the polls in November, and casting their votes for the same party who elected him a year ago.

THE "RECORD" ON THE BONDS.

At this late date, after the battle is mainly over and won, against the pending proposition concerning the payment of the railroad bonds, the Record begins to inquire what the position of Gov. Marshall is upon this subject. During the entire summer, when the discussion was warm, and a majority of the State papers were arguing for or against the proposition, the Record lay quiet, "as snug as a bug in a rug," and never lifted its voice of protest against the proposition, except in one instance when we called it out. Had it shown a disposition to warn the people against the practical working of the proposition, and a zeal in resisting the payment of an unjust demand, its call upon Gov. Marshall to define his position would come with a better grace. But it has chosen to follow the wake of the Pioneer by allowing its own candidate to rest, while he catechises the nominee of the republican party. When it has given substantial evidence that it is opposed to the bond proposition, and given its reasons therefor, it will have a basis of action, and a right to inquire into the position of candidates; and first of all it is its duty to know the position of the men it supports. What should it care for the opinions of Gov. Marshall on the bond question; he will not receive its support whatever they may be. The Record closes its article in the following words:

> "We call the attention of the anti bond men of the State to this matter, and hope that they will see that not only their State officials, but also their legislative nominees, are men that cannot be made parties to this scheme.

Now we will call the attention of the Record, to the fact that Charles E. Flandreau is at the head of its ticket for Governor, and that Mr. Flandreau has never publicly declared his position upon the question of paying these bonds, nor has the Democratic party by resolution or otherwise, intimated that any opposition to the proposition pending would be offered. On the contrary the Pioneer, the leading democratic organ, boldly declares that the bonds shall be paid to the last farthing, and Mr. Flandreau is understood privately to be in favor of the same thing. The Record has given such a weak endorsement to the anti-bond movement, that it is not wholly clear of the suspicion of joining in a "still hunt" to favor the payment of these bonds. The party is not committed in opposition to the proposition, and with these facts before the public, the impudence of the Record in questioning the position of Gov. Marshall is superlatively grand.

The republican party were divided upon the question, and a vigorous discussion ensued. It was found that a large portion of it, and the people generally, were opposed to a full payment of the bonds, which would certainly be the result of a ratification of the pending proposition. Therefore, they were opposed to the ratification, and so stated in resolution 8th, of the republican platform. Gov. Marshall in his address accepting the nomination, said that he had always been opposed to their payment in full, but would favor paying only the value of the mortgage foreclosed. With this record of the two parties before us, our cotemporary had better be pulling the beam out of his own eye, before manipulating with the affairs of others. And now let his patrons test his sympathy for the public welfare, by requesting him to catechise his own candidates, in reference to the bond question, and forcing Judge Flandreau to a public definition of his position. Until this is done we shall regard the Record as being in no condition to attack its opponents, who have already openly committed themselves to a position which is studiously avoided by his own candidates.

"RECORD" ON THE MOCCASIN DAYS.

Our up-street cotemporary in his article last week, seems to have entirely misconceived the nature of our strictures upon the late democratic convention which we reviewed two weeks since, in an article entitled "Moccasin Days Returning." He seems to think that we considered the action of the convention, as affording an analogy to the early habits of traders in making money out of the Indians. Nothing was farther from our purpose. The "Ingin" traders are not on trial for their abuses toward the aboriginal tribes, but one of them is now on trial for reviving the moccasin style of carrying caucuses, conventions and elections by bribes of whiskey and money, and riding rough shod over all consideration of honor, and fair play. Will the Record be so kind as to stick to the text? We reiterate from the soundest democratic authority—the democratic delegates themselves—that the nomination of Marks was carried by wholly ignoring party integrity, and that money was offered for votes at that convention. Corroborative of this statement, we heard another Marks delegate declare in Smith & Humphrey's book store that "Jim Thompson would get beat, for Marks had PLENTY OF MONEY and HE WOULD USE IT." The moccasin ring carried the elections in an early day by money, might and fraud, and it is well known that democratic officers were elected in 1857 by dressing up Indians and sending them to the polls to vote under assumed names, contrary to law. The same fraud was to be committed in 1859 by the moccasin ring, of which Marks was the Head Center, but the republicans were on the alert, and detected the ring programme, forcing them to publish a circular denying that any effort would be made to smuggle in an Indian vote. Upon this occasion, Wm. H. Shepard, Buck, Willard & Barney and others broke away from the Indian ring, and the former gentleman went further, he left the party entirely, and is now the chairman of the republican county committee. The other gentlemen to this day retain their disgust for the old "Ingin ring," and a large class of the party have been open and pointed in declaring the last democratic convention to be a revival of the defrauding moccasin ring. In reply to the statement of the Record that Jim Thompson, the republican candidate for treasurer, was an Indian trader, we flatly declare it false. In the early settlement of the county he only owned the goods he wore on his back, and never was engaged in trade on his own account, until after the removal of the Indians. The November election has yet to determine whether a candidate with a good reputation, a fine business talent, but with limited means, can be overwhelmed in a county largely republican by the force of money in the hands of a candidate of the democratic party.

THE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.

The convention called at Rochester on Tuesday last to "bust" the republican party by nominating a temperance ticket ended in smoke. These was a meagre attendence and a resolution protesting against the 7th resolution of the republican platform and ignoring it, but declaring no political action necessary, was passed unanimously. Capt. Johns the mover in this matter attempted to commit the Methodist Conference to his course but they deeming it a political trick, he was not even allowed to address the conference, nor did he receive their sympathy or endorsement.

DEMOCRATIC LIGHT.

Last Monday evening the democracy had a meeting at Higgins' Hall. Many of the seats were pretty well filled, and all would have been, if there had not been so many of them, or if the audience had been larger the same result would have followed. Some temporary seats were erected, probably to accommodate republicans, but as they were not specially assigned to them, the sheep and the goats were pretty well mixed.

Hon. Richard A. Jones of Rochester was the first speaker. He is a good looking man; 'tis a pity he drinks—or rather 'tis a pity he has a sore head. Until last Summer he was a radical republican. He was then defeated in a nomination for State Senate, and he suddenly conceived that the party which a month previous was saving the national life, was, after his defeat, plotting its ruin. From that day to this, he has been for Jones, for Andy Johnson, and for the democratic party. All because he thought the party did not appreciate his talents, and elect him a standard bearer of those principals which he had so lately heartily approved. He declared in his speech that the republican party had failed in preserving the national life. We are therefore to believe the nation dead. Grant has surrendered to Lee, our ports and rivers are blockaded, our armies disbanded, there is no central power to hold the States together, slavery is again reinstated in the South, anarchy and crime reigns supreme, and a foreign foe threatens to bury us in its wake of self aggrandizement; that is, if Mr. Jones' assertion, that the republican party has failed to save the national life, be true. He said the democrats had been a unit in sustaining the war. He evidently is not acquainted with the history of his party or country, and certainly does not know the antecedents of his candidate J. J. Thompson, the copperhead nominee of this county for the State Senate. He not only opposed the war, but boldly declared he would not turn his hand over to save the Union. The speaker declared the mission of our party to be the non extension of slavery in the territories, and that it should have confined itself to that work. He didn't find that out until he had gone with it step by step as the exigencies of the public welfare demanded, for ten long years; but then suddenly he finds the party all wrong because his Rochester friends wouldnt send him to the State Senate. We had intended to review his speech at length but space will not permit. The simple fact that he is a sore head, from the republican party, is a complete defense to all his illogical conclusions. Even with the democracy he fails of sympathy or confidence, and did not elicit any mark of approbation at the close of the meeting.

Dillon O'Brien Esq. of St. Paul followed in a witty speech which brought down the house frequently, but he left no impressions. Like a pleasant comedy or farce he pleased for the moment, but to convict was beyond his sphere. He dubbed the republican party as crazy fanatics, robbers and murderers, and opposed to free institutions, and said if congress could reconstruct hell, they would give a new torture to the damned. Here he trespassed a little upon tragic ground, but the republicans present "considered who it came from," and took no umbrage at these wild remarks. He declared that all whites in a mass are to be disfranchised and negroes enfranchised in the south. He is not well posted, or willfully misrepresents, for almost all the whites are allowed to vote, but their number is so small that negroes are in the ascendency. If he believes the majority should rule, surely he must allow the negro to vote where he constitutes the largest portion of the citizens. He complained of the expense attending the protection of the blacks in their rights, and although declaring that freedom, equal rights &c., were very good, yet it was costing the Government too much to maintain them among the 'niggers.' Almost any sane man would say that if public money was ever properly expended it would be in defending the rights of the citizens, and maintaining equal justice among them. His speech abounded in similar clap trap interspersed with Irish wit. A candid observer will declare that no point was clearly made and clinched against the policies of the republican party.

Madelia on the 7th Resolution.

The Madelia Lodge of Good Templars have held a meeting upon the question of prohibitory laws, and the efforts of some of the members to turn the lodge into a political organization. The resolutions are emphatic, and doubtless convey the sentiment of a large portion of the lodge. These are the resolutions passed on the evening of Sept. 21st:

Whereas, An effort is being made by some of the officers of the Grand Lodge of this State to convert this order into a political organization, and place in the political arena a Temperance Ticket, to be supported by this order at the next election, in opposition to the ticket now before the people,

Therefore be it resolved, that we, the members of the Madelia Lodge of I. O. of G T., do hereby protest against all such efforts by whomsoever made.

Resolved, That while we are now and ever will be true friends of the great cause of Temperance, we are irrevocably opposed to all prohibitory or sumptuary laws.

Resolved, That we rely upon the precept and example of temperance men and women to create a healthy moral sentiment, and believing this to be the aim and object of this order, we earnestly invite all people to unite with us in this glorious cause of reform.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the UNION and Record for publication.

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FRIDAY, - - SEPTEMBER 27, 1867.

POSTPONEMENT.—Owing to the fact that the county Fair takes place on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week and that many will be in attendance at the evening cotillion parties, Mr. Steidle has concluded to postpone his theater to Monday evening next. See the advertisement elsewhere.

DISSOLUTION.—We understand that the partnership of Stauffer & May, dentists of this city, has been dissolved by mutual consent. Next Monday they will both remove from their rooms over Prael & DuBuisson's; Dr. May locating over Christensen's store, and Dr. Stauffer over Smith & Humphrey's book store in rooms lately occupied by the family of Mr. Humphrey. Well, but where is Mr. Humphrey going? Oh, he and family will board at the Clifton, you know.

FAIRBANKS' SCALES, advertised in another column of our paper, were awarded the highest premium, a Silver Medal, at the great "Paris Exposition," being designated Standard Scales, in the award. This speaks well for American manufactures, as other scales were on exhibition from this country and from England, France, Germany, Russia, Austria, Prussia and Switzerland.

A PURSE.—We are informed that the friends of Mrs. D. Tice. outside of the Methodist church, have contributed $50 towards a purse which is to be presented to her, before Mr. Tice leaves this field of labor. It is expected that the members of the church will contribute $100, which added to the above sum will form a handsome token of esteem and friendship for this estimable lady.

BRASS BAND NOTICE.—All persons or parties requiring the services of the Mankato Brass Band, upon any occasion, will leave word at either of the Mankato Book stores.

Per order of 4w BAND.

NEW DISTRICT.—The annual Conference have divided the Owatonna District into two, naming the new one Mankato, with headquarters at this place. Rev. N. Hobart is the Presiding Elder, who will remove to Mankato at once, and take up his residence here. The growing prosperity of Methodism in this part of the State has made this step necessary.

MILL PURCHASE.—One third interest in the Red Jacket mills has been purchased by Mr. Dickerson for $6,000, and the firm name will hereafter be Scott, Elliot, and Dickerson.

FREE FERRY.—The proprietors of the Red Jacket Mills have made an arrangement to pay the ferriage of all persons crossing the Le Sueur river who bring their wheat to their mill for sale or for grinding. They always pay Mankato prices for wheat, and their flour is the best in market.

THE FAIR.—Go to the fair at Garden City to-day and to-morrow. Splendid accommodations at the Garden City Hotel, and plenty to eat at Wallace's tent at the fair grounds. Great Base Ball match to come off to-day. The address of Maj. A. C. Wolfolk will be delivered to-morrow. This evening is a dance at Frazer & Dilley's Hall. The attractions at the fair will be greater than usual, and a good time can be had. Go all, go everybody.

THAT BALL MATCH.—As we expected, the Minneinneopa boys came home from Owatonna last Saturday morning by way of Salt river. On account of rain they did not play on Thursday, but waited until Friday morning at nine o'clock, when the game commenced. It will be seen by the score published below, that our boys were one ahead at the commencement of the 5th inning, and only one behind at the commencement of the 6th. After that it was disaster to the end. Several of our boys were substitutes, who had not had the usual drill. We admire their pluck, but doubt their discretion. The Owatonna club treated them so very handsomely, that some of the boys avow their willingness to get "scooped" again in order to have their hospitalities repeated. All their expenses were paid, and the Young Americas presented them with railway tickets to Waseca, which saved the boys a hard trip of 20 miles by team. The Blue Bird was sent on early in the morning and met them at that point. Below we give the score, innings and fieldings. The blank unfilled in the score table was intended for Chas McMahan, but he was so ashamed of his playing that we, by his special request, omitted publishing it. He thinks that he is more ornamental than useful when the Young America is around.

TIME OF GAME—2:45.

CLOSING EVENING OF THE TEACHERS' INSTITUTE.—The ladies of Mankato, who were members of the Teachers Institute, wishing to pay their compliments to the members living elsewhere, invited them, with such friends as they chose to bring with them, to the school rooms on Friday evening last for a social re-union, preparatory to their final separation. At an early hour the upper Department of the building was overflowing with teachers and guests. The assembly being called to order, Mr. W. W. Payne, of Mantorville, was introduced, who, in a brief speech, told the audience what he was doing in the interest of education. He spoke of his Educational Monthly which we understand is published for the benefit of teachers, and is recommended as a talented periodical which promises to be both instructive and interesting to those concerned in education. Quite a number of subscribers were obtained. Mr. Henry S. Goff, of Mapleton, proposed a vote of thanks to superintendent Beatty, B. F. Jenness, Principal of the Union School, and Rev. T. Marshall for their efficient services in conducting the Institute, Mr. Goff said:

"Mr Beatty has been engaged in this enterprise for many weeks previous to the assembling of the Institute, and his labors have been unceasing, useful and important, and have contributed much to the advancement of education in Blue Earth County.

In conducting the lessons of the Institute, Mr. Jenness has been earnest and faithful in diffusing knowledge and developing the talents of his pupils, and though a stranger, no person could be more willing or ready in promoting our welfare and assisting us in our calling.

Mr. Marshall has labored as only those do who have a heart in the work. I therefore move that we return to these gentlemen our sincere and earnest thanks, and let us do so with an emphasis that cannot be gainsayed or misunderstood." The motion was then unanimously adopted.

Prof. Jenness was then called out and made a very neat and pertinent address concerning the opening of the Union School. He advised the cooperation of parents in giving impartial discipline and instruction. He spoke of the necessary inequalities of advancement until the machinery of the school was in good running order, but that all irregularities would be overcome as speedily as possible, and to this end he wished those parents who feel for any reason aggrieved to make prompt complaint to him. He spoke of the school building as being second to only one in the State in point of convenience, size and arrangement. At the conclusion of his remarks Superintendent Beatty invited the assembly to the rooms on the first floor, where a supply of apples, peaches and cake was served by the lady teachers of the Institute. A melodian was secured, at which Mrs. Morris presided, and a number of singers entertained the company with some excellent music. Thus the evening was passed, and thus ended the largest Institute ever held in the county.

SCHOOL CENSUS.—Mr. Ira S. Smith of the School Board, has completed the enumeration of scolars between the ages of 5 and 21 years, living in District Number One, which comprises that portion of the village lying below the town line, which separates Van Brunt's Addition from Warren's Addition. The roll foots up 769 scholars, against 668 for last year. Of these 359 are males and 409 females. The ratio of increase as reported last year, was 23 per cent. This year it will hardly reach that figure, yet it shows a very handsome increase, indicating also a wholesome growth of the town. The report also shows that only a winter school was taught, with an attendance of 112 males and 109 females, with an average attendance of 153. The reason of so small an attendance, was, that the school building was not completed sufficiently to accommodate more. Six teachers were employed, one gentleman and five ladies, for four months, at a cost of $1,049, and the value of our new school building is returned at $13,600.

NEW ARRIVAL OF NEW GOODS.—A nice line of Clothing, Cloths, Cassimeres, Taylor's Trimmings, Gents Furnishing Goods, Hats, Caps, Gloves and Mittens for Fall and Winter wear of all the latest styles and qualities, just received, and having bought at the very closest market are prepared to sell Goods in their line at the very Bottom of the Market. Do not forget to go to the Clothing Emporium of Randall & Smith and examine their stock.

LEAVES NEXT WEEK.—Rev. D. Tice, who has been in charge of the Methodist Church at this place for two years, severs his connection and removes from among us next week. He has accepted the agency of the Hamlin University, and will be engaged for the coming year in selling scholarships, and collecting endowments for that institution. He also will have the collection of the Centenary fund. This appointment shows the estimation in which he is held by the Conference, as a gentleman of great business energy and perserverance. Our own citizens can fully attest this fact, for no man could have labored more zealously and successfully than he, in rearing a church edifice, which is a pride of the church, and of the town of Mankato. Adding to this his labors as a pastor, and probably no minister can report a greater work crowded into the space of two years. Many friends will regret his departure, and hope for him and his estimable family such rewards in the future as their faithful labors shall merit. The place of his future residence is not determined, but probably will be Rochester or Owatonna.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—Rev. N. W. Hobart, the Presiding Elder of the Mankato District will preach at the Methodist Church next Sabbath morning. In the evening Rev. D. Tice preaches his farewell sermon.

SYNOD.—The Presbyterian Synod opened last evening at the Church with a sermon from the Rev. Mr. Riggs. Quite a number of arrivals both of ministers and elders were noticed last evening as the stages came in. To-day the labors of the convention will fairly commence.

WHY NOT.—We can see no reason why D. B. DeLand & Co.'s Best Chemical Saleratus should not be used in all cases, as it has no superior, and weighs more than other Saleratus.

WOOD, WOOD.—Attention is called to the notice of J. H. Barr esq., who will supply fire wood fitted for the stove, of any kind and quality, delivered to any part of town. Cash and prompt time buyers can leave their orders at the Bank of Lewis, Shaubut & Co.

WOOLEN MILL.—We published last week the advertisement of the Frontier Woolen mills of Jacob Bierbauer, of this city. As we made an extensive notice of that establishment several weeks since, it is only necessary now to call the attention of our readers to the advertisement to be found elsewhere.

REPUBLICAN CLUB.—The republicans of Mankato met at Higgins' Hall on Wednesday evening last, and formed a club, for the purpose of advancing the republican cause at the coming election. The committee to whom was referred the selection of permanent officers of the club, reported as follows: For President, L. C. Harrington; Vice Presidents, W. B. Griswold, Jacob Pfaff, Henry Christensen; Secretary, Mark D. Flower; Executive Committee, L. G. M. Fletcher, Wm. P. Boardman, A. C. Woolfolk, G. K. Cleveland, Albert S. White, Robert Roberts, J. T. Williams, Dr. A. L. Dornberg jr, Ben D. Pay. A room has been procured in Bergholtz Block, for the headquarters of the club, which will be provided with late news, and be open at all hours of the day. We trust all republicans will take hold of the ticket, and work faithfully for its election, and to this end let them join the club and concentrate their strength for the battle against democracy.

NEW ULM MURDERERS INDICTED.—We are under obligations to Captain L. M. Holmes for the report of the proceedings of the Redwood District Court, in obtaining a Grand Jury fer the indictment of the New Ulm rioters, which is printed on our first page. He also brought a list of those indicted by the Grand jury for murder in the first degree, being following persons: John Nua, John Gut, John Hose, Antoine Zeihr, Carl Bager, John Stamar, Milchor alias Jack Roth, Nicodemus Wernz, Jost Pfieffer, August Schmidt, Frank Grebe, and George Kennon. Since that time we learn that on the 18th inst., John Hose, John Nun, Antoine Ziehr, Carl Bager, and Henry Hartman, were arraigned, and their counsel asked and were granted the statutory time to plead. These men were arraigned on an indictment for the killing of Alexander Campbell, and we are informed that fifteen persons have been indicted for the murder of George Liscom. It is probable that the persons mentioned above are included with two others whose names are not yet made public.

LAW CARD.—Elsewhere see the card of W. Thurman Lewis, who has located on Front street, next door to Wallace's, in the practice of law. Mr. Lewis read law under Judge Stanley Matthews, of the Superior Court of Cincinnatti, and attended the Law Department of Michigan University, and has had several years practice. He has seen service in the Union army, and was captured at Athens by Gen. Forrest. He is from Ohio and his family is yet to arrive, when he will become a permanent resident of our place. We bespeak for him a share of the business of his profession, trusting that success may attend his efforts.

HARNESS & SADDLES.—John. D. Jones of the PIONEER HARNESS SHOP is now receiving some splendid oak tanned leather, out of which he is making harnesses which for durability and beauty combined, surpass any thing yet offered to the public. If you want a good harness, saddle or bridle, Jones can suply you at the lowest cash figure. In repairing of any thing in his line, including carriage tops and trimmings, his work will be done with neatness and dispatch.

MILLINERY GOODS.—Mrs. Oglesby has just received an invoice of fall and winter millinery goods which consist of bonnet and hat frames, hats and bonnets of all patterns, beautiful winter flowers, feathers, and ribbons, and a general assortment of goods which cannot fail to please. Go at once and see them.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.—Sealed proposals will be received by the Board of Trustees of School District No. 81, for the erection of a school house in said district—plan and specifications to be seen at the office of the Probate Judge in Mankato. Bids will be received at said office until 9 o'clock A. M. October 5th 1867. The right to reject any and all bids is reserved.

By order of Trustees,
Sept. 26, 1867. D. Wilcox, Clerk.

FROM VERNON CENTER.

By our own reporter.

Although you have not heard from us for some time, still know ye that we still live. We are still moving on in the road to wealth, at a slow pace sometimes, but moving still. Every year and nearly every month adds something in the way of substantial improvements. It has been remarked that more prairie has been broken and more fencing done this season in our township than ever before. This betokens broad fields and a busy time another harvest. In the way of building much is being done. S. N. Thurston is erecting a very neat little dwelling in town while just outside of town we note several new buildings. Mr Doty is getting his new grist mill well along and it promises to be highly beneficial, not only to its proprietor but also to us natives. We now have to go at least six miles to get our wheat floured and when this can be done at our own doors we shall "rejoice and be exceeding glad." Mr. John Pratt has charge of the repairing of the bridge and is to commence operations immediately. The repairs and alterations are under the supervision of the County Commissioners and are to be quite extensive and it is hoped permanent. One of Venus' fairest daughters departed a few mornings since taking the road marked—Happiness via Matrimony. May she reach the gool and may her guide prove trusty.

AN AUTUMN SUGGESTION.

Now, as heavy fogs arise and searching winds commence to blow; now, as the human body, exhausted like inanimate nature by the heats of summer, begins to wilt and droop; now, ere the inclement winter makes its trying onset: NOW is the time for a preparatory course of the best acclimating medicine in existence,

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

Fever and Agne is rampant in all parts of the country. Quinine, the physicians admit, will not quell the phase of the disease which at persent prevades the entire West. It is well that it is so, for the remedy (so-called) is deadlier than the malady. But if quinine is inefficient in intermittent fevers,

HOSTETTER'S BITTERS

is irresistible. It would be safe to make a contract, under heavy penalties, that any given "Fever-and-Ague District" should be exempted from the disorder for any particular time, provided every inhabitant would take the BITTERS according to directions, during the term of the contract. There has never been an instance in which this sterling invigorant and anti-febrile medicine has failed to ward off the complaint, when taken duly as a protection against malaria. Hundreds of physicians have abandoned all the officinal specifics and now prescribe this harmless vegetable tonic, and nothing else, as a preventive and cure for all the forms of chills and fever. Vigor is the thing most needful in these cases, as well as in dyspepia and nervous affections, and are the safest, surest, and most wholesome strengthening preparation that human skill has yet concocted.

Our State Ticket.

The Chicago Post compliments the ticket recently nominated by the Republican Convention of Minnesota, and says it is one of the strongest ever put in the field in this State. "The unanimity of the expression of "the people," says the Post, "in continuing "the old officers for another term, indicates "that the sterling qualities of Gov. Marshall, "and of his efficient Secretary of State, Col. "Rogers, have become known to the people "as well as to the many friends of these noble men."

—The steamer Oriental, from New Orleans, is at quarantine at Boston, with three cases of yellow fever on board.

—The Grand Army of the Republic is making preparations for the reception of Gen Sheridan at New York.

—Fourteen steerage passengers died of cholera on the steamship Minnesota which arrived at New York Monday. The vessel was greatly overcrowded.

—The two latest modes of advertising, in the Eastern cities, are the gratuitous distribution of stout paste-board fans, upon which are printed advertisements, and gorgeous lettering upon the sides and rear of street sprinklers.

—At a United States Bankrupt Court in Dayton, Ohio, recently, the only creditor (an applicant) a young man had, was a young lady who obtained a verdict of $5,000 against him for a breech of promise of marriage. This claim she would not release.

—The National banks are causing great annoyance to Gen. Spinner the United States Treasurer, by their requests for greenbacks ones and twos, which he cannot supply. The banks could furnish themselves with small bills if the bank officers were not too lazy to sign them.

—Rev. C. B. Davidson, D. D widely known throughout the State of Indiana, and a long resident of New Albany, has been called to the rectorship of Grace church, Indianapolis.

—Ex-President Fillmore has been threatened several times with assassination by a drunken fellow named Sarsfield Coyne who claims that Fillmore owes him a large sum of money. Coyne has been turned over to the police authorities of Buffalo.

Frederic Hobbs, a young man doing business in Boston, who has failed twice before, and who is one of the shining lights in society at Charlestown where he resides, has been detected in forgeries to the amount of $10,000 to 20,000.

—Office holding in N. York city is profitable. The Mayor receives $13,500, and the Comptroller $14,500, while the City Chamberlain has a salary of $21,000 besides getting $2,000 for receiving and paying out the State tax, one per cent on the city and county tax, and whatever interest is paid by the Broadway Bank for the use of city and county moneys. It is said that the average deposits amount to more than 1,000,000 dollars, and that the city Chamberlain's place is worth 130,000 dollars a year.

—It is said that President Johnson will soon issue a proclamation pardoning the Union soldiers for participating in the war.

REPUBLICAN PLATFORM.

We give below the resolutions adopted by the Republican State Convention, which met at St. Paul on the 11th inst:

Resolved, 1. That the Republican party of Minnesota holds itself a portion of the National Republican party, a party of national limits, a national record, and national purposes; whose past is crowned with the glory of preserving the nation, and its future charged with the duty of reconstructing and perpetuating it.

Resolved 2. That in such reconstruction, the true object is, as it was, in adopting the Constitution of the United States, "to form a more perfect Union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defence, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty" to all the people of the United States.

Resolved 3, That we fully approve the reconstruction measures of Congress as wise, just, patriotic, and necessary to the further peace and well-being of our country.

Resolved 4. That President Johnson, in seeking to delay the establishment of civil government in the rebel States, prolongs the evils of their situation, baffles the expressed will of the people, and forces the acceptance of his repudiated policy of rewarding traitors for their treason by restoring every right and giving them additional political power, is an enemy to the peace and welfare of the country, and an impediment to the faithful execution of the laws.

Resolved 5. That although the burdens of taxation are necessarily heavier than ever before, yet, knowing that the national debt is the price of national existence, that breach of faith is national weakness, as well as a disgrace, and especially that one tenth part of the whole debt has already been paid in the two years next following its creation —we declare that repudiation of the national debt would be dishonorable, as the partisan clamor in that behalf is unreasonable and shameful:

Resolved, 6. That with the extinction of slavery, came the logical end of distinction of class and caste, and we therefore favor the awarding of the right of suffrage to our colored fellow citizens in accordance with the amendment to the Constitution now pending, and to be submited to the people at the coming election.

Resolved, 7. That the Republican party was formed for the preservation of the national life, and for the purpose of establishing equal liberty to all throughout the land: and that, while we, as a party, favor all movements tending to improve public morals, we are at the same time convinced that the habits and customs of a people cannot be changed by prohibitory or sumptuary laws, and that the Legislature cannot interfere with such habits and customs without transcending the legitimate sphere of the legislative power.

Resolved, 8, That while we, as Republicans and citizens of Minnesota, solicitous for the good name and honor of our State, are unalterably opposed to the repudiation of any of our just indebtedness, we are opposed to the pending proposition for the payment of the Minnesota Railroad Bonds, so called, believing said propositions to involve taxation [illegible]

SCHENCK'S SEAWEED TONIC.

This medicine, invented by Dr. J. H. SCHENCK, of Philadelphia, is intended to dissolve the food and make it into chyme, the first process of digestion. By cleansing the stomach with Schenck's Mandrake Pills, the Tonic soon restores the appetite, and food that could not be eaten before using it will be easily digested.

Consumption cannot be cured by Schenck's Pulmonic Syrup unless the stomach and liver is made healthy and the appetite restored, hence the Tonic and Pills are required in nearly every case of consumption. A half dozen bottles of the SEAWEED TONIC and three or four boxes of the MANDRAKE PILLS will cure any ordinary case of dyspepsia.

Dr. SCHENCK makes professional visits in New York, Boston, and at his principal Office in Philadelphia every week. See daily papers of each place, or his pamphlet on consumption for his days for visitation.

Please observe, when purchasing, that the two likenesses of the Doctor, one when in the last stage of Consumption, and the other as he now is, in perfect health, are on the Government stamp.

Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, price $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half-dozen. All letters for advice should be addressed to Dr. SCHENCK's Principal Office, No. 15 North 6th Street, Philadelphia, Pa.
